Welcome to the first edition of Bindings, the newsletter for Friends and supporters of the UI Libraries. As the name implies, Bindings recognizes the special link that exists among the alumni and other supporters of the University and their desire to impact the quality of education at the UI through the support of the collections, services and resources of the University Libraries.

Each issue of Bindings will include stories on how private giving to the Libraries supports the teaching and research roles of the University; profiles of alumni and donors; features on important collections and resources; and news about events and special publications. I hope you will enjoy and look forward to receiving Bindings, which will be issued twice a year with the Fall edition containing the Honor Roll of contributors. Please feel free to contact me with your ideas and input regarding this publication at (319) 335-5960.

Marguerite Perret, Coordinator
Friends and Public Relations

Contents

2 The Year in Review, Sheila D. Creeth
3 The Impact of Private Giving
4 Recent Donations to Special Collections:
   The Kappie Spencer Papers
   The Max Allan Collins Papers
5 Leaders: Business Library named for Pomerantz
   The University of Iowa Libraries Advisory Board
6 Upcoming Programs & Events
7 Review of the 1997 Friends Dinner
8 Recollections of a Student Worker

CENTER The 1997 Honor Roll
Every year is an exciting one at the University of Iowa Libraries, though each is marked by its own challenges and accomplishments. Certainly a significant initiative this year is the publication of this newsletter, Bindings, to provide us a better way to communicate with each of you who have taken an interest in, and provide financial support for the University Libraries.

Developments during this past academic year include a range of new and enhanced services, and the strengthening of information resources in many areas.

We were pleased to receive a significant collection as a bequest from graduate Ruth House Webber in the form of more than 3000 volumes of Spanish history, literature and culture along with $25,000 for the shipping and processing of the collection. Ms. Webber was a 1941 graduate of the UI and her father was a long-time member of the faculty. This is a valuable addition to our holdings for research and teaching. We also have benefited from the strong midwest consortium that exists among the Big Ten Institutions plus the University of Chicago; through this consortium we were able to acquire, at a discount of more than 40%, access to Britannica Online, the electronic networked version of Encyclopedia Britannica. This is a multi-media resource (text, visual pictures, and video) used heavily by undergraduates.

And services continue to be our highest priority in order that all members of the University community — students, faculty, staff — are able to access the diverse and rich resources of the UI Libraries. During this past year, we offered over 500 educational sessions reaching over 9000 students and almost 1000 faculty. A special grant-funded program, TWIST (Teaching with Innovative Style and Technology) focuses on working with faculty to design and implement instructional sessions to assist them in acquiring the knowledge they need to integrate multi-media and networked resources into their curricula. In addition, librarians were major contributors to the planning and implementation of a special summer program to train 100 faculty in new technologies that will support their teaching and research. In many of their educational offerings, librarians work with their colleagues from the faculty, from the Center for Teaching and from Information Technology Services.

Another important achievement is the hiring of the first full-time director of development for the University Libraries, Selden Smith, who joined the staff of The UI Foundation in early September. He comes to the UI with impressive experience. Most recently he held the position of Associate Director of Library Development and External Affairs at the University of Pennsylvania Library, and prior to that he held a similar position at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. Before entering the development field, he held positions as an editor and writer.

Selden's commitment to the role and values of libraries is reflected in his following remarks: "I've always had a great affection for libraries... and when I started working at the University of Pennsylvania, I came to realize what a major research library can mean for the academic community. When people see the link between a great university and a great library, they want to support the library, and I'm happy to be part of that process."

In future issues of Bindings, Selden will have a column in order to communicate with you directly and hopefully many of you will have an opportunity to meet him in the coming months.

Both Selden and I look forward to working with you and other alumni to strengthen the excellence of the University Libraries — we could not accomplish what we do without your support.

Sheila D. Creeth
University Librarian
The Impact of Private Giving

The impact of private funds is far reaching and often dramatic. In the recent past, external funds have built and staffed two state-of-the-art electronic facilities, the Information Arcade at the Main Library (1992) and the Information Commons at the Hardin Library for the Health Sciences (1996). Private giving supports many other less visible but equally important projects, services and collections. These have included faculty workshops on incorporating the World Wide Web into curriculum and the purchase of rare books and other materials. Under this column, each issue of Bindings will highlight recent examples of how private funds make a difference.

Generous gifts from Arthur Benton and the Paula Henry Music Library Fund enabled Dr. Joan Falconer, the Music Librarian, to develop a specialized database that helps users locate important audio tapes of musical performances held at The University of Iowa. The electronic cataloging of these performances, which include those by faculty as well as visiting artists, will provide students and researchers access to live recordings by master musicians. The databases are indexed by performer as well as composer and composition.

A $5,000 contribution by Mary Calkin in memory of Homer Calkin is being used to purchase significant historical materials. Among the purchases are a manuscript volume containing the records of the Loyal Union League of Henry County, Iowa (1863-1864), a collection of letters written by an Iowa soldier during the Spanish-American war in 1898, and a collection of family letters dating from the 1880s to 1919 covering farm life in Iowa.

A Lifetime of Culinary Arts

This past summer the Special Collections Department curated an exhibition celebrating the 100th anniversary of Jell-O, in homage to the memory of the late Chef Louis Szathmáry II. Szathmáry made a gift of over 22,000 items to the UI Libraries forming the Szathmáry Collection of Culinary Arts. The collection was developed over a 40 year period and includes rare books, manuscripts, magazines, pamphlets and advertisements. For more information on the Szathmáry Collection of Culinary Arts, contact the Special Collections Department (319) 335-5921. For more information on the 100th anniversary of Jell-O, try the following website: http://www.jell-o.com/jell-o100/index.html

Product promotion pamphlet (1905) featuring the Jell-O Girl as illustrated by Rosie O’Neil, the creator of the Kewpie Doll. This was the first of a series of booklets that featured recipes, illustrations by well known artists, and celebrity endorsements.
Recent donations to the Department of Special Collections and the Iowa Women’s Archives

PORTRIT OF AN ACTIVIST:

The Kappie Spencer Papers

I believe that the world is made up of ordinary women doing extraordinary things. I am honored to have been asked, as one of those women, to contribute my papers to the Iowa Women’s Archives. I am most appreciative of the work the University Libraries is doing in collecting and preserving the history of Iowa women for use by scholars now and in the future, and so I am also happy to lend my monetary support to that effort.

Kappie Spencer, 1997

When she was running for the Iowa Senate in 1976, Kappie Spencer became frustrated by her inability to locate women in telephone directories; married women were listed only under their husbands’ names, and thus rendered invisible. After the campaign ended, Spencer began to pressure the phone companies to add women’s first names. When she won the fight for dual listings in Iowa five years later, other states followed Iowa’s lead. Through this seemingly small victory, Kappie Spencer helped to overcome the invisibility of women throughout the country.

A generous financial supporter of the Iowa Women’s Archives, Kappie Spencer has also donated her personal papers, which document her lifelong efforts on behalf of equality for women. Among her papers in the Archives are craft activity packets from Girl Scout day camp, testimony about the inequities of trust funds designed to “protect” women, and campaign files from her unsuccessful 1976 State Senate bid. Also included are scrapbooks, correspondence, reports, photographs, and other files concerning her work with the Girl Scouts and the American Association of University Women. Still active in the fight for women’s rights, Spencer plans to donate material pertaining to the Equal Rights Amendment campaigns in Iowa and the National Gender Balance Project at a later date.

MYSTERY IN THE MIDWEST:

The Max Allan Collins Papers

Max Allan Collins’ accomplishments are extensive. He is an award winning author, filmmaker, and comic strip writer to note a few. Hailed as the “Renaissance man” of mystery fiction, he is the author of nearly 50 novels, has scripted comic strips and serials including the internationally syndicated strip Dick Tracy, (1977-1993) and has worked on a variety of film and television projects.

In 1994, Collins wrote, produced and directed Mommy, a campy suspense film starring Patty McCormack of the Bad Seed. He followed this success with Mommy II: Mommy’s Day. Both Mommy films have been screened at the UI Libraries, and the Libraries hosted the official premiere of Mommy II this past February. Collins also participated in the 1996 Annual Friends Dinner for the Libraries when he spoke on the many facets of his impressive career.

On the occasion of donating his papers, Collins said, “As a lifelong Iowa resident and graduate of The University of Iowa, I consider it an honor and privilege to have my manuscripts and other papers housed at the University Libraries. My first three novels were written during my tenure at the University’s Writers’ Workshop (where) My mentor... Richard Yates... insisted that I strive in the crime novel for the literary quality expected of mainstream fiction. I hope I’ve lived up to this standard (and) that my work in various media... will make my papers useful for purposes of the study of popular culture in America...”

The Max Allan Collins Papers will offer students, faculty and other researchers a broad perspective on the mystery fiction genre, independent film production, and the comic book medium as a potent form of storytelling. The papers include manuscript copy edited by the publisher, file copies (typescripts as sent to the publisher), proofs, unpublished manuscripts, rough drafts, 15 years of Dick Tracy comic scripts, manuscripts of non-fiction writings, and scripts for other comic serials, such as Ms. Tree. While the papers are still being processed and cataloged, information regarding these materials may be obtained by calling the Special Collections Department, (319) 335-5921.

Like mysteries? Check out the mystery database at the A&E Network website: http://www.aetv.com. You can search out information on sub-genres, authors, organizations and titles. There are 73 listings for Max Allan Collins!
Business Library Named for Pomerantz

The University of Iowa Business Library has been named in honor of Des Moines businessman, philanthropist and civic leader Marvin A. Pomerantz. Pomerantz, who was president of the State Board of Regents from 1987 to 1993 and in 1995 and 1996, pushed for construction of the $34 million business administration building and also for additional state funding for library materials.

Sheila D. Creth, University Librarian, notes that the naming of the library after Pomerantz is as much related to his support during his service on the Board of Regents as it is an acknowledgment of the combined support he gave to the library and the College of Business Administration. “Pomerantz clearly understands the importance to the University of maintaining a strong library” Creth said. “In addition, the Pomerantz family have been very generous contributors to the UI Libraries particularly in helping to make our Iowa Women’s Archives a reality. Having his name associated with the Business Library is a fitting tribute to his dedication to academic quality throughout The University of Iowa”.

Pomerantz is chairman of the Mid-America Group in Des Moines and Gaylord Container Corporation of Deerfield, IL. Other gifts to the UI by the Pomerantz family include those to the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, where the new Pomerantz Family Pavilion is named in their honor. In 1978, Pomerantz received the Distinguished Alumni Service Award from the UI Alumni Association. He and his wife Rose Lee are members of The President’s Club, which recognizes the University’s most generous contributors.

---

McCune Appointed Vice Chair

The 1997 Advisory Board. Pictured: Clockwise starting at Top Row Left: William (Bill) H. Burger, Senior Vice President & Senior Vice Trust Officer, First National Bank, Iowa City; Lois H. Eichaker, Alumna, Fort Madison, Iowa; Brian D. Strayer, Alumnus, Engineering Manager, Seagate Technology, Minneapolis; Jeffrey Disterhoff, V.P. of Finance, University of Iowa Community Credit Union, Iowa City; Bruce E. Gronbeck, Professor, UI Department of Communication Studies; Jane McCune, Co-owner & President, Blank & McCune, The Real Estate Co., Iowa City; W. Richard (Dick) Summerwill, President, Iowa State Bank and Trust, Iowa City; Willis M. (Bill) Bywater, President, Bankers Advertising Co. & Economy Advertising Co., Iowa City; W. Bruce Johnson, Professor, UI College of Business Administration. Not pictured: Kathleen (Kay) Chapman, Attorney and Alumna, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Betsy Hawtrey, Board Member, Iowa City Community School District, Iowa City; Mary Keough Lyman, Alumna, Los Angeles; Mary Anne Madden, Alumna, Iowa City; Lucia Riddle, Vice President of Government Relations, Principal Financial Group, Des Moines; Rhoda Vernon, Volunteer, University of Iowa Hospitals & Clinics, Iowa City.

The Friends of the UI Libraries are pleased to announce the appointment of Jane McCune as Vice Chair of the Advisory Board. This position, which was created at the June 4, 1997 Board meeting, will serve as an intermediary step to becoming Chair of the Board. Jane will be working with the current Board Chair, Dick Summerwill, through 1997 and take over the leadership position at the January 1998 meeting.

Jane McCune is co-owner and president of Blank & McCune, The Real Estate Company, and an active member of the Iowa City community. She is President of the United Way Board of Directors, the President of the Iowa City Area Association of REALTORS, a member of the Board of Advisors for the Iowa City Science Center and a Board member of the Willowwind School Foundation. She has been a member of the Libraries’ Advisory Board since 1996, serving as a member of the Development Committee.

Dick Summerwill, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Iowa State Bank and Trust Company, has served as the Chair of the Advisory Board for two years. During this time, Dick has worked tirelessly to expand the Board to include local and national members of the business community and on a variety of development issues including the hiring of a full time Director of Development for the UI Libraries.

The friends of the University Libraries are individuals who provide annual support through private contributions. Their gifts enable librarians to strengthen services and collections, and offer special programs that would not otherwise be possible. The Friends Advisory Board provides leadership for the Libraries’ fundraising efforts. The Advisory Board is composed of UI alumni, community business leaders, and UI staff and faculty.
UPCOMING PROGRAMS

Libraries/Alumni Outreach Programs

MUCH MORE THAN RECIPES: THE SZATHMÁRY COLLECTION OF CULINARY ARTS
October 29, 1997
Social Hour 5:30 pm
Program starts 6:30 pm
Edina Country Club,
5100 Wooddale,
Edina, MN
Admission: Free

Join David Schoonover, Curator of Rare Books, UI Libraries, as he focuses on holiday foods throughout the year, drawing on materials from the Szathmáry Collection. For reservations, please call the UI Alumni Association, (319) 335-3294.

THE POISON PEN
November 20, 1997
5:30-7:30 pm
Elmcrest Country Club
Cedar Rapids
Admission: Free

A part of the Intrigue at Iowa Mystery and Mayhem Series, co-sponsored by the UI Alumni Association. The Poison Pen will explore the mystery genre in a discussion with author Dr. Richard M. Caplan and mystery aficionado Lois Cox. Caplan, an UI Alumnus who recently retired from the faculty of the UI College of Medicine, published his first novel Dr. Watson, Mr. Sherlock Holmes earlier this year. He is the founder of The Younger Stamford's, a group devoted to all things Holmesian and where it is always 1895. Cox is an assistant dean at the UI School of Law and a founding member of a local women's mystery group. For more information on location or reservations, please call the UI Alumni Association, (319) 335-3294.

A FEAST FOR ALL SEASONS
The Szathmáry Collection of Culinary Arts
Tuesday, December 16, 1997 5:30-7:00 pm
Holiday Inn, Dubuque
Admission: Free

Join David Schoonover, Curator of Rare Books, UI Libraries, as he focuses on holiday foods throughout the year, drawing on materials from the Szathmáry Collection. For reservations, please call the UI Alumni Association, (319) 335-3294.

Exhibitions

INTREPID TRAVELERS: WOMEN ON THE ROAD, 1850 - 1950
North Exhibition Hall, Main Library
Through Mid October

A celebration of 19th and 20th century women travelers, the exhibition includes 1940s diaries and photo albums from the Iowa Women's Archives, and a 19th century board game based on a famous 1889 around-the-world trip made by journalist Nellie Bly.

BOOKS FOR THE MILLIONS: PUBLISHERS' BINDINGS OF THE 19TH CENTURY
North Exhibition Hall, Main Library
Mid October – Mid February

The Industrial Revolution made a tremendous change in the numbers and kinds of books printed and bound for a more literate public. This exhibition will focus on the transition of bookbinding from hand binding to mechanized binding, the industrial improvements which speeded production, as well as the evolution of cover design.

Special Events

CHANGING STYLES IN THE BOOK COVERS OF NINETEENTH CENTURY AMERICA; SUE ALLEN
October 17, 1997 4:30-6:00 pm
North Exhibition Hall, Main Library

Lecture and Reception in association with the exhibition Books for the Millions: Publishers' Bindings of the 19th Century. Sue Allen is a recognized and published authority on 19th century publishers' bindings. She has lectured on the subject widely, presenting to the Library of Congress and the American Institute for Conservation, as well as teaching at the University of Virginia's Rare Book School.

* Please Note: a hands on workshop co-sponsored by the UI Center for the Book and the Iowa City Book Arts Club will be presented by Ms. Allen on Saturday, October 18. Please contact Pamela Spitzmiller, workshop coordinator, for more information at (319) 335-5908.

Advance Notice

1998 FRIENDS DINNER: AN ARTIST'S PALATE
March 12, 1998, 5:30 - 9:30,
Iowa Memorial Union, Main Lounge

Featured Speaker, Alexandra Leaf, author, The Impressionists’ Table: Recipes and Gastronomy of 19th Century France (Rizzoli, 1994) and lecturer at NYU and the New School, NYC.

The theme for the 1998 Annual Friends Dinner is art and food. Pamela Trimpe, Curator of Painting and Sculpture at the UI Museum of Art will introduce both the subject and the featured speaker. Alexandra Leaf is an expert in culinary history and a member of the New York University faculty.
The University Libraries is delighted to announce that Robert Parker, the internationally famous author of the Spenser series detective novels, has agreed to visit Iowa City this coming spring. A program will take place on April 30, 1998 and include an interview with the author and book signing. Watch the winter/spring edition of this publication for program details, call the Friends Office at (319) 335-5960, or check out the Friends Web Page at http://www.lib.uiowa.edu/friends.html.

Eugenia Potter’s 27-Ingredient Chili Con Carne

1-lb. dry pinto beans (or two 12-oz cans pinto beans)

1/2 c. chopped sweet red pepper

1/2 c. chopped green pepper

1 7-oz can diced green chilies

1 12-oz bottle chili sauce

2 cloves garlic, minced

2 1/2 T. flour

1 lb. pork sausage

3 lb. chopped sirloin

1/2 c. chopped celery

1/2 lb. sliced fresh mushrooms

1 1/2 c. chopped pimientos

1 20-oz can tomatoes (to taste)

3/4 c. grated orange peel

1 pt. sour cream

Wash and drain pinto beans and soak in water overnight. Bring to boil, lower heat and simmer 2-3 hours or until tender. Drain. (Or use canned beans and delete this step.) Meanwhile, melt butter in large skillet and add onions, chilies, and garlic. Sauté until onion is soft. Add chopped sirloin and cook over moderate heat until meat is brown. In a separate pan, brown sausage and pour off fat. Add sausage to meat mixture. Sprinkle with flour and stir to blend, then transfer to Dutch oven or 8 qt. kettle. Add pinto and baked beans and all remaining ingredients except sour cream. Bring just to a boil. Lower heat and simmer about 30 minutes. Skim off fat with a cold spoon as it rises to the top. Serve with sour cream. Serves 20. Freezes well.

A Most Delicious Mystery

THE 1997 FRIENDS DINNER

Take a traditional whodunit, weave recipes into the story line, and you have a culinary mystery. Originated by Iowa native Virginia Rich, the culinary mystery has become increasingly popular over the past several years, gaining attention in The New York Times and in sessions of the Midwest Modern Language Association. Murder a la Carte: The 1997 Friends Dinner explored this theme with a free afternoon program and exhibition at the Main Library, a theme dinner and featured speaker.

Surrounded by the exhibition Crane DOES Pay, a survey of mystery literature, Robert Wachal, UI Professor of Linguistics, and David Schoonover, Curator of Rare Books, provided background on the history of the culinary mystery. A reception and dinner followed with a menu based on various culinary mystery novels. The evening program opened with remarks and introductions made by Dick Summerwill, President of the Iowa State Bank and Trust Company, and Advisory Board Chair, and UI President Mary Sue Coleman. President Coleman took the opportunity to recognize a substantial gift from Robert Wachal of culinary mystery fiction to the UI Libraries Special Collections.

The highlight of the evening was an amusing and insightful talk on the art of writing and unplanned career changes by award-winning author Nancy Pickard. Ms. Pickard was chosen by the estate of Virginia Rich to finish an uncompleted manuscript and she gave a very entertaining account of her involvement with the Virginia Rich series, which required her to overcome a long-time aversion to cooking. The result of this effort was The 27-Ingredient Chili Con Carne Murders, a great success. She is currently working on two new novels continuing the adventures of Rich’s chef/sleuth protagonist.

The following is the title recipe from The 27-Ingredient Chili Con Carne Murders (Delecorte Press, 1992). It has been tested by our staff, who found it intriguingly tasty.
Recollections of a Student Worker
FROM A LETTER BY ROBERT HILSAECK, MA HISTORY, 1951

Dear Ms. Creth,

I received a copy of the Spectator* the other day featuring the University Libraries. (In an Interview) ...you spoke of "personal and sentimental attachment to the Libraries”, (and) my mind and heart went back to those... years after WW II when I attended the University of Iowa (1949-51).

While the GI Bill gave us opportunities...books, tuition, a monthly stipend, it was not quite sufficient for a young man with a family...I secured a job in the University Libraries, specifically the old Reserve Library- previously the women's gym- and later in the new Main Library building that you occupy presently...The most striking memory I have of that job was the fact that the (3rd floor in the new building) was unfinished. The near, Stigian darkness was unbroken except for a few electric lines with naked 60-watt-bulbs every 20 feet or so, hanging over every other aisle. All call slips came over tubes...once we got the request, we picked up our sturdy two-cell flashlights and ducked into the shadowed alcoves where we beamed each shelf until the volume was illuminated and- most of the time- retrieved.

I was granted a MA in history in 1951, taught history in Tipton (Iowa) for five years, and then (taught for) nearly 30 years in Hinsdale, Illinois, where I retired in 1985...the Libraries made it possible for me to begin a career in teaching that otherwise would probably not have happened.

Robert Hilsabeck

As we were going to press, we received the sad news of the deaths of Mary Louise Smith and Virginia Harper. A tribute to the extraordinary contributions of these women to the University, the Libraries and the state of Iowa will be featured in the next issue of Bindings.