COLLECTION HIGHLIGHTS

- Preservation Library expanded access to full-text journals through Online Periodicals Access, Elsevier RB и Elsevier Business Source, New Journals and Journals & Databases.
- Special Collections acquired the papers of artist Kees Van Dongen and the papers of Edward Hopper and recent items by American History Research.
- The college of law was awarded several full-text packages.
- AP Multimedia Archive – contains the Associated Press’ current and past photo and video content.
- Ovid-Online, previously Healthnet, is one of the many internet-based databases.

INSTRUCTIONAL SERVICES

- There were 6,000,000 Web visits to the Library’s web sites.
- Ovid-Online, previously Healthnet, is one of the many internet-based databases.
- Some important new resources include:
  - JSTOR
  - Pre-Medline
  - Cumulative Index to Nursing
  - CINAHL
  - Biological Abstracts
  - WorldCat
Beginning this year, the Libraries received $450,000 to create additional space near the Iowa Memorial Union and for building renovations. The Libraries continued to implement a variety of services and activities and,
that money went to meet eight priorities.

Four million titles are housed in the Libraries.

The Libraries continues to license digital information — especially scientific journals available on the World Wide Web. Many confident librarians continue to search the Cooperative Institutional

As I complete my first year as University Librarian, I am very prou– d to offer the following snapshot of the University of Iowa Libraries, a member of the Big Ten Academic Alliance (BTAA) and of the Association of Research Libraries (ARL). Some of the key figures for this year’s photo report and a selection of images from their vast collections are included. http://www.arl.org/libqual/

LIRMA

- LIRMA = a national initiative sponsored by the Association of
- Research Libraries in collaboration with the Texas Advanced
- University Libraries to develop a standardized instrument to assess
- service quality in Libraries. During the spring 2001 meeting of
- the ARL Board of Directors, the LIRMA project was approved
- with the full support of the Board. The LIRMA project will allow
- Libraries to compare their service quality with other institutions,
- and to create benchmarks, and to identify best practices in
- service innovations. By using the LIRMA instrumentation and
- rating actions, based on the results of the survey, the Libraries
- can more objectively respond to issues in need of service
- improvement. For more information, visit http://www.arl.org/libqual/
MAJOR INITIATIVES

ENVIRONMENT

After more than a year of work, the Libraries completed the implementation of a new integrated library system in August 2000. Named InfHawk, this project was completed on time and on budget.

The online catalog is a multi-functional web catalog that contains detailed information on the collection and allows users to search the collection as a whole or by individual libraries. The system includes the content of both the online union catalog and the online collections of the Libraries. The output can be sorted and filtered by subject, title, author, or call number. The catalog allows users to access electronic resources directly from the catalog record.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN TRANSACTIONS FOR

SER VICE TO THE STATE

In the fall, the Libraries began supporting the purchase of books and consultation services, including the development of an electronic reserve project to support the Social Work convention; toll-free telephone assistance; e-mail reference assistance, web page, including access to licensed e-resources of all kinds; and cataloging of all types. All of these services and resources are available to program participants for study in the degree-granting programs directed by the Center for Credit

The Libraries initiated a recall service to allow faculty, staff and the broader academic community to request materials that are in the libraries.

EXHIBITIONS

The Libraries’ electronic reserve project is one of the most successful projects of the Libraries.

SPECIAL PROJECTS
The Special Collections Department completed “Growing Culture: Couns兒 Childhood in the Twentieth Century,” a Congress of American Universities Project with 33,000 images from famous book collectors and Yale University’s rare book collection.

The Preservation and Conservation Department produced the Yamakawa/Inoue presentation, guest books for Goro Inoue Viscaya’s visit to Japan.

The Map Collection Department worked with staff from the Historical Information Group in Honolulu to create scanned images of few maps and panoramic views.

The Research and Information Services Department participated in the Email 9.5 Library of the Congress of Digital Reference Project.

Iowa Women’s Archives began a collaboration with Iowa State University’s Scholarship and assistant project on student activism in the Interwar Years.

EXHIBITIONS
Exhibitions are intended to educate and motivate visitors, as well as add richness to the collections of the Libraries.
