ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Lynn Arner <arnerlp@pitt.edu>
Visiting Faculty at the University of Pittsburgh. She is writing a book entitled Remembrances of Things to Come: Gower, Chaucer, Literacy, and 1381, has guest-edited a special issue of Exemplaria, and has published articles on Chaucer, Gower, Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, and feminism in academe.

Erica L. Artiles <ArtilesE@cofc.edu>
Assistant Professor of English at the College of Charleston. She specializes in late medieval and early modern romances, especially Edmund Spenser's The Faerie Queene, and is interested in literary representations of sixteenth-century domesticity and the economy.

Jennifer N. Brown <jbrown@hartford.edu>
Assistant Professor of English and Women's Studies at the University of Hartford. Her book, Three Women of Liege, will be published in December 2007 from Brepols in their series, Medieval Women: Texts and Contexts.

Caitlin G. Callaghan <cgc33@cornell.edu>
PhD candidate in Medieval Studies at Cornell University. Her dissertation concerns treatments of peace and conflict in Bede's Historia Ecclesiastica Gentis Anglorum.

B. J. van Damme <bqv9937@nyu.edu>
PhD candidate in History at New York University. Her dissertation focuses on widowhood in thirteenth-century Siena from the perspective of gender performance theory.

Rachel Dressler <dressler@albany.edu>
Associate Professor of Art History and Director of the Art History Program at the State University of New York, Albany. Author of Of Armor and Men in Medieval England: The Chivalric Rhetoric of Three English Knights' Effigies (Ashgate, 2004), her work has focused on the visual construction of gender. She also edits Different Visions: A Journal of New Perspectives on Medieval Art <www.differentvisions.org>.

Sylvia Federico <sfederic@bates.edu>
Assistant Professor of English at Bates College. She is the author of New Troy: Fantasies of Empire in the Late Middle Ages (U Minnesota, 2003), and continues to research Chaucer, romance, feminist studies, and classical-medieval intersections.

Carole Levin <clevin2@unl.edu>
Willa Cather Professor of History at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln. She is the author of The Heart and Stomach of a King: Elizabeth I and the Politics of Sex and Power (1994) and The Reign of Elizabeth I (2002), as well as a number of co-edited collections on women in the Middle Ages and Renaissance. In 2006-2007, she held a National Endowment for the Humanities fellowship at the Folger Shakespeare Library to work on a project on dreams in early modern England.

Medieval Feminist Forum
Policies and Procedures

Complete submission guidelines, including house style sheet, may be obtained at <http://www.minotstateu.edu/mff>.

ARTICLE SUBMISSION POLICY

Medieval Feminist Forum, the journal of the Society of Medieval Feminist Scholarship (SMFS), is published twice yearly (Winter & Summer issues). Its contents include articles (2,000-5,000 words) from any of the Humanities disciplines that address the study of the Patristic Age, the Middle Ages, and the Early Modern era from the perspective of gender studies, women's studies, and feminist studies.

Individuals interested in publishing with MFF should send an inquiry to the Managing Editor at <medieval.feminist@minotstateu.edu>, or, if so directed through a call for submissions, to a special topics editor. Authors are generally notified within three to six months if their submission has been accepted for publication. Unpublished manuscripts are not returned.

BOOK REVIEW POLICY

Medieval Feminist Forum includes reviews (up to 1,000 words) of current scholarship that addresses issues of feminism(s) and gender studies in relation to any of the disciplines of Medieval Studies. Reviewers normally will be faculty or qualified independent scholars who are members of the Society for Medieval Feminist Scholarship, or graduate students who have been recommended by advisors.

A complete list of works available to be reviewed and submission guidelines may be found at <www.minotstateu.edu/mff>. Inquiries should be sent to the Book Review Editor, Chris Africa. Mail address: 2874 Triple Crown Lane, #10, Iowa City, IA 52240. E-mail: <chris-africa@uiowa.edu>.

Books for review in MFF should be sent directly to: Medieval Feminist Forum; c/o Michelle M. Sauer; Department of English; Minot State University; 500 University Avenue West; Minot, ND 58707. Books submitted are not returned and become the property of MFF.

SUBSIDIA PROPOSALS

Subsidia is the special topics series published occasionally by MFF. The Advisory Board entertains proposals from interested editors, compilers, and/or authors. Please contact the MFF Managing Editor or the SMFS President for more information on submitting a proposal.
