Objectives

The number of electronic resources available to our patrons is rapidly increasing. As a result, it was decided that the patrons of our library would be better served if a new electronic resources page was created to consolidate resources into one convenient location.

Conclusion

With the new database system in place, the electronic resources page is much easier to maintain, and the tagging system has allowed users to find the resources they need in a more efficient manner. Future plans include using the new electronic resources database to create self-generating subject guides for different departments within the division of health sciences.
