Edited by Ed Folsom, University of Iowa, and William White, Oakland University

— WWQR features unpublished letters and documents written by Whitman, critical essays dealing with Whitman's work, thorough reviews of Whitman-related books, an ongoing current bibliography, and more . . .

— The editors invite submissions on Whitman's poetry and prose, on his influence on modern and contemporary writers, and on his relationship to American culture.

— Recent issues have included Hank Lazer on Whitman and Louis Simpson, C. Carroll Hollis on rhetoric, elocution, and voice in Leaves of Grass, James Perrin Warren on Whitman as a Ghostwriter, Arthur Geffen on Whitman and the Brooklyn Bridge, Joseph Benevento on Whitman and Borges, Leonard Prager on Whitman in Yiddish, and Jean Schwind on Whitman and Van Gogh.

— Coming this year: a special issue devoted to all known photographs of Whitman, the most photographed poet of the 19th century.

"For critical essays, reprinted primary documents, and continuing bibliography, this is the first place to turn for Whitman information and interpretation." — Choice
