Correspondence and Communications

C. F. Hulburd
Herrick Johnson
Edwin F. Hatfield

ISSN 0003-4827
Material in the public domain. No restrictions on use.

Recommended Citation
Hulburd, C. F.; Johnson, Herrick; and Hatfield, Edwin F. "Correspondence and Communications." The Annals of Iowa 1883 (1883), 61-61.
Available at: http://ir.uiowa.edu/annals-of-iowa/vol1883/iss2/11

Hosted by Iowa Research Online
CORRESPONDENCE AND COMMUNICATIONS.

Brasher Falls, Feb. 24th, 1883.

Rev. S. S. Howe,

My Dear Friend:—Yours of the first instant received some days ago and not long after came the number of the Annals to which it referred. I have carefully read in it your article on the "Holy Spirit." I think it decidedly the best I ever heard from your lips or pen. I approve of every word and thought in it.

Very sincerely yours,

C. F. Hulburt.

Chicago, March 14th, 1883.

Rev. S. S. Howe,

My Dear Brother:—I have been reading your address on the "Dispensation of the Holy Spirit." It is timely and suggestive. I am thinking of a related topic for the sermon with which to open the next assembly.

Yours very fraternally,

Herrick Johnson.

New York, March 10th, 1883.

Rev. S. S. Howe,

My Dear Brother:—I am grateful for your Annals of Iowa. I was particularly interested in the notice of Black Hawk. I took supper and spent an evening with him in 1834, I think, at the house of Mr. Torode, one of my elders, in St. Louis, Mo. The "prophet" was with him. He was sad and emaciated and I would scarcely believe that he could have been so noted a chief and so brave a warrior. I saw Keokuk also at St. Louis with his braves. That was nearly fifty years ago. How time flies!

Your old class-mate,

Edwin F. Hatfield.