

Clinton has heart fixed

It was breaking news according to The Huffington Post. Bill Clinton was taken to the hospital when he complained of chest pains. The breaking news arrived on February 11, 2010 at 4:31 p.m.

On Thursday afternoon, former President Bill Clinton was hospitalized in New York for a condition related to his heart. Clinton, 63, was taken to Columbia Presbyterian Hospital after experiencing chest pains. Sources told ABC News that he was at the hospital "likely for a stent procedure."

Search phrase: Clinton heart seemed quite appropriate.

Timing: I did not start the search until later in the evening. When I started the earliest tweet I could get was from 8:03 p.m. So there was three and a half hours of tweeting I did not capture.
