The University of Iowa 2014-15 General Catalog

The General Catalog provides information about academic programs at The University of Iowa, one of three universities governed by the Board of Regents, State of Iowa. The Catalog also provides links to supporting offices at the University, a list of administrative officers, an A-Z list of University of Iowa faculty members, a University calendar, and a link to the Code of Iowa for information regarding admission requirements and Iowa resident/nonresident standing.

The General Catalog is published for informational purposes and should not be construed as the basis of a contract between a student and The University of Iowa. Every effort is made to provide information that is accurate at the time of publication. However, information on courses, curricula, fees, policies, regulations, and other matters is subject to change any time during the period for which the Catalog is in effect.

For PDF versions of archived back editions, visit Office of the Registrar/General Catalog and use the drop-down menu under "Catalog Snapshots."

The General Catalog is produced by the Office of the Registrar and the Office of Strategic Communication. Your comments and suggestions are welcome. Questions concerning the Catalog may be directed to the Office of the Registrar at registrar-publications@uiowa.edu.

The University of Iowa has been accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools since the association's organization in 1913. The University is a member of the Association of American Universities and is associated with Indiana, Michigan State, Northwestern, Ohio State, Pennsylvania State, Purdue, and Rutgers Universities and the Universities of Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Wisconsin in the Big Ten Conference. Along with the Big Ten universities, it also is associated with The University of Chicago in the Committee for Institutional Cooperation (CIC).

The University of Iowa prohibits discrimination in employment, educational programs, and activities on the basis of race, national origin, color, creed, religion, sex, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or associational preference. The University also affirms its commitment to providing equal opportunities and equal access to University facilities. For additional information, contact the Office of Equal Opportunity and Diversity, 202 Jessup Hall, The University of Iowa, Iowa City, IA 52242-1316; 319-335-0705 (voice) and 319-335-0697 (text).
Academics at Iowa

The University of Iowa offers academic degree and nondegree programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels. It also offers postdoctoral study and other opportunities for nondegree study and research. The General Catalog describes the University's degree and nondegree programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The following pages provide global information about undergraduate, graduate, and professional study across the University. They include lists of all undergraduate majors (including tracks and emphases), certificates, and minors, with links to the relevant Catalog sections; a link to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences' undergraduate General Education Program; information about the undergraduate Four-Year Graduation Plan; information about graduate and professional study; descriptions of the University's course numbering and grading systems; and contact information for supporting offices (admissions, registrar, housing, student financial aid, and equal opportunity).

For information about degree and nondegree programs in specific disciplines and interdisciplinary areas, including graduation requirements and courses offered, see the links under Colleges and Other Academic Units (p. 21) in the Catalog.

To find the Catalog section for a specific academic department or program, use the Catalog's A-Z Directory or the Catalog Contents index.
Undergraduate Study

University of Iowa undergraduate students may earn majors, certificates, and minors in more than 100 subject areas. Many majors have varied tracks or emphases, which students may choose according to their own educational goals and interests. Each program is described in the 2014-15 General Catalog, with information on courses and other graduation or completion requirements. Click on the program links under “Undergraduate Majors and Pre-majors,” “Undergraduate Certificates,” and “Undergraduate Minors.”

- Undergraduate Majors and Pre-majors (p. 7)
- Undergraduate Certificates (p. 10)
- Undergraduate Minors (p. 11)

Students enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences must complete the college's General Education Program in order to earn an undergraduate degree; other colleges also require General Education course work as part of their undergraduate curricula. For a detailed description of the program and its requirements, use the following link.

- General Education Program (p. 12)

Undergraduate students may participate in the Four-Year Graduation Plan, in which students agree to certain conditions that guide their study, and the University ensures availability of courses that students need in order to graduate in four years or provides remedies for delays in graduation due to lack of a course.

- Four-Year Graduation Plan (p. 13)
Undergraduate Majors and Pre-majors

The University of Iowa offers the following undergraduate majors, pre-majors, and preparatory course work for selected professional degrees. Some majors offer Teacher Education Programs or the opportunity to earn a degree with teacher licensure, as indicated below. Each major links to the appropriate section of the 2014-15 General Catalog. Additional information about all majors is available on the Office of Admissions web site under Undergraduate Areas of Study.

Pre-majors and Preparatory Course Work

For information about the following pre-majors and preparatory course work for selected professional degrees, see the Office of Admissions web site Undergraduate Areas of Study.

Pre-chiropractic
Dentistry (preparatory course work for the D.D.S.)
Law (preparatory course work for the J.D.)
Medicine (preparatory course work for the M.D.)
Pre-mortuary science
Pre-occupational therapy
Pre-optometry
Pharmacy (preparatory course work for the Pharm.D.)
Physical therapy (preparatory course work for the D.P.T.)
Physician assistant (preparatory course work for the M.P.A.S.)
Pre-podiatry
Pre-veterinary medicine
Undergraduate Certificates

The University of Iowa offers a number of certificates for undergraduates, most in interdisciplinary areas. Colleges offering undergraduate certificates include the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Tippie College of Business, the College of Engineering, the College of Public Health, and University College.

General Education Program

All students entering the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences who wish to earn a Bachelor of Arts (B.A.), Bachelor of Science (B.S.), Bachelor of Fine Arts (B.F.A.), or Bachelor of Music (B.M.) degree must complete the CLAS General Education Program in addition to the requirements of their major and other requirements for graduation.

Undergraduate degree programs in other colleges include General Education requirements, which often may be satisfied with certain courses approved for the CLAS General Education Program.

For detailed information about CLAS General Education requirements and lists of courses approved in the CLAS General Education areas, see General Education Program (p. 323) (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences).
Four-Year Graduation Plan

Nearly all students who enter the University as first-year students are automatically eligible for the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan. Students who fulfill their responsibilities to the plan as outlined at the web site below have a commitment from The University of Iowa that they will be able to enroll in the courses they need to graduate in their primary major in four years.

Students wanting to stay on track for a four-year graduation need to work closely with their advisors to make sure they understand the requirements that must be met, as well as the appropriate sequences in which to take courses.

More information about the Four-Year Graduation Plan and about the student’s responsibilities is located on the First-Year Experience web site.

The Plan does not apply to second majors, minors, or certificates. The following majors are not part of the Four-Year Graduation Plan:

- Computer Science
- Elementary Education
- Environmental Sciences
- Informatics
- Nuclear Medicine Technology
- Nursing (B.S.N. competitive admission students)
- Radiation Sciences
- Science Education

Although these departments do not participate in the program, with careful planning students still may be able to complete some of these programs in four years.
Graduate and Professional Study

The University of Iowa offers graduate and professional degree programs and graduate certificate programs in a broad array of disciplines and interdisciplinary areas of study. Each of the University's 11 colleges offers one or more master's degree programs, and most offer doctoral degree programs. Degree programs are presented by individual colleges, with most graduate degrees being conferred by the Graduate College.

The Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog provides a list of most University of Iowa graduate degree programs as well as information about interdisciplinary graduate degree programs, joint degree programs, and certificate programs.

For information about graduate and professional degree and nondegree programs in specific disciplines and interdisciplinary areas, including graduation requirements and courses offered, see the appropriate General Catalog sections.

Prospective graduate and professional students should apply through the Office of Admissions.
Course Numbering

The University of Iowa has moved to a new course numbering system. Course numbers consist of an alphabetical prefix (up to four letters) showing the college, department, or program that administers the course, followed by a colon and a four-digit numerical suffix for the individual course. For example, SOC:2810 identifies the course numbered 2810 in the Department of Sociology (SOC), titled Social Inequality.

Course suffix numbers 0000-0999 designate prelower-level courses; numbers 1000-2999 designate lower-level undergraduate courses; numbers 3000-4999 designate courses for upper-level undergraduate and graduate students (except in the College of Engineering, where numbers 3000-5999 designate courses for undergraduate and graduate students); numbers 5000-7999 designate graduate-level courses; and numbers 8000-9999 designate professional-level courses.

In this edition of the Catalog, the new course numbers are followed by the legacy (old) course numbers in parentheses. The sociology course example listed above appears as SOC:2810 (034:066) Social Inequality.

Grading

The University uses a letter grading system for individual courses, except for the College of Law, which uses a numeric system for course grading. In order to compute grade-point average, letter grades are converted according to the following numerical scale. Grade-point averages are displayed at the bottom of students’ grade reports and are truncated so as not to exceed 4.00. All of the following marks appear on the permanent record.

Grade points for each semester hour:

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS) is the oldest and largest of the 12 colleges that make up The University of Iowa. Students from all over the United States and more than 50 other nations study together in the college. Every University of Iowa undergraduate takes courses offered by the college, and more than 75 percent of undergraduates earn their degrees from the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The college provides a comprehensive liberal arts education, offering more than 70 majors and certificates as well as a wide variety of minors and opportunities for interdisciplinary work. Students also may design their own majors through the college’s Interdepartmental Studies Program.

In addition to their academic pursuits, undergraduate students participate in the college in a variety of ways. They serve on the Dean’s Student Advisory Committee and as members of the Undergraduate Educational Policy and Curriculum Committee and the General Education Curriculum Committee—collegiate committees that advise the deans on important educational issues. Students are invited to serve on ad hoc committees within the college as well, and many departments have an undergraduate student group or association. CLAS students also serve in the University of Iowa Student Government. Interested students should contact the appropriate committee or office.

CLAS Web Site

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences web site contains a wealth of information for students and faculty members. The CLAS Office of Academic Programs & Student Development page is devoted to undergraduate students and their advisors. It provides information on academic policies and procedures, including requirements of the CLAS General Education Program (see Academic Policies Handbook). Information about scholarships, service opportunities, and upcoming deadlines also is available on this page and on the For Students pages.

The CLAS Departments and Divisions link provides a list of the college’s departments, programs, and schools as well as its undergraduate majors, minors, and certificates.

Faculty members turn to the CLAS web site for information about teaching, curriculum, and resources for advising and instructing students. They also find updates on important CLAS committees as well as a link to the Dean’s Office.

Office of Academic Programs & Student Development

Located in Schaeffer Hall, at the center of campus, the Office of Academic Programs & Student Development is an integral part of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The office’s staff, led by the associate dean for undergraduate programs and curriculum, welcomes students wishing to declare or change majors; file second-grade-only options; or petition to register late, add or drop a course late, or withdraw an entire registration after the established deadlines.

The office’s staff members answer students’ questions concerning academic requirements and programs of study. They meet with students about General Education Program requirements, graduation requirements, collegiate policies that affect students, and a range of other issues, including academic probation and dismissal and strategies for the successful completion of a degree.

Students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences may petition for exceptions to CLAS rules and requirements in the Office of Academic Programs & Student Development. Students may discuss their questions and the petition process first with an associate director in the office.

The office works closely with students on academic probation and counsels them on strategies for success. It conducts semiannual reviews of students on academic probation, handles dismissals from the college, and considers requests for reinstatement.

The Office of Academic Programs & Student Development also oversees appropriate disciplinary action for academic misconduct, such as plagiarism.

General Education Program

All students entering the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences who wish to earn a Bachelor of Arts (B.A.), Bachelor of Science (B.S.), Bachelor of Fine Arts (B.F.A.), or Bachelor of Music (B.M.) degree must complete the CLAS General Education Program in addition to the requirements of their major and the other requirements for graduation.

The General Education Program requires students to explore topics outside of their majors, helping them to acquire the knowledge and transferable skills necessary for becoming well-educated individuals. During this exploration of required General Education topics and courses, many students also discover intriguing majors, minors, and certificates that challenge them to embrace personal transformation and new goals.

The General Education requirements must be completed before graduation; most students complete them during their first two years at Iowa, especially since General Education courses stress the transferable skills of critical thinking, writing, and public speaking that help students to be more successful in their majors.

For General Education requirements, related academic policies, and lists of approved courses, see General Education Program (p. 323) in the Catalog.

CLAS Units and Academic Programs

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences includes nearly 40 administrative units ranging across the fine and performing arts, humanities and letters, social sciences, and natural and mathematical sciences. These units offer more than 200 undergraduate programs of study, including 75 majors—some with multiple tracks, and a wide variety of certificates and minors. They also offer more than 50 graduate programs, with degrees granted by the Graduate College.

Undergraduate Majors, Certificates, and Minors

The college offers undergraduate majors in a broad range of disciplines. In addition, other colleges at the University offer undergraduate majors to CLAS students, with the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences granting the degrees. The Tippie College of Business offers a major in economics (B.A. and B.S.) and a major in enterprise leadership (B.A.); the Carver College of Medicine offers majors in biochemistry (B.A. and B.S.) and in microbiology (B.S.); and the College of Education offers majors in elementary education (B.A. and B.S.) and in science education (B.S.). For descriptions of the majors and their requirements, see "Majors Offered with Other Colleges" under "Index: Academic Programs" on this page.

The College of Education offers a Teacher Education Program leading to licensure at the secondary level for students who have completed certain CLAS majors, such as art, English, mathematics, the sciences, and world languages, and who wish to work with students in middle school or high school. Students must apply for admission to the Teacher Education Program; contact the College of Education's Office of Education Services.

Students who begin their study in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences may apply to degree programs in other colleges at The University of Iowa. If they are accepted, they may earn undergraduate degrees in business (B.B.A.) or nursing (B.S.N.); a B.S. with a major in medical laboratory science, nuclear medicine technology, or radiation sciences; or a professional degree in pharmacy (Pharm.D.). Use the Catalog's A-Z Directory to link to these programs.

Students who are interested in earning a professional or graduate degree in addition to a bachelor's degree may apply to early admission or joint degree programs offered through partnerships between CLAS and other UI colleges. Students admitted to these programs may count a limited amount of credit toward both degrees. CLAS has early admission programs with the College of Dentistry (D.D.S. (p. 726)) and the College of Law (J.D. (p. 1005)). Joint bachelor's/graduate degree programs are available in several disciplines; see "Joint Programs" in the Graduate (p. 940) section of the Catalog.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences offers a wide selection of undergraduate certificates and minors, including two certificates offered with other colleges: the Certificate in International Business (with the Tippie College of Business) and the Certificate in Wind Energy (with the College of Engineering). Find CLAS certificates and minors under "Index: Academic Programs" on this page.

CLAS students also may earn undergraduate certificates and minors offered by other colleges. The Tippie College of Business offers certificate programs in entrepreneurial management and in risk management and insurance, and a minor in business administration. The College of Public Health offers an undergraduate public health certificate, and University College offers certificate programs in clinical and translational science, human rights, leadership studies, nonprofit management, and sustainability. The College of Education offers minors in educational psychology and in human relations. For lists of all undergraduate certificates and minors offered by the University, see Certificates (p. 10) and Minors (p. 11) in the Academics at Iowa section of the Catalog.

Undergraduates also may take courses in book arts from the Center for the Book (p. 956), a Graduate College program.

Graduate Degrees and Certificates

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences offers graduate programs in most of its disciplines, with degrees conferred by the Graduate College. Students may earn degrees at the master's and doctoral levels; graduate certificates are available in some areas of study. See the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog for a complete list of graduate degrees offered by the University.

For information about specific CLAS graduate programs, see the links under "Index: Academic Programs" on this page.

Nondepartmental Courses

Most College of Liberal Arts and Sciences courses are offered by the college's departments, programs, and schools. They are listed and described in the corresponding General Catalog sections; see the links under "Index: Academic Programs" on this page.

The college also offers the following nondepartmental courses.

Lower-Level Undergraduate

CLAS:1000 (610:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.

Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

CLAS:1600 (610:060) Life Design: Building Your Future 1 s.h.
How interests and talents can be paired up to achieve a fulfilling life; what students are passionate about; address questions (i.e., How can you identify what you're good at? How can you build a life of purpose and meaning? How can you cultivate mentors? What is the relationship between ambition, drive, and success? What major might be the best fit and how can University resources help your academic and personal success?); portfolio of reflective exercises, activities, journal assignments.

CLAS:1700 (610:070) Got CLAS? Blending College of Liberal Arts and Sciences Majors with Your Passions

Process of choosing a major; focus on strengths, discover passions, and dream of possibilities while cultivating an active, complementary university experience; develop mentoring relationships with faculty, voice fears about choosing a major and career, take risks in revising and expanding life and career expectations; introduction to majors within the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS); assessments to define strengths and interests, reflection of experiences. Recommendations: first-year undergraduate standing and College of Liberal Arts and Sciences open major.

CLAS:3111 (610:111) Reimagining Downtown

Interdisciplinary perspective; assist upper-level undergraduates apply their education and creativity toward a specific initiative, the Downtown Project, located in the Fremont East and Arts District areas of Las Vegas, Nevada. Requirements: junior or senior standing and admission by application.

CLAS:3200 (610:126) International Perspectives: Xicotepec

Interdisciplinary service-learning course; Mexican culture and history through community-based service project, assigned readings, and discussion; includes a required spring break trip to Mexico. Same as SOC:3200 (034:116).

CLAS:4100 (610:099) Peer Mentoring

Opportunities to participate in classroom and course activities as mentors for other students.

CLAS:4200 (610:175) Undergraduate Internship

Professional and/or creative experience for writing certificate students; students must arrange an on- or off-campus internship with faculty advisor approval. Requirements: undergraduate standing and a minimum of 24 s.h. of course work with at least 12 s.h. in University of Iowa courses.

Graduate

CLAS:5100 (610:210) Practicum: Introduction to College Instruction for Teaching Assistants

Guidance for teaching assistants seeking introduction to teaching at college level; focus on practical pedagogical concerns, including how to structure a course, devise learning outcomes, develop a syllabus and a calendar of assignments, evaluate student work, and create a student-centered classroom with collaborative learning experiences; pre-semester intensive training session, weekly meetings during first month of semester, periodic meetings to address midterm and late-semester issues; concurrent with TA teaching assistantships. Recommendations: interest in teacher training and preparation.

Undergraduate major: African American studies (B.A.)
Undergraduate minor: African American studies
Graduate degree: M.A. in African American world studies
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/afam/

African American studies focuses on the study of people of African descent in the United States and the African diaspora. The African American Studies Program originated in 1969 through courses intended to foster awareness of African Americans' role in the development of the United States and the world. Because a thorough understanding of the African American experience cannot be achieved through study restricted to the perspective of a single discipline, all students are required to pursue courses in the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts.

The African American Studies Program draws upon faculty from American studies; communication studies; education; English; gender, women’s, and sexuality studies; health and human physiology; history; journalism and mass communication; religious studies; rhetoric; sociology; sport studies; and theatre arts.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
• Major in African American studies (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in African American studies

Bachelor of Arts
The Bachelor of Arts with a major in African American studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 30 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Transfer credit is evaluated individually and is limited to a maximum of 9 s.h.

INTRODUCTORY COURSES
Students are required to complete two of the following introductory courses.

AFAM:1010 (129:062) Foundations in African American Studies 3 s.h.
AFAM:1020 (129:061)/AMST:1030 (045:030) Introduction to African American Culture 3 s.h.
AFAM:1030 (129:060) Introduction to African American Society 3 s.h.

Foundations in African American Studies [AFAM:1010 (129:062)] explores the history and the methodology of African American studies. Starting with readings related to the formation of the discipline, the course shows students what an African American studies approach to interpretation entails and culminates in a research paper.

Introduction to African American Society [AFAM:1030 (129:060)] examines the construction of social and historical institutions in the United States and the African diaspora (e.g., Black church, Black family, gender, sexuality). The course may include readings in political science, religion, history, sociology, geography, anthropology, and other disciplines.

Introduction to African American Culture [AFAM:1020 (129:061)] presents themes in African American cultural studies. It includes readings in literature, music, film studies, religious studies, and the visual and performing arts.

AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES CORE
In addition to the two required introductory courses, all students must complete at least two courses from each of the three topical areas below (minimum of 18 s.h.). Additional courses may be approved for the topical areas; consult with an African American studies advisor.

History, Religion, and the Diaspora
Two of these:

AFAM:1250 (129:050)/RELS:1350 (032:034) Introduction to African American Religions 3 s.h.
AFAM:2265 (129:065)/HIST:2265 (16A:065) Introduction to African American History 3 s.h.
AFAM:2600 (129:093) Black Culture and Experience (when topic is history, religion, and the diaspora) 3 s.h.
AFAM:3555 (129:158)/ENGL:3555 (008:157) Topics in African Cinema 3 s.h.
AFAM:3900 (129:140) Topics in African American Studies (when topic is history, religion, or the diaspora) arr.
AFAM:4275 (129:137)/HIST:4275 (16A:147) History of Slavery in the U.S.A. 3 s.h.
AFAM:4310 (129:163)/HIST:4710 (16W:120) 3 s.h. Pre-Colonial African History
AFAM:4715 (129:164)/HIST:4715 (16W:121) 3 s.h. African History Since 1880
EPLS:5126 (07B:126) Twentieth-Century Educational Movements 2-3 s.h.

Literature and Performing Arts

Two of these:

AFAM:1820 (129:082) Everybody is a Star: Black Celebrity Since 1968 3 s.h.
AFAM:1830 (129:083) Music of the African American Diaspora 3 s.h.
AFAM:2014 (129:014) Giants of Jazz: Miles, Trane, and Duke 3 s.h.
AFAM:2465 (129:069)/ENGL:2465 (008:069) Selected African American Authors 3 s.h.
AFAM:2600 (129:093) Black Culture and Experience (when topic is literature or performing arts) 3 s.h.
AFAM:2781 (129:081)/ENGL:2460 (008:080) Black Literature and Politics: Controversies of National Allegiance 3 s.h.
AFAM:3459 (129:116)/ENGL:3459 (008:116) African American Literature Before 1900 3 s.h.
AFAM:3460 (129:117)/ENGL:3460 (008:117) African American Literature After 1900 3 s.h.
AFAM:3462 (129:186)/ENGL:3462 (008:186)/THTR:3462 (049:186) African American Drama 3 s.h.
AFAM:3710 (129:150)/GWSS:3710 (131:137) African American Women Writers 3 s.h.
AFAM:3810 (129:175)/THTR:3410 (049:190) African American Theatre I 3 s.h.
AFAM:3811 (129:191)/THTR:3411 (049:191) African American Theatre II 3 s.h.
AFAM:3900 (129:140) Topics in African American Studies (when topic is literature or performing arts) arr.
AFAM:4500 (129:183)/THTR:4413 (049:183) Black Feminist Tradition and Culture 3 s.h.
AFAM:4710 (129:162)/ENGL:4410 (008:162) Midwest African American Literature and Culture 3 s.h.

Media, Politics, and Social Institutions

Two of these:

AFAM:2070 (129:070)/COMM:2069 (036:069) Black TV Drama: The Wire 3 s.h.
AFAM:2076 (129:076)/COMM:2076 (036:076) Race, Ethnicity, and Media 3 s.h.
AFAM:2079 (129:079)/SPST:2079 (028:079) Race and Ethnicity in Sport 3 s.h.
AFAM:2600 (129:093) Black Culture and Experience (when topic is media, politics, and social institutions) 3 s.h.
AFAM:2610 (129:097)/LEIS:1097 (169:097) Race, Sport, and Globalization 3 s.h.
AFAM:3130 (129:126) Black American Cinema 3 s.h.
AFAM:3400 (129:102)/AMST:3400 (045:102) Black Popular Music 3 s.h.
AFAM:3900 (129:140) Topics in African American Studies (when topic is media, politics, or social institutions) arr.
AFAM:3925 (129:122)/JMC:3165 (019:165) African Americans and the Media 3 s.h.
AFAM:4001 (129:195)/COMM:4172 (036:172) Television and African American Culture 3 s.h.

ELECTIVES

Students also must take two elective courses (minimum of 6 s.h.) selected from the three topical areas listed above. With the approval of an African-American studies advisor, students may substitute relevant courses offered by other departments for one or both electives; the substituted courses may not be cross-listed with African American studies. Students must gain the advisor’s approval before enrolling in a substitute course.

Two electives selected from the three topical areas above, or approved substitutes 6 s.h.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT

The language requirement for the African American studies major is the same as the World Languages requirement of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Students are encouraged, but not required, to take African language courses (Swahili is currently offered) or Spanish language courses to fulfill the World Languages requirement.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

During the first year of study, students should focus on completing the General Education Program, perhaps including Swahili or Spanish course work to begin satisfying the World Languages requirement.

Before the fifth semester begins: at least three courses in the major, including AFAM:1010 (129:062) Foundations in African American Studies; and AFAM:1030 (129:060) Introduction to African American Society or AFAM:1020 (129:061) Introduction to African American Culture

Before the seventh semester begins: at least seven courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree...
Before the eighth semester begins: at least nine courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in African American studies have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Honors study enables students to pursue special interests and individual in-depth research.

Honors students in African American studies complete all of the required course work for the major (30 s.h.); they should use one or more of their elective courses to develop the honors thesis. Honors students are encouraged to register for up to 6 s.h. in AFAM:4990 (129:095) Honors Project, which will enhance their ability to complete honors projects under the guidance of the supervising faculty member. Students take AFAM:4990 (129:095) with the approval of their African American studies advisor, who typically supervises the course. Students may count up to 6 s.h. earned in AFAM:4990 (129:095) toward the 30 s.h. required for the major.

Under the guidance of the African American studies advisor, the honors student defines a research project (thesis) using primary, secondary, or archival sources. Students make project proposals by the end of their junior year. Each student completes a thesis under the guidance of a supervising faculty member and presents the results as a senior essay to a committee of three faculty members, including the supervising African American studies faculty member and two other African American studies faculty members of the student's choice. The student's committee may choose to hear an oral defense of the honors thesis, usually during the student's last semester.

Honors students in African American studies must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor

The minor in African American studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Course work done for another major or minor may not be counted toward the minor in African American studies.

The minor must include the following course work.

Graduate Program of Study

- Master of Arts in African American world studies

African American studies is not accepting graduate students in 2014-15.

Cocurricular Activities

Afro-American Cultural Center

African American studies encourages students to use facilities of the Afro-American Cultural Center. The center serves as a museum and library of educational and cultural artifacts and exhibits of African American culture, providing cultural enrichment for the Iowa City community and promoting diversity among all members of the University community. It also provides a cultural meeting place for African American students.

African American Studies Student Association

The African American Studies Student Association aims to promote knowledge about people of African descent by sponsoring programs on various topics. Any University of Iowa student interested in African American studies is eligible to become a member.

Graduate Seminar

Graduate students from a range of disciplines in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences are encouraged to participate in the program's interdisciplinary graduate seminar, which is dedicated to advanced readings, scholarly books, and articles in African American studies.

Graduate Student Mentoring and Advising

African American studies sponsors several intellectual and social gatherings for graduate students across disciplines. During these events, students connect with others interested in African Americans studies and receive advice about becoming faculty members and being productive members of the academic profession.

Seminar and Lecture Series

The African American Studies Seminar Series and the Darwin Turner Lecture bring important scholars and creative artists to the University of Iowa campus. Guests of the lecture and seminar series have included Amiri Baraka, Michelle Wallace, and Valerie Smith.

The New Research in African American Studies lecture series, sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, focuses on research by faculty in the African American Studies Program.

aging-studies

The Aging Studies Program offers undergraduate and graduate programs and a selection of courses open to students in all majors.

Undergraduate students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences who would like to focus on aging studies as their major or as a second major should consider the individualized plan of study track offered by the Interdepartmental Studies Program. See Interdepartmental Studies (p. 408) in the Catalog.

The Aging Studies Program is administered by the School of Social Work (p. 586).

Undergraduate and Graduate Programs of Study

• Certificate in Aging Studies (undergraduate and graduate)
• Minor in aging studies (undergraduate)

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences grants the undergraduate certificate and minor; the Graduate College confers the graduate certificate.

Certificate

The Certificate in Aging Studies requires 21 s.h. of credit. Completion of the certificate is noted on the student’s transcript.

The undergraduate certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor’s degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Undergraduate students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate. Undergraduate students may earn the undergraduate certificate or the minor in aging studies, but not both.

The graduate certificate program is open to University of Iowa graduate students with aging-related career interests and needs. Graduate students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.50 in work for the certificate.

The Certificate in Aging Studies takes a multidisciplinary approach to gerontology. Its course work has been coordinated and sequenced to provide a broad background in aging for students from varied disciplines. Students should talk with the Aging Studies Program coordinator about their intent to earn the certificate. They work with their academic advisors and the coordinator to develop an individual plan of study that complements their degree program and career interests.

The certificate’s required 21 s.h. must be earned in Aging Studies Program courses (prefix ASP) and other courses approved for the program. With permission from the Aging Studies Program coordinator, students also may be able to use other aging-related courses for the certificate.

Students must earn at least 18 s.h. of certificate credit in courses numbered 3000 or above, and they must earn at least 15 s.h. toward the certificate at The University of Iowa.

Certificate requirements include a core curriculum of six courses and an additional 5 s.h. of elective course work from the list of approved aging-related courses. Students may take core courses before or concurrently with other courses in the program, but they should complete the core courses before they enroll in the internship and internship seminar. Students who complete an aging-related internship or practicum in their major field may be able to count that experience as their Aging Studies Program internship; consult with the Aging Studies Program coordinator. Transfer credit requests are evaluated individually by the Aging Studies Program coordinator.

CORE COURSES

All certificate students must complete the following six core courses. Graduate students should contact the Aging Studies Program coordinator about an independent study option for ASP:3900 (153:124).

One of these—graduate students must choose ASP:3135 (153:135):

ASP:2181 (153:181) The Anthropology of Aging
ASP:3135 (153:135) Global Aging

One of these—graduate students must choose ASP:3900 (153:124):

ASP:3900 (153:124) Independent Study in Gerontology

All of these:

ASP:3150 (153:150)/PSY:2915 (031:050) Psychology of Aging
ASP:3160 (153:160) Biology of Aging
ASP:4189 (153:189) Aging Studies Internship Seminar
ASP:4190 (153:190)/SSW:4190 (042:190) Aging Studies Internship

ELECTIVES

Students must complete an additional 5 s.h. of electives selected from courses offered by the Aging Studies Program (prefix ASP) and/or from approved aging-related courses offered by other academic units. Practicum and/or research courses offered by other academic units may be accepted for elective credit if they focus on aging; students who wish to apply course work from other departments should consult the Aging Studies Program chair.
Minor

Undergraduate students in the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Nursing, and the Tippie College of Business may earn the minor in aging studies. Students must have the approval of their college or major department in order to earn the minor.

Students may earn the minor or the undergraduate certificate in aging studies, but not both.

The minor in aging studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in aging-related course work, including 12 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. The minor must include ASP:1800 (153:085) Basic Aspects of Aging. Students earning the minor may not enroll in ASP:4190 (153:190) Aging Studies Internship. Courses for the minor must be approved by the Aging Studies Program.

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

ASP:1000 (153:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

ASP:1800 (153:085) Basic Aspects of Aging 3 s.h.

ASP:2181 (153:181) The Anthropology of Aging 3 s.h.
Comparative anthropological perspective on aging; ethnographies from diverse contexts used to examine intersections of kinship, religion, health, and medicine in later life. Same as ANTH:2181 (113:147), GHS:2181 (152:147).

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ASP:3135 (153:135) Global Aging 3 s.h.
Demographic factors that contribute to the world wide phenomena of population aging in context of WHO Active Aging and the United Nation's Principles for Older Persons frameworks. Same as SSW:3135 (042:135), GHS:3050 (152:153).

ASP:3150 (153:150) Psychology of Aging 3 s.h.
The later years of human life viewed from perspectives of developmental psychology, biology, sociology. Prerequisites: PSY:1001 (031:001). Same as PSY:2915 (031:050).

American Indian and Native Studies

Undergraduate minor: American Indian and native studies

Undergraduate certificate: American Indian and native studies

Graduate certificate: American Indian and native studies

Web site: http://www.uiowa.edu/~ainsp/

The American Indian and Native Studies Program (AINSP) is an interdisciplinary program that focuses on the histories, cultures, literatures, and contemporary legal and political issues of Native North Americans and other indigenous peoples of the Americas.

Students taking AINSP courses begin to understand historical and contemporary social issues among indigenous peoples of the Americas. Through experiences with ethnic, social, and political diversity, they acquire expertise for employment in advocacy, social services, health care, education, and other areas that require cross-cultural understanding. They also gain a background for more specialized or advanced study in a variety of disciplines, including anthropology, economics, education, ethnic studies, geography, history, political science, psychology, and religious studies.

A certificate in AINSP complements degrees in professional areas such as health care, business, social work, and law.

The American Indian and Native Studies Program is administered by the Department of American Studies (p. 44).

Undergraduate Programs of Study

- Certificate in American Indian and Native Studies
- Minor in American Indian and native studies

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences grants the undergraduate certificate and minor.

Certificate

The undergraduate Certificate in American Indian and Native Studies requires a minimum of 21 s.h. The certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor’s degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate.

Completion of the certificate is noted on the student's transcript.

A student may earn the certificate or the minor in American Indian and native studies, but not both.

Students plan their programs in close cooperation with AINSP faculty advisors. They may count a maximum of 6 s.h. of course work from their major toward the AINSP undergraduate certificate. Courses applied toward the AINSP certificate also may be used to complete the General Education Program (p. 323) or the requirements for a major or a minor.

The AINSP undergraduate certificate requires the following course work.

All of these:

- AINS:1049 (149:049) Introduction to American Indian and Native Studies 3 s.h.
- AINS:3002 (149:102) Introduction to American Indian History and Policy 3 s.h.
- AINS:3441 (149:113) Native American Literature 3 s.h.

At least 3 s.h. from these:

- AINS:2165 (149:110) Native Peoples of North America 3 s.h.
- AINS:3276 (149:076) American Indian Environmentalism 3 s.h.

And:

Electives chosen from the "Associated Courses" and "Courses" lists below 9 s.h.

Minor

The minor in American Indian and native studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may count a maximum of 6 s.h. of course work from a major toward the AINSP minor.

A student may earn the minor or the certificate in American Indian and native studies, but not both.

The minor includes the following course work.

- AINS:1049 (149:049) Introduction to American Indian and Native Studies 3 s.h.

One of these:

- AINS:3002 (149:102) Introduction to American Indian History and Policy 3 s.h.
- AINS:3441 (149:113) Native American Literature 3 s.h.

At least 3 s.h. from these:

- AINS:2165 (149:110) Native Peoples of North America 3 s.h.
- AINS:3276 (149:076) American Indian Environmentalism 3 s.h.
Cultural Experience

The program highly recommends that students have an in-depth American Indian cultural experience, usually through study or volunteer work, before they complete their undergraduate requirements. Consult AINSP faculty advisors about available options for AINS:4095 (149:195) Directed Cultural Experience.

Graduate Program of Study

- Certificate in American Indian and Native Studies

The Graduate College confers the graduate certificate.

Certificate

The graduate Certificate in American Indian and Native Studies requires a minimum of 20 s.h. in courses approved for AINSP and numbered 3000 or above (see "Associated Courses" and "Courses" below). Graduate students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 in work toward the certificate. They may count a maximum of 6 s.h. of course work from their major field of study toward the AINSP graduate certificate.

Graduate students must apply to the academic coordinator to be admitted to the AINSP graduate certificate program. Students who earned an undergraduate certificate in the program may not receive a graduate certificate.

The AINSP graduate certificate requires the following course work.

Undergraduate minor: American Sign Language

Undergraduate certificate: American Sign Language and Deaf Studies

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/asl

The American Sign Language Program offers two undergraduate programs of study. It also offers a number of courses open to all students. They include a four-semester course sequence in American Sign Language (ASL), courses for teacher licensure (see "Hearing Impaired Endorsement for Teachers" below), and courses on fingerspelling, deaf culture, ASL literature, ASL interpreting, and other topics. The four-course ASL sequence satisfies the World Languages requirement of the General Education Program (see "Language for General Education" below). Classroom instruction is supplemented by video materials and interactive software in the Language Media Center.

The American Sign Language Program is one of the academic units in the Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures (p. 235).

HEARING IMPAIRED ENDORSEMENT FOR TEACHERS

The American Sign Language Program offers courses that fulfill requirements for the Hearing Impaired Endorsement offered by the College of Education. The University of Iowa currently is the only institution in Iowa that offers this endorsement program. Holders of the endorsement are authorized to serve deaf and hard-of-hearing students from birth to age 21. The program is open to undergraduate and graduate students; applicants must hold or be in the process of completing requirements for an elementary or secondary teaching license. Contact the College of Education Office of Education Services to learn more.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

Certificate in American Sign Language and Deaf Studies
Minor in American Sign Language

Certificate

The Certificate in American Sign Language and Deaf Studies requires 34 s.h. The certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor's degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate. Completion of the certificate is noted on the student's transcript; it confirms for potential employers and prospective graduate schools that the student has specialized knowledge in the field.

Students may earn the Certificate in American Sign Language and Deaf Studies or the minor in American Sign Language, but not both.

The certificate program teaches students about the history, culture, and language of the American deaf community. It is interdisciplinary, permitting students to link study in two or more disciplines into an organized investigation of a language and culture. Through their study of American Sign Language, students learn a language that is semantically and grammatically very different from their own and that operates in a different sensory channel. They also encounter a rich and complex culture, including a rapidly growing literature recorded on film and videotape since the early 20th century.

Certificate requirements include the four-course American Sign Language sequence (16 s.h.) or demonstration of equivalent proficiency; 6 s.h. of core courses; and 12 s.h. of focused electives in two or more disciplines.

Students may use each course required for the certificate to satisfy only one certificate requirement. But they may use a course to satisfy a certificate requirement as well as a requirement for a major or for a minor in another discipline. Courses used to satisfy certificate requirements may not be taken pass/nonpass.

A maximum of 6 s.h. of transfer credit may be accepted toward certificate requirements, with the approval of the American Sign Language and deaf studies advisor.

Students must declare their intention to pursue the certificate with the American Sign Language and deaf studies advisor. They also must submit a plan of study.

The Certificate in American Sign Language and Deaf Studies requires the following course work.

LANGUAGE SEQUENCE

Certificate students must complete the following sequence or be able to demonstrate equivalent proficiency. Students must demonstrate 75 percent proficiency in the expressive and receptive elements of each course in order to register for the next course in the sequence.

ASL:1001 (158:011) American Sign Language I 4 s.h.
ASL:1002 (158:012) American Sign Language II 4 s.h.
ASL:2001 (158:013) American Sign Language III 4 s.h.
ASL:2002 (158:014) American Sign Language IV 4 s.h.

CORE COURSES

Students complete at least two of these (minimum of 6 s.h.):
ASL:3100 (158:111) American Sign Language Conversation 3 s.h.
ASL:3200 (158:101) Topics in Deaf Studies 3 s.h.
ASL:3300 (158:102) American Deaf Culture 3 s.h.
ASL:3400 (158:104) Issues in ASL and Deaf Studies 3 s.h.
ASL:3500 (158:105) Deafness in the Media 3 s.h.

EDTL:4900 (07U:100) Foundations of Special Education (requires admission to Teacher Education Program) 3 s.h.
EDTL:4940 (07U:140) Characteristics of Disabilities 3 s.h.
EPLS:4180 (07B:180) Human Relations for the Classroom Teacher 3 s.h.

Minor
The minor in American Sign Language requires 15 s.h. of ASL course work, including 12 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. The minor must include ASL:2002 (158:014) American Sign Language IV or demonstrated equivalent proficiency. Students may count a maximum of one course taught in English toward the minor, ASL:4201 (158:100) History of the American Deaf Community or ASLE:3905 (158:110) Teaching Deaf and Hard of Hearing Students, and must enroll in the 4 s.h. option with discussion conducted in ASL. Course ASLE:2500 (158:106) Introduction to ASL Interpreting does not count toward the minor.

Students may earn the minor in American Sign Language or the Certificate in American Sign Language and Deaf Studies, but not both.

Language for General Education
The following four-course sequence satisfies the World Languages requirement of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Students must demonstrate 75 percent proficiency in the expressive and receptive elements of each course in order to register for the next course in the sequence.
ASL:1001 (158:011) American Sign Language I 4 s.h.
ASL:1002 (158:012) American Sign Language II 4 s.h.
ASL:2001 (158:013) American Sign Language III 4 s.h.
Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

ASL:1001 (158:011) American Sign Language I 4 s.h.
Conversational skills, basic grammar of ASL; introduction to the ASL cultural community through readings, videos. Taught in American Sign Language. First in a four-semester sequence. GE: World Languages First Level Proficiency.

ASL:1002 (158:012) American Sign Language II 4 s.h.
Continuation of ASL:1001 (158:011); emphasis on ASL grammar and syntax; focus on culture through readings, videos. Taught in American Sign Language. Prerequisites: ASL:1001 (158:011). GE: World Languages Second Level Proficiency.

ASL:1101 (158:015) Fingerspelling and Numbers I 1 s.h.
Development of expressive and receptive American Sign Language fingerspelling, loan sign, and number skills based on word, phrase, and number recognition. Taught in American Sign Language. Prerequisites: ASL:1001 (158:011).

ASL:1102 (158:016) Fingerspelling and Numbers II 1 s.h.
Development of expressive and receptive American Sign Language fingerspelling, loan sign, and number skills based on word, phrase, and number recognition. Taught in American Sign Language. Prerequisites: ASL:1101 (158:015).

ASL:2001 (158:013) American Sign Language III 4 s.h.
Continuation of ASL:1002 (158:012); emphasis on ASL grammar and syntax; focus on culture through readings, videos. Taught in American Sign Language. Prerequisites: ASL:1002 (158:012). GE: World Languages Second Level Proficiency.

ASL:2002 (158:014) American Sign Language IV 4 s.h.

ASLE:2500 (158:106) Introduction to ASL Interpreting 3 s.h.
Introduction to signed language interpreting; history and current nature of the field, available opportunities, certification, training, ethics. Taught in spoken English. Corequisites: ASL:1002 (158:012).

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ASL:3100 (158:111) American Sign Language Conversation 3 s.h.
Improvement of receptive and expressive conversational ASL skills through small group discussion, class presentations. Taught in American Sign Language. Corequisites: ASL:2002 (158:014), if not taken as a prerequisite.

ASL:3200 (158:101) Topics in Deaf Studies 3 s.h.
Current topics in deaf studies; skill development in communicative fluency in ASL. Taught in American Sign Language. Corequisites: ASL:2002 (158:014), if not taken as a prerequisite.

ASL:3300 (158:102) American Deaf Culture 3 s.h.

ASL:3400 (158:104) Issues in ASL and Deaf Studies 3 s.h.
Current issues in American Sign Language and the American deaf community, such as linguistics, culture, literacy. Corequisites: ASL:2002 (158:014), if not taken as a prerequisite.

ASL:3500 (158:105) Deafness in the Media 3 s.h.
Exploration of the construct of deafness through mainstream media (e.g., commercial television, movies, fictional and nonfictional literature in print and on the Internet); various ways deaf people are constructed and presented for hearing audiences from the past 20 years. Taught in American Sign Language. Prerequisites: ASL:2002 (158:014).

ASL:3600 (158:103) American Sign Language Literature 3 s.h.
Introduction to the world of ASL literature, as recorded on videotape or film and in live performance; traditional folklore, storytelling, poetry, drama, oratory, jokes, and nonfiction narrative; analysis of genres in their social and cultural contexts as expressions of deaf experience; how historical and current issues in deaf culture are represented in literary form. Taught in American Sign Language. Corequisites: ASL:2002 (158:014), if not taken as a prerequisite.

An American Sign Language/deaf studies topic; individual study.

ASL:4201 (158:100) History of the American Deaf Community 3-4 s.h.
Creation of a distinct language and culture of deaf people in America during the 19th and 20th centuries. Taught in English and/or American Sign Language. Requirements: or 4 s.h. option - concurrent enrollment in ASL:2002 (158:014), if not taken as a prerequisite. Same as HIST:4201 (16A:104).

ASLE:3905 (158:110) Teaching Deaf and Hard of Hearing Students 3-4 s.h.
Issues in deaf education; management techniques, communication strategies, teaching strategies, instructional materials, hands-on activities, assessments, parent involvement; use of technology, ethnic and cultural diversity, classroom management, pre-reading techniques, literacy development, educational program options. Taught in English and/or American Sign Language. Requirements: for 4 s.h. option — concurrent enrollment in ASL:2002 (158:014), if not taken as a prerequisite. Same as EDTL:3905 (07U:110).

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/american-studies/

The Department of American Studies provides an interdisciplinary introduction to American culture, past and present. It helps students acquire a broad familiarity with the dynamics of cultural experience and explore aspects of life in the United States, such as sport, popular and fine arts, institutions, values, gender and ethnic relations, artifacts, and the everyday life of a diverse citizenry.

The department offers undergraduate programs of study in American studies and in sport studies as well as graduate programs of study in American studies, with a sport studies subtrack available in the Ph.D.

The department also is the administrative home of the American Indian and Native Studies Program, which offers an undergraduate certificate and minor and a graduate certificate; see American Indian and Native Studies (p. 36) in the Catalog.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
• Major in American studies (Bachelor of Arts)
• Major in sport studies (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in American studies
• Minor in sport studies

Bachelor of Arts: American Studies

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in American Studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 36 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). At least 24 s.h. for the major must be earned at The University of Iowa.

The major in American studies stresses broad training in cultural analysis and communication. Although it offers no explicit vocational training, the program provides preparation for careers in business, education, government, journalism, or social service; for advanced study in the humanities, the social sciences, theology, or business; or for professional study in law or medicine. American studies students may arrange internships through the University’s Pomerantz Career Center.

A distinctive feature of the American studies major is the opportunity to develop broad training in cultural analysis as well as emphasis of particular interests within the study of American culture. With the help of their American studies advisors, students may elect to pursue one of five focus areas within American studies, or they may create an individual plan of study. Each focus area allows students to group courses in American studies and other departments around a specific interdisciplinary theme, topic, or set of social issues; see “American Studies Focus Areas” below.

Shortly after declaring the major, a student should meet with his or her faculty advisor to explore the range of course work available and to begin shaping an individual plan of study. By the student’s second term in the major, the student and advisor should have agreed upon a plan of study and focus area for completing the requirements for the major.

The major in American Studies usually requires the following 12 courses.

American Studies Focus Areas

Students should consult regularly with the Department of American Studies about courses offered by American studies and other departments that count toward each focus area. A maximum of two courses from a single department outside American studies may be counted toward a single focus area.
ETHNIC STUDIES, DIVERSITY, AND DIFFERENCES

Students choose this focus to develop interdisciplinary understanding of an individual ethnic and/or racial group (e.g., Latino/a studies, Jewish-American studies) or to examine broadly gender, race, sexuality, social class, region, national origins, and age in the United States. Emphasis is on the historic emergence of categories of social difference, especially as revealed in cultural practices and artifacts, geography and cityscapes, leisure, and popular expression.

AMERICAN ARTS, LITERATURE, AND POPULAR CULTURE

Students who choose this focus examine artistic creations to discover how they are shaped by cultural preconceptions, norms, and standards, and how in turn these expressive forms affect ongoing developments in cultural life. Emphasis is on skills in the formal analysis of artistic artifacts, historical inquiry, and cultural contextualization.

AMERICAN SOCIETY, POLITICS, AND EVERYDAY LIFE

Students who choose this focus consider the dynamics of social change, the emergence and fate of political movements, and the forms and practice of everyday life in America. The area encompasses the tradition of revolution in America, the effects of technological and economic change, and the roles of the family, workplace, and community from the colonial era to the digital age.

THE POLITICS OF NATURE: ENVIRONMENT, SUSTAINABILITY, AND LANDSCAPE

Students who choose this focus explore how Americans from pre-Columbian times to the present have shaped and regarded the natural environment. Topics might include the perception of wilderness in early America; the relationship of Native American peoples to the land; the impact of industrialization and urban growth on the environment; the emergence of a cult of nature; the treatment and representation of animals; the mass production, distribution, and consumption of food; and the growing movement for sustainability in agriculture, architecture, urban planning, and individual lifestyles.

SPORT AND POPULAR AMUSEMENT

Students who choose this focus examine the various sports, recreational activities, and popular amusements enjoyed in the United States from colonial and early America to the present. They examine the relationship between work and play, the role of technology and the media, the commercialization of sport, and the politics of gender, race, class, sexuality, and disability.

INDIVIDUALLY DESIGNED FOCUS AREAS

Individually designed focus areas may concentrate on an interdisciplinary topic, theme, group of people, or time period. Students who wish to design their own interdisciplinary focus area should consult with their American studies advisor for appropriate courses.

Bachelor of Arts: Sport Studies

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in sport studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 45 s.h. of work for the major (30 s.h. in sport studies and 15 s.h. in an outside specialization area or a minor). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). At least 24 s.h. of credit for the major must be earned at The University of Iowa.

The sports studies major examines sport in its historical and contemporary cultural contexts. Course work provides students with the critical skills necessary to understand the cultural significance of sport as it relates to the media, the economy, the political system, and the educational system. A focus on the race, class, and gender differences in the sport experience is central to the major.

Many students use their experience in the program to prepare for graduate school. For others, the required second concentration area or minor serves as an introduction to careers in a number of fields, such as sport journalism, sport management, or coaching.

The major in sport studies requires the following course work.

SPORT STUDIES FOUNDATION

Students should complete the foundation courses as early as possible.

Students who successfully complete the requirements for the coaching authorization must submit an application to the Iowa Board of Educational Examiners. For more information, visit Coaching Authorization FAQs on the board's website.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

B.A.: American Studies

Before the fifth semester begins: declaration of the major and discussion of a plan of study with an American studies advisor

Before the seventh semester begins: at least six courses from the plan of study and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least nine courses from the plan of study

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.A.: Sport Studies

Before the fifth semester begins: declaration of the major

Before the sixth semester begins: area of specialization determined

Before the seventh semester begins: at least six sport studies courses and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least eight sport studies courses

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in American studies or sport studies have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major and to pursue special interests through individual, in-depth research.

Honors students carry out a research project. Working under the guidance of an undergraduate advisor, each student defines a research project and then makes a project proposal, ideally by the end of the junior year. The student completes the project under the guidance of a supervising faculty member. American studies honors students register for up to 6 s.h. in AMST:4999 (045:095) Honors Project. Sport studies honors students register for up to 3 s.h. in SPST:4999 (028:194) Honors Project.

Contact the American studies honors advisor for more information about honors in either major.

Honors students in either major must be members of the University’s honors program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University of Iowa Honors Program.

OUTSIDE CONCENTRATION AREA OR MINOR

All sport studies students must complete 15 s.h. of course work in an allied field of concentration outside the major (e.g., American studies; journalism and mass communication; business; gender, women's, and sexuality studies). Work for the concentration must include 6 s.h. earned in courses numbered 3000 or above or in courses that are designated advanced by the department or program that offers them. Concentration area courses may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Students select their allied field of concentration in consultation with their advisor, and they must have their advisor’s written approval for the area.

Students also may satisfy the concentration requirement by earning a second major or a minor in another discipline. Students who satisfy the requirement in this way are held responsible for ensuring that they have fulfilled the requirements for the second major or the minor.

B.A. with Coaching Authorization or Endorsement

Students may prepare for coaching by completing additional course work that also qualifies them for a coaching authorization from the State of Iowa. The following courses are recommended.

ATEP:2030 (027:057) Basic Athletic Training 3 s.h.
HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.
HHP:3300 (027:117) Human Growth and Motor Development 3 s.h.
SPST:2081 (028:180) Theory and Ethics of Coaching 3 s.h.

Students who successfully complete the requirements for the coaching authorization must submit an application to the Iowa Board of Educational Examiners. For more information, visit Coaching Authorization FAQs on the board’s website.

Minor: American Studies

The minor in American studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in American studies courses, including 12 s.h. in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa (courses numbered above AMST:1010 (045:001) are considered advanced for the minor). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students interested in earning the American studies minor should consult with one of the department's faculty members.

Minor: Sport Studies

The minor in sport studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in University of Iowa sport studies courses (prefix SPST), including at least 6 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students select courses for the minor according to their interests and the recommendation of the undergraduate coordinator.

Certificate in American Indian and Native Studies

The Department of American Studies administers the American Indian and Native Studies Program, which offers a certificate for undergraduate and graduate students and a minor for undergraduates; see American Indian and Native Studies (p. 36) in the Catalog.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in American studies (with or without thesis)
- Doctor of Philosophy in American studies (optional sport studies subtrack)

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in American studies requires a minimum of 36 s.h. of graduate credit. The degree generally is offered without thesis; students must petition the director of graduate studies for permission to pursue the thesis option.

Each M.A. student designs an interdisciplinary field of concentration in consultation with his or her American studies advisor.

The M.A. in American studies requires the following work.

M.A. portfolio

Each student must complete an M.A. portfolio, which includes a research paper, faculty evaluations for all courses taken during the student's first full year of graduate study, and a self-evaluation essay.

The research paper is a graduate seminar paper that demonstrates the student's skills as a research scholar and writer and represents his or her strongest work. The paper should be 25-30 pages, including a bibliography.

The self-evaluation essay summarizes the American studies methods and materials that have shaped the student's interdisciplinary work in the field and states how the master's degree work in American studies has contributed to, challenged, or complicated the student's goals and ambitions beyond the degree.

For students who wish to continue their education with doctoral study, the M.A. portfolio serves as the application for admission to the Ph.D. program in American studies. The department informs applicants whether they have been accepted into the Ph.D. program by the end of the fall semester in which they submit their M.A. portfolio; admission is contingent upon successful completion of the M.A. during the student's fourth semester of residency.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in American studies requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. Students may focus in American studies or choose the sport studies subtrack.

Each student works with his or her faculty advisor to map out a coherent plan of study that reflects the student's particular interests. Students are permitted considerable flexibility in constructing their study plan, but they must meet certain basic requirements, which include foundation courses, area foundation courses, two interdisciplinary fields of concentration, a research skills course, elective course work, and a dissertation.

The two fields of concentration may be defined to correspond with the student's strongest intellectual interests, but they must be interdisciplinary in concept and multidisciplinary in scope. Each must include course work from more than one of the University's departments and programs. The two concentration areas may, and usually should, have an intellectual relationship with each other.

Students are expected to address the cultural diversity of American life in their course work and reading.

The Doctor of Philosophy requires the following work. Some course requirements are different for American studies and sports studies.
COURSE WORK

Required Foundation Courses
All students complete the required foundation courses and should take them as early as possible.

AMST:5000 (045:200) Theory and Practice of American Studies I 3 s.h.
AMST:5001 (045:201) Theory and Practice in American Studies II 3 s.h.

Area Foundation Courses
American studies students:
Two American studies graduate seminars 6 s.h.

Sport studies students:
SPST:5002 (028:202) Critical Theories for Sport 3 s.h.
SPST:6074 (028:374) Seminar in Sport History 3 s.h.

First Field of Concentration
American studies students:
Courses in an interdisciplinary field with a historical concentration, designed with the advisor and approved by the department’s Plan of Study Committee 18 s.h.

Sport studies students:
Courses on sport in cultural and historical contexts selected with the advisor and approved by the department’s Plan of Study Committee 18 s.h.

Second Field of Concentration
American studies students:
Courses in an interdisciplinary field designed with the advisor and approved by the department’s Plan of Study Committee 18 s.h.

Sport studies students:
Courses in an interdisciplinary field designed with the advisor and approved by the department’s Plan of Study Committee; may be a second field in sport studies or a field outside sport studies 18 s.h.

Research Skills
American studies students:
AMST:7085 (045:550) Dissertation Writing Workshop (taken three times) 3 s.h.

Sport studies students:
SPST:7070 (028:295) Sport Studies Workshop (may be repeated) 1 s.h.

Additional Requirements
American studies and sport studies students:
Dissertation work (AMST:7090 (045:600) Ph.D. Thesis) and electives 21 s.h.

ADMISSION TO PH.D. CANDIDACY
Admission to Ph.D. candidacy signifies that the department judges the doctoral student qualified to take the comprehensive examination. Doctoral students advance to Ph.D. candidacy based on a review conducted during their second year in the Ph.D. program (typically during fall semester); the review assesses the student’s readiness to complete his or her studies through the comprehensive examination and the dissertation, which is an original work of scholarship. In addition to judging the student’s readiness for Ph.D. candidacy, the review provides a progress report on the student’s work and a tentative prognosis for future prospects in the field.

COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATION
The comprehensive examination comprises three written exams and one oral exam.

The first exam is taken under the supervision of an American studies faculty member, who also chairs the comprehensive examination. The candidate takes a timed, take-home written exam of no less than four hours and no longer than two days; the exam details the candidate’s approach to American studies (methods and models), including his or her position and critical engagement with models of American studies scholarship.

The remaining two written exams explore the candidate’s major fields; these are at least four hours long and may be given on a take-home basis at the examiner’s discretion.

The oral exam covers material from the written exams.

DISSERTATION
The final requirement for the Ph.D. in American studies is the dissertation, a substantive book-length manuscript that involves interdisciplinary research and analysis and that represents an original contribution to knowledge. All Ph.D. dissertations must be approved by a committee of five faculty members, including at least two from the Department of American Studies.

Internships
Qualified graduate students in American studies can arrange internships with a number of local agencies, including the State Historical Society of Iowa, the Division of Historic Preservation, the University of Iowa Museum of Art, the Iowa Humanities Board, Brucemore, the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum, and the Putnam Museum. With special permission, candidates conducting research during such on-the-job training may receive academic credit through AMST:7994 (045:320) Independent Study. Other internships with social agencies, government, or business also may be arranged.

Undergraduate major: anthropology (B.A., B.S.)
Undergraduate minor: anthropology
Graduate degrees: M.A. in anthropology; Ph.D. in anthropology
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/anthropology/

Anthropology is the comparative study of peoples and cultures past and present. The discipline's four major subfields—cultural anthropology, biological anthropology, linguistic anthropology, and archaeology—have important connections to other social sciences, physical and biological sciences, and to the arts and humanities.

Anthropology provides a framework for understanding the relation of human beings to their natural environment and to the social and cultural worlds they create and inhabit. The field provides insight into biological and sociocultural evolution and includes a focus on economic, social, and political organizations, symbolic systems, and social systems. Comparative studies of these and other aspects of past and present cultures yield information on regularities and differences.

In addition to offering undergraduate and graduate degree programs, the Department of Anthropology administers the University's Museum Studies (p. 485) Program, which offers an undergraduate certificate.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

• Major in anthropology (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science)
• Minor in anthropology

The major in anthropology prepares individuals for advanced training or careers in anthropology, allied fields, and professional programs. Students who complete an anthropology major gain special understanding of human relations and expertise for jobs involving international or cross-cultural work, cultural resource management, and social and ethnic diversity in the United States.

Upon graduation, anthropology majors embark on careers in government, international affairs, conservation, economic development, public health, cultural resource management, urban and regional planning, social work, museum work, and education. Many go on to help resolve contemporary world problems by working with international or domestic organizations such as Americorps, the Peace Corps, and Teach for America. Some pursue graduate study in anthropology or related social sciences while others earn degrees in business, law, or the health sciences.

Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in anthropology requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 33 s.h. of work for the major. The Bachelor of Science with a major in anthropology requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 39 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The B.A. is designed to offer a comprehensive overview of anthropology's four main subfields and the broadest possible cross-cultural background. The B.S. is appropriate for students with interests in any of anthropology's subfields; it offers enhanced opportunities to gain experience and develop skills in research methods and scientific reasoning.

B.A. and B.S. students may choose to complete one of four specializations: gender and culture, cultural resource and heritage management, environmental anthropology, or medical anthropology. B.S. students also have the option of completing a track, anthropology for the health professions. See "Optional Undergraduate Specializations and Track" below.

All undergraduates majoring in anthropology, including transfer students, must earn a minimum of 15 s.h. for the major at The University of Iowa. Students may apply credit earned at approved field schools offered by other institutions toward the major, with Department of Anthropology approval.

Students who declare anthropology as their major when they are admitted to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences are advised at the Academic Advising Center until they have earned 24 s.h. Students who have earned more than 24 s.h. are advised by the departmental undergraduate advisor.
The major in anthropology requires the following course work.

Common Requirements (B.A. and B.S.)
All students (B.A. and B.S.) must complete 11 courses from the lists below: five introductory courses, one course in archaeology or biological anthropology, one course in sociocultural or linguistic anthropology, one course in area studies, and three electives. Several courses are listed in more than one of these categories; students may not select the same course from more than one category.

Introductory courses—all of these:
- ANTH:1001 (113:050) Issues in Anthropology 3 s.h.
- ANTH:1101 (113:003) Cultural Anthropology 3 s.h.
- ANTH:1201 (113:012) Introduction to Prehistory 3 s.h.
- ANTH:1301 (113:013) Human Origins 3 s.h.
- ANTH:1401 (113:014) Language, Culture, and Communication 3 s.h.

Archaeology or biological anthropology (area or topical)—one of these:

Electives:

Three elective courses numbered 2000 or above

Anthropology electives offer many options, including courses dealing with environment and culture, expressive culture (art, verbal arts, literature, music, and dance), gender and sexuality, human evolution, human osteology, human prehistory, identity, language and culture, medical anthropology, molecular genetics, primatology, psychological anthropology, religion and ritual, and urban anthropology. Department faculty members offer area studies courses that focus on Latin America, Europe, Japan, South Asia, and Native North America.

Additional Bachelor of Arts Requirements

Bachelor of Arts students are strongly encouraged to take courses and participate in archaeological field and laboratory research, biological anthropology laboratory research, ethnographic research methods in sociocultural anthropology, and multimedia research in linguistic anthropology.

Additional Bachelor of Science Requirements

Bachelor of Science students must fulfill additional requirements in the following three areas.

- Quantitative, mathematical, or formal reasoning tool
- Directed laboratory or field research
- Allied topical course work

QUANTITATIVE, MATHEMATICAL, OR FORMAL REASONING TOOL (B.S.)

Bachelor of Science students must complete one course (a minimum of 3 s.h.) in statistics, computing, logic, and/or mathematics in addition to the course they take to fulfill the General Education Program's Quantitative and Formal Reasoning requirement. The department accepts the following courses to fulfill the tool requirement. Students who would like to use other courses should consult their advisors.

DIRECTED LABORATORY OR FIELD RESEARCH (B.S.)
Bachelor of Science students complete an approved directed research requirement (minimum of 3 s.h.) consisting of one of the following.

- Laboratory research: a laboratory practicum in anthropology research labs or independent, faculty-guided, laboratory research, including use of the collections of the Office of the State Archaeologist.
- Field research project: faculty-advised projects involving the collection of primary archaeological, biological, ethnographic, and/or linguistic data in a fieldwork setting.
- A University of Iowa field archaeological school program or approved equivalent.
- An approved internship: internships typically involve work in cultural resource management firms, museums, and public health research or education projects; to receive research credit for an internship, students must make a final report to their faculty advisor, summarizing the work accomplished or presenting materials that document the nature of the work.

ALLIED TOPICAL FIELD (B.S.)
Bachelor of Science students complete a topical concentration in one of the following allied fields: biology, chemistry, computer science, earth and environmental sciences, economics, geographical and sustainability sciences, global health studies, health and human physiology, linguistics, mathematics, psychology, science education, sport studies, or statistics and actuarial science. Minors (or at least five courses) in other fields, chosen in consultation with the student’s advisor, also may be applied toward this requirement.

Optional Undergraduate Specializations and Track (B.A. and B.S.)
All students majoring in anthropology have the option of adding a particular focus to their study plan by completing a specialization. B.A. students may choose one of four optional specializations: gender and culture, cultural resource and heritage management, environmental anthropology, or medical anthropology. B.S. students may choose one of the four specializations or an optional track, anthropology for the health professions.

The optional specializations and track reflect broad issues bridging subfields in and outside of anthropology. Completion of a specialization area or the track indicates the acquisition of considerable expertise and is noted on the student’s transcript.

The optional specializations and track each require 15 s.h. (five courses). By selecting courses carefully, students majoring in anthropology can complete a specialization or the track without adding to the semester hours required for graduation.

GENDER AND CULTURE SPECIALIZATION (B.A. AND B.S.)
Anthropological research regarding gender and sexuality has grown dramatically in recent years, enhancing and drawing from other theoretical and methodological approaches in anthropology. This research contributes a cross-cultural perspective to discussion surrounding these fundamental aspects of human experience, both in academia and in public life.

The gender and culture specialization requires 15 s.h. (five courses) chosen from the following list. Each course provides an integrated overview of essential theoretical and topical issues in the field.

Five of these:
- ANTH:2101 (113:137) The Anthropology of Love 3 s.h.
- ANTH:2102 (113:108) Anthropology of Marriage and Family 3 s.h.
- ANTH:2108 (113:107) Gendering India 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3101 (113:112) Anthropology of Sexuality 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3118 (113:140) Politics of Reproduction 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3119 (113:154) Anthropology of Sexual Minorities 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3121 (113:127) Love and Kinship in South Asia 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3140 (113:141) Feminist Anthropology 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3141 (113:182) Women, Health, and Healing 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3300 (113:105) Mothers and Motherhood 3 s.h.
- ANTH:4140 (113:133) The Anthropology of Women's Health 3 s.h.

CULTURAL RESOURCE AND HERITAGE MANAGEMENT SPECIALIZATION (B.A. AND B.S.)
In North America and throughout much of the rest of the world, modern land use continually threatens evidence of past land use. Most archaeological excavations are conducted as cultural resource management (CRM), so it is essential that all researchers who work with archaeological data and individuals committed to site preservation have a basic understanding of CRM. Students who choose this emphasis learn about the field and about how to address related ethical issues as well as technical and theoretical challenges.

The cultural resource and heritage management emphasis requires 15 s.h. (five courses): a fundamental overview course, two area electives, a technical/practical elective, and a field school course. Students may use some of these courses to satisfy requirements for the major, such as the course in archaeology and the electives.

Overview—this course:

ANTH:3240 (113:170) Cultural Resources Management Archaeology: Practice and Practicalities 3 s.h.

Area electives—two of these (or one of these and one other Department of Anthropology area course):

ANTH:2165 (113:110) Native Peoples of North America 3 s.h.
ANTH:3257 (113:167) North American Archaeology 3 s.h.
ANTH:3258 (113:159) Southwestern Archaeology 3 s.h.
ANTH:3260 (113:179) Pleistocene Peopling of the Americas 3 s.h.

ENVIRONMENTAL ANTHROPOLOGY SPECIALIZATION (B.A. AND B.S.)

The interaction between humans and the environments they inhabit has long been a central issue in anthropology, and environmental degradation is a worldwide concern today. Pollution, loss of biodiversity, and global warming recognize no political boundaries, but attitudes and behaviors involving the natural environment vary widely from culture to culture. The understanding and incorporation of these varied perspectives are vital to the development and successful use of workable solutions.

The environmental anthropology specialization requires 15 s.h. (five courses): two theory courses, which deal primarily with human-environmental interactions; and three area or topical electives, which deal in part with environment, ecology, and subsistence technologies. The following are sample courses in each area (courses must be numbered 2000 or above).

Theory courses:

ANTH:2261 (113:113) Human Impacts on the Environment 3 s.h.
ANTH:3103 (113:143) Environment and Culture 3 s.h.
ANTH:3112 (113:114) Environmentalisms 3 s.h.
ANTH:4130 (113:139) Religion and Environmental Ethics 3 s.h.

Area or topical electives:

ANTH:2110 (113:131) Latin American Economy and Society 3 s.h.
ANTH:2175 (113:125) Japanese Society and Culture 3 s.h.
ANTH:2216 (113:157) Foodways and Cuisine in the Past 3 s.h.
ANTH:3205 (113:161) Prehistoric People of the Ice Age 3 s.h.
ANTH:3207 (113:158) Animal Bones in Archaeology 3 s.h.
ANTH:3238 (113:130) Archaeology of the Iberian Peninsula 3 s.h.
ANTH:3239 (113:150) Tribes and Chiefdoms of Ancient Europe 3 s.h.
ANTH:3265 (113:181) Archaeology of the Great Plains 3 s.h.

ANTH:3282 (113:126) Animals, Culture, and Food 3 s.h.
ANTH:3283 (113:187) Cultures in Collision 3 s.h.
ANTH:4205 (113:164) Rise of Ancient Civilization 3 s.h.
ANTH:4620 (113:189) Approaches to Geoarchaeology 3 s.h.
ANTH:6205 (113:178) Hunter-Gatherer Ethnoarchaeology 3 s.h.

MEDICAL ANTHROPOLOGY SPECIALIZATION (B.A. AND B.S.)

Human experiences of sickness and suffering are universal yet profoundly shaped by cultural and historical contexts. Medical anthropology explores cultural and biological diversity in sickness, health, and healing through approaches that include examining individual experiences of disrupted well-being, considering how biological and cultural factors interact to promote health or produce sickness, analyzing political-economic causes of health inequalities, and applying research to improve health research and services in an increasingly global world. Course work in medical anthropology helps students prepare for a range of health professions and social services careers and for work in diverse settings that increasingly include nongovernmental organizations devoted to improving health. The medical anthropology specialization requires 15 s.h. (five courses): one overview course and four electives that focus on particular topics.

Overview—this course:
ANTH:3102 (113:185) Medical Anthropology 3 s.h.

Electives—four of these:
ANTH:2181 (113:147) The Anthropology of Aging 3 s.h.
ANTH:2320 (213:090) Anthropological Perspectives on Human Infectious Disease: Origins and Evolution 3 s.h.
ANTH:3101 (113:112) Anthropology of Sexuality 3 s.h.
ANTH:3110 (113:121) Health of Indigenous Peoples 3 s.h.
ANTH:3111 (113:119) Health in Mexico 3 s.h.
ANTH:3118 (113:140) Politics of Reproduction 3 s.h.
ANTH:3141 (113:182) Women, Health, and Healing 3 s.h.
ANTH:3151 (113:151) The Anthropology of the Beginnings and Ends of Life 3 s.h.
ANTH:3152 (113:152) Anthropology of Caregiving and Health 3 s.h.
ANTH:3305 (213:190) Human Osteology 3 s.h.
ANTH:3308 (213:165) Human Variation 3 s.h.
ANTH:3325 (213:151) Human Evolutionary Genetics 3 s.h.

ANTHROPOLOGY FOR THE HEALTH PROFESSIONS TRACK (B.S.)
Health professionals are increasingly called upon to recognize how sociocultural and biological factors intersect to produce experiences of health, sickness, and healing. The anthropology for the health professions track is rooted in anthropology’s holistic approach to understanding the human condition. It provides a comprehensive education in the biological and social bases for human health. Students in the track develop understanding of cultural and biological variation in health and sickness. They also examine how and why particular therapeutic interventions may be more or less effective when translated into different cultural settings and disease ecologies.

The track enables students entering the health professions to distinguish themselves when they apply to graduate and professional programs. It also may help them prepare for the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT). Learn more by visiting Optional Undergraduate Specializations on the Department of Anthropology web site.

The anthropology for the health professions track requires 15 s.h. (five courses), including a required overview course and four additional track courses chosen from the list below. Most courses in the list fulfill the anthropology major’s common requirements for courses in archaeology or biological anthropology, in sociocultural or linguistic anthropology, and electives; and ANTH:3111 (113:119) Health in Mexico counts toward the major’s area studies requirement. By choosing courses carefully, students may complete the track without adding to the semester hours required for graduation.

Overview—this course:
ANTH:2164 (113:091) Culture and Healing for Future Health Professionals 3 s.h.

Four of these (12 s.h.):
ANTH:2181 (113:147) The Anthropology of Aging 3 s.h.
ANTH:2320 (213:090) Anthropological Perspectives on Human Infectious Disease: Origins and Evolution 3 s.h.
ANTH:3101 (113:112) Anthropology of Sexuality 3 s.h.
ANTH:3110 (113:121) Health of Indigenous Peoples 3 s.h.
ANTH:3111 (113:119) Health in Mexico 3 s.h.
ANTH:3118 (113:140) Politics of Reproduction 3 s.h.

B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure
Anthropology majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education’s Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Four-Year Graduation Plan
The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan.

Bachelor of Arts
Before the fifth semester begins: at least two courses in the major
Before the seventh semester begins: at least seven courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
Before the eighth semester begins: at least eight courses in the major
During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Bachelor of Science

Before the third semester begins: at least one anthropology course or other course in the major

Before the fifth semester begins: at least four anthropology courses or other courses in the major, one course in the topical field, and one course for the quantitative or formal reasoning tool requirement

Before the seventh semester begins: at least seven courses in the major, three courses in the topical field, the second quantitative or formal reasoning tool course, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least nine courses in the major, including the directed research requirement, and four courses in the topical field

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major (including the topical field), all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in anthropology have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must have a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in anthropology. To graduate with honors in the major, they must conduct an independent research project that culminates in a 30-50 page thesis. The project includes completion of 6 s.h. divided between ANTH:4995 (113:138) Honors Research Seminar (offered only in fall semesters) and ANTH:4996 (113:176) Honors Research, typically taken the next semester. Honors students also must take one of their anthropology courses at the graduate level.

Students working toward a B.S. may count their directed research project or laboratory practicum toward the requirements for graduation with honors, but fulfilling the research requirement for the B.S. does not by itself fulfill the honors research requirement. Students must work with their honors thesis advisor to structure their research so that it meets the added requirements of honors work.

Contact the department's director of undergraduate studies to learn more about honors in anthropology.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor

The minor in anthropology requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in anthropology courses, including 12 s.h. in University of Iowa Department of Anthropology courses numbered 2000 or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Courses for the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Students may create a focus for the minor by completing a specialization area; see "Optional Undergraduate Specializations and Track" above.

Certificate in Museum Studies

The Department of Anthropology administers the University’s Museum Studies Program, which offers an undergraduate certificate; see Museum Studies (p. 485) in the Catalog.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in anthropology
- Doctor of Philosophy in anthropology

Graduate study in anthropology is open to individuals with varied undergraduate majors and training backgrounds. Students normally are admitted directly to the Ph.D. program; once they complete requirements for the M.A., their committees recommend whether or not they should continue to work toward the Ph.D.

Graduate students become competent in the discipline's four major subfields: sociocultural anthropology, linguistic anthropology, archaeology, and biological anthropology. Ph.D. students develop professional specialization for independent research and teaching in one of the subfields and may elect to pursue a concentration in feminist anthropology or paleoanthropology. Students also may choose to earn a terminal M.A. with a focus on cultural resource management—archaeology (CRM), which prepares them for a professional career in that field.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in anthropology requires 30-36 s.h. of graduate credit, depending on the student's previous anthropological training. Students may count a maximum of 9 s.h. earned in courses outside anthropology toward the M.A. in anthropology. The degree normally is awarded to students after two years in the graduate program.

Master's degree students who choose to focus on cultural resource management—archaeology (CRM) normally do not go on to earn a Ph.D. in anthropology.

During the first semester of the M.A. program, students are advised by the director of graduate studies. By the end of the second semester, they must select an advisor and begin forming an M.A. committee. In consultation with the committee, the student develops a research project and writes an M.A. paper. The committee must approve the M.A. paper by the end of the fourth semester of study. The student also presents the paper publicly. As an alternative to the M.A. paper, students may choose to write a formal M.A. thesis, which must follow the Graduate College thesis guidelines. Students must submit a final copy of their M.A. thesis or paper to the department.

Master's degree students who intend to earn a doctorate should consider taking ANTH:5110 (113:210) Anthropological Data Analysis or another statistics course during their M.A. study.

GENERAL COURSE WORK

M.A. students must complete core seminars in at least three of four subfields (total of 9 s.h.). They choose core seminars from the following:

- ANTH:5101 (113:240) Seminar Sociocultural Anthropology 3 s.h.
- ANTH:5201 (113:268) Seminar: Archaeological Theory and Method 3 s.h.
ANTH:5301 (213:285) Seminar: Biological Anthropology 3 s.h.
ANTH:5401 (113:271) Seminar: Linguistic Anthropology 3 s.h.

ELECTIVES

In consultation with the advisor and committee members, each student selects additional course work to complete the remaining required hours for the M.A. Elective work may include courses in other disciplines, directed study, or up to 6 s.h. of M.A. thesis credit for students who choose the thesis option.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in anthropology requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. The Ph.D. balances the general anthropological competence obtained at the M.A. level with professional specialization and competence for independent research and teaching in one of four subfields: sociocultural anthropology, linguistic anthropology, archaeology, and biological anthropology.

Ph.D. students also may elect to pursue a concentration in feminist anthropology or paleoanthropology; see "Graduate Concentrations" below.

REQUIRED COURSE WORK

Students may count a maximum of 18 s.h. earned in non-anthropology courses toward the 72 s.h. required for the Ph.D., including the maximum of 9 s.h. that may be counted toward the master's degree. They may count a maximum of 9 s.h. of independent study courses beyond the master's degree toward the Ph.D.

All doctoral students are required to take ANTH:5110 (113:210) Anthropological Data Analysis or another statistics course within the first three years of graduate study, preferably during the M.A. program (first two years).

Students must take at least one theory course beyond the course they took to fulfill the master's degree requirements in their specialization subfield. This course should be chosen from one of the following lists.

Sociocultural Anthropology

ANTH:5101 (113:240) Seminar Sociocultural Anthropology 3 s.h.
ANTH:6107 (113:250) Seminar: Ritual and Performance 3 s.h.
ANTH:6117 (113:251) Seminar: Resistance in Theory and Practice 3 s.h.
ANTH:6410 (113:244) Seminar: Semiotics 3 s.h.

Most graduate seminars offered in the feminist anthropology concentration also may be used to fulfill this requirement (see "Feminist Anthropology Concentration" below).

Linguistic Anthropology

ANTH:5401 (113:271) Seminar: Linguistic Anthropology 3 s.h.
ANTH:6410 (113:244) Seminar: Semiotics 3 s.h.
ANTH:6415 (113:273) Seminar: Language, Gender, and Sexuality 3 s.h.

Archaeology

ANTH:3206 (113:174) Seminar: Taphonomy 3 s.h.
ANTH:4205 (113:164) Rise of Ancient Civilization 3 s.h.
ANTH:5201 (113:268) Seminar: Archaeological Theory and Method 3 s.h.
ANTH:6205 (113:178) Hunter-Gatherer Ethnoarchaeology 3 s.h.
ANTH:6230 (113:258) Seminar: Zooarchaeology 3 s.h.

Biological Anthropology

ANTH:3308 (213:165) Human Variation 3 s.h.
ANTH:3310 (213:188) Primate Behavior and Ecology 3 s.h.
ANTH:3322 (213:170) Primate Evolutionary Biology 3 s.h.
ANTH:3325 (213:151) Human Evolutionary Genetics 3 s.h.
ANTH:3330 (213:187) Human Evolution in Africa and Eurasia 3 s.h.
ANTH:4315 (213:169) Human Evolutionary Anatomy 3 s.h.
ANTH:5301 (213:285) Seminar: Biological Anthropology 3 s.h.
ANTH:6505 (213:288) Seminar: Paleoanthropology 3 s.h.

Ph.D. COMPREHENSIVE PROCESS

The comprehensive process consists of preparing and defending a research prospectus and writing comprehensive essays. According to individual needs and in consultation with his or her committee, each student selects the order of completing these two tasks. Successful completion of both tasks advances the student to Ph.D. candidacy.

To remain in good academic standing, students must complete the comprehensive process by the end of their third year in the program. Students who do not adhere to this timeline are placed on departmental probation.

Working closely with his or her committee, each student drafts a research prospectus for the program of dissertation research and defends that prospectus before the Ph.D. committee. The defense is open to students and faculty. A copy of the student's dissertation prospectus must be made available in the department office one week before the defense.

Each student must write two comprehensive essays, which must be of publishable quality. One essay must concern the student's geographical area of specialization; the other must deal with his or her primary topical area. In some fields (e.g., biological anthropology), a geographical area may not be relevant. The essays are responses to questions the committee prepares in consultation with the student.

Comprehensive essays should demonstrate analysis, evaluation, synthesis, and control of a body of information (knowledge and comprehension). They should critique a major problem or debate (application and analysis), and they should develop a position on an issue and provide an explanation or theoretical justification for the position (evaluation and synthesis).

Doctoral students who have completed the comprehensive examination process are encouraged to enroll in ANTH:7501 (113:382) Dissertation Writing Seminar to enhance timely progress on their dissertations.

DISSERTATION

All Ph.D. candidates are required to carry out original anthropological research. Students typically conduct dissertation research after defending their research prospectus and writing comprehensive essays. Dissertations usually are based on fieldwork. Some are based on data from archival collections, laboratory projects, collections, or other source materials.

Graduate Concentrations

In addition to their required course work in the four Ph.D. subfields, students may complete a concentration in feminist anthropology or paleoanthropology. Each concentration reflects broad issues bridging subfields in and outside of anthropology.

Completion of a concentration indicates substantial expertise. It is recognized as a department credential and may be added to a student's curriculum vitae.

FEMINIST ANTHROPOLOGY CONCENTRATION

The feminist anthropology concentration offers broad training in a growing specialization area that enhances and draws from other theoretical approaches in anthropology. Graduate students in anthropology and other disciplines may explore particular aspects of the field by taking feminist anthropology courses.

Course work in the concentration emphasizes feminist perspectives, theories, methods, and analytic techniques in anthropology. It improves students' academic job prospects in anthropology and other fields, especially women's studies and gender studies. It also helps students prepare for careers in applied or public anthropology.

Feminist anthropology students take 15 s.h. of course work in the concentration in addition to their regular core requirements. The 15 s.h. should be divided between graduate seminars and elective courses as noted below.

Concentration courses may fulfill requirements for graduate electives in anthropology.

The following list of approved courses is subject to change; contact the Department of Anthropology for updates. Students may petition to count other courses in anthropology or other disciplines toward the concentration, if the courses or the students' work in them includes significant relevant content. Petitions are reviewed by the feminist anthropology faculty.

Graduate Seminars

Students complete at least two of these (minimum of 6 s.h.) and may count additional graduate seminar courses as elective credit.

PALEOANTHROPOLOGY CONCENTRATION

The paleoanthropology concentration offers broad training that combines archaeology and biological anthropology, two traditional subfields of anthropology important in understanding the biocultural factors that have been critical in human evolution. The concentration combines course work in both biological and archaeological anthropology, complementing the specialized training that students from either subfield receive in their own specialization. Paleoanthropology courses emphasize integration of biological and cultural factors in the evolution of hominid species up to and including modern humans. They encompass primate and human evolutionary anatomy, technology and subsistence in Paleolithic archaeology, and modern human hunter-gatherers.

Paleoanthropology students take 15 s.h. of course work in the concentration in addition to their regular core requirements. The 15 s.h. should be divided between graduate seminars and elective courses as noted below.

Students may choose core seminars to fulfill requirements for both the M.A. general course work and the paleoanthropology concentration.

The following list of approved courses is subject to change; contact the Department of Anthropology for updates. Students may petition to count other courses in anthropology or other disciplines toward the concentration, if the courses or the students’ work in them includes significant relevant content. Petitions are reviewed by the paleoanthropology faculty.

Eligibility for financial aid is reduced after two years in the Ph.D. program or after one year of postdoctoral field work or research enrollment. The amount and types of aid depend on departmental needs. Students are notified in writing of a provisional financial award before the semester or summer session for which the award has been granted. Although awards are made before the end of the previous semester, each award is contingent upon satisfactory completion of that semester's work by the awardee.

Archaeological Field Research

Under the direction of University archaeologists, students acquire skills in data recovery and interpretive techniques. Opportunities are available for students to participate in archaeological field research in France, the Netherlands, Portugal, Sicily, the U.S. Southwest, or at various sites in the U.S. Midwest. Occasional fieldwork in East and Southeast Asia is available to graduate students in the paleoanthropology research program.

Resources, Facilities

The department has access to the Iowa Archaeological Collections through the Office of the State Archaeologist and maintains its own archaeological collections (midwestern prehistoric and historical and comparative faunal material).

The department maintains a documented human osteology teaching collection amassed by the University of Iowa Carver College of Medicine and the Department of Anatomy and Cell Biology, and it holds a substantial documented human osteology research collection originally from Stanford University's medical school that is maintained jointly with the Office of the State Archaeologist.

Individual faculty members maintain field laboratories and conduct research outside the United States, maintaining ties with research institutions in foreign countries, including the Laboratoire d’Ethnologie Préhistorique at Pincevent, France; the Centre de Recherches Archéologiques at Verberie, France; the National Museum of Ethnology, Japan; the Institute of Technology Bandung (ITB), Indonesia; the Gemeente Nijmegen, Bureau Archeologie, Nijmegen, the Netherlands; and the Deutsches Archäologisches Institut of Madrid, Spain.

The department also has well-equipped laboratories for the study of archaeology, biological anthropology, a state-of-the-art multimedia linguistic anthropology laboratory, and a GIS/quantitative analysis laboratory.

The University is a charter member of the Human Relations Area Files (HRAF), an extensively annotated set of source materials on the peoples of the world—their environments, behavioral patterns, social lives, and cultures. Through HRAF and other library resources, anthropology students have access to source materials on more than 400 different cultures.

The University's exchange programs for Iowa students provide opportunities and some scholarships for study abroad.

Admission

Applicants for admission to the graduate program in anthropology are considered regardless of their undergraduate major or previous field of training. Students without previous training in anthropology may be expected to perform additional work necessary to achieve competence expected for their degree objective.

Students normally are admitted directly to the Ph.D. program. Students without an M.A. in anthropology devote the first two years of the Ph.D. program to fulfilling the M.A. requirements. After those requirements are completed, the student's committee recommends to the faculty whether the student should continue to work toward the Ph.D.

Students with an M.A. in anthropology from another institution may proceed directly into a Ph.D. program organized around their special research interests.

Applicants for admission to the graduate program must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate College section of the Catalog.

Applicants must submit the following:

- a completed University application form;
- transcripts of all previous undergraduate and graduate work;
- three letters of recommendation from individuals competent to judge the applicant's potential for graduate training;
- Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores;
- at least one written example of previous work (for example, a term paper).

Applicants whose first or official language is not English and whose previous academic degrees were not earned at an English-language institution must submit scores on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or the International English Language Testing System (IELTS).

Applicants with an M.A. from another university must submit a copy of their master's thesis; applicants who earned an M.A. without thesis or whose thesis is not yet complete should submit written copies of three papers completed in graduate school.

Financial Support

Financial assistance, usually in the form of teaching and research assistantships, may be offered to doctoral and potential doctoral students in good standing for up to four years. Students making satisfactory and timely progress through the graduate program are in good standing. Eligibility for financial aid is reduced after two years in the M.A. program, after two years in the Ph.D. program, or after one year of postdoctoral fieldwork or research enrollment. The amount and types of aid depend on departmental needs.
Faculty

Members of the anthropology faculty have studied and lived in Africa, Asia, the Caribbean, Europe, Mexico and Central America, Pacific Islands, South America, and the United States. Recent field research has been conducted in Belgium, Brazil, Cameroon, China, Czech Republic, Ecuador, Fiji, France, Greece, Honduras, India, Indonesia, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Myanmar (formerly Burma), Namibia, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Peru, Philippines, Portugal, Russia, the Gambia, the United States, and Vietnam.

Current faculty interests include patterns of political and economic development of emerging nations; the trade in Mexican folk art, material culture, human rights; indigenous movements; visual culture and indigenous media; gender and the cultural politics surrounding sobriety in native North America; lesbian and gay families in the United States; the cultural production of scientific knowledge about racial/ethnic infant mortality disparities in U.S. public health; power, memory, and social inequality in ancient Iberia; language and gender; expressive culture and performance in the Brazilian Amazon; language and social justice; colonial linguistics, cultural politics of language, religion, and ethnicity; spiritual tourism in India; community and conflict, ritualization, localized religion, and environmentalism in Japan; ethnic minorities in Japan; diasporas, love, and romantic relations, culture, and totalitarianism in North Korea; ethnic minorities in Japan; diasporas, love, and romantic relations, culture, and totalitarianism in North Korea; geology and paleoanthropological investigations of Pleistocene karst caves in China and northern Vietnam; geological and paleoanthropological field surveys of the Plio-Pleistocene Sangiran Dome, in Java; Neanderthal craniofacial form, function, and evolutionary history; anatomical modernity and the origins of modern humans; historical archaeology of Iowa; primate evolutionary history; faunal and spatial analyses from Paleolithic sites in France, middle Stone Age adaptations in Namibia; regional interaction and migration in late-prehistoric North America; peopling of the Americas; human impacts on the environment in North America.

Courses

General Anthropology, Lower-Level Undergraduate

ANTH:1000 (113:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g. films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

ANTH:1001 (113:050) Issues in Anthropology 3 s.h.
In-depth exploration of methodological and theoretical issues in contemporary anthropology; emphasis on critical reading of primary texts.

ANTH:1003 (113:062) Anthropology of Violence 3 s.h.
Sources and manifestations of violence; violence in varied contexts—war, genocide, colonialism, state violence, terrorism, domestic violence; anthropological perspective considering structural, economic, and symbolic violence.

ANTH:1005 (113:064) The Evolution of Human Sex 3 s.h.
How evolution has shaped our sexual behavior; patterns of mate choice, parental behavior, social organization, cooperation, and conflict as responses to selection pressure; sexual selection, reproductive strategies, mate choice, sex roles and practices.

ANTH:1006 (113:065) Anthropology, Science Fiction, and Fantasy 3 s.h.
Connections between anthropology and science fiction and fantasy; science fiction and fantasy films and literature surveyed and examined in light of scholarly essays on anthropological concepts such as human evolution, race, gender, the anthropological other.

ANTH:1007 (113:066) The Anthropology of Virtual Worlds 3 s.h.
How virtual reality intertwines with social existence; anthropological exploration of virtual worlds, from checking e-mail to setting up bar crawls on Facebook; forms of virtual identity, how virtual life affects language.

ANTH:1008 (113:067) Anthropology of Immigration 3 s.h.
Anthropological study of movements of people, goods, ideas around the world, drawing upon recent theory and ethnographic examples; topics include citizenship, family/paternating, gender, labor, economy, religion.

ANTH:1009 (113:068) Anthropology of Childhood: The Production of Human Beings in the Contemporary World 3 s.h.
Examination of biological, social, historic, economic, and political aspects of childhood in the contemporary world from an anthropological perspective. Requirements: introductory anthropology course.

ANTH:1040 (113:045) Language Rights 3 s.h.

ANTH:1046 (113:046) People and the Environment: Technology, Culture, and Social Justice 3 s.h.
How resources, commodities, people, and ideas cross borders; examination of globalization through issues of technology, social justice, environment; perspectives from anthropology, gender studies, geography, energy science, and development. GE: International and Global Issues. Same as GWSS:1046 (131:046), GEOG:1046 (044:046).

ANTH:1061 (113:041) Origins of Life in the Universe (Part 2) 4 s.h.
Fundamental questions (How old is the universe? What is the nature of life? How has life evolved on Earth? What are our human origins? Are there other habitable planets in the universe?) that revolve around understanding origins from different perspectives (i.e., astronomy, physics, geoscience, biology, chemistry, anthropology); work with faculty from several departments to investigate these questions; inquiry-based activities to build success in critical thinking, teamwork, and effective written and oral communication; second of a two-part sequence. Prerequisites: ASTR:1060 (029:040) or BIOL:1060 (002:050) or EES:1060 (012:045). Recommendations: first-year or sophomore standing. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab. Same as ASTR:1061 (029:041), BIOL:1061 (002:051), EES:1061 (012:046).

ANTH:1101 (113:003) Cultural Anthropology 3 s.h.
Comparative study of culture, social organization. GE: Social Sciences; Values, Society, and Diversity. Same as IS:1101 (187:008).

ANTH:1201 (113:012) Introduction to Prehistory 3 s.h.
Data, theories of evolution of human cultures from end of Pleistocene to emergence of complex societies; emphasis on prehistoric cultural information from world areas from which relatively complete sequences are available. GE: Historical Perspectives.

ANTH:1301 (113:013) Human Origins 3 s.h.
Processes, products of human evolution from perspectives of heredity and genetics, evolutionary theory, human biological characteristics, fossil record, artifactual evidence, biocultural behaviors. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

ANTH:1305 (113:060) Forensic Anthropology and CSI 3 s.h.
Role and range of techniques used in forensic anthropology; how analysis of skeletal and nonskeletal remains is used in crime scene investigation; case studies.

ANTH:1310 (113:081) Human Genetics in the Twenty-First Century 3 s.h.
Analysis of human genes and genomes; genetic basis of simple and complex traits; genetic aspects of cancer; paleogenomics and tracing human migrations with DNA. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab. Same as BIOL:1311 (002:081).

ANTH:1401 (113:014) Language, Culture, and Communication 3 s.h.
Human language in context of animal communication; development, acquisition of language; biological base; language as a linguistic system in cultural social context. GE: Social Sciences.

ANTH:2009 (113:075) Individual Study 1-3 s.h.
Readings in area or subdivision of anthropology in which student has had basic course work.

ANTH:2100 (113:010) Anthropology and Contemporary World Problems 3 s.h.
Selected world problems from an anthropological perspective; current dilemmas and those faced by diverse human groups in recent times and distant past. GE: International and Global Issues; Social Sciences.

ANTH:2164 (113:091) Culture and Healing for Future Health Professionals 3 s.h.
Health professions increasingly focused on how to best provide health care to culturally diverse populations; introduction to key cultural and social influences on sickness and healing; worldwide examples. Same as GHS:2164 (152:091).

ANTH:2320 (113:090) Anthropological Perspectives on Human Infectious Disease: Origins and Evolution 3 s.h.
Origin and evolution of important infectious diseases in human history; biological evolution of infectious agents and biocultural responses to emerging infectious diseases; primary focus on viruses and bacteria; selected world problems from an anthropological perspective; current dilemmas and those faced by diverse human groups in recent times and distant past. Same as GHS:2320 (152:090).

General Anthropology, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ANTH:3001 (113:103) Introduction to Museum Studies 3 s.h.
Overview of museum history, function, philosophy, collection, and curatorial practices; governance and funding issues; exhibition evaluation and audience studies; examples from Museum of Art, Museum of Natural History, Old Capitol Museum, and Medical Museum. GE: Social Sciences. Same as EDTL:3001 (07S:112), SIED:3001 (097:115), MUSM:3001 (024:102).

ANTH:3005 (113:148) Special Topics in Anthropology 2-3 s.h.
Problems, concepts involved in comparing and contrasting behavior and ideas of different cultures.

ANTH:3010 (113:149) Special Topics in Anthropology 2-3 s.h.
Problems, concepts involved in comparing and contrasting behavior and ideas of different cultures.

ANTH:3123 (113:120) Economic Anthropology 3 s.h.
Overview of classic and contemporary research in subfield of economic anthropology; historical approach to key debates in economic anthropology; contemporary ethnographic examples. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003).

ANTH:3221 (113:190) Beyond the Map: Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (GIS) in Anthropology 3 s.h.
Software environment for managing, visualizing, and analyzing spatial relationships in anthropology; mapmaking tool; spatial organization of material culture.
General Anthropology, Graduate

ANTH:5001 (113:235) Graduate Teaching Proseminar
Graduate student teaching skills: developing course guidelines, leading discussion, grading, review sessions, dealing with problem students and complaints; development of syllabi and teaching portfolios; mentoring of less-experienced teaching assistants.

ANTH:5005 (113:236) Responsible Conduct of Research in Anthropology
Up-to-date documents in all subfields of anthropology regarding ethical research; CITI certification (which also qualifies as part of IRB application); key debates and current problems faced by anthropology in area of ethical and responsible research.

ANTH:5110 (113:210) Anthropological Data Analysis
Quantitative procedures for analyzing field data, library materials; elementary statistics, introduction to computers.

ANTH:7109 (113:209) Research Design and Proposal Writing
Anthropological research design; preparation of proposals for fieldwork or laboratory analysis.

ANTH:7501 (113:382) Dissertation Writing Seminar
Organization of dissertation, setting and meeting deadlines, writing a chapter, and workshop drafts; seminar group work and consultation with advisors; completion and revision of at least one dissertation chapter; for anthropology graduate students who are beginning, or about to begin, their dissertation writing process. Requirements: anthropology graduate student who passed comprehensive exams (prospectus and essays).

Area Studies, Lower-Level Undergraduate

ANTH:2108 (113:107) Gendering India
Aspects of Indian culture, including nation, family, sexuality, work, and religion, through the lens of gender; Hindu India, differences in region, caste, and class. Same as GWSS:2108 (131:107).

ANTH:2110 (113:131) Latin American Economy and Society
Development, present structure of Latin American economy and society; emphasis on rural regions in context of national development; focus on area as a whole. GE: International and Global Issues.

ANTH:2165 (113:110) Native Peoples of North America

ANTH:2175 (113:125) Japanese Society and Culture
Cultural anthropology of Japan, including historical tradition, religious ethos, social organization, human ecology, educational and political institutions; emphasis on how these aspects relate to and influence one another. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity. Same as JPN:2175 (39J:125).

ANTH:2182 (113:092) African Peoples and Cultures
How African people have navigated a changing world in their everyday lives, from slave trade in West Africa to HIV/AIDS epidemic in Southern Africa; focus on precolonial, colonial, and postcolonial Africa with emphasis on how particular groups of people have adapted to changing social, political, and economic influences; historical overview of recent and current peoples and cultures in Africa.

ANTH:2183 (113:093) Asia and Globalization: Anthropological Approach
Asia as a melting pot of diverse cultures, where flow of goods, ideas, and humans is very intense; ethnographic studies on diverse cultures in Asia.

Area Studies, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ANTH:3108 (113:118) North Korea and Totalitarianism
North Korea viewed as a human society, rather than a global security threat, through examination of the nation's culture and politics.

ANTH:3111 (113:119) Health in Mexico
Use of anthropological perspectives to examine disease, healing systems, and ideas about health and the body in Mexico and its diaspora; relationships between structural conditions and historical and political transformations; ideas about gender and race; chronic and acute disease in Mexico; conquest and disease; racialized bodies; sexual health; biomedicine; shamanism; immigration and health; pollution and narcoviolence; readings in English. Same as GHS:3040 (152:119).

ANTH:3121 (113:127) Love and Kinship in South Asia
Anthropological understandings of love in India and the region of South Asia more broadly; emphasis on contemporary society; filial and motherly love, arranged marriage and romantic love, devotional and artistic expressions, love between siblings. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:2100 (113:010) or GWSS:1001 (131:010) or GWSS:1002 (131:055). Same as GWSS:3121 (131:127).

ANTH:3142 (113:128) American Cultures
How anthropology has understood the diversity of non-indigenous cultures in the United States; history of anthropological engagement with the United States; racial/ethnic formations, immigration, class variations, health, sexuality, and gender. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003).

ANTH:4700 (113:132) Latin American Studies Seminar

Sociocultural Anthropology, Lower-Level Undergraduate

ANTH:2101 (113:137) The Anthropology of Love 3 s.h.
The culturally diverse concept and practice of love as seen through cross-cultural and interdisciplinary texts on romantic and other forms of love.

ANTH:2102 (113:108) Anthropology of Marriage and Family 3 s.h.
Classic anthropological theories of kinship and marriage, including topics such as cousin marriage and incest; recent work on new reproductive technologies and transnational marriage. Same as GWSS:2102 (131:108).

ANTH:2136 (113:116) Urban Anthropology 3 s.h.
Cross-cultural approach to urban anthropology; urbanizing processes, migration and adaptation, aspects of class and ethnicity in urban settings, urban economic relations. GE: International and Global Issues; Social Sciences.

ANTH:2150 (113:115) Transnational Feminism 3 s.h.
Introduction to feminist perspectives from U.S. and non-U.S. contexts; how geopolitics shapes understanding of familiar feminist issues (e.g., reproduction, cultural practices, sexualities, poverty); emphasis on global south regions. Same as GWSS:2150 (131:149).

ANTH:2181 (113:147) The Anthropology of Aging 3 s.h.
Comparative anthropological perspective on aging; ethnographies from diverse contexts used to examine intersections of kinship, religion, health, and medicine in later life. Same as ASP:2181 (153:181), GHS:2181 (152:147).

ANTH:2184 (113:094) Chinese Science and Medicine 3 s.h.
Introduction to human impact of Chinese science and medicine; sociocultural approach to examine sociocultural and political contexts within which various forms of science/medicine were practiced and understood across Chinese history.

ANTH:2185 (113:095) Introduction to Contemporary China 3 s.h.
Introduction to complexity and diversity of contemporary China and its ongoing transformations; exploration of what has been written about China, how Chinese culture has been written by scholars.

Sociocultural Anthropology, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ANTH:3101 (113:112) Anthropology of Sexuality 3 s.h.
Practice, definition, and regulation of sex in different cultures and times; use of anthropological tools, including cross-cultural comparison and social constructionist analysis; how social and historical forces shape sex; how a range of topics relate to sexuality, including science, love, work, globalization, ethnicity, health, aging, pornography, and deviance; focus on ways that dynamics (i.e., class, race, gender norms) shape people's culturally- and historically-specific ways of having and thinking about sex. Same as GWSS:3101 (131:112).

ANTH:3102 (113:185) Medical Anthropology 3 s.h.
Major theoretical, methodological approaches; international health and development; biomedicine as a cultural system; ethnomedicine; anthropology and AIDS, human reproduction, epidemiology, ethnopsychiatry. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:2100 (113:010). Same as GHS:3102 (152:185), CBH:5125 (172:173).

ANTH:3103 (113:143) Environment and Culture 3 s.h.
Individual and group responses to scarcities of natural resources such as land, water, food. Requirements: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:2100 (113:010) or graduate standing.

ANTH:3107 (113:109) Literature and Anthropology 3 s.h.
Topics vary. Same as ENGL:3107 (008:151), CL:3107 (218:151).

ANTH:3109 (113:135) Psychological Anthropology 3 s.h.
Cultural diversity in constructions of self, mind, and emotion; religious experience, altered states of consciousness, behavioral disorders. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003).

ANTH:3110 (113:121) Health of Indigenous Peoples 3 s.h.
Health problems and services for indigenous populations worldwide, from perspective of Fourth World postcolonial politics. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003). Same as AINS:3110 (149:121), GHS:3110 (152:121).

ANTH:3112 (113:114) Environmentalisms 3 s.h.
Alternative ways of conceptualizing the environment drawn from the ethnographic record worldwide; culturally constructed images of nature and their expression through daily activity and communicative media; inspiration for environmental activism; why such movements emerge, techniques they employ, factors that contribute to their success or failure. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003).

ANTH:3113 (113:145) Religion and Healing 3 s.h.

ANTH:3114 (113:142) Anthropology of Religion 3 s.h.
Anthropological perspectives on race: history of race in anthropology; social, cultural, and political dimensions of race; intersections with gender; biology of human diversity. Recommendations: introductory course in social sciences.

ANTH:3135 (113:155) Key Debates in Sociocultural Anthropology

Historical overview of sociocultural anthropological theories, exploration of key moments of critical reflections, and e-assessment of discipline; highly recommended for anthropology majors with sociocultural emphasis. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:2100 (113:010). Recommendations: anthropology major.

ANTH:3140 (113:141) Feminist Anthropology

Development and evolution of feminist critiques in cultural anthropology; readings from early studies by women ethnographers, classic writings that sought to give women cross-cultural visibility, recent experimental texts. Same as GWSS:3140 (131:141).

ANTH:3141 (113:182) Women, Health, and Healing

Women's experience as recipients and providers of health care; intersection of race, class, cultural variation, and women's health; reproductive and nonreproductive health concerns. Same as GWSS:3141 (131:143).

ANTH:3150 (113:123) Asian Diasporas in North America

Examination of dynamics behind group identity and diverse expressions group identity (namely ethnicity); comparing and contrasting varied experiences of Asian diasporas in North America.

ANTH:3151 (113:151) The Anthropology of the Beginnings and Ends of Life

Examination of diverse understandings of birth and death, drawing on anthropological analysis of personhood, kinship, ritual, and medicine; how social inequality and new technologies shape human experience at life's margins. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:1201 (113:012) or graduate standing.

ANTH:3152 (113:152) Anthropology of Caregiving and Health

Diverse understandings and practices of care around the world; focus on relationships between caregiving practices and health across the life course. Same as ASP:3152 (153:152), GHS:3151 (152:156).

ANTH:3300 (113:105) Mothers and Motherhood

Treatment of motherhood; role of motherhood and devaluation of social status. Same as GWSS:3300 (131:142).

ANTH:4130 (113:139) Religion and Environmental Ethics

How humans conceptualize the biophysical environment through religious beliefs and practices; how images of the environment influence people’s activities, how they are used by grassroots environmental movements. Requirements: junior or senior standing. Same as RELS:4730 (032:130).

ANTH:4140 (113:133) The Anthropology of Women’s Health
3 s.h.
How female gender intersects with culture, environment, and political economy to shape health and illness; reproductive health, violence, drug use, cancer; readings in anthropology, public health. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003). Same as CBH:5140 (172:133), GWSS:4140 (131:133).

Sociocultural Anthropology, Graduate

ANTH:5101 (113:240) Seminar Sociocultural Anthropology
3 s.h.
Social institutions in the world’s societies; problems in theory, method, interpretation. Requirements: graduate standing or undergraduate anthropology honors standing.

ANTH:5120 (113:222) Reading Transnational Feminist Theory
3 s.h.
Issues in transnational feminist scholarship, including colonialism, globalization, the nation-state, religion, cultural traditions, and human rights, in global and U.S. domestic contexts; interdisciplinary readings with focus on anthropology, other social sciences. Same as GWSS:5120 (131:222).

ANTH:5130 (113:242) Food, Culture, and Social Theory
3 s.h.
Comparative and ethnographic approach to study of food and eating; intersections between social roles and meanings of food, political economies of food, and impact of food on bodies and well-being.

ANTH:6107 (113:250) Seminar: Ritual and Performance
3 s.h.
Approaches to comparative study of ritual in religious and secular contexts.

ANTH:6115 (113:202) Ethnographic Field Methods
3 s.h.
Basic data-gathering techniques for field research in sociocultural anthropology. Same as CBH:6115 (172:202).

ANTH:6117 (113:251) Seminar: Resistance in Theory and Practice
3 s.h.
Various forms of political resistance, some bold and dramatic (peasant rebellions), others more subtle and mundane (dissimulation, false compliance, pilfering); some resistance is symbolic (millenarian movements, rituals of conflict, status reversal); learning to recognize and attend to more subtle forms.

ANTH:6125 (113:221) Seminar: Feminist Ethnography
3 s.h.
Feminist critiques of traditional ethnographies; informed by contemporary feminisms. Same as GWSS:6125 (131:245).

ANTH:6141 (113:274) Medical Anthropology and Social Theory
3 s.h.
How medical anthropology has both responded and contributed to key theoretical developments in recent decades, such as discourse/narrative analysis, practice theory, feminist theory, postcolonial theory, science and technology studies.

ANTH:6310 (113:290) Anthropology of Science, Technology, and Gender
3 s.h.
Science and technology done in particular social and structural contexts; theoretical approaches for understanding cultures of science and social uses of technology; focus on gender-related aspects of real world cases. Recommendations: graduate standing in any discipline with interest in understanding cultural context of scientific practice. Same as GWSS:6310 (131:290).

ANTH:6632 (113:248) Crossing Borders Proseminar
arr.

ANTH:6635 (113:247) Crossing Borders Seminar
2-3 s.h.

Archaeology, Lower-Level Undergraduate

ANTH:2205 (113:168) Archaeological Methods
3 s.h.
Current theoretical approaches, methods used to investigate the past; site formation processes, taphonomy, sampling and research design, typology and seriation, subsistence-settlement reconstruction, cultural evolution. Prerequisites: ANTH:1201 (113:012).

ANTH:2216 (113:157) Foodways and Cuisine in the Past
3 s.h.
Anthropological and archaeological perspective on cuisine; present-day links between food and culture; past cuisines viewed through written documents and archaeological data; histories of different foods.

ANTH:2220 (113:163) Archaeology of Mesoamerica
3 s.h.
Archaeological data related to the evolution of civilization in Mesoamerica; sequence from hunter-gatherers to A.D. 1519; emphasis on Central Mexico, Maya area, Oaxaca.

ANTH:2261 (113:113) Human Impacts on the Environment
3 s.h.
Long-term patterns of human-environment interactions surveyed through archaeological case studies; varied scales of human impacts, including animal extinction, habitat destruction, agricultural practices, urban growth, state-level societies. GE: International and Global Issues; Social Sciences.
ANTH:2290 (113:162) Practicum in Archaeology

Intensive, hands-on examination of a wide range of materials recently recovered from archaeological sites; pottery, lithics (stone tools and related items), plant remains, animal bones; for students with strong archaeological interests or archaeological field experience.

ANTH:3205 (113:161) Prehistoric People of the Ice Age

Hominid occupation of Old World during Pleistocene; hominin fossils, artifacts, settlement patterns, climatic reconstruction, evolutionary processes; survey and evaluation. Prerequisites: ANTH:1201 (113:012) and ANTH:2205 (113:168).

ANTH:3206 (113:174) Seminar: Taphonomy

Taphonomy (study of fossil record in paleontology and archaeology); processes for accumulation, modification, and deposition of remains in prehistory; instruction by archaeologist and paleontologist. Requirements: graduate standing. Same as EES:3206 (012:174).

ANTH:3207 (113:158) Animal Bones in Archaeology

Use of faunal material in interpretation of archaeological remains, including skeletal anatomy, identification, taphonomy, determination of age and sex, seasonality, quantification, sampling, breakage and cutmarks, interpretations; laboratory sessions. Prerequisites: ANTH:1201 (113:012).

ANTH:3235 (113:197) The Stuff of Lives: Archaeology of the Material World

Ways that archaeologists and anthropologists have approached their studies of the material world and the relationship between material culture and economics, social structure, and symbolism. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:1201 (113:012).

ANTH:3237 (113:124) Politics of the Archaeological Past

How control over management of material remains of the ancient past, and representations of that past, intersect with the identity of diverse groups, including archaeologists, indigenous peoples, national governments, collectors, ethnic minorities and majorities, museum curators; struggles for control of the archaeological past at different scales (artifacts, skeletal remains, sites, imagery, narratives) and in different regions of the world. Same as MUSM:3237 (024:124).

ANTH:3238 (113:130) Archaeology of the Iberian Peninsula

Introduction to archaeology of the Iberian Peninsula, from earliest human occupation through period of Romanization.

ANTH:3239 (113:150) Tribes and Chiefdoms of Ancient Europe

Archaeology of European societies between the Mesolithic and Iron Age; how ideas about Europe's prehistoric past have been used for political purposes. Requirements: ANTH:1201 (113:012) or graduate standing.

ANTH:3240 (113:170) Cultural Resources Management Archaeology: Practice and Practicalities

Cultural Resources Management (CRM) archaeology as the largest sector of archaeological research in the United States in terms of employment, funding, and field- and lab-related activity; investigate the past, navigate the complexities of compliance requirements from federal, state, and local regulations concerning historic preservation; introduction to the legal, procedural, and practical foundations of CRM archaeology; prepare students for employment by acquisition of skills from project planning through dissemination of results. Prerequisites: ANTH:1201 (113:012). Recommendations: completion of other anthropology, geography, history, or Native American studies courses.

ANTH:3241 (113:169) Lithic Analysis in Archaeology

Archaeological issues examined and addressed with lithic data; use of lithic data to study the past, specific techniques applied. Requirements: ANTH:1201 (113:012) or graduate standing.

ANTH:3242 (113:188) Archaeology of the Middle East—Prehistory and Early History

Overview of prehistoric and early historic archaeology of the Middle East; questions that underpin archaeological narrative for the region from its initial peopling through city-states and imperial formations. Recommendations: introduction to archaeology.

ANTH:3243 (113:195) Midwestern Archaeology

Comparison of cultural adaptations utilizing regional archaeological data to develop an understanding of Midwestern lifeways through time; how prehistoric peoples relate to their modern descendants in the Midwest. Recommendations: introduction to prehistory.

ANTH:3255 (113:160) Introduction to Archaeological Ceramics

Basic analytical techniques for archaeological ceramics, applied primarily to ceramics from midwestern and western North America; raw materials, manufacture, decoration and style, craft specialization, use, and discard. Prerequisites: ANTH:1201 (113:012).

ANTH:3256 (113:173) Household Archaeology and Anthropology

Structure and activities of households today and in the past; what households tell us about the larger culture; how intangible aspects of households are studied through material remains. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:1201 (113:012) or ANTH:1301 (113:013) or ANTH:1401 (113:014) or ANTH:2100 (113:010).

ANTH:3257 (113:167) North American Archaeology
Prehistoric cultural development north of Mexico from initial occupation to European contact and conquest; emphasis on dynamics of culture change. Same as AINS:3257 (149:167).

ANTH:3258 (113:159) Southwestern Archaeology
Anthropological overview of prehistoric cultures of the American Southwest; emphasis on understanding archaeological arguments concerning major processes in the past. Same as AINS:3258 (149:159).

ANTH:3260 (113:179) Pleistocene Peopling of the Americas
Major themes in earliest human settlement of the Americas, including human mobility, subsistence, technology, human impacts on the environment.

Intricate connections between dogs and our social, economic, political, and spiritual lives; human relationships with dogs that extend back at least 16,000 years; process of dog domestication; roles dogs play in human ideology and past economies; modern interactions with dogs.

ANTH:3265 (113:181) Archaeology of the Great Plains
Contrasting lifeways, diets, and technologies that humans used to survive on North America’s Great Plains, from Ice Age hunter-gatherers to Euroamerican homesteaders.

ANTH:3275 (113:196) The Archaeology of Ancient Egypt
Introduction to the archaeology of ancient Egypt from predynastic times to Roman Egypt, including monumental architecture; patterns of everyday life; social, economic, and demographic considerations; history of archaeology in Egypt. Same as CLSA:3596 (20E:196).

ANTH:3276 (113:192) Greek Archaeology and Ethnohistory
Archaeology and ethnohistory of the Greek world, from end of Bronze Age to late Roman Empire; sociocultural processes that influence development and persistence of Greek civilization. Same as CLSA:3235 (20E:118).

ANTH:3277 (113:194) Roman Archaeology
Archaeology and ethnohistory of Roman civilization from Iron Age eighth-century occupation of the Palatine Hill to the end of the Roman empire in the West, A.D. 476. Prerequisites: ANTH:1201 (113:012) or ANTH:1301 (113:013). Same as CLSA:3240 (20E:119).

ANTH:3282 (113:126) Animals, Culture, and Food
The varied roles animals have played in human society through time; impact of humans on animal populations, ethical aspects of animals’ roles in modern societies.

ANTH:3283 (113:187) Cultures in Collision
Survey of archaeological evidence for differences in human interactions between two or more cultural groups; issues such as ethnicity, war, economy, repression, multiethnic communities.

ANTH:3290 (113:193) Special Topics in Archaeology

ANTH:3295 (113:199) Field Research in Archaeology
Beginning skills in site surveying and excavation, lab work, record keeping at nearby prehistoric sites.

ANTH:4205 (113:164) Rise of Ancient Civilization
Cultural evolution in Old World, New World; emphasis on developments from pre-agricultural societies to appearance of urban civilizations; focus on Mesoamerica, Central Andes, Near East, Egypt, Indus Valley, China.

ANTH:4620 (113:189) Approaches to Geoarchaeology
Geoarchaeology as multidisciplinary contextual framework for human paleoecology; natural processes that create the archaeological record, approaches to reconstructing landscapes of the past as a context for archaeological deposits; weekend field trip. Prerequisites: EES:3360 (012:136) or EES:4720 (012:172) or ANTH:3205 (113:161) or ANTH:4205 (113:164). Same as EES:4620 (012:185).

Archaeology, Graduate

ANTH:5201 (113:268) Seminar: Archaeological Theory and Method
Development, current status of theory, method in Americanist archaeology. Requirements: graduate standing or undergraduate anthropology honors standing.

ANTH:6205 (113:178) Hunter-Gatherer Ethnoarchaeology
Variability in adaptations of hunter-gatherers on a global scale; emphasis on subsistence, mobility, social organization; archaeological record of prehistoric hunter-gatherers interpreted through study of modern societies. Requirements: graduate standing.

ANTH:6230 (113:258) Seminar: Zooarchaeology
Interpretation of faunal material in archaeology; intensive survey of classic and recent literature on taphonomy, skeletal anatomy, population parameters, seasonality, quantification and sampling, butchering patterns, ethnoarchaeology, social and economic inferences. Prerequisites: ANTH:3207 (113:158).

Biological Anthropology, Lower-Level Undergraduate

ANTH:2390 (213:195) Laboratory Methods in Biological Anthropology
Specimen preparation, cataloging, moulding and casting, photography, computer analyses, library research.
Biological Anthropology, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ANTH:3305 (213:190) Human Osteology  3 s.h.
The human skeletal system; normal and pathologic variation; skeletal measurement and analysis with application to paleoanthropology, forensic, and archaeological investigations.

ANTH:3306 (213:115) The Neanderthal Enigma  3 s.h.
Survey of Neanderthals as the most widely known, yet enigmatic, fossil human lineage; history of discoveries; current interpretations of Neanderthal's origins, anatomy and behavior, relationship to today's people, extinction.

ANTH:3307 (213:116) Modern Human Origins  3 s.h.
Current data and theories regarding the emergence of Homo sapiens; how human anatomical modernity is defined and recognized in the fossil record; competing models for modern humans’ emergence—multiregional evolution, out of Africa, the assimilation model; interpretation of recent developments and discoveries in the human fossil record; contemporary contributions from genetics, developmental biology, evolutionary ecology, paleodemography.

ANTH:3308 (213:165) Human Variation  3 s.h.
Range and patterning of biological diversity in contemporary human populations; past and present attempts to organize and explain human genetic, morphological variation in light of recent data, theory.

ANTH:3310 (213:188) Primate Behavior and Ecology  3 s.h.
Systematics, anatomy, behavior, and ecology of living non-human primates; emphasis on adaptations and interactions of free-ranging primates as related to ecological constraints and conservation strategies.

ANTH:3322 (213:170) Primate Evolutionary Biology  3 s.h.
Principles of evolution, systematics, and biogeography; application to origin and diversification of primate order; emphasis on fossil evidence and biomolecular studies for phylogenetic interpretations.

ANTH:3325 (213:151) Human Evolutionary Genetics  3 s.h.
Application of molecular methods and theory to biological anthropology; how recent advances in genetics have provided insight into the evolution of human and nonhuman primates. Prerequisites: ANTH:1301 (113:013).

ANTH:3326 (213:153) Infectious Disease and Human Evolution  3 s.h.
Infectious disease as a central and important role in evolution of modern humans; impact of important infectious diseases on human history through primary literature. Recommendations: evolutionary theory background or interest. Same as GHS:3326 (152:157).

ANTH:3327 (213:154) Genes, Culture, and Human Diversity  3 s.h.
New perspectives in evolutionary theory on the origin of human biology and cultural diversity; principles borrowed from evolutionary thinking that provide insight into how cultures change, basis of human institutions, and gene-culture coevolution.

ANTH:3328 (213:155) Molecular Genetics of Human Disease  3 s.h.
Disease as an unfortunate, but unavoidable, aspect of human condition; genetic nature of disease that reveals origins of inherited disease; variation of disease across the globe. Recommendations: biology or genetics course to provide substantial background knowledge.

ANTH:3330 (213:187) Human Evolution in Africa and Eurasia  3 s.h.
Examination of human evolutionary past from early fossil apes to origin and diversification of hominin family and appearance of modern humans; emphasis on human evolution in Africa and dispersal through Eurasia.

ANTH:4315 (213:169) Human Evolutionary Anatomy  3 s.h.
Interpretation of skeletal remains as the basis for reconstructing forms, adaptations, lifestyles of prehistoric humans; body size, musculature, stance, activity patterns, brain size, and sexual dimorphism. Prerequisites: ANTH:3305 (213:190).

Biological Anthropology, Graduate

ANTH:5301 (213:285) Seminar: Biological Anthropology  3 s.h.
Physical anthropology, including heredity and genetics, evolutionary theory, human biological characteristics, primate and human fossil record, primate behavior and ecology, human adaptations. Requirements: graduate standing or undergraduate anthropology honors standing.

ANTH:6505 (213:288) Seminar: Paleoanthropology  3 s.h.
Current understandings of biocultural processes and events underlying Pleistocene human evolution; cross-disciplinary approach combining human paleontology and Paleolithic archaeology. Requirements: graduate standing or undergraduate honors standing or advanced undergraduate standing.

Linguistic Anthropology, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ANTH:3415 (113:171) Multimedia Ethnography  3 s.h.
Skills and tools for using multimedia technologies in ethnographic research and presentations; students conduct research projects using audio and video recording equipment and develop media-based presentations; ethnographic emphasis on contextually situated social interaction. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:2100 (113:010).
Linguistic Anthropology, Graduate

ANTH:5401 (113:271) Seminar: Linguistic Anthropology
3 s.h.
Fundamental concepts and methods employed in the anthropological study of language; principal areas of current research. Requirements: graduate standing or undergraduate anthropology honors standing.

ANTH:6410 (113:244) Seminar: Semiotics
3 s.h.
Piercian semiotic and Saussurean semiological conceptual frameworks; focus on anthropological, linguistic issues.

ANTH:6415 (113:273) Seminar: Language, Gender, and Sexuality
3 s.h.
Role of language and discourse in cultural constructions of gender identities and relations, including domination and subordination; theoretical perspective and methodological approaches that have shaped thought on the language/gender nexus. Same as GWSS:6415 (131:273), LING:6415 (103:221).

The School of Art and Art History provides a creative, multidisciplinary environment for students of the studio arts and the history of art. Established in 1936, the school is firmly grounded in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. It encourages interaction among its diverse faculty as well as collaboration with related disciplines across campus.

Iowa’s art and art history graduates enjoy success as practicing professional artists, professors of art history, teachers, museum directors and curators, theatre designers, commercial designers, and art administrators.

The University of Iowa is restoring and replacing School of Art and Art History facilities that were damaged or destroyed by Iowa River flooding during summer 2008. Art Building West has reopened and once again houses the school's main office. Visit the School of Art and Art History web site and ISIS for information about studio, office, and classroom sites.

Studio Art
The studio art program is based on the idea that the philosophical issues of society that are questioned and interpreted by artists are the basis for an artist's work. The diversity of concept and style among School of Art and Art History faculty members encourages students to seek and work toward a keen understanding of themselves as individuals capable of making their own personal statements as part of the philosophical continuum in art's history.

Studying the broad contexts in which art is made, understood, and used by society prepares studio art students to continue work in an academic setting as well as in museums, galleries, and a multiplicity of other venues. Graduate students are especially encouraged to examine the contexts of visual and verbal issues central to their own work and that of their contemporaries.

Undergraduate and graduate students select their major and minor studio art disciplines from ceramics, graphic design, three-dimensional (3-D) design, drawing, intermediary, jewelry and metal arts, painting, photography, printmaking, and sculpture.

Art History
Art history, a broad intellectual discipline, is central to the humanities. Diverse approaches characterize the school's art history faculty, who have interdisciplinary ties within and beyond the University. Their primary mission is to help students develop skills for exploring issues and problems central to the history of art as a whole as well as to its specialized areas. Because the major in art history stresses the development of critical visual thinking and analytical writing, it prepares students for graduate work in art history and for other professional fields as well.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
• Major in art (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts)
• Major in art history (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in art
• Minor in art history

Students interested in teaching art in elementary and/or secondary schools may apply to the Art Education Program; see "B.A. and B.F.A. with Teacher Licensure" below.

Students majoring in art begin their study as Bachelor of Arts students and may apply for admission to the B.F.A. program in a process called "clearance," usually during their third year; see "Bachelor of Arts: Art" and "Bachelor of Fine Arts: Art" below.

Bachelor of Arts: Art
The Bachelor of Arts with a major in art requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 39 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in art for the B.A. provides a foundation in art history as well as an understanding of the formal traditions and contemporary practices in studio art. Students take courses in the school's studio art programs, including ceramics, graphic design, three-dimensional (3-D) design, drawing, intermediary, jewelry and metal arts, painting, photography, printmaking, and sculpture.
Bachelor of Arts students majoring in art may count a maximum of 56 s.h. earned in art and art history courses toward the degree; they must earn at least 64 s.h. of credit in courses outside the School of Art and Art History in order to graduate. B.A. students with a double major in the school (e.g., a major in art and a major in art history) or a major and a minor in the school (e.g., a major in art and a minor in art history) must earn at least 56 s.h. of credit in courses outside the School of Art and Art History in order to graduate.

Students majoring in art begin their study in the Bachelor of Arts program. Those interested in pursuing concentrated work in a specific studio art discipline may apply for admission to the Bachelor of Fine Arts program through a process called “clearance,” in which the faculty evaluates the student’s readiness for B.F.A. study. Clearance usually takes place during the third year, but it may be conducted earlier or later, depending on the student’s readiness.

The major in art for the Bachelor of Arts requires the following course work. Not all courses are offered every semester, including required courses. When planning their course work, students should consult their advisors and ISIS to determine when specific courses will be offered.

ART HISTORY
Two of these:
- ARTH:1040 (01H:002) Arts of Africa 3 s.h.
- ARTH:1050 (01H:005) From Cave Paintings to Cathedrals: Survey of Western Art I 3 s.h.
- ARTH:1060 (01H:006) From Mona Lisa to Modernism: Survey of Western Art II 3 s.h.
- ARTH:1070 (01H:016) Asian Art and Culture 3 s.h.

Additional art history courses:
Two art history courses not in the list above, excluding ARTH:1000 (01H:029), ARTH:1080 (01H:007), and ARTH:2975 (01H:099) 6 s.h.

FOUNDATIONAL STUDIO ART
Both of these, taken before the 3-D and 2-D studio art courses:
- ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing 3 s.h.
- ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals 3 s.h.

STUDIO ART 3-D COURSES
Two of these:
- CERM:2010 (01C:060) Exploring Forms in Clay I 3 s.h.
- INTM:2710 (01J:090) Intermedia I 3 s.h.
- MTLG:2910 (01G:084) Introduction to Jewelry and Metal Arts 3 s.h.
- SCPL:2810 (01N:015) Undergraduate Sculpture I 3 s.h.
- TDSN:2210 (01T:021) Problems in 3-D Design I: Form and Structure 3 s.h.

STUDIO ART 2-D COURSES
Two of these:
- DRAW:2310 (01F:007) Life Drawing I 3 s.h.
- DSGN:2110 (01D:090) Graphic Design I 3 s.h.

UPPER-LEVEL STUDIO ART COURSES
Students must take two upper-level studio art courses. They may take both upper-level courses in the same studio art discipline or one upper-level course in each of two disciplines.

REQUIRED ELECTIVES
School of Art and Art History elective courses must bring the total credit for the major in art to a minimum of 39 s.h.

Transfer Students
Transfer students should contact the undergraduate academic advisors for information about transfer portfolio review and specific course work that satisfies the requirements of the art major for the Bachelor of Arts. Students may count a maximum of 12 s.h. of approved transfer credit toward the B.A. major in art.

Study Abroad
Students who wish to study abroad must meet with the undergraduate advisor before they depart in order to confirm approval of the courses they plan to take.

Students who take studio art courses abroad must bring their artwork back to campus and must present it in a portfolio review, which determines whether the work satisfies a requirement for their major. The portfolio review is not required if the study abroad course was taught by a School of Art and Art History faculty member who gave the student a grade for the course.

Students who plan to take art history courses abroad must present the course syllabus to their advisor well in advance of their departure. The head of the art history program determines whether the study abroad course is equivalent to a course required for the major; if it is, the student is credited with fulfilling the requirement once he or she completes the course with a passing grade.

Bachelor of Fine Arts: Art
The Bachelor of Fine Arts with a major in art requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 62 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in art for the B.F.A. provides a foundation in art history as well as an understanding of the formal traditions.
RECOMMENDED COURSES FOR THE BACHELOR OF ARTS

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in art history requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 45 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program.

Art history engages in problems of historical analysis and in interpretation of culture. The major in art history provides students with a strong liberal arts background and prepares them for competitive placement in graduate schools across the country. As students progress through the major, they become familiar with historical relationships between art objects and society, learn techniques of formal analysis, study patterns of patronage, and absorb methods for interpreting the meaning of paintings, sculptures, and architecture. In the course of their studies, art history majors develop their research abilities and writing skills.

B.F.A. students select one studio art discipline, choosing from ceramics, graphic design, three-dimensional (3-D) design, drawing, intermedia, jewelry and metal arts, painting, photography, printmaking, and sculpture. They may not select bookbinding, calligraphy, or papermaking as their studio art discipline. Although students may choose only one B.F.A. discipline, they gain exposure to other studio areas through the B.F.A. program of study.

Bachelor of Fine Arts students majoring in art may count a maximum of 62 s.h. earned in art and art history courses toward the degree; they must earn at least 58 s.h. of credit in courses outside the School of Art and Art History in order to graduate.

Students majoring in art begin their study in the Bachelor of Arts program. They may apply to the Bachelor of Fine Arts program after consulting with the faculty in the studio discipline of their choice. Students are admitted to the B.F.A. program through a process called “clearance,” which is conducted once each semester; they must be admitted to the B.F.A. program at least one semester before they graduate. Students who wish to enter the B.F.A. program should consult the faculty in their major studio art discipline for information about the required portfolio review.

In order to sit for B.F.A. clearance, students must have completed:

- the two studio art foundation courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004);
- one introductory course in the B.F.A. studio art discipline; and
- two upper-level courses in the B.F.A. studio art discipline (students may be enrolled in the two upper-level courses when they sit for clearance).

B.F.A. students complete all requirements for the B.A. major in art plus additional studio work. They also must present a show of their work during ARTS:4195 (01P:195) B.F.A. Exhibition before they graduate.

The art major for the Bachelor of Fine Arts requires the following work:

REQUIRED COURSES FOR THE BACHELOR OF ARTS

All course work required for the B.A. with a major in art; see “Bachelor of Arts: Art” above

ADDITIONAL STUDIO ART FOR B.F.A. STUDENTS

All of these:

- One introductory course and three upper-level courses in the student’s studio art discipline
- One introductory course and one upper-level course in a second studio art discipline
- One introductory course and one upper-level course in a third studio art discipline

EXHIBIT

B.F.A. students must present a show of their work during the semester in which they graduate. Variations must be approved by the B.F.A. faculty advisor and academic advisors. The show must be advertised using flyers and other media. Students planning to graduate with honors in the art major may combine their honors project and their B.F.A. show. Students must meet with faculty and academic advisors to complete the required documentation before they present their show.

Transfer Students

Transfer students should contact the undergraduate academic advisors for information about transfer portfolio review and specific course work that satisfies the requirements of the art major for the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Students may count a maximum of 21 s.h. of approved transfer credit toward the B.F.A. major in art.

Study Abroad

Students who wish to study abroad must meet with the undergraduate advisor before they depart in order to confirm approval of the courses they plan to take.

Students who take studio art courses abroad must bring their artwork back to campus and present it in a portfolio review, which determines whether the work satisfies a requirement for their major. The portfolio review is not required if the study abroad course was taught by a School of Art and Art History faculty member who gave the student a grade for the course.

Students who plan to take art history courses abroad must present the course syllabus to their advisor well in advance of their departure. The head of the art history program determines whether the study abroad course is equivalent to a course required for the major; if it is, the student is credited with fulfilling the requirement once he or she completes the course with a passing grade.

Bachelor of Arts: Art History

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in art history requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 45 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program.

Art history engages in problems of historical analysis and in interpretation of culture. The major in art history provides students with a strong liberal arts background and prepares them for competitive placement in graduate schools across the country. As students progress through the major, they become familiar with historical relationships between art objects and society, learn techniques of formal analysis, study patterns of patronage, and absorb methods for interpreting the meaning of paintings, sculptures, and architecture. In the course of their studies, art history majors develop their research abilities and writing skills.
Bachelor of Arts students majoring in art history may count a maximum of 56 s.h. earned in art and art history courses toward the degree; they must earn at least 64 s.h. of credit in courses outside the School of Art and Art History in order to graduate.

B.A. students with a double major in the school (e.g., a major in art history and a major in art) or a major and a minor in the school (e.g., a major in art history and a minor in art) must earn at least 56 s.h. of credit in courses outside the School of Art and Art History in order to graduate.

The major in art history requires the following course work.

ART HISTORY

All of these, taken before enrollment in courses numbered ARTH:2975 (01H:099) and above:

- ARTH:1050 (01H:005) From Cave Paintings to Cathedrals: Survey of Western Art I 3 s.h.
- ARTH:1060 (01H:006) From Mona Lisa to Modernism: Survey of Western Art II 3 s.h.
- ARTH:1080 (01H:007) Writing About the Visual Arts 3 s.h.
- One of these:
  - ARTH:1040 (01H:002) Arts of Africa 3 s.h.
  - ARTH:1070 (01H:016) Asian Art and Culture 3 s.h.

All of these:

- ARTH:2975 (01H:099) Undergraduate Seminar in the History of Art (taken fall of junior or senior year) 3 s.h.
- Three courses chosen from those numbered ARTH:2020 (01H:084) through ARTH:2920 (01H:066) 9 s.h.
- Five upper-level courses chosen from those numbered ARTH:3000 (01H:100) through ARTH:4941 (01H:166) 15 s.h.

STUDIO ART

This course:

- ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing 3 s.h.

One of these:

- ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals 3 s.h.
- CERM:2010 (01C:060) Exploring Forms in Clay I 3 s.h.
- DRAW:2310 (01F:007) Life Drawing I 3 s.h.
- MTLS:2910 (01G:084) Introduction to Jewelry and Metal Arts 3 s.h.
- PNTG:2410 (01K:009) Painting I 3 s.h.
- PRNT:2610 (01M:011) Introduction to Printmaking 3 s.h.
- SCLP:2810 (01N:015) Undergraduate Sculpture I 3 s.h.

Transfer Students

Transfer students planning to major in art history should meet with the undergraduate advisor to discuss the requirements they may fulfill with transfer courses. Art history transfer courses must be reviewed by the head of the art history area to determine the student's placement in or exemption from required art history courses. Students may count a maximum of 15 s.h. of approved transfer credit toward the major in art history.

Study Abroad

Students who wish to study abroad must meet with the undergraduate advisor before they depart in order to confirm approval of the courses they plan to take.

Students who plan to take art history courses abroad must present the course syllabus to their advisor well in advance of their departure. The head of the art history program determines whether the study abroad course is equivalent to a course required for the major; if it is, the student is credited with fulfilling the requirement once he or she completes the course with a passing grade.

Students who take studio art courses abroad must bring their artwork back to campus and present it in a portfolio review, which determines whether the work will satisfy a requirement for their major; the requirement is waived if the study abroad course was taught by a School of Art and Art History faculty member who gave the student a grade for the course.

B.A. and B.F.A. with Teacher Licensure

Art and art history majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the art or art history major and all requirements for graduation with a B.A. or B.F.A. degree. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Contact the Office of Education Services in the College of Education for details.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

B.A.: Art

Before the fifth semester begins: at least four courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: at least four more courses in the major (total of eight) and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least three more courses in the major (total of 11)

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.F.A.: Art

The Four-Year Graduation Plan is not available for the B.F.A. major in art. Students should work with their advisors to develop individual graduation plans.
B.A.: Art History

Before the fifth semester begins: at least four courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: at least four more courses in the major (total of eight) and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least three more courses in the major (total of 11)

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in art or in art history have the opportunity to graduate with honors in their major. Honors students in the School of Art and Art History must maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in their major. They also must complete an application to graduate with honors in the major.

Honors in art: In order to graduate with honors in the major, students majoring in art must complete a studio art project during the semester in which they plan to graduate. They must find a studio art faculty member willing to supervise their honors project; must display the completed project in a show; and must complete a title page, abstract, and CD of images for their project. They earn credit for the project by enrolling in ARTS:4190 (01P:190) Honors in Studio Art.

Honors in art history: In order to graduate with honors in the major, students majoring in art history must complete an honors project that includes an honors thesis during the semester in which they plan to graduate. Students have two options for completing the honors project.

Option 1: Students take two upper-level courses numbered 3000 or above, signing an honors contract with the professors to complete an extra project, such as an annotated bibliography, a supplemental paper or presentation, or a comparable project for each course. Then they enroll in a third upper-level course appropriate to their honors thesis topic, and they earn credit for the project by enrolling in ARTS:4190 (01P:190) Honors Research in Art History with the same instructor (1 s.h.), for which they write an honors thesis of 5,000 to 7,000 words.

Option 2: Students research and write an honors thesis of 10,000 to 15,000 words under the direction of an art history faculty member, earning 3 s.h. of credit for the project by enrolling in ARTH:3985 (01H:190) Honors Research in Art History. Art history students must have approval from their honors thesis advisor before they begin work on their thesis project. The thesis should conform to the Graduate College format for theses; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College in the Graduate College section of the Catalog.

University honors: In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor: Art

The minor in art requires a minimum of 18 s.h. in art courses, including at least 15 s.h. earned in courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may not count course work for the minor in art toward requirements for the major in art history, except ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing

Art courses that may be taken include ceramics, intermedia, jewelry and metalsmithing, sculpture, drawing, photography, painting, printmaking, and 3-D design. Two courses with the prefix ARTS are required and one art history course with the prefix ARTH may be included in the 18 s.h. required for the minor.

The minor in art requires the following course work.

ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing 3 s.h.
ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals 3 s.h.
At least one introductory studio art 3-D course
At least one introductory studio art 2-D course, except DSGN:2110 (01D:090)
Additional introductory studio art courses or upper-level courses in the same studio art discipline(s) as the introductory 3-D and/or 2-D courses required for the minor

Minor: Art History

The minor in art history requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in art history courses, including 12 s.h. earned in advanced courses taken at The University of Iowa. Courses numbered ARTH:2130 (01H:020) or above are considered advanced for the minor. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Students earning a major in art and a minor in art history may not count course work for the minor in art history toward requirements for the major in art. But they may count one art history course required for the art major toward the requirements for the art history minor; they must consult with their advisors.

The minor in art history must include one survey course chosen from these:

ARTH:1040 (01H:002) Arts of Africa 3 s.h.
ARTH:1050 (01H:005) From Cave Paintings to Cathedrals: Survey of Western Art I 3 s.h.
ARTH:1060 (01H:006) From Mona Lisa to Modernism: Survey of Western Art II 3 s.h.
ARTH:1070 (01H:016) Asian Art and Culture 3 s.h.

Before registering for a course, students must complete all of the course's prerequisites.

Contact an undergraduate advisor in the School of Art and Art History for more information about how to meet the requirements for the minor.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in art
- Master of Fine Arts in art
• Master of Arts in art history
• Doctor of Philosophy in art history

The College of Education offers an M.A. program in art education; see Teaching and Learning (p. 814) in the Catalog.

Master of Arts: Art

The Master of Arts program in art requires a minimum of 38 s.h. of graduate credit. The degree is offered with emphases in the following studio art disciplines: ceramics, graphic design, three-dimensional (3-D) design, drawing, intermedia, jewelry and metal arts, painting, photography, printmaking, and sculpture.

M.A. students must hold a B.A. or B.F.A. in art equivalent to that offered by The University of Iowa. Undergraduate deficiencies, if any, may be made up concurrently with graduate study but do not count toward the graduate degree requirements.

The 38 s.h. of credit required for the M.A. includes at least 16 s.h. in a primary studio art emphasis; 8 s.h. in a secondary studio art emphasis chosen from one of the studio art disciplines listed above that offer at least 24 s.h. in courses; 3 s.h. in the history and theory of art, excluding readings and directed studies; and 3 s.h. in theory, history, criticism, or philosophy, earned in courses inside or outside of the school.

M.A. students undergo a division-wide review for M.A. candidacy by the faculty during their third semester in residence. All except painting and drawing students must submit a written artist’s statement or M.A. thesis.

M.A. students in intermedia and 3-D design are required to write an M.A. thesis. They may earn 1 s.h. for writing a technical or substantial thesis by registering for ARTS:6000 (01A:302) M.A. Written Thesis, with approval of the thesis supervisor. Thesis credit earned in an M.A. program is not applicable toward M.F.A. requirements. M.A. students in other studio art disciplines choose the M.A. thesis or nonthesis option in consultation with their area advisor.

Master of Fine Arts: Art

The Master of Fine Arts program in art requires a minimum of 60 s.h. of graduate credit. The degree is offered with thesis and with emphases in the following studio art disciplines: ceramics, graphic design, three-dimensional (3-D) design, drawing, intermedia, jewelry and metal arts, painting, photography, printmaking, and sculpture. Students must earn at least 24 s.h. of credit for the degree at The University of Iowa, including approved credit earned for the M.A. in art.

M.F.A. students must hold an M.A. in art equivalent to that offered by The University of Iowa. Transfer credit is decided by faculty review. Following completion of the M.A., students may be invited into the M.F.A. program.

The 60 s.h. of credit required for the M.F.A. includes at least 24 s.h. in a primary studio art emphasis; at least 12 s.h. in a secondary studio art emphasis selected from those listed above; 3 s.h. in art history and theory of art; and 3 s.h. in theory, history, criticism, or philosophy (if not already taken). Students must earn 8 s.h. in their primary studio art emphasis and 4 s.h. in their secondary studio art emphasis after being granted an M.A. in art.

All students must undergo an M.F.A. committee review. They also must complete a written thesis and possibly a studio thesis.

M.F.A. students may earn 1 s.h. for writing a technical or substantial thesis by registering for ARTS:7000 (01A:304) M.F.A. Written Thesis, with approval of the thesis supervisor. Thesis credit earned in an M.A. program is not applicable toward M.F.A. requirements.

Master of Arts: Art History

The Master of Arts program in art history requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit and is offered with thesis. M.A. students are expected to acquire a broad knowledge of art history and to become familiar with major periods and monuments of world art. They also become proficient scholars, receiving training in research methods and theory necessary for subsequent scholarship at the Ph.D. level.

M.A. students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.50. Only one semester of academic probation is allowed. All M.A. candidates, including transfer students, must take at least 24 s.h. in residence at The University of Iowa.

M.A. students in art history must earn a grade of B or higher in semester-long courses numbered 3000 or above in five of the following 10 distribution fields: African (including Oceanic), architecture, Asian, ancient (3000 B.C.E. to 300 C.E.), medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, 18th- and 19th-century European, American (including pre-Columbian, Native American, and African American), and modern/contemporary. These courses must be taken after the B.A. is granted.

M.A. students must complete a substantial thesis that demonstrates their ability to conduct scholarly research and convey ideas in writing appropriately for the discipline and for the student's specialization field.

REQUIRED COURSES

M.A. students in art history must satisfactorily complete ARTH:6000 (01H:200) History and Methods during their first fall semester of enrollment and must register for an art history seminar in their first, second, and third semesters of enrollment.

They also must satisfactorily complete ARTH:6020 (01H:210) Art History Colloquium every semester that they are enrolled for 9 s.h. or more or are serving as teaching or research assistants. Students who are not employed as teaching or research assistants or are registered for less than 9 s.h. are strongly encouraged to attend the colloquium.

Courses outside the curriculum of the School of Art and Art History's art history division do not carry art history credit. Cross-referenced courses not taught by art history faculty members also do not carry art history credit.

DIRECTED STUDIES

Directed Studies [ARTH:6040 (01H:300)] is designed for graduate students who already have taken one or more advanced courses in a specific art history field. It provides students with an opportunity to work one-to-one with a professor to continue specific research interests developed in lecture courses or seminars, or on topics that eventually may be the subject of a thesis or dissertation. Directed Studies cannot be substituted for a lecture course already offered in the program. Students must discuss their decision to take Directed Studies with the professor involved and have the professor's approval. The Directed Studies topic must be within the professor's range of expertise. Students meet with their Directed Studies professor once a week. The hours of work and written assignments required for Directed Studies must be equal to a comparable regularly scheduled course. Directed Studies is not available through Guided Correspondence Study.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT
M.A. students must demonstrate proficiency in French or German by the end of their third semester. Proficiency is determined by a translation exam administered under the direction of the art history division. Credit earned in language courses does not count toward the degree.

M.A. COMMITTEE
The M.A. committee consists of the student's M.A. thesis advisor and two additional tenured or tenure-track faculty members in art history.

M.A. THESIS
M.A. students must complete a written thesis on a topic chosen from one of the 10 distribution fields (see "Master of Arts: Art History" above). Students register for and may count 3 s.h. of thesis credit toward graduation. Students choose an M.A. thesis advisor who specializes in their concentration field. Students who wish to concentrate in more than one field must work closely with faculty members in both fields.

FINAL EXAMINATION
The final examination constitutes an oral defense of the written M.A. thesis. The final examination meeting with the M.A. committee normally takes place toward the end of the student's last semester of course work.

Doctor of Philosophy: Art History
The Doctor of Philosophy program in art history requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. Ph.D. students are expected to acquire great breadth and depth of knowledge in the discipline of art history, achieve a high level of expertise in a specialized field, and demonstrate professional speaking and writing skills. The program provides them with scholarly challenges, research skills, and mentoring necessary for professional development and successful careers.

Ph.D. students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.50. They may count a maximum of 38 s.h. of work completed for the M.A. toward the Ph.D., excluding credit earned in language courses. Students are allowed only one semester of academic probation.

To establish academic residency, doctoral students must be enrolled full-time (at least 9 s.h.) at The University of Iowa for two semesters beyond their first 24 s.h. of graduate study; or they must enroll for at least 6 s.h. in each of three semesters during which they hold an assistantship of one-quarter-time or more. Resident tuition is assessed for assistantship semesters and adjacent summer sessions.

Ph.D. students major in one of the following 10 distribution fields: African (including Oceanic), architecture, Asian, ancient (3000 B.C.E. to 300 C.E.), medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, 18th- and 19th-century European, American (including pre-Columbian, Native American, and African American), and modern/contemporary. Students also minor in two fields. The first minor must be in an art history distribution field that is not contiguous with the major field; the second may be in any art history distribution field or in a relevant discipline outside of art history, subject to the faculty's approval.

Ph.D. students must complete a publishable dissertation that makes an original contribution to the art history discipline and demonstrates evidence of superior understanding of critical issues in the student's chosen specialization field.

For more detailed information, consult the Art and Art History Graduate Bulletin.

REQUIRED COURSES
Ph.D. students must satisfactorily complete ARTH:6000 (01H:200) History and Methods, even if they have completed a similar course at another institution (students who have completed the course for a master's degree or other previous work at Iowa are exempt). They must register for an art history seminar in their first three semesters of Ph.D. course work (or in their fifth, sixth, and seventh semesters of graduate study), before the Ph.D. readings course and comprehensive exam.

They also must satisfactorily complete ARTH:6200 (01H:210) Art History Colloquium every semester that they are enrolled for 9 s.h. or more or are serving as teaching or research assistants. Students who are not employed as teaching or research assistants or are registered for less than 9 s.h. are strongly encouraged to attend the colloquium.

Students may count up to 6 s.h. of credit earned for dissertation research toward the 72 s.h. required for the degree. Courses outside the curriculum of the School of Art and Art History's art history division do not carry art history credit.

DIRECTED STUDIES
Normally, a maximum of 6 s.h. earned in ARTH:6040 (01H:300) Directed Studies may be applied toward the semester-hour requirement for the Ph.D., although doctoral students may petition the art history faculty for permission to apply up to 9 s.h.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT
Students must demonstrate proficiency in French or German for admission to the Ph.D. program. They also must demonstrate proficiency in a second non-English language relevant to their research area by the end of their third semester of Ph.D. work or before their dissertation topic is approved. Proficiency is determined by a translation exam administered under the direction of the art history division. Credit earned in language courses does not count toward the degree.

PH.D. COMMITTEE
The Ph.D. committee consists of the student's dissertation advisor, who is responsible for the major field; two members responsible for the two minor fields; and at least two additional members. Of these five, four must be tenured or tenure-track faculty members from the art history division. One must be from outside the division and must be a member of the Graduate College faculty. When appropriate, committees may include additional members.
COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATION
Upon completion of course requirements, the Ph.D. candidate takes three written comprehensive examinations. The major exam consists of six questions and lasts six hours; the two minor exams each consist of three questions and last three hours. The exams are taken on any three days within one week (Monday through Friday).

The scope of the comprehensive exams is determined in consultation with the candidate's degree committee supervisor and the committee members responsible for the two minor fields.

ORAL COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATION
Within approximately two weeks of completing the three written exams, the candidate meets with his or her degree committee for the oral comprehensive examination, which concentrates on questions that arise from the written comprehensive exams.

DISSERTATION PROPOSAL
As soon as possible after completing the comprehensive examinations, the candidate submits a dissertation proposal to his or her degree committee supervisor and subsequently to the degree committee. The committee meets as a group with the candidate to discuss the dissertation proposal and to offer comments and suggestions. (The proposal must be submitted to the committee at least two weeks before the approval meeting.) The proposal includes a 1-2 page abstract, a 10-15 page précis (including a review of the state of the field), and a bibliography.

After the proposal has been approved by the committee, the candidate circulates an abstract to the entire art history faculty. He or she must give a public presentation on the dissertation topic no later than the end of the semester following the degree committee's approval. The presentation is scheduled with the head of art history.

FINAL EXAMINATION
Upon completing a dissertation, which constitutes an original scholarly contribution to the field, the candidate meets with the Ph.D. committee for an oral defense of the dissertation. The oral defense constitutes the final examination for the Ph.D. The successful completion of this examination normally marks the last stage in the candidate's fulfillment of requirements for the degree.

Admission
Prospective graduate students must meet the School of Art and Art History's admission requirements for the specific degree programs they plan to enter. Prospective students must submit application materials to the University's Office of Graduate Admissions and to the specific program they wish to enter. Program-specific application requirements and deadline dates are listed in the appropriate sections below.

All applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate College section of the Catalog.

Applicants to all art and art history graduate programs must submit the following to the University's Office of Graduate Admissions: a completed graduate application form (one area of interest must be specified on the form); an official copy of all transcripts of undergraduate and/or graduate work completed by the application date; TOEFL scores (if applicable); and the required application fee. Art history applicants also must submit Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores.

Applicants whose first or official language is not English and whose previous academic degrees were not earned at an English-language institution must score as follows on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL): for studio art applicants, at least 81 (Internet-based); for art history applicants, at least 100 (Internet-based).

Deadline dates for submission of materials to the Office of Graduate Admissions are December 15 for art history programs and February 1 for studio art programs, for fall admission.

The Office of Graduate Admissions notifies all applicants by mail of admission decisions. Acceptance notification cannot be given over the phone by either the admissions office or the School of Art and Art History.

M.A. and M.F.A.: Art
Applications to the M.A. and M.F.A. programs in studio art, with all supporting materials and requests for financial aid, must be received by the School of Art and Art History graduate program coordinator and the Office of Graduate Admissions by February 1 for fall admission.

In addition to materials submitted to the Office of Graduate Admissions (see "Admission" above), applicants must submit the following materials to the graduate program coordinator at the School of Art and Art History: a one-page statement of purpose, official transcripts for all undergraduate and graduate work completed by the application date, three letters of recommendation assessing potential as a graduate student, application for graduate awards (if desired), and application for graduate scholarships and fellowships (if desired). They also must submit one of the following portfolios (portfolios are returned by mail only to applicants who supply return postage).

Portfolio requirements for image files: Images in the portfolios should be JPEG files in RGB format submitted on CDs or flash drives. Image size should be a maximum of 72 DPI and 1240 by 1240 pixels. File size must not exceed 1 MB. Image files must be numbered according to the order in which they are to be presented to the Admissions Committee, beginning with 01. Each portfolio must be accompanied by a list that includes each image's name, title, medium, size, approximate date of work, and the student's name and emphasis.

Portfolio contents and submission requirements are as follows.

Ceramics, 3-D design, and jewelry and metal arts: a CD or flash drive containing eight images in the primary studio art emphasis and two in a second emphasis. Submissions must conform to specifications stated under "Portfolio requirements for image files" above.

Graphic design: a PDF containing documentation of 15 to 20 projects. Applicants should include a brief description of each work, illustrated with embedded still images and supplemented by links to online media e-mailed to the graduate program coordinator. The precise number of images varies according to the nature of the work; contact the School of Art and Art History with questions.
Submissions must conform to specifications stated under "Portfolio requirements for image files" above.

Intermedia: a PDF containing documentation of 5 to 10 projects. Applicants should include a brief description of each work, illustrated with embedded still images and supplemented by links to online media e-mailed to the graduate program coordinator. The precise number of images varies according to the nature of the work; contact the School of Art and Art History with questions. Submissions must conform to specifications stated under "Portfolio requirements for image files" above.

Painting and drawing: eight images in the primary studio art emphasis and two in a second emphasis, submitted on a CD or flash drive or attached to an e-mail. Applicants who use e-mail should send their images to the graduate program coordinator. Submissions must conform to specifications stated under "Portfolio requirements for image files" above.

Photography: a CD or flash drive containing 20 images in photography and two or three images in a second emphasis. Submissions must conform to specifications stated under "Portfolio requirements for image files" above.

Printmaking: a CD or flash drive containing 10 to 20 images, including a selection of four to six original printed works, sent in a returnable portfolio. Submissions must conform to specifications stated under "Portfolio requirements for image files" above.

Sculpture: a CD or flash drive containing 20 images in sculpture, including details, and two or three images in a second emphasis. Submissions must conform to specifications stated under "Portfolio requirements for image files" above.

Extreme care is taken in handling all portfolios, but the school cannot be responsible for reimbursement in the event of loss or damage.

Applications and all supporting materials are reviewed by a committee of art and art history faculty members from the appropriate area.

M.A.: Art History

Applications to the M.A. program in art history, with all supporting materials and requests for financial aid, must be received at the School of Art and Art History and the University's Office of Graduate Admissions by December 15 for fall admission in the following year.

Applicants must hold a bachelor's degree, preferably in art history or a related field.

Although exceptions may be made when other components of the application are strong, applicants should have a combined verbal and quantitative score of at least 300 and an analytic writing score of at least 5 on the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) General Test; and a graduate g.p.a. of at least 3.50 on a 4.00 scale.

Applications also must submit a 1,000-word personal statement describing their intellectual development, academic interests, and career goals; the statement must name the University of Iowa faculty member under whose guidance the applicant hopes to work and tell how that faculty member's area of expertise, or how the art history program, is especially suited to the applicant's interests and goals.

Applicants to graduate programs in art history should consult the Art and Art History Graduate Bulletin on the School of Art and Art History web site.

Ph.D.: Art History

Applications to the Ph.D. program in art history, with all supporting materials and requests for financial aid, must be received at the School of Art and Art History and the Office of Graduate Admissions by December 15 for fall admission in the following year.

Applicants must hold an M.A. in art history or a related graduate degree and must be able to demonstrate proficiency in French or German. Proficiency in a second non-English language relevant to the student's research area is required by the end of the third semester of Ph.D. work; see "Language Requirement" under "Doctor of Philosophy in Art History" above.

Although exceptions may be made when other components of the application are strong, applicants should have a combined verbal and quantitative score of at least 300 and an analytic writing score of at least 5 on the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) General Test; and a graduate g.p.a. of at least 3.50 on a 4.00 scale.

Students who completed an M.A. at The University of Iowa and who wish to apply for entrance into the Ph.D. program must make a formal application for change of status through the graduate program coordinator. Applications are evaluated in the context of the entire applicant pool.

In addition to materials submitted to the Office of Graduate Admissions (see "Admission" above), the following materials must be submitted to the graduate program coordinator at the School of Art and Art History: transcripts from all colleges and universities the applicant has attended; three letters of recommendation, including one from the applicant's M.A. thesis supervisor, assessing the applicant's potential for doctoral study in art history (sent by the person making the recommendation); and a copy of an M.A. thesis or other substantial M.A. research paper.

Applicants also must submit a 1,000-word personal statement describing their purpose in pursuing graduate studies and their intellectual development, academic interests, and career goals; the statement must name the University of Iowa faculty member under whose guidance the applicant hopes to work and how that faculty member's area of expertise, or the art history program, is especially suited to the applicant's interests and goals.

Applicants to graduate programs in art history should consult the Art and Art History Graduate Bulletin on the School of Art and Art History web site.
Financial Support

Fellowships, teaching assistantships, research assistantships, and tuition scholarships are awarded to graduate students on the basis of artistic and/or scholarly record.

Presidential Graduate Fellowships

The Graduate College awards Presidential Graduate Fellowships on the basis of a University-wide competition among incoming Ph.D. students. For information about the fellowships, including nomination and selection criteria and stipends, see Presidential Graduate Research Fellowship on the Graduate College web site.

Dean's Graduate Fellowships

The Graduate College awards Dean's Graduate Fellowships on the basis of a University-wide competition among graduate students. Criteria for the fellowships are similar to those for the Presidential Graduate Fellowship but are designed to support incoming students who are underrepresented in graduate education. For more information, see Dean's Graduate Research Fellowship on the Graduate College web site.

Iowa Arts Fellowships

The Graduate College awards Iowa Arts Fellowships to two incoming or first-year studio art graduate students each year. For more information, see Iowa Arts Fellowship on the Graduate College web site.

Teaching and Research Assistantships

Assistantships are awarded to graduate students on the basis of academic record, promise as scholars or artists, and demonstrated ability to do the job. Quality of performance in one's graduate program at Iowa is generally the major criterion for awarding teaching assistantships. The number of hours of work required depends on the amount of the award.

Scholarships and Fellowships

The School of Art and Art History offers a variety of scholarships and fellowships made possible by contributions from alumni who wish to support promising artists and scholars. These awards are made on the same basis as teaching and research assistantships. Information and application materials for graduate scholarships and fellowships are included in the admissions package. They also are available from the School of Art and Art History main office.

Renewal or reappointment for fellowships and assistantships depends on adequate progress toward the degree (graduate students must accumulate at least 18 s.h. of graduate credit each calendar year and maintain a grade-point average above the required minimum) and satisfactory performance of assistantship duties.

Decisions on assistantships and financial aid generally are made during the latter part of the spring semester for the following academic year. Applications and all relevant materials should be on file by February 1.

Student Organizations

The undergraduate Art History Society and the graduate Art History Society sponsor activities for students. The Faculty/Graduate Student Art History Colloquium meets five times each semester to focus on professional development and issues of broad interest in art.

Resources and Facilities

Reference Collections

The art library contains 100,000 volumes, an outstanding periodical collection, and an extensive microfilm and microfiche archive.

The school's Office of Visual Materials contains a rapidly growing collection of 325,000 slides, 30,000 digital images, 350,000 35mm slides, 30,000 mounted photographs, and a video collection.

Museum of Art

The University of Iowa Museum of Art has a significant permanent collection that includes major holdings of 20th-century and contemporary art, African and pre-Columbian art, English and American silver, European and American prints, drawings and photographs, and Etruscan, Iranian, and contemporary American ceramics. As well as serving as a resource for research in a wide variety of art history areas, the museum offers a program of exhibitions, lectures, and recitals.

Due to the Iowa River flooding during summer 2008, the museum's collections are being displayed and its events are being held in a variety of other facilities. Learn about current exhibitions and events, and their locations, by visiting the Museum of Art web site.

Interdisciplinary Resources

Colloquia, visiting artists and lecturer programs, and graduate workshops bring visitors to the School of Art and Art History and provide open forums for discussion of issues in art and scholarship.

Among the school's major assets is the Project for the Advanced Study of Art and Life in Africa (PASALA), an interdisciplinary program that brings together faculty with international reputations in art history, anthropology, film, history, and literature to offer courses and independent study of art in West, Central, East, and South Africa. The result is a program of unusual breadth and depth of expertise. PASALA is among the most active of such programs in the country, organizing international symposia that discuss significant topical issues and publishing the proceedings in regular issues of Iowa Studies in African Art. PASALA offers scholarships and support for research in Africa and dissertation preparation to outstanding students. A major resource for PASALA is the UI Museum of Art's Stanley Collection of African Art. Visit Art & Life in Africa to learn more.

Art history participates in the University's Crossing Borders program, which offers major financial support to designated graduate student fellows whose dissertation topics involve multiple foreign language areas. Fellows take team-taught seminars in a range of disciplines, with focus on interactions across cultural, regional, or national divides. They help plan an annual convocation, at which they and invited lecturers present their research.

The School of Art and Art History affiliates with the Department of American Studies (p. 44), giving students opportunities to study not only the history of American art but a variety of interdisciplinary programs in American history, literature, and politics. The school also is linked to the Medieval Studies (p. 482) Program, which offers an undergraduate certificate and courses in the history, literature, and culture of the Middle Ages.

Art Buildings

The University of Iowa is restoring and replacing School of Art and Art History facilities that were damaged or destroyed by Iowa River flooding during summer 2008. The school's administrative center, Art Building West, has reopened and once again is home to the school's main office as well as the Office of Visual Materials, the Art Library, an auditorium, art history classrooms, a cafe, and studios for graphic design, painting, animation, and digital photography. Designed by architect Steven Holl, Art Building West has won numerous awards for its innovative design, including the 2007 American Institute of Architects Honor Award for Architecture.

Studio classrooms are temporarily housed in the Studio Arts Building, on Iowa City's south side, and planning is under way for permanent facilities to be built close to Art Building West. Visit the School of Art and Art History web site and ISIS for information about studio, office, and classroom sites.

Courses

Art History, Lower-Level Undergraduate

ARTH:1000 (01H:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

ARTH:1010 (01H:001) Art and Visual Culture 3 s.h.
Developments in Western art history from prehistoric times (ca. 25000 B.C.E.) to present; key monuments in architecture, painting, and sculpture in their wider cultural contexts: 19th- and 20th-century new media (i.e., photography). GE: Historical Perspectives; Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

ARTH:1020 (01H:004) Masterpieces: Art in Historical and Cultural Perspectives 3 s.h.
Masterpieces of Western art—how to look at, think about, and understand some of the world's most exciting works of architecture, painting, and sculpture; their construction, hidden meanings, historical content, and their meanings today. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

ARTH:1030 (01H:008) Themes in Global Art 3 s.h.
Key themes in art from a global perspective; propaganda and power, social functions of art, word and image, ritual and body decoration, artistic exchange, religion.

Recommendations: ARTH:1060 (01H:006). GE: Historical Perspectives; Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

ARTH:2975 (01H:099) Undergraduate Seminar in the History of Art

3 s.h.
Characteristic problems, methodological issues, critical thinking and writing. Offered fall semesters. Requirements: art history major.

Art History, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

An introductory course in the appropriate art history area or consent of instructor is prerequisite for some courses numbered above 3000. Courses titled "Themes in ..." consider topics of current interest in the field, organized thematically rather than chronologically.

ARTH:3000 (01H:100) Digital Approaches to Art History I
3 s.h.
Digital approaches to study of art history; emphasis on cultural identity.

ARTH:3020 (01H:157) Paris and the Art of Urban Life
3 s.h.
The city of Paris examined in varied historical, artistic, cultural contexts; interdisciplinary. Same as FREN:3030 (009:130).

ARTH:3030 (01H:183) History of Prints
3 s.h.
Printmaking as important art form, influential carrier of styles and iconography from area to area; focus on Europe; history of prints from prehistoric times to present.

ARTH:3080 (01H:180) Marketing, Promoting, Politicking Contemporary Public Art
3 s.h.
How public art projects are conceived, created, and paid for; projects sponsored and funded by federal, state, and local governments and private businesses 1960 to present; projects' operational structures, how artists are selected; Vietnam Veterans Memorial, Serra’s Tilted Arc, recent projects. Same as MUSM:3080 (024:181).

ARTH:3056 (01H:143) Italian Baroque Visual Culture
3 s.h.
Visual culture of 17th-century Italy contextualized; major media (painting, sculpture, architecture) by leading artists (Bernini, Borromini, Caravaggio, Cortona); full range of material culture, including minor and decorative arts; use of imagery by individual and institutional patrons for the persuasive purpose of political and social advancement; ideological utility of art as a recurring theme, underscoring the Baroque antecedents of media manipulation of our own time.

ARTH:3070 (01H:145) Themes in Baroque-Era Art
3 s.h.
Topics and themes in baroque-era art.

ARTH:3085 (01H:177) Principles of Historic Preservation of the Built Environment
3 s.h.
Overview of practical and theoretical principles of historic preservation of the built environment; hands-on fieldwork, archival research, and document preparation; evolution of historic preservation in America and its controversies.

ARTH:3090 (01H:186) Contemporary Architecture

Ceramics, Lower-Level Undergraduate

CERM:2010 (01C:060) Exploring Forms in Clay I 3 s.h.

CERM:2020 (01C:061) Exploring Thrown Forms in Clay II
Basic wheel-throwing techniques; clay, glaze formulation and preparation in kiln firing. Prerequisites: CERM:2010 (01C:060).

Ceramics, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

CERM:3010 (01C:170) Advanced Clay Forming III
Advanced throwing techniques; larger scale, more professional goals; projects may be more sculptural or one of a kind. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CERM:2010 (01C:060) and CERM:2020 (01C:061).

CERM:4010 (01C:171) Advanced Clay Forming IV
Advanced individual projects. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CERM:2020 (01C:061) or CERM:3010 (01C:170).

CERM:4020 (01C:172) Ceramic Materials and Effects
Empirical, practical methods of glaze and body formulation; effects of various types of kilns and firing atmospheres on glaze materials, clay bodies; digital imaging used for testing and documenting results. Offered fall semesters of even years. Prerequisites: CERM:3010 (01C:170).

CERM:4030 (01C:173) Undergraduate Ceramics Workshop
Advanced undergraduate studio; critiques of student work and electronic portfolio development, visiting artist participation; may include field trips. Prerequisites: CERM:4010 (01C:171).

CERM:4040 (01C:174) Kiln Building
Kiln theory, design, construction methods; may include participation in kiln construction. Offered fall semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: CERM:3010 (01C:170).

CERM:4050 (01C:176) Concepts: Materials and Installation
Exposure to contemporary methods of working in clay, develop critical thinking skills that move clay into the realm of conceptual work, develop a personal direction in the medium; conceptual development and material exploration; set clay side by side with other materials and mediums; demonstrate dedication to the work and to the development of mature ideas and forms of expression. Prerequisites: CERM:3010 (01C:170).

CERM:4099 (01C:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction
Individual instruction in ceramics for advanced students.

Ceramics, Graduate

CERM:6075 (01C:275) Ceramics Workshop
Advanced graduate studio; critique of student work; visiting artists, field trips. Prerequisites: CERM:4010 (01C:171).

CERM:6099 (01C:270) Graduate Individual Instruction in Ceramics
Requirements: knowledge of clay and glaze computation, and ability to fire kilns.

Design, Lower-Level Undergraduate

Courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals are prerequisites for all design courses for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing is prerequisite for nonmajors.

DSGN:2110 (01D:090) Graphic Design I
Basic principles, techniques, and applications of graphic design, typography, composition, visual perception; creative, problem-solving aspects of graphic design. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

Design, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

DSGN:3110 (01D:120) Graphic Design II
In-depth study and exploration of graphic design as creative and problem solving tool of visual communication; translation of ideas and concepts into comprehensible visual language. Prerequisites: DSGN:2110 (01D:090) and DSGN:3120 (01D:100).

DSGN:3120 (01D:100) Typography

DSGN:3130 (01D:110) Web Site Design I
Designing for the World Wide Web; composition, manipulation, organization of type and images; projects, demonstrations, discussions. Prerequisites: DSGN:2110 (01D:090) and DSGN:3120 (01D:100).

DSGN:4110 (01D:150) Graphic Design III
Continuation of DSGN:3110 (01D:120); graphic design knowledge and skills applied to complex design problems such as visual identity, packaging, information design. Prerequisites: DSGN:3110 (01D:120) and DSGN:3130 (01D:110).

DSGN:4130 (01D:140) Web Site Design II
Continuation of DSGN:3130 (01D:110); in-depth exploration and study of graphic design principles and their application in online and interactive media; further development of HTML, CSS, other related technologies. Prerequisites: DSGN:3110 (01D:120) and DSGN:3130 (01D:110). Corequisites: DSGN:4110 (01D:150) or DSGN:4140 (01D:160), if not taken as prerequisites.

DSGN:4140 (01D:160) Problems in Graphic Design
Design topics; content varies. Prerequisites: DSGN:2110 (01D:090), DSGN:3110 (01D:120), and DSGN:3120 (01D:100).

DSGN:4199 (01D:190) Undergraduate 1-3 s.h.

Individual Instruction
Individual instruction in design for advanced students.

Design, Graduate

DSGN:6175 (01D:200) Graduate Graphic 4 s.h.

Design Workshop
Complex problems in graphic design; planning, development, organization of integrated design programs.

DSGN:6299 (01D:240) Individual 3 s.h.

Instruction in Design

Three-Dimensional Design, Lower-Level Undergraduate

TDSN:2205 (01T:020) Art and Engineering 3 s.h.
Collaborative, interdisciplinary, cutting-edge opportunity to gain real world engineering experience while learning to think creatively and analytically to create engaging works of art; interdisciplinary collaboration and creative methodologies that enhance life-long creative practice of artists and engineers; basic electronics and Arduino prototyping platform to create programmable, sensor-driven, responsive circuits. Prerequisites: TDSN:2210 (01T:021) or CERM:2010 (01C:060) or MTLS:2910 (01G:084) or SCLP:2810 (01N:015). Same as ECE:2210 (055:012).

TDSN:2210 (01T:021) Problems in 3-D Design I: Form and Structure 3 s.h.
Materials, their formal and structural possibilities. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

TDSN:2220 (01T:022) Problems in 3-D Design II: Form and Function 4 s.h.
How objects are designed and structured; modeling, graphic skills necessary for basic project development. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: TDSN:2210 (01T:021).

TDSN:2230 (01T:025) Introduction to Portfolio Design 3 s.h.
Preparation of presentation boards and portfolio production for print and job application; for students in 3-D design and related areas. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

TDSN:2240 (01T:064) Introduction to Computer-Aided Design for 3-D Design 3 s.h.
Basic principles of 2-D and 3-D computer-aided drafting; use of AutoCAD software to draw plans, elevations, and sections for objects and interior spaces. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and TDSN:2210 (01T:021) or CERM:2010 (01C:060) or MTLS:2910 (01G:084) or SCLP:2810 (01N:015). Same as CEE:2240 (053:040).

TDSN:2250 (01T:070) Introduction to Computer Modeling for 3-D Design 3 s.h.
Basic knowledge and practical technical skills using 3ds Max studio software; experience creating and manipulating basic forms and working with texture, background, light, and camera viewpoints; basic animation. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

TDSN:2260 (01T:075) Introduction to Virtual Reality for 3-D Design 3 s.h.
Introduction to Vizard software; design of virtual 3-D space; translation of environments created in 3ds Max software into Vizard software. Corequisites: TDSN:2250 (01T:070), if not taken as a prerequisite.

TDSN:2270 (01T:028) Digital Forming 3 s.h.
Introduction to process of design; work with 3-D digital tools to create objects and forms printed with rapid prototyping technology; use of Leonar3Do software, 3-D glasses, and a bird device that functions as a mouse to create forms in space; virtual modeling techniques that allow creation and manipulation of shapes in the air; design development on Leonar3Do, improved with 3ds Max, and saved for 3-D printing. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and TDSN:2210 (01T:021) or CERM:2010 (01C:060) or MTLS:2910 (01G:084) or SCLP:2810 (01N:015).

Three-Dimensional Design, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

TDSN:3201 (01T:103) Advanced Computer Modeling with 3ds Max 3 s.h.
Creation of rendered and animated environments using advanced modeling techniques. Prerequisites: TDSN:2250 (01T:070).

TDSN:3205 (01T:110) Advanced Robotics 3 s.h.
Advanced peripheral integration and control, including stepper motors, solar power, audio playback, and live data manipulation through physical sensors; advanced fabrication (e.g., printed circuit boards and wiring harness design); for students with previous experience in robotics and electronics. Prerequisites: SCLP:3840 (01N:105).

TDSN:3210 (01T:137) Environmental Design I 4 s.h.
Human interaction with the interior and exterior environment. Offered fall semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: TDSN:2210 (01T:021). Same as THTR:3206 (049:158).

TDSN:3220 (01T:141) Interior Design I 4 s.h.
Relationship of interior space to its architecture, environment, human element; color, materials, furnishings, lighting; projects. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: TDSN:2210 (01T:021).

TDSN:3230 (01T:142) Color for Interior Design 4 s.h.
Use of color for interior spaces; principles of color theory reviewed and applied to 3-D environments; color as a compositional element and psychological tool. Prerequisites: TDSN:2210 (01T:021).

TDSN:3240 (01T:102) 3-D Computer-Aided Design arr.
Three-dimensional computer-aided drafting; use of AutoCAD software. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and TDSN:2210 (01T:021) or CERM:2010 (01C:060) or MTLS:2910 (01G:084) or SCLP:2810 (01N:015).

TDSN:4210 (01T:143) Digital Animation and Visual Art
Assimilation of digital animation into realm of traditional fine art mediums; exploration of fundamental skills (storyboarding, rotoscoping, stop motion, motion graphics, 3-D animation); Adobe Photoshop, After Effects, and 3ds Max techniques and software that are industry standards in the careers of animators, storyboard artists, roto artists, digital compositors, and motion graphic artists; production of a show reel of student work for group showing and final critique. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

TDSN:4220 (01T:144) Interior Design II
Continuation of TDSN:3220 (01T:141). Offered fall semesters of even years. Prerequisites: TDSN:2240 (01T:064) and TDSN:3220 (01T:141).

TDSN:4250 (01T:192) Fabrication and Design: Hand-Built Bicycle
Building a bicycle frame by hand; use of CAD modeling and development of fabrication skills to create a modern-day work of art. Prerequisites: TDSN:2240 (01T:064).

TDSN:4255 (01T:193) Hand-Built Bicycles in the Rockies
Building a titanium hand-built bike; use of hand-built fabrication techniques and tools; translation of CAD design into first full-suspension titanium fat bike; aspects of metal technology, concept development, fabrication geometry and design, metal properties and selection, tool selection, brazing and TIG welding, jig setup and use, and mitering; travel to Fort Collins, Colorado to work for one week at Black Sheep Bikes (two-time winner of the North American Hand Built Bike Show). Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

TDSN:4260 (01T:147) 3-D Computer Graphic Art
Three-dimensional modeling; emphasis on movement in form and function; advanced modeling techniques in polygonal and NURBS modeling to generate fundamentally sound models used for rapid prototyping, visualization, and animation; Box modeling, NURBS modeling, rigging, materials, bump maps, normal maps, and rendering; fundamental skills of computer graphic artists working in the fields of animation, architectural visualization, video game modeling, industrial design, and engineering design. Prerequisites: TDSN:2250 (01T:070).

TDSN:4270 (01T:176) Problems in 3-D Design: Locative Art Practice
How our relationship to Earth has changed with new forms of locating place in it; new forms of representation used to express exploration of that relationship; designing a locative research project; exploration of four major course concepts (geo-annotation, locative inscription, GPS drawing, alternative cartography) using portable, networked, and location-aware computing for mapping relationships. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

TDSN:4299 (01T:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction
Individual instruction in 3-D design for advanced students.

Three-Dimensional Design, Graduate

TDSN:6210 (01T:238) Environmental Design II
Continuation of TDSN:3210 (01T:137); design of virtual environments.

TDSN:6295 (01T:249) Advanced Problems in Design
Special issues and topics in design.

TDSN:6299 (01T:240) Individual Instruction in 3-D Design
Individual instruction in 3-D design for advanced students.

Drawing, Lower-Level Undergraduate

DRAW:2310 (01F:007) Life Drawing I
Observational drawing of form in its spatial contexts; drawing in varied media; figural as well as nonfigural content. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

Drawing, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

DRAW:3310 (01F:105) Concepts in Drawing
Intermediate-level topics; observation, theory, media, form, content; emphasis on personal direction. Prerequisites: DRAW:2310 (01F:007). Same as THTR:3205 (049:157).

DRAW:4310 (01F:109) Advanced Concepts in Drawing
Advanced-level topics. Requirements: DRAW:3310 (01F:105) taken two times.

DRAW:4320 (01F:106) Seminar in Painting and Drawing
Contemporary issues, practical and professional skills, interdisciplinary concerns, education and career goals. Offered fall semesters. Requirements: for undergraduate students — DRAW:3310 (01F:105); PNTG:2420 (01K:010) taken twice, or PNTG:2420 (01K:010) and PNTG:2430 (01K:046); and BFA clearance.
DRAW:4399 (01F:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction 1-3 s.h.
Individual instruction in drawing for advanced students.

Drawing, Graduate

DRAW:6310 (01F:201) Graduate Drawing 3-4 s.h.
Compositional and conceptual drawing as related to the student's major interest; varied media. Requirements: 6 s.h. of DRAW:3310 (01F:105).

DRAW:6399 (01F:205) Individual Instruction in Drawing arr.

Intermedia, Lower-Level Undergraduate Courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals are prerequisites for all intermedia courses for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing is prerequisite for nonmajors.

INTM:2710 (01J:090) Intermedia I 3 s.h.
Interdisciplinary focus; emphasis on conceptual, installation, video, time-based media, performance art. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

INTM:2720 (01J:091) Intermedia II 3 s.h.
Interdisciplinary investigation of materials and concepts in relation to time-based media, performance, video, installation; individual and collaborative projects. Prerequisites: INTM:2710 (01J:090).

INTM:2730 (01J:095) Topics in Intermedia 3 s.h.
Continuation of study and practice in emerging media and new genres, including video, Internet art, installation, new media, and social practice. Requirements: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) for majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) for nonmajors.

Intermedia, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

INTM:3720 (01J:104) Media Art Lab 4 s.h.
Study and production in the media arts—digital video, sound, installation/performance, Internet, new media art; conceptual development through readings, screenings; hands-on workshops using a range of media production equipment and platforms; in-class, short-term projects. Requirements: INTM:2710 (01J:090) or CINE:1834 (048:034) or graduate standing. Recommendations: experience with media technologies.

INTM:3730 (01J:100) Advanced Intermedia Topics 3 s.h.
Areas of intermedia practice, including installation, video, Internet-based production, sound design, image and text, new media. Prerequisites: INTM:2710 (01J:090).

INTM:3750 (01J:108) Art and Ecology 4 s.h.
Collaborative, creative research group; artistic responses to environmental sustainability and related social issues; critical approaches rooted in humanities, other disciplines. Prerequisites: INTM:2710 (01J:090).

INTM:3755 (01J:115) What is Storytelling For? 4 s.h.

INTM:3765 (01J:140) Artists in the Community—Intermedia 3-4 s.h.
Student participation in internships at Iowa City and Johnson county nonprofit organizations; interdisciplinary seminar.

INTM:3799 (01J:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction 1-3 s.h.
Individual instruction in intermedia for advanced students.

INTM:4775 (01J:110) Intermedia Workshop 3-4 s.h.
Visual practice/visual theory; projects, critiques, visiting artists and scholars. Requirements: INTM:2720 (01J:091) or graduate standing in intermedia.

Work of contemporary comics creators; how they craft memoir-based texts that explore intersections of aging, sexuality, race, gender, and relationships. Same as GWSS:4180 (131:180).

Intermedia, Graduate

INTM:6780 (01J:200) Art, Engagement, and Activism 4 s.h.
Role of artists in our communities; how to build a rewarding studio practice and influence social, political, and cultural decisions within the community; work of artists, designers, creative scholars, performers, and writers whose work is socially engaged, collaborative, labeled as radical or activist in nature; students produce a small body of written, visual, and performed work influenced by events and needs within their communities; examination and discussion of various theories of art, activism, performance, and engagement.

INTM:6795 (01J:208) Intermedia Graduate Special Topics 3-4 s.h.
Areas of intermedia practice, including installation, video, Internet-based production, sound design, image and text, new media.

INTM:6799 (01J:201) Individual Instruction in Intermedia and Video Art arr.

Metalworking and Jewelry, Lower-Level Undergraduate Courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals are prerequisites for all metalworking and jewelry courses for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing is prerequisite for nonmajors.

MTLS:2910 (01G:084) Introduction to Jewelry and Metal Arts 3 s.h.
Fabrication, hammer forming, hydraulic die forming, soldering, riveting, etching, texturing, anodization of aluminum and titanium, stone setting, and patination techniques; creation of jewelry, flatware, and other functional and nonfunctional sculptural objects using varied metals and other materials; emphasis on creativity, learning, and basic metalworking techniques. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

MTLS:2920 (01G:085) Intermediate Jewelry and Metal Arts
Applications with casting (gold, silver, bronze), enameling, and stone setting, processes may be combined; photo etching and 3-D computer modeling; trends in craft; emphasis on development of student’s personal aesthetics, learning, and refining technical skills in metalworking and jewelry techniques. Prerequisites: MTLS:2910 (01G:084).

Metalworking and Jewelry, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

MTLS:3920 (01G:186) Advanced Jewelry and Metal Arts
Electroforming; production of hollow copper structures through prolonged electroplating on a nonmetallic form (typically wax) with a conductive coating; metal-forming techniques (e.g., raising and fold forming); emphasis on development of personal aesthetics, learning, and refining technical skills in metalworking and jewelry techniques. Prerequisites: MTLS:2920 (01G:085).

MTLS:4910 (01G:187) Mixed Media Workshop
Free exploration of all media and materials, including found objects; creation of conceptual and/or functional mixed media objects, jewelry, sculptures, installation pieces; pioneering use of new materials, development of new techniques, creation of diverse innovative art works. Prerequisites: MTLS:2910 (01G:084). Recommendations: MTLS:2910 (01G:084) and MTLS:3920 (01G:186).

MTLS:4920 (01G:184) Mold Making
All aspects of mold making, including plaster, rubber, and silicone. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and MTLS:2910 (01G:084) or CERM:2010 (01C:060) or SCLP:2810 (01N:015) or TDSN:2210 (01T:021).

MTLS:4960 (01G:192) Form and Fabrication: The Hand-Built Bicycle Frame II
Building on TDSN:4250 (01T:192); advanced concepts of bicycle frame design and fabrication; concept development, fabrication geometry and design, metal properties and selection, tool selection, brazing and welding, including titanium-milling and how to build a frame jig; emphasis on applying fabrication skills while situating frame building project within context of a design problem. Prerequisites: TDSN:4250 (01T:192).

MTLS:4975 (01G:188) Graduate Workshop
Independent studio work; personal aesthetics, conceptual and technical skills developed and refined; creation of work without boundaries of media; portfolios, exhibitions, professional goals. Prerequisites: MTLS:2920 (01G:085), MTLS:3920 (01G:186), and MTLS:4910 (01G:187).

MTLS:4999 (01G:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction
Individual instruction in metalsmithing and jewelry for advanced students.

Metalworking and Jewelry, Graduate

MTLS:6999 (01G:240) Individual Instruction in Metalsmithing and Jewelry

Painting, Lower-Level Undergraduate Courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals are prerequisites for all painting courses for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing is prerequisite for nonmajors.

PNTG:2410 (01K:009) Painting I
Emphasis on observational painting, theory and development of pictorial ideas and skills. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

PNTG:2420 (01K:010) Painting II
Materials, techniques, beginning of a personal painting language through observation and imagination. Prerequisites: PNTG:2410 (01K:009).

PNTG:2430 (01K:046) Painting III
Painting, with contemporary issues overlying study in materials and techniques; language and direction of personal painting. Prerequisites: PNTG:2420 (01K:010). Requirements: PNTG:2420 (01K:010) taken two times.

Painting, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

PNTG:4499 (01K:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction
Individual instruction in painting for advanced students.

Painting, Graduate

PNTG:6475 (01K:207) Graduate Drawing and Painting Workshop

PNTG:6480 (01K:208) Graduate Drawing and Painting Forum
Problems and issues of contemporary artists.

PNTG:6495 (01K:206) Graduate Painting: Topics
Individual painting projects in desired medium; topics vary.
Papermaking, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

BKAT:3100 (01X:110) Papermaking 3 s.h.
History, fundamental techniques of Western and Eastern hand papermaking; projects in traditional sheet forming, basic paper chemistry, paper coloring. Offered spring semesters. Same as UICB:3100 (108:110).

BKAT:3280 (01X:104) Elements of Book Art 3 s.h.

BKAT:3400 (01Z:143) Calligraphy: Foundational Hands 3 s.h.
Fundamental calligraphic skills using Roman majuscule, Humanistic minuscule, Italic; basic layout and color theory incorporated into letter practice. Same as UICB:3400 (108:143).

BKAT:4100 (01X:130) Paperworks 3 s.h.
Conceptual and methodological approaches to 2-D and 3-D paper works; creation of works that couple unique properties of paper-pulp medium with personal visual ideas and clarity of intent; contemporary issues in paper pulp, medium's relationship to larger art and craft contexts. Same as UICB:4100 (108:130).

BKAT:4205 (01Y:150) Bookbinding I: Materials and Techniques 3 s.h.
Hands-on introduction to materials and techniques commonly used in bookbinding. Same as UICB:4205 (108:150).

BKAT:4210 (01Y:156) Boxes and Enclosures 3 s.h.

BKAT:4220 (01Y:157) Moveable/Sculptural Books 3 s.h.
Varied formats for moveable and/or sculptural books; history; readings, hands-on model making. Same as UICB:4220 (108:157).

BKAT:4230 (01Y:158) Pop-Up Book Structures 3 s.h.

BKAT:4270 (01Y:151) Bookbinding II 3 s.h.
Builds on skills acquired in UICB:4205 (108:150); projects to complete six bindings based on historical and contemporary models; sewing styles, board attachments, endband types; nonadhesive and case-bound structures, varied materials and binding styles, their effects on structure, aesthetic considerations, further development of solid binding skills; historical development of particular binding practices. Prerequisites: UICB:4205 (108:150). Same as UICB:4270 (108:151).

BKAT:4280 (01Y:015) Artists' Books 3 s.h.
Exploration of the book as a form for artistic expression; emphasis on conceptual development; relationship between content, form, and structure; how a book's structure and design can enhance and integrate part of the work's meaning. Prerequisites: UICB:4205 (108:150) or BKAT:4205 (01Y:150). Same as UICB:4280 (108:154).

BKAT:4400 (01Z:142) History of Western Letterforms 3 s.h.
History of Western letterforms, with focus on tools, materials, techniques; the major hands, their place in history, their influence on modern times; creation of letterforms using appropriate tools; hands-on approach with emphasis on understanding rather than mastery. Same as UICB:4400 (108:142).

BKAT:4490 (01Z:146) Studies in Letter Arts 3 s.h.

Papermaking, Graduate

BKAT:5110 (01X:120) Islamic/Asian Papemaking History and Technique 3 s.h.
History, technique, and aesthetics of traditional Islamic and Asian hand papermaking. Same as UICB:5110 (108:132).

BKAT:5120 (01X:133) Western Papemaking History and Technique 3 s.h.
History and technique of traditional European hand papermaking and related aesthetics; students gain confidence in pursuing independent production of handmade papers or undertaking related research in their own particular areas of interest; fiber preparation, sheet forming, and drying/finishing methods; concurrent readings and discussions of related history and aesthetics; special projects selected by student with instructor approval. Same as UICB:5130 (108:133).

BKAT:5170 (01X:136) Advanced Papemaking Production 3 s.h.
Independent Western- or Japanese-style projects undertaken at UICB Research and Production Paper Facility at Oakdale Campus under faculty guidance; plan, implement, and evaluate professional scale production runs using full-scale equipment. Prerequisites: UICB:5110 (108:132) or UICB:5130 (108:133) or BKAT:5110 (01X:120) or BKAT:5120 (01X:133). Same as UICB:5170 (108:136).
Advanced independent projects undertaken in a classroom setting; collaborative group discussions to plan, implement, troubleshoot, and evaluate student projects. Prerequisites: UICB:5110 (108:132) or UICB:5130 (108:133) or BKAT:5110 (01X:120) or BKAT:5120 (01Z:133). Same as UICB:5180 (108:131).

BKAT:5210 (01Y:152) Bookbinding III 3 s.h.
Bookbinding structures based on historical and contemporary models; differences in various binding practices, how these differences affect function, why the styles developed; experience choosing appropriate structures for particular uses; emphasis on fine tuning skills and techniques required for advanced binding practices; sewn endbands, rounding and backing, sewing on varied supports, board attachments, and covering methods. Requirements: for UICB:5210 (108:152) — UICB:4205 (108:150) and UICB:4270 (108:151); for BKAT:5210 (01Y:152) — BKAT:4205 (01Y:150) or BKAT:4270 (01Y:151) or UICB:4205 (108:150) or UICB:4270 (108:151). Same as UICB:5210 (108:152).

BKAT:5260 (01Y:153) Studies in Bookbinding 3 s.h.
Topics related to hand bookbinding. Same as UICB:5260 (108:153).

Photography, Lower-Level Undergraduate

Courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals are prerequisites for all photography courses for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing is prerequisite for nonmajors.

PHTO:2510 (01L:036) Beginning Digital Photography 3 s.h.
How to use digital technology to make high-quality color and black-and-white photographs from scanned film and digital files; basic photography skills, including exposure, bracketing, composition; how to use raw files to make large digital prints; color profiles for fine digital printing. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

PHTO:2513 (01L:040) Digital Photographic Imaging 3 s.h.
Working knowledge of digital image-making techniques, including image capture, image building/editing, printing/output options, work with Photoshop on Macintosh computers.

Photography, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

PHTO:3510 (01L:101) Intermediate Darkroom 3-4 s.h.
Darkroom techniques, including film developing and printing; theory and practice of photography as fine art and cultural phenomenon; development of visual literacy, students' critical awareness of their work. Requirements: PHTO:2510 (01L:036) for majors; PHTO:2510 (01L:036) or PHTO:2513 (01L:040) for nonmajors.

PHTO:3520 (01L:102) Intermediate Photography Digital 3-4 s.h.
Digital photography including landscape, portrait, collage, still life, manipulated images; black-and-white and color printing; computer technology; history of photography in political and social issues. Prerequisites: PHTO:2510 (01L:036).

PHTO:4510 (01L:105) Advanced Photography 3-4 s.h.
Individual projects; development of personal vision. Prerequisites: PHTO:3510 (01L:101) or PHTO:3520 (01L:102).

PHTO:4545 (01L:129) Materials and Techniques 4 s.h.
Concepts and techniques, from reading contemporary topics to understanding and applying nontraditional photographic processes and digital imaging. Prerequisites: PHTO:3510 (01L:101) or PHTO:3520 (01L:102).

PHTO:4555 (01L:140) Advanced Digital Imaging 4 s.h.
Varied image editing programs, with focus on Photoshop and the web. Prerequisites: PHTO:3510 (01L:101) or PHTO:3520 (01L:102).

PHTO:4599 (01L:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction 1-3 s.h.
Individual instruction in photography for advanced students.

PHTO:4665 (01L:165) Introduction to 4x5 and Studio Lighting 4 s.h.
Use of a 4x5 camera to correct perspective, depth of field; large format printing, negative processes. Prerequisites: PHTO:3510 (01L:101).

Photography, Graduate

PHTO:6575 (01L:236) Graduate Photography Workshop 4 s.h.
Projects: group critiques; readings.

Printmaking, Lower-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

Courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals are prerequisites for all printmaking courses for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing is prerequisite for nonmajors.

PRNT:2610 (01M:111) Introduction to Printmaking 3 s.h.
Introduction to methods, materials, and concepts of printmaking. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004). Requirements: art major.

Printmaking, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

PRNT:3610 (01M:111) New Media for Printmaking 4 s.h.
New concepts and techniques for contemporary print media, including digital and less toxic applications in relief, intaglio, lithography, and screenprinting. Prerequisites: PRNT:2610 (01M:011).

PRNT:3620 (01M:121) Intaglio

4 s.h.

Concepts, techniques; traditional through contemporary ideas, methods; emphasis on metal plate printing, including etching, drypoint, engraving, softground, aquatint. Requirements: PRNT:2610 (01M:011) or B.F.A. candidacy in any area or graduate standing.

PRNT:3630 (01M:124) Relief

3-4 s.h.

Concepts and techniques of relief printmaking, including woodcut, linocut, relief etching, black-and-white and color printing methods; traditional and contemporary approaches; for graduate students with no printmaking experience. Requirements: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and PRNT:2610 (01M:011) for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) for nonmajors; or B.F.A. candidacy in any area; or graduate standing.

PRNT:3640 (01M:131) Lithography

4 s.h.

Technical, aesthetic characteristics; basic direct drawing, processing; printing of stone and plate images in black and white. Requirements: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and PRNT:2610 (01M:011) for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) for nonmajors; or B.F.A. candidacy in any area; or graduate standing.

PRNT:3660 (01M:142) Monoprint

3-4 s.h.

Concepts, techniques in use of traditional and alternative printmaking media to produce unique, matrix-generated prints. Offered spring semesters.

PRNT:3670 (01M:151) Foil Imaging I

3 s.h.

Participation in development of new art form involving creation of original prints and other works of art using hot stamped foil and Iowa Foil Printer. Requirements: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and PRNT:2610 (01M:011) for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) for nonmajors; or B.F.A. candidacy in any area; or graduate standing.

PRNT:3675 (01M:170) Foil Workshop in Printmaking

2 s.h.

Hands-on experience creating foil prints; workshop format. One or two weeks. Offered summer session.

PRNT:3680 (01M:134) Silkscreen

4 s.h.

Photographic, nonphotographic stencil techniques for silkscreen printing. Requirements: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and PRNT:2610 (01M:011) for art majors; ARTS:1010 (01B:001) and ARTS:1050 (01B:080) for nonmajors; or B.F.A. candidacy in any area; or graduate standing.

PRNT:4610 (01M:135) Advanced Printmaking

4 s.h.

Print media (i.e., intaglio, lithography, relief, screenprint); emphasis on individual technical and conceptual growth and development of independent studio practices. Requirements: two courses chosen from PRNT:3620 (01M:121), PRNT:3630 (01M:124), PRNT:3640 (01M:131), and PRNT:3680 (01M:134).

PRNT:4620 (01M:122) Advanced Intaglio and Relief

3-4 s.h.

Concepts and techniques of intaglio/relief; etching, engraving, drypoint, softground, aquatint, woodcut, linocut, color printing; emphasis on advanced methods, personal vision.

PRNT:4640 (01M:132) Advanced Lithography

3-4 s.h.

Technical, aesthetic aspects; emphasis on color printing, indirect image-forming and photo-mechanical processes. Prerequisites: PRNT:2610 (01M:011) and PRNT:3640 (01M:131).

PRNT:4670 (01M:152) Foil Imaging II

4 s.h.

Advanced aesthetic and technical research for creation of original prints and other works of fine art using hot stamped foil and other printmaking techniques; individual instruction. Prerequisites: PRNT:3670 (01M:151).

Printmaking, Graduate

PRNT:6675 (01M:260) Graduate Print Workshop

3-4 s.h.

Contemporary issues in printmaking; emphasis on development of personal work and independent studio practice through group critiques, special research projects, work in all print media.

PRNT:6699 (01M:250) Individual Instruction in Printmaking

arr.

Sculpture, Lower-Level Undergraduate

Courses ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing and ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals are prerequisites for all sculpture courses for art majors; ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing is prerequisite for nonmajors.

SCLP:2810 (01N:015) Undergraduate Sculpture I

3 s.h.

Basic sculptural concepts, processes, investigation of materials such as plaster, clay, wood; emphasis on developing formal language, acquiring basic skills; spatial, conceptual, technical issues. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004); GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

SCLP:2820 (01N:016) Undergraduate Sculpture II

3 s.h.

Continuation of SCLP:2810 (01N:015); form, materials, processes, woodcarving, welding, concrete carving and direct application; expanding concept development; contemporary sculptural formats, collaborative process. Prerequisites: SCLP:2810 (01N:015).

SCLP:2875 (01N:019) Sculpture Workshop

3-4 s.h.

Critiques with focus on concept and form development; new processes. Prerequisites: SCLP:2810 (01N:015).

Sculpture, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

SCLP:3840 (01N:105) Introduction to Robotic Art Studio

3 s.h.
Exploration, design, and creation of interactive artworks, kinetic sculpture, robotic art, sound works, light art, and performance environments; application of basic electronics and mechanical techniques; use of programmable micro-controller Arduino. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003), ARTS:1520 (01A:004), and SCLP:2810 (01N:015) or CERM:2010 (01C:060) or MTLS:2910 (01G:084) or TDSN:2210 (01T:021).

SCLP:3895 (01N:140) Topics in Sculpture 4 s.h.
Projects, reading; specialized conceptual forms and issues in contemporary sculpture, such as public art, installation. Prerequisites: SCLP:2810 (01N:015).

SCLP:4825 (01N:165) Casting in Hot Metal 3-4 s.h.
Foundry work, wax working, mold making, and processes. Prerequisites: SCLP:2820 (01N:016).

SCLP:4830 (01N:170) Motion Systems for Visual Art 3 s.h.
In-depth study of motion in art; study of nature, dance, and mechanisms used as inspiration; motion considered conceptually and mined for specific qualities based on student interest; basic mechanical systems (e.g., gears, pulleys, levers, cams); technical considerations (e.g., material choices for low friction interfaces, ball-bearings, various bushings); power transmission via motors, wind, and human power; discussion of mechanical systems. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

SCLP:4835 (01N:175) Electronic Objects and Spaces 4 s.h.
Aesthetic use of electronics to sequence and control motion, light, and sound; introduction to basic electronics through hands-on workshops and discussions; demonstrations on how to build an Arduino, integrated circuits, power supplies, soldering, prototyping, motors, sensors; projects integrating electronics with objects and spaces; artist screenings and critiques. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

SCLP:4840 (01N:180) Air, Actuators, and Motors 4 s.h.
Introduction to wide range of motors, actuators, and air devices available for integration in art projects; various forms of motor control and necessary means to power these devices; DC and AC motors, stepper motors, solenoids, electro magnets, relays, pneumatics, inflatables, and other air-driven devices; development of a project utilizing one or more systems; examples and media demonstrations to show how artists and scientists employ these systems. Prerequisites: ARTS:1510 (01A:003) and ARTS:1520 (01A:004).

SCLP:4899 (01N:190) Undergraduate Individual Instruction 1-3 s.h.
Individual instruction in sculpture for advanced students.

SCLP:6264 (01N:264) Graduate Sculpture Workshop 3-4 s.h.
Critique seminar with readings for graduate sculptors and nonsculpture graduate students.

Graduate degree: M.A. in Asian civilizations

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/asll

The Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures offers instruction in languages of Asia and eastern Europe as well as in the literatures, civilizations, and cultures of the regions. In addition to offering degree programs, the department welcomes undergraduate and graduate students from across the University to enroll in courses that complement their degree programs or satisfy their personal interests.

The department offers language study in Chinese, Czech, Hindi, Japanese, Korean, Russian, and Sanskrit.

Undergraduate students in all majors may satisfy the World Languages requirement of the General Education Program (p. 323) with courses in Chinese, Czech, Hindi, Japanese, Korean, Russian, or Sanskrit; see "Language for General Education" below. They also may get acquainted with Asia and Eastern Europe by taking any of the department's General Education Program courses on Asian humanities and on Russian and Slavic literature and culture, all taught in English. Entering students may take the department's First-Year Seminars, one on Asian culture and civilization, the other on Slavic culture and civilization.

The Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures is one of the academic units in the Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures (p. 235).

Undergraduate Programs of Study
• Major in Asian languages and literature (Bachelor of Arts)
• Major in Russian (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in Asian languages
• Minor in Russian

The major in Asian languages and literature gives students the opportunity to develop advanced skills in an Asian language while they study the people, literatures, and cultures of Asia. Students choose one of four tracks: Chinese, Hindi, Japanese, or Sanskrit.

Students interested in Asian studies may add a second major in international studies with an emphasis in Asian studies; see International Studies (p. 428) in the Catalog. Many other disciplines work well as second majors for Asian languages and literature students, such as history, art history, political science, religion, sociology, journalism, business, and anthropology.

Graduates have found careers in education, government, communication, business, and other fields in the United States and abroad. The program also provides excellent background for advanced study in a variety of fields in the humanities and social sciences and for professional schools, such as law and business.

The Russian major trains students in both written and spoken Russian and in Russian literature, culture, and civilization. The department encourages students to pursue a second major (e.g., global health, history, linguistics, political science) and to develop their interests in related or complementary fields. Students interested in focusing on a broader interdisciplinary understanding of the region may earn a second major in International Studies (p. 428).

Training in Russian is often an important asset to careers in the natural and physical sciences, engineering, medicine, business, journalism, library and information science, and the social and military sciences. It also may be appropriate preparation for study of law or international relations as well as Slavic languages and literatures, comparative literature, and other humanistic disciplines.

Some governmental agencies are interested in job candidates who have advanced training in Russian; these agencies give preference to applicants who combine strong language proficiency with a well-rounded background in area studies. Students who develop an exceptional facility with the Russian language may pursue careers in literary and technical translation and interpretation.

Bachelor of Arts: Asian Languages and Literature

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in Asian languages and literature requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 27-30 s.h. of work for the major. Students choose one of four tracks: Chinese, Hindi, Japanese, or Sanskrit.

Credit required for the major depends on choice of track; requirements for each track are listed below. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The amount of approved transfer credit that may be applied to the major varies by track; students should consult their advisors about courses taken at other institutions, including study abroad.

The major in Asian languages and literature requires the following work.

Chinese Track
The Chinese track requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of work for the major. Students must complete the following courses.

Chinese Language
Students must successfully complete CHIN:2101 (039:105) Second-Year Chinese: First Semester and CHIN:2102 (039:106) Second-Year Chinese: Second Semester (total of 10 s.h.) at The University of Iowa with a grade of C or higher, or the equivalent, before they may enroll in the following required courses.

All of these:

Advanced Chinese language—one of these:

- CHIN:5101 (039:165) Fifth-Year Chinese: First Semester 3 s.h.
- CHIN:5102 (039:166) Fifth-Year Chinese: Second Semester 3 s.h.
- CHIN:5103 (039:171) Readings in Chinese Literature 3 s.h.

Chinese Literature and Cinema
One of these:

- CHIN:3202 (039:142) Chinese Literature: Prose 3 s.h.
- CHIN:3341 (039:141) Chinese Literature: Poetry 3 s.h.

One of these:

- CHIN:4203 (039:180) Modern Chinese Writers 3 s.h.
- CHIN:4206 (039:173) Transnational Chinese Cinemas 3 s.h.

Chinese Literature and Culture
The following courses support the study of literature and culture. Courses that pertain to Chinese culture (the arts, history, literature, politics, religion, and translation) and to the methodology of literary or cultural studies, and are cross-listed with the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures or are offered by other departments, may be counted toward this requirement.

Course content may vary by semester or instructor; students should consult their advisors for approval.

Two of these:

- ASIA:2602 (039:055) Civilizations of Asia: China 3 s.h.
- ASIA:4507 (039:198) Topics in Asian Studies arr.
- CHIN:1504 (039:019) Asian Humanities: China 3 s.h.
- CHIN:1702 (039:032) Chinese Popular Culture 3 s.h.
- CHIN:3201 (039:143) Workshop in Chinese Literary Translation 3 s.h.
- CHIN:4204 (039:140) The Literature of Daoism 3 s.h.
- CHIN:5104 (039:213) Advanced Classical Chinese 3 s.h.
- CHIN:5201 (039:240) Seminar in Chinese Fiction 3 s.h.

Hindi Track
The Hindi track requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of work for the major. Students must complete the following courses.

- SOAS:4101 (039:184)-SOAS:4102 (039:185) Third-Year Hindi-Urdu: First Semester - Third-Year Hindi-Urdu: Second Semester (students may substitute 6 s.h. of South Asian studies courses numbered 3000 or above, with the approval of their major advisors) 6 s.h.

Additional South Asian studies courses numbered 3000 or above, including 1-3 s.h. of independent study 16 s.h.

A list of advanced South Asian studies courses numbered 3000 or above is available from the department.

Hindi track students are urged to fulfill the General Education Program (p. 323) Historical Perspectives or International and Global Issues requirement (3 s.h.) by completing HIST:2606 (016:007)/ASIA:2606 (039:057) Civilizations of Asia: South Asia.

Japanese Track
The Japanese track requires 30 s.h. of work for the major. Students may apply a maximum of 12 s.h. of approved transfer credit toward track requirements. Those who are planning to study abroad should consult with their Japanese track advisors in advance to determine whether their planned course work abroad will be accepted toward track requirements.

The following courses are prerequisite to the Japanese track; students may not count credit earned in these courses toward track requirements.

- JPNS:1101 (39J:010) First-Year Japanese: First Semester 5 s.h.
Work for the Japanese track includes third-year and fourth-year Japanese, literature and translation, linguistics and advanced language studies, and cultural studies. Students must complete the following courses.

THIRD- AND FOURTH-YEAR JAPANESE
Both of these sequences (12 s.h.):

LITERATURE AND TRANSLATION
Three of these (9 s.h.):

- JPNS:3201 (39J:130) Workshop in Japanese Literary Translation 3 s.h.
- JPNS:3202 (39J:141) Traditional Japanese Literature in Translation 3 s.h.
- JPNS:3204 (39J:143) Topics in Japanese Literature in Translation 3 s.h.
- JPNS:3205 (39J:144) Major Authors in Modern Japanese Literature 3 s.h.
- JPNS:3206 (39J:146) Warriors Dreams 3 s.h.
- JPNS:3208 (39J:147) Introduction to Japanese Film 3 s.h.
- JPNS:3210 (39J:150) Japanese Theater 3 s.h.

LINGUISTICS AND ADVANCED LANGUAGE STUDIES
At least 6 s.h. from these:

- JPNS:3128 (39J:128) Introduction to Japanese Linguistics 3 s.h.
- JPNS:3402 (39J:129) Japan: Culture and Communication 3 s.h.

CULTURAL STUDIES
Students complete one course (total of 3 s.h.) chosen from the following lists.

- Asian and Slavic languages and literatures:
  - JPNS:1506 (039:020) Asian Humanities: Japan 3 s.h.
  - JPNS:3135 (39J:135) Postmodern Aesthetics and Japanese Culture 3 s.h.

- Anthropology:
  - JPNS:2175 (39J:125) Japanese Society and Culture 3 s.h.

- Art history:
  - JPNS:2250 (39J:033) Introduction to the Art of Japan 3 s.h.
  - JPNS:3260 (39J:123) Japanese Painting History 3 s.h.
  - JPNS:4610 (39J:172) Japan—Age of the Samurai 3 s.h.
  - JPNS:4615 (39J:173) Modern Japan 3 s.h.
  - JPNS:4620 (39J:175) Japan-US Relations 3 s.h.

- Religious studies:
  - JPNS:1115 (39J:017) Japanese Religions 3 s.h.

- World languages, literatures, and cultures:
  - JPNS:3700 (39J:162) Topics in Global Cinema 3 s.h.

Sanskrit Track
The Sanskrit track requires a minimum of 27 s.h. for the major. Students must complete the following courses.

Additional South Asian studies courses numbered 3000 or above, including 1-3 s.h. of independent study 15 s.h.

A list of advanced South Asian studies courses numbered 3000 or above is available from the department.

Sanskrit track students are urged to fulfill the General Education Program (p. 323) Historical Perspectives or International and Global Issues requirement (3 s.h.) by completing HIST:2606 (016:007)/ASIA:2606 (039:057) Civilizations of Asia: South Asia.

Bachelor of Arts: Russian
The Bachelor of Arts with a major in Russian requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 32 s.h. of work for the major earned in Russian courses. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in Russian requires the following courses.

Language—one of these:

- SLAV:3113 (041:109) Beginning Composition and Conversation I 4 s.h.
- SLAV:3114 (041:110) Beginning Composition and Conversation II 4 s.h.

Language—both of these sequences:

- SLAV:3111 (041:111)-SLAV:3112 (041:112) Third-Year Russian I-II 8 s.h.
- SLAV:4111 (041:113)-SLAV:4112 (041:114) Fourth-Year Russian I-II 8 s.h.
Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Asian languages and literature majors must complete designated pedagogy and linguistics courses in the department in addition to the course work required for their major.

Students who plan to use their work toward a minor in Chinese, Japanese, or Russian as academic background for earning teacher licensure should contact the Office of Education Services about requirements.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

B.A.: Asian Languages and Literature

Before the third semester begins: for students in Chinese and Japanese tracks, language work begun (students in the Hindi and Sanskrit tracks may begin language work in their sophomore year)

Before the fifth semester begins: at least first-year language competency

Before the seventh semester begins: at least second-year language competency and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least third-year, first-semester language competency and one additional course in the major (for the Japanese track, two additional courses in the major)

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.A.: Russian

Before the third semester begins: competence in first-year Russian

Before the fifth semester begins: competence in second-year Russian

Before the seventh semester begins: competence in third-year Russian, an additional course in the major, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester: competence in fourth-year Russian and two more courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in Asian languages and literature or in Russian have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major.

Asian languages and literature students must have the consent of the department chair and a faculty sponsor (an Asian specialist from any department) for departmental

Students majoring in Russian are urged to choose elective courses in economics, geography, history, political science, global health, and international studies. Nearly every avenue of professional training and employment requires a solid background in Russian area studies. For example, criteria for U.S. government employment include substantive knowledge in history, economics, political science, sociological disciplines, scientific specialties, demography, military-related skills, and in some cases, cultural and religious background. In-depth knowledge of literature or linguistics without other substantive background may be of limited practical use in finding employment.

B.A. with Teacher Licensure

Students majoring in Asian languages and literature (Chinese or Japanese track) or in Russian who are interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for their major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.
honors work. In order to graduate with honors in the major, they must register for ASIA:4301 (039:191) Honors Tutorial and ASIA:4506 (039:195) Senior Honors Thesis and must complete an acceptable thesis based on original research.

Students majoring in Russian must have junior or senior standing, a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in Russian, and a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in order to enroll in the honors program in Russian. Students may earn up to 9 s.h. of honors credit in Russian; they earn 3 s.h. for each set of extensive readings with discussions, regular reports, and a semester paper that they complete. Contact the department for more information about requirements for graduation with honors in the Russian major.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor: Asian Languages

The minor in Asian languages is offered with four emphases: Chinese, Hindi, Japanese, and Sanskrit. Credit for the minor varies by emphasis. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Requirements for each emphasis are listed below.

CHINESE EMPHASIS

The minor in Asian languages with Chinese emphasis requires 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa. The minor must include the following course work. Some of these courses have prerequisites; students must complete all of a course’s prerequisites before they may register for that course.

Both of these sequences:

CHIN:3101 (039:115)-CHIN:3102 (039:116) 6 s.h.

Third-Year Chinese: First Semester - Third Year Chinese: Second Semester

CHIN:4103 (039:128)-CHIN:4104 (039:129) 6 s.h.

Fourth-Year Chinese: First Semester - Fourth-Year Chinese: Second Semester

One of these:

CHIN:3202 (039:142) Chinese Literature: Prose 3 s.h.

CHIN:3341 (039:141) Chinese Literature: Poetry 3 s.h.

CHIN:4203 (039:180) Modern Chinese Writers 3 s.h.

CHIN:4206 (039:173) Transnational Chinese Cinemas 3 s.h.

HINDI EMPHASIS

The minor in Asian languages with Hindi emphasis requires 14 s.h., including 11 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa. The course SOAS:2101 (039:123) First-Year Hindi-Urdu: First Semester and SOAS:2102 (039:124) First-Year Hindi-Urdu: Second Semester do not count as advanced courses for the minor.

JAPANESE EMPHASIS

The minor in Asian languages with Japanese emphasis requires 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa.

The following courses are prerequisite to the Japanese emphasis; they do not count toward the minor.

JPNS:1101 (39J:010) First-Year Japanese: First Semester 5 s.h.

JPNS:1103 (39J:012) First-Year Japanese: Second Semester 5 s.h.

JPNS:3101 (39J:101) Second-Year Japanese: First Semester 4-5 s.h.

JPNS:3102 (39J:102) Second-Year Japanese: Second Semester 4-5 s.h.

The minor with Japanese emphasis must include the following courses.

Third-Year Japanese I-II

One course in literature and translation 3 s.h.

One course in linguistics and advanced language studies 3 s.h.

One course in literature and translation, or in linguistics and advanced language studies, or in cultural studies 3 s.h.

Students select the courses in literature and translation, linguistics and advanced language studies, and cultural studies from those listed under "Bachelor of Arts: Asian Languages and Literature*/Japanese Track" above.

SANSKRIT EMPHASIS

The minor in Asian languages with Sanskrit emphasis requires 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa. The advanced courses must be chosen from the following list.

SOAS:2902 (039:111) First-Year Sanskrit: 4 s.h.

Second Semester

SOAS:3901 (039:112) Second-Year Sanskrit: 3 s.h.

First Semester

SOAS:3902 (039:113) Second-Year Sanskrit: 3 s.h.

Second Semester

SOAS:4201 (039:186) Third-Year Sanskrit: First Semester 3 s.h.

SOAS:4202 (039:187) Third-Year Sanskrit: Second Semester 3 s.h.

SOAS:5201 (039:216) Individual Sanskrit for Advanced Students

The course SOAS:2901 (039:110) First-Year Sanskrit: First Semester does not count as an advanced course for the minor.

Minor: Russian

The minor in Russian requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in Russian courses, including 12 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may count a maximum of 3 s.h. taught in English toward the minor. The department recommends that students choose courses numbered 3000 or above for the minor, such as the following sequences.

SLAV:3111 (041:111)-SLAV:3112 (041:112) 8 s.h.
Third-Year Russian I-II
SLAV:3113 (041:109)-SLAV:3114 (041:110) 8 s.h.
Beginning Composition and Conversation I-II
SLAV:4111 (041:113)-SLAV:4112 (041:114) 8 s.h.

Language for General Education

Undergraduate students in all majors may satisfy the World Languages requirement of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323) with course sequences in Chinese, Czech, Hindi, Japanese, Korean, Russian, and Sanskrit.

Students who have had experience with Japanese or Russian should take the appropriate University of Iowa
World Languages Placement Test, which helps determine the level at which they should begin study of the language.
Students with backgrounds in Chinese, Czech, Hindi, Korean, or Sanskrit may receive individual evaluations from the department.

CHINESE
The following sequence fulfills the General Education Program's World Languages requirement and is appropriate for students without previous knowledge of Chinese.

CHIN:1111 (039:008) First-Year Chinese: First
Semester 5 s.h.
CHIN:1112 (039:009) First-Year Chinese: Second
Semester 5 s.h.
CHIN:2101 (039:105) Second-Year Chinese: First
Semester 5 s.h.
CHIN:2102 (039:106) Second-Year Chinese: Second
Semester 5 s.h.

Students who have participated in ABRD:3411 (165:814)
Iowa in Tianjin after completing CHIN:1111 (039:008) First-
Year Chinese: First Semester and CHIN:1112 (039:009) First-
Year Chinese: Second Semester, and students from Chinese-speaking families who perform exceptionally well in CHIN:1111 (039:008) First-Year Chinese: First Semester and CHIN:1112 (039:009) First-Year Chinese: Second Semester, may fulfill the World Languages requirement with the following sequence.

CHIN:1111 (039:008) First-Year Chinese: First
Semester 5 s.h.

SOAS:3902 (039:113) Second-Year Sanskrit: Second Semester 3 s.h.

Students interested in Sanskrit language study beyond the General Education requirement may take third-year Sanskrit courses listed under "Courses" toward the end of this Catalog section.

Related Certificate: International Business

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the Tippie College of Business offer the Certificate in International Business. The program entails study of international business and economics; international relations and institutions; a language; and the art, literature, culture, and/or politics of a geographic area. Students of Chinese, Japanese, Hindi, or Russian are likely to satisfy the certificate's language requirement while completing the requirements for their major. For information about the certificate, see International Business (p. 420) in the Catalog.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in Asian civilizations

  The master’s degree program in Asian civilizations prepares students for doctoral study in a variety of disciplines. It also may be a good choice for students planning nonacademic careers in which advanced knowledge of Asian civilizations could be useful. For example, students working toward professional degrees, such as an M.D. or J.D., may decide to earn the M.A. in Asian civilizations while completing the professional degree.

- Master of Arts

  The Master of Arts program in Asian Civilizations requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit, including 24 s.h. earned in residence at The University of Iowa. All students must maintain a g.p.a. of 3.00 or higher. Detailed information on degree requirements is sent to all applicants.

  M.A. students choose from several tracks: Hindi language and literature, Sanskrit language and literature, South Asian studies, Chinese literature and culture, Chinese linguistics, teaching Chinese as a foreign language, interdisciplinary Chinese studies, teaching Japanese as a foreign language, Japanese studies, and interdisciplinary Japanese studies.

  By the end of the first semester in residence, students propose a study plan developed in consultation with their advisor and in accordance with guidelines for specializations within the program.

  By the end of the final semester in residence, students are expected to demonstrate, either by departmental examination or the successful completion of courses at the appropriate level, advanced competence in Chinese, Japanese, Hindi, or Sanskrit. Advanced competence is defined generally as fourth-year level course work in Chinese or Japanese and third-year level in Hindi and Sanskrit.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog. The Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures requires a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 for regular admission and a g.p.a. of at least 2.75 for conditional admission.

Applicants must submit a statement of purpose, a research paper written in English, three letters of recommendation, and scores on the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) General Test. Applicants whose first language is not English must score at least 97 (Internet-based) on the Test of English as a foreign language (TOEFL).

Both international and U.S. graduate applications requesting financial support for the following academic year are due February 1. All other applications are accepted until April 15 for fall admission and October 1 for spring admission.

Application materials are available from the department.

Study Abroad

The department strongly urges its students to seek opportunities for summer language study and study abroad to accelerate the language acquisition process. The University’s memberships in the American Institute of Indian Studies and the China Cooperative Language and Study Programs consortium help facilitate students' access to quality international programs in India and China. The government of the People's Republic of China offers scholarships for two students to live and study in Mainland China each year.

The UI-Nanzan Exchange allows Iowa students to pay Iowa tuition, room, and board while attending the Center for Japanese Studies at Nanzan University in Nagoya, Japan. There also is a cooperative agreement with the Landour Language School in the Himalayan foothills of India. The South Asian Studies Program has launched a new study abroad program in Mysore and Bangalore, India, where students have the opportunity to study a variety of aspects of traditional and modern Indian civilization.

Iowa students participate in summer, semester, or academic year programs in Russian under the auspices of the American Council of Teachers of Russian (ACTR). The association directs academic language training programs in the cities of Moscow, St. Petersburg, and Vladimir.

Many students participate in summer, semester-long, and year-long study abroad programs in India, China, and Japan offered through other U.S. universities. In many cases credit is transferable, and it is possible for a student to study abroad and still complete the Four-Year Graduation Plan. There are many resources available for funding research and study abroad. It also may be possible for students to apply University of Iowa financial aid to their study abroad programs.

Contact the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures or International Programs Study Abroad for more information.

Summer Study, Internships

The department offers an intensive course of language study (second year) each summer in which students complete the equivalent of one academic year of study (the equivalent of one course for each of two semesters, totaling 8 s.h.). Scholarships are available for summer intensive Russian.

Students are encouraged to enrich their programs of study through internships designed to combine work experience in Asia or the United States with study or research projects. The University's Pomerantz Career Center keeps a list of internships.

Activities

Student Associations

Students have many opportunities to enrich their studies in Asian languages and literature while living in Iowa City. The University sponsors student associations for students from many Asian countries, including mainland China, Japan, Korea, India, Pakistan, and Taiwan. All University of Iowa students are welcome to join. Various international community groups sponsor cultural events and holiday celebrations throughout the year.

Residence in Living-Learning Community

The Global Mosaic Living-Learning Community welcomes American and international first-year and second-year students who wish to broaden their knowledge of international issues, languages, and cultures. Global Mosaic members live in Mayflower Residence Hall and enjoy a variety of programs on diverse cultures, the arts, fashion, cinema, dining and cuisine, study abroad, and more. Students must apply to live in the Global Mosaic Living-Learning Community; see the Living-Learning Communities web page.

Facilities

Language Media Center

The University’s Language Media Center provides facilities for language learning, teaching, and research. Equipment in the center includes state-of-the-art computer, audio, and video facilities as well as standard and short-wave radios, tape and cassette recorders, record players, and soundproof recording rooms. An electronic classroom, a soundproof workroom, and a library of tape, disc, and cassette recordings also are available.

University of Iowa Libraries

Since 1960 University of Iowa Libraries has routinely acquired most American titles in Asian studies and selected overseas scholarly publications in English and other Western languages. The Main Library's Asian collection includes approximately 80,000 volumes in Asian languages and about 140,000 Western-language volumes on Asian subjects. The University has been a member of the Library of Congress Foreign Currency Exchange Program for Indian books and periodicals since 1975. The library's nonprint media collection includes a growing number of Asian feature films. A Chinese-Japanese-Korean computer terminal gives students and faculty access to the growing Research Libraries Information Network database in Asian languages.

Financial Support

Undergraduate and graduate students have access to the following financial aid and scholarship resources. Contact the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures for application information.

Cheng/Liu Scholarship: Undergraduate and graduate students currently majoring in Chinese in the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures at The University of Iowa may apply for the Cheng/Liu Scholarship. The award can be used for summer Chinese language study.

Fairall Scholarship: Undergraduate or graduate majors who have attended and/or graduated from Iowa elementary or secondary schools may be nominated by the department to receive a Fairall Scholarship. Preference is given to Japanese studies students. Applications are available late spring, with scholarships to be awarded the following fall semester.

Foreign language and area studies fellowships: Only U.S. citizens are eligible. Graduate students combining work in Asian languages at an advanced level with interdisciplinary or professional programs may apply. The award is offered by International Programs for academic year and summer language study.

Graduate assistantships: The department offers teaching assistantships for graduate students in the program. All applicants to graduate study in the program receive information on applying for an assistantship. Assistantships are awarded each spring for the following academic year.

Graduate international research: Opportunities for funding research abroad include Stanley Fellowships for Graduate Student Research Abroad, CIREH Research Scholarships in International Health, Fulbright Grants, and Foreign Language Area Scholarships.

Summer language scholarships: Currently enrolled undergraduate and graduate students may compete for a Stanley-University of Iowa Foundation Support Organization Summer Language Scholarship, to be used for intensive summer language study in Chinese, Hindi, Japanese, or Sanskrit. Eight to ten awards of $2,000- $2,500 are made each summer. Applications are due March 1.

Support for undergraduate study abroad: Opportunities for undergraduates to study abroad include the Presidential Scholarships for Study Abroad and the Stanley Fellowships for International Research and Study.

Major forms of Japanese theater and performance including Nō and kyōgen, the bunraku puppet theater, kabuki, shingeki “Western” theater, benshi film narration, butoh modern dance, counterculture and street theater of the 1960s, and Japanese musicals; focus on textual analysis and performance practices; weekly screenings of theatrical performances and student-led staged readings of contemporary performances; all readings in English and screenings have subtitles or accompanying scripts; no knowledge of Japanese required.

JPNS:3260 (39J:123) Japanese Painting
Japanese painting in its historical, cultural contexts; focus on developments of successive eras—religious art; narrative, other literary connections; Zen; decorative traditions; popular arts; Japan and the modern world. Same as ARTH:3260 (01H:123).

JPNS:3401 (39J:103) Language in Japanese Society
Aspects of the Japanese language that reflect culture, social structures of Japan; communication styles and strategies, cross-cultural communication, language in media, metaphors.

JPNS:3402 (39J:129) Japan: Culture and Communication

Introduction to essential linguistic skills and practical knowledge needed to effectively communicate in Japanese in various professional contexts in socially appropriate manners; business-related expressions, vocabulary, honorifics; development of skills utilizing them in verbal and written modes; sociocultural knowledge associated with Japanese business context, including manners and customs; readings, films, discussions. Corequisites: JPNS:3104 (39J:106), if not taken as a prerequisite.

JPNS:3601 (39J:155) Contemporary Japanese Culture
Cultural texts and practices in contemporary Japan: literature, film, television, manga.

Same as RELS:3660 (032:116).

JPNS:3700 (39J:162) Topics in Global Cinema
Identification of new models and methods to investigate cinema's relationship to current global issues beyond traditional scholarly focus in Western Europe and the United States; exploration of an emerging field, moving away from the paradigm of national cinema and bringing together shared theoretical frameworks while acknowledging different historical and cultural contexts. Same as WLLC:3700 (218:160), ASIA:3700 (039:164).

JPNS:4201 (39J:145) The Tale of Genji 3 s.h.
Close reading in English of Murasaki Shikibu's Tale of Genji; tale's literary and social contexts, and later reception. Same as CL:4201 (218:144).

JPNS:4610 (39J:172) Japan—Age of the Samurai 3 s.h.
Society, culture, and politics of feudal Japan; social class, gender, norms, and political and economic developments explored through cinema and literature. Same as HIST:4610 (16W:172).

JPNS:4615 (39J:173) Modern Japan 3 s.h.

JPNS:4620 (39J:175) Japan-US Relations 3 s.h.
Political, social, economic, and cultural developments in Japan mid-19th to late-20th century. Same as HIST:4620 (16W:175).

Korean Culture and Civilization

ASIA:4151 (039:174) Selected Readings in Korean I 3 s.h.
Korean literary works and various readings related to Korean history, culture, and society; expansion of Korean literacy and cultural knowledge through readings; advanced Korean texts. Prerequisites: ASIA:3102 (039:151).

ASIA:4152 (039:179) Selected Readings in Korean II 3 s.h.
Reading various genres of more advanced texts than those covered in ASIA:4150; short stories, poetry, and essays familiar with educated Korean people; texts related to history and current events (e.g., articles from newspapers or magazines); texts written in hangul (Korean characters) and hanja (Chinese characters); Korean literature, history, and culture. Prerequisites: ASIA:3102 (039:151).

Slavic Culture and Civilization

SLAV:3082 (041:082) Youth Subcultures After Socialism 3 s.h.
Examination of youth subculture (i.e., distinct style and identity, beliefs, value system, fashion and favorite music) on the territory of post-communist Europe and its relations with the mainstream culture; how young people of Russia express their individuality after years of dullness and monotony. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.

SLAV:3100 (041:165) West and East: Women in the Slavic World 3 s.h.
Roles of women in two Slavic countries—Islamic Republic of Dagestan in Russia, and the Czech Republic—using approaches from the social sciences and humanities; Christian/Catholic traditions in the western Slavic country (i.e., Czechoslovakia/Czech Republic) and Islamic influences in eastern parts of Russia; analysis of women's egalitarian roles in socialist societies of 1980s, the impact of the major political, economic, and social transitions on women's lives in 1990s.

SLAV:3122 (041:155) Tolstoy and Dostoevsky 3-4 s.h.
Tolstoy's War and Peace, Anna Karenina; Dostoevsky's Crime and Punishment, The Brothers Karamazov, and short stories. Taught in English. Same as CL:3122 (218:149).

SLAV:3124 (041:157) Invitation to Nabokov 3 s.h.
Nabokov's works and his writings on Russian literature.

SLAV:3131 (041:104) Health Care and Health Reforms in Russia 3 s.h.
Societal changes and their continuing effect on the Russian health care system since 1991; guest lectures from public health, nursing, medicine, cultural anthropology. Same as GHS:3131 (152:170).

SLAV:3202 (041:102) Russian Literature in Translation 1860-1917 3 s.h.
Survey of major works, figures, and trends of 19th- and 20th-century Russian literature; age of the Russian novel; development of short fiction, drama, poetry of the Silver Age. Same as CL:3302 (218:107).

SLAV:3221 (041:168) Twentieth-Century Czech Authors 3 s.h.
Twentieth-century prose literature of Czechoslovakia; philosophical works of Capek, Hrabal, Kundera, Klima, Havel. Taught in English. Same as CL:3221 (218:154).

SLAV:3250 (041:190) Readings in Russian Literature 3 s.h.
Readings of poetry and prose by Russian authors. Requirements: third-year Russian.

SLAV:3480 (041:180) Literature and Translation 3 s.h.
Translation in the broadest sense; originality, authority, authorship, accuracy, ownership, audience; issues problematizing differences between medium and message. Same as PORO:3480 (160:180), TRNS:3480 (218:180).

SLAV:3990 (041:108) Special Readings arr.
Russian-language materials determined by student and instructor. Requirements: 16 s.h. of Russian language instruction.

Directed study.

SLAV:4995 (041:199) Honors arr.
Requirements: consent of program coordinator.

Asian Culture, Linguistics, Pedagogy, Individual Study

ASIA:5030 (039:234) Principles of Teaching and Learning Foreign Languages 3 s.h.

ASIA:5102 (039:214) Individual Korean for Advanced Students
Korea's modern/traditional culture, history, and current social issues; reading, translating authentic articles. Prerequisites: ASIA:3102 (039:151).

Offered fall semesters.

Offered spring semesters.

ASIA:6520 (039:235) Seminar: South Asian Religion 3 s.h.
Topics in South Asian religions. Same as RELS:6520 (032:235).

ASIA:6901 (039:200) Second Language Acquisition Research and Theory I 3 s.h.
Theories regarding success and failure in acquisition of second or subsequent languages; research, issues. Same as FREN:6901 (009:237), SLA:6901 (035:201), JPN:6901 (039:201).

ASIA:6903 (039:201) Second Language Acquisition Research and Theory II 3 s.h.

ASIA:6955 (039:223) Topics in Second Language Acquisition: Listening 3 s.h.
Theory, pedagogy, research, and assessment in second language listening. Same as SLA:6955 (035:223).

ASIA:7606 (039:258) Readings in Chinese History arr.
Same as HIST:7606 (016:292).

SOAS:5201 (039:216) Individual Sanskrit for Advanced Students arr.
Research, translation projects. Requirements: fourth-year proficiency.

Chinese Culture, Linguistics, Pedagogy, Individual Study

CHIN:5024 (039:233) Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language VII: Pedagogical Grammar 3 s.h.
Introduction to Chinese grammar system from perspective of teaching Chinese as a foreign language; students teach a unit of Chinese grammar to demonstrate understanding of assigned grammar unit and pedagogical approach involved.

Research, translation projects. Prerequisites: CHIN:4104 (039:129).

CHIN:5201 (039:240) Seminar in Chinese Fiction 3 s.h.
Novels, novelettes; 16th to 18th centuries (Ming and Qing periods). Requirements: ability to read original texts. Same as CL:5201 (218:233).

Requirements: two years of modern Chinese and one year of classical Chinese. Same as CL:5202 (218:441).

CHIN:6401 (039:210) Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language VI: Pedagogical/Research Project 3 s.h.
Participation in Chinese as a Foreign Language material development projects under instructor's guidance.

CHIN:7401 (039:202) Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language I: Theories/Research 3 s.h.
Research, theory on acquisition of Chinese as a non-native language. Same as SLA:7406 (164:281).

CHIN:7402 (039:203) Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language II 3 s.h.
Multiple levels of major Chinese textbooks, curricular organizational schemes, language programs, communicative language instruction; development of supplementary materials for a University of Iowa Chinese course. Same as SLA:7408 (164:282).

CHIN:7403 (039:204) Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language III 3 s.h.
Development, application of technological teaching/learning materials; emphasis on designing computer-based materials that increase learner interaction in contextualized cultural environments.

CHIN:7404 (039:208) Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language IV 3 s.h.
Overview of goals, concepts, principles, research, and issues in assessment and testing of Chinese as a foreign language. Same as SLA:7804 (164:274).

CHIN:7405 (039:209) Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language V 3 s.h.
Seminar on research design; for M.A. students planning to write a thesis or project, or graduate students seeking knowledge in designing qualitative or quantitative studies. Prerequisites: CHIN:7401 (039:202) and PSQF:4143 (07P:143). Same as SLA:7405 (164:275).

Japanese Culture, Linguistics, Pedagogy, Individual Study

JPNS:5301 (39J:200) Japanese Linguistics 3 s.h.
Japanese language as linguistic system; basic linguistic terminology; sound systems, grammar, meanings, usages. Prerequisites: JPNS:4102 (39J:122).

JPNS:5401 (39J:202) Japanese as a Foreign Language: Practical Applications 3 s.h.
Instructional methodology, curriculum, and material design; hands-on experience. Prerequisites: JPNS:4102 (39J:122). Same as SLA:5441 (164:276).

JPNS:5901 (39J:204) Practicum in Teaching Japanese as a Foreign Language
Teaching apprenticeship guided and supervised by a faculty member skilled in University curriculum and instruction.

JPNS:5902 (39J:215) Individual Japanese for Advanced Students
arr.

JPNS:6403 (39J:239) Special Topics in Japanese Linguistics

Undergraduate major: biology (B.A., B.S.)
Undergraduate minor: biology
Graduate degrees: M.S. in integrated biology; Ph.D. in integrated biology
Web site: http://www.biology.uiowa.edu

The Department of Biology offers undergraduate and graduate programs that prepare students for work in a wide variety of fields in business, education, foundations, government, health care, industry, and research. It also offers several courses that undergraduate students in all majors may use to satisfy the General Education Program (p. 323) Natural Sciences requirement and other courses on topics of general interest for undergraduate non-biology majors, including a First-Year Seminar designed for entering students.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
- Major in biology (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Sciences)
- Minor in biology

The major in biology prepares students to enter research or service careers associated with private industry or government programs and for primary and secondary school teaching. It also prepares them to enter advanced degree programs leading to careers in higher education and to independent research in a variety of biological fields, or for practice in health professions such as medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, nursing, veterinary medicine, medical technology, and physical therapy.

Students majoring in biology may earn a Bachelor of Science or a Bachelor of Arts degree. All students complete the chemistry/physics/mathematics foundation and the biology core. In addition, B.S. students choose one of six tracks, while B.A. students choose courses from several breadth menus and have a wider selection of elective courses.

The department acquaints undergraduate students with the nature of practicing scientists' work by offering BIOL:4898 (002:189) Entering Research, BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations (requires membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program), and BIOL:4899 (002:199) Introduction to Research (requires a Department of Biology faculty sponsor). Students associate with one of the department's research groups in experiments, discussion of current research, study of specialized topics, and attendance at research seminars.

Students interested in field biology, zoology, or botany may take varied courses in those subjects offered during the summer at Iowa Lakeside Laboratory (p. 1267), in northwestern Iowa.

Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Science with a major in biology requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 65-75 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major is divided into six tracks that emphasize the most dynamic and active areas in the biological sciences. Five of the tracks—cell and developmental biology, genetics and biotechnology, evolutionary biology, neurobiology, and plant biology—emphasize distinct areas. The sixth track—comprehensive biology—provides highly diverse content. Students working toward a B.S. must complete the chemistry/physics/mathematics foundation, the biology core, and one of the six tracks.

Students who wish to apply transfer credit toward graduation with a major in biology should consult their biology advisor.

CHEMISTRY/PHYSICS/MATHEMATICS FOUNDATION

All of these:
CHEM:1110 (004:011)-CHEM:1120 (004:012) 8 s.h.
Principles of Chemistry I-II
CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I 3 s.h.
One of these sequences:
PHYS:1511 (029:011)-PHYS:1512 (029:012) 8 s.h.

MATH:1550 (22M:031) Engineering Mathematics I: Single Variable Calculus 4 s.h.
MATH:1850 (22M:025) Calculus I 4 s.h.
One of these:
STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing (preferred for evolution track) 3 s.h.
STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.

BIOLOGY CORE
All of these:
BIOL:1411 (002:031)-BIOL:1412 (002:032) 8 s.h.
Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function
BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution 4 s.h.

Tracks for the Bachelor of Science
Bachelor of Science students majoring in biology must select a single track. Each track includes seven or eight courses. The experiential elective requirement may be satisfied by taking an appropriate investigative lab for the track, or through several other options: students who use BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations to fulfill the experiential elective requirement must complete a minimum of 6 s.h. in that course; students who use BIOL:4899 (002:199) Introduction to Research must complete a minimum of 5 s.h. in combination with 1 s.h. in BIOL:4898 (002:189) Entering Research; and students who use BIOL:4897 (002:188) Advanced Teaching Internship in Biology must complete a minimum of 4 s.h. in that course.

CELL AND DEVELOPMENTAL BIOLOGY TRACK
The cell and developmental biology track provides education in the structure and function of cells and in the principles of development as they apply to animals and plants. This track is appropriate for students who wish to pursue graduate study in cellular and developmental biology, to prepare for professional study in medicine and other health-related fields, or to take positions in laboratories and companies engaged in cancer research and related fields.

Group 1 (Biochemistry)
One of these:
BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
BIOC:3120 (099:120) & BIOC:3130 (099:130) 6 s.h.
Biochemistry and Molecular Biology I-II

Group 2 (Cell/Developmental Biology Core)
This course:
BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology 3 s.h.
One of these:
BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology 3 s.h.
BIOL:3363 (002:117) Plant Developmental Biology 3 s.h.

GENETICS AND BIOTECHNOLOGY TRACK
The genetics and biotechnology track provides education in the key principles of transmission, maintenance, regulation, and manipulation of genes. This track is appropriate for students who wish to pursue graduate study in fields related to genetics or to enter the modern biotechnology industry. It also provides excellent preparation for professional study in medicine and other health-related fields.

- MICR:3170 (061:170) Microbial Genetics
  - 3 s.h.

NEUROBIOLOGY TRACK
The neurobiology track provides education in nervous system function at all levels, from molecular to systems biology. This track is appropriate for students who wish to pursue graduate study in neurobiology and related areas, including psychology and the social sciences; to enter laboratories that study the therapeutic basis of neurological disorders; or to work in pharmaceutical companies. It also provides good preparation for professional study in medicine and other health-related fields.

Group 1 (Biochemistry)

One of these:

- BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.

- BIOL:3626 (002:133) Cell Biology Laboratory 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3676 (002:132) Evolution Lab (if not used for group 2 above) 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3716 (002:138) Genetics and Biotechnology Lab (if not used for group 2 above) 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3736 (002:135) Developmental Biology Lab 4 s.h.
- BIOL:4897 (002:188) Advanced Teaching Internship in Biology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations (in neurobiology) 6 s.h.
- ENVS:3095 (159:195) Field Ecology 4 s.h.
- An approved Iowa Lakeside Laboratory course on plant diversity or plant ecology 4 s.h.

Group 4 (Electives)

At least two of these, with a minimum of one course numbered 3000 or above:

- BIOL:2254 (002:150) Endocrinology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3343 (002:124) Animal Physiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:4353 (002:181) Neurophysiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:4753 (002:184) Developmental Neurobiology 3 s.h.

PLANT BIOLOGY TRACK

The plant biology track provides education in how plants grow, how they have evolved, and how they interact with other organisms. This track is appropriate for students who wish to pursue graduate study in biology specializing in plants. It also is good preparation for positions in plant biotechnology companies that work in biofuels development, crop improvement, or carbon dioxide sequestration, or in agencies dedicated to the conservation of natural lands.

Group 1 (Biochemistry)

One of these:

- BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
- BIOC:3120 (099:120) & BIOC:3130 (099:130) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology I-II 6 s.h.

Group 2 (Plant Biology Core)

Both of these:

- BIOL:3363 (002:117) Plant Developmental Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3663 (002:139) Plant Response to the Environment 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3676 (002:132) Evolution Lab 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3716 (002:138) Genetics and Biotechnology Lab 4 s.h.

Group 3 (Experiential Elective)

One of these:

- BIOL:3626 (002:133) Cell Biology Laboratory 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3676 (002:132) Evolution Lab (if not used for group 2 above) 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3716 (002:138) Genetics and Biotechnology Lab (if not used for group 2 above) 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3736 (002:135) Developmental Biology Lab 4 s.h.
- BIOL:4897 (002:188) Advanced Teaching Internship in Biology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations (in plant biology) 6 s.h.
- ENVS:3095 (159:195) Field Ecology 4 s.h.
- An approved Iowa Lakeside Laboratory course on plant diversity or plant ecology 4 s.h.

Group 4 (Electives)

At least two of these, with a minimum of one course numbered 3000 or above:

- BIOL:2374 (002:103) Biogeography 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2673 (002:134) Ecology 3-4 s.h.
- BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3314 (002:178) Genomics 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3713 (002:171) Molecular Genetics 4 s.h.
- BIOL:4213 (002:170) Bioinformatics 4 s.h.
- BIOL:4273 (002:162) Population Genetics and Molecular Evolution 3 s.h.
- EES:4700 (012:170) Evolution of Ecosystems 3 s.h.

COMPREHENSIVE BIOLOGY TRACK

The comprehensive biology track offers a diverse, well-balanced introduction to the major fields of biology. This track prepares students for graduate study in the biological sciences and in science education and for work in laboratories that engage in research and applications in many fields of biology. It also provides broadly based preparation for professional study in medicine and other health-related fields.

Group 1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology)

One of these sequences:

- BIOC:3120 (099:120) & BIOC:3130 (099:130) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology I-II 6 s.h.
BIOL:3314 (002:178) & BIOC:3110 (099:110) 6 s.h.
Genomics - Biochemistry
BIOL:3713 (002:171) & BIOC:3110 (099:110) 7 s.h.
Molecular Genetics - Biochemistry

PHYS:1511 (029:011)-PHYS:1512 (029:012) Principles of Physics I-II  8 s.h.
PHYS:1611 (029:081)-PHYS:1612 (029:082) Introductory Physics I-II  8 s.h.

Suggested Schedule for First-Year Science Courses
The following first-year schedule of science courses is recommended for all biology majors (B.A. or B.S. students).

First-semester science courses:
CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I  4 s.h.
Calculus or mathematics leading to calculus  5-10 s.h.

Second-semester science courses:
BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology  4 s.h.
CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II  4 s.h.
Calculus (if not taken during the first semester)  5 s.h.

Bachelor of Arts
The Bachelor of Arts with a major in biology requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 62-73 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).
The major for the Bachelor of Arts prepares students for graduate study in the biological sciences and is especially appropriate for those interested in careers in biological science education at all levels. It also provides suitable preparation for professional positions in laboratory or field research or for professional study in medicine and other health-related fields.
The B.A. program is broadly based. It introduces students to key concepts in important areas of biology and, compared to the B.S. program, provides more flexibility in choosing elective courses. Students working toward a Bachelor of Arts must complete the chemistry/physics/math foundation; the biology core; one course from each of three breadth menus; one course with a laboratory; and three elective courses, which may include one course in the history or philosophy of science.
Students who wish to apply transfer credit toward graduation with a major in biology should consult their biology advisor.

CHEMISTRY/PHYSICS/MATHEMATICS FOUNDATION
All of these:
CHEM:1110 (004:011)-CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry I-II  8 s.h.
CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I  3 s.h.

One of these:
BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry  3 s.h.
CHEM:2220 (004:122) Organic Chemistry II  3 s.h.

One of these sequences:
PHYS:1511 (029:011)-PHYS:1512 (029:012) Principles of Physics I-II  8 s.h.
PHYS:1611 (029:081)-PHYS:1612 (029:082) Introductory Physics I-II  8 s.h.

One of these:
MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences  4 s.h.
MATH:1550 (22M:031) Engineering Mathematics I: Single Variable Calculus  4 s.h.
MATH:1850 (22M:025) Calculus I  4 s.h.

One of these:
STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing  3 s.h.
STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics  3 s.h.

BIOLOGY CORE

All of these:
BIOL:1411 (002:031)-BIOL:1412 (002:032) Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function  8 s.h.
BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics  4 s.h.
BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution  4 s.h.

BREADTH MENUS

Students must complete at least one course from each of the following three breadth menus.

Molecular and Cellular Biology
BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology  3 s.h.
BIOL:2753 (002:145) Introduction to Neurobiology  3 s.h.
BIOL:3314 (002:178) Genomics  3 s.h.
BIOL:3713 (002:171) Molecular Genetics  4 s.h.

Developmental Biology and Physiology
BIOL:2254 (002:150) Endocrinology  3 s.h.
BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology  3 s.h.
BIOL:3343 (002:124) Animal Physiology  3 s.h.
BIOL:3363 (002:117) Plant Developmental Biology  3 s.h.
BIOL:3663 (002:139) Plant Response to the Environment  3 s.h.

Ecology and Evolutionary Biology
BIOL:2374 (002:103) Biogeography  3 s.h.
BIOL:2673 (002:134) Ecology  3 s.h.
BIOL:4273 (002:162) Population Genetics and Molecular Evolution  3 s.h.

COURSE WITH A LABORATORY

One of these (must not have been used as a breadth menu course):
BIOL:2346 (002:108) Vertebrate Zoology  4 s.h.
BIOL:3244 (002:143) Animal Behavior  4 s.h.
BIOL:3626 (002:133) Cell Biology Laboratory  4 s.h.
BIOL:3656 (002:186) Neurobiology Laboratory  4 s.h.
BIOL:3676 (002:132) Evolution Lab  4 s.h.
BIOL:3716 (002:138) Genetics and Biotechnology Lab  4 s.h.
BIOL:3736 (002:135) Developmental Biology Lab  4 s.h.
BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations  6 s.h.
BIOC:3140 (099:140) Experimental Biochemistry  2 s.h.

EES:3210 (012:121) Principles of Paleontology  3 s.h.
MICR:2157 (061:157) General Microbiology  5 s.h.
Iowa Lakeside Laboratory courses (students consult their advisors) 4-5 s.h.

ELECTIVES

Students complete at least three elective courses, which may include any course chosen from a breadth menu or from the list of courses with a laboratory that has not been used to satisfy those requirements, any other 2-4 s.h. course numbered 2000 or above except for BIOL:2211 (002:099) Genes, Genomes, and the Human Condition offered by the Department of Biology, any approved advanced biology course taught at Iowa Lakeside Laboratory (p. 1267) (students should consult their advisors), and/or any course(s) chosen from the following list.

ANTH:3307 (213:116) Modern Human Origins  3 s.h.
ANTH:3310 (213:188) Primate Behavior and Ecology  3 s.h.
ANTH:3322 (213:170) Primate Evolutionary Biology  3 s.h.
ANTH:3325 (213:151) Human Evolutionary Genetics  3 s.h.
ASP:3160 (153:160) Biology of Aging  3 s.h.
EES:3070 (012:107) Marine Ecosystems and Conservation  3 s.h.
EES:3220 (012:122) Evolution of the Vertebrates  3 s.h.
EES:4700 (012:170) Evolution of Ecosystems  3 s.h.
HHP:4130 (027:155) Skeletal Muscle Physiology  3 s.h.
MICR:3147 (061:147) Survey of Immunology  3 s.h.

One of the electives may be chosen from these:
GEOG:3110 (044:131)/GHS:4111 (152:131) Geography of Health  3 s.h.
HIST:4160 (16W:137)/GHS:4160 (152:137) History of Public Health  3 s.h.
HIST:4419 (16E:139) Ancient and Medieval Science  3 s.h.
PHIL:3604 (026:104) Introduction to Philosophy of Science  3 s.h.

Suggested Schedule for First-Year Science Courses

The following first-year schedule of science courses is recommended for all biology majors (B.A. or B.S. students).

First-semester science courses:
Biology

Second-semester science courses:

B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure

Biology majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Students with a strong interest in science teaching may complete a major offered by the Science Education Program. Students choose one of five emphases—biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, or all-science—and earn a Bachelor of Science degree. They may apply for admission to the Teacher Education Program. See Science Education (p. 809) in the Catalog.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Bachelor of Science

Before the fifth semester begins: BIOL:1412 (002:032) Fundamental Genetics, BIOL:2512 (002:128) Evolution, PHYS:1511 (029:011) College Physics I and PHYS:1512 (029:012) College Physics II or equivalents; five or six more courses in the major, including an investigative lab; and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: two or three more courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Bachelor of Arts

Before the seventh semester begins: BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics, BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution, PHYS:1511 (029:011) College Physics I and PHYS:1512 (029:012) College Physics II or equivalents; five or six more courses in the major, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: two or three more courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in biology have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. The Biology Honors Program introduces students to the pursuits of practicing scientists. Honors students associate with one of the department's research groups and participate in an independent research project guided by a faculty member (the research supervisor).

Biology honors students write a thesis based on an interesting biological problem, which is usually identified by the research supervisor. The thesis should clearly document that the student has acquired the necessary experimental skills to address specific questions and test specific hypotheses related to the research problem. Honors Seminar in Biology [BIOL:4998 (002:198)], or an equivalent seminar, provides students with an ideal opportunity to improve their skills in seminar presentation and in writing scientific English. Throughout undergraduate residence, departmental honors students also may enroll in honors sections of courses offered by the Department of Biology and by other departments and programs.

To graduate with honors in the biology major, students must fulfill the following requirements:

- complete the requirements for a major in biology (either B.S. or B.A.) with a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in all course work in the major taken at The University of Iowa (including all biology courses and cognates in chemistry, physics, biochemistry, mathematics, and statistics);
- complete 2 s.h. in either BIOL:4998 (002:198) Honors Seminar in Biology or an advanced biology seminar course;
complete a minimum of 6 s.h. (taken over two or more semesters) of BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations;
write a brief research proposal summarizing the background and goals of their proposed honors research;
upon completion of their research, submit an acceptable honors thesis; and give a brief oral presentation of their research findings to other biology honors students.

Students pursuing a B.S. in biology may apply 6 s.h. of BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations toward the experiential elective requirement in an appropriate track. Students pursuing a B.A. in biology may apply 6 s.h. of BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations toward the required course with a laboratory and count the 2 s.h. earned in BIOL:4998 (002:198) Honors Seminar in Biology toward the elective requirement.

Honors students in biology must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Biology majors interested in graduating with honors in the major should contact the biology honors advisor as early as possible, preferably during their sophomore or junior year, so that they may be matched with an appropriate lab. Visit Biology Honors Program to learn more about honors study in the department.

Joint B.A./M.A.T. with Science Education Subprogram

Bachelor of Arts students interested in pursuing a graduate degree in teaching may apply to the joint Bachelor of Arts/Master of Arts in Teaching program offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the College of Education. Designed for undergraduates majoring in biology, chemistry, environmental sciences, or physics, the joint program enables students to earn a B.A. and an M.A.T. in five years by beginning to earn graduate credit during their fourth year of undergraduate study and by counting up to 18 s.h. of qualifying credit toward both degrees. For more information, see “Joint B.A./M.A.T. with Science Education Subprogram” in the Teaching and Learning (College of Education) section of the Catalog. Interested students should consult an advisor.

Joint B.A./Graduate Degrees in Epidemiology

Bachelor of Arts students majoring in biology who are interested in earning a Master of Science in epidemiology or a Master of Public Health with epidemiology subprogram may apply to the joint B.A./M.P.H. or joint B.A./M.S. program offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the College of Public Health. The joint programs permit students to count 12 s.h. of credit toward the requirements of both degrees, enabling them to begin the study of public health before they complete the bachelor’s degree. For information about the M.P.H., see “Epidemiology Subprogram” in the Master of Public Health (p. 1225) section of the Catalog; for information about the M.S. program, see Epidemiology (p. 1208) in the Catalog.

Minor

The minor in biology requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in biology courses, including 12 s.h. in courses numbered 2000 or above offered by the Department of Biology at The University of Iowa or in approved Iowa Lakeside Laboratory (p. 1267) courses. Students must maintain a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may not count transfer courses as courses numbered 2000 or above.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Science in integrated biology, with or without thesis
- Doctor of Philosophy in integrated biology

The Department of Biology’s graduate programs in integrated biology emphasize original research and the skills essential for publishing and communicating research findings to the scientific community. The programs prepare students for careers in the academic research community, education, industry, government, and a variety of other careers in which their scientific expertise can be used. Research programs in the department cover most areas of the biological sciences: cell biology, developmental biology, ecology, evolution, genetics, and neurobiology. Graduate study in the department provides students with a broad understanding of these basic areas.

When a new graduate student is admitted, he or she is assigned a temporary advisor. The student and advisor discuss the student’s educational background and formulate a first-semester study plan before the student registers for courses. The programs allow each student to tailor course work to his or her research interest. Students may be advised to take specific course work in order to enhance their background in certain areas.

During the first year, students whose preparation in chemistry, genetics, mathematics, and physics does not meet the department’s graduate entry requirements may need to remedy deficiencies by taking appropriate course work.

Minimum entry requirements are:

- two semesters of organic chemistry, or one semester of organic chemistry and one semester of biochemistry;
- one semester of calculus;
- two semesters of college physics; and
- 20 s.h. of course work in biology.

A student with a bachelor’s degree outside the biological sciences may request modification of certain area requirements; the Graduate Affairs Committee decides whether portions of the requirements may be waived.

Master of Science

The Master of Science in integrated biology requires 30 s.h. of graduate credit with thesis and 34 s.h. of graduate credit without thesis. Entering students are admitted only to the thesis program; the nonthesis degree is an exit program.
All M.S. students take a seminar (2 s.h.) with a substantial writing and oral presentation requirement and two advanced lecture-based courses in biology. Students receive academic credit for courses required for an M.S. or Ph.D. but not for courses taken to remedy undergraduate deficiencies.

Thesis students may count a maximum of 9 s.h. of research credit toward the 30 s.h. required for the master's degree with thesis. Remaining course work is tailored to the student's background and career goals and is selected in consultation with the student's advisory committee. The thesis is based on original research. After the thesis is accepted by the student's supervisor and advisory committee, the student must pass an oral examination based on the thesis research and on related subjects.

Nonthesis students must write a library research report for a maximum of 4 s.h. of credit. They may apply up to 8 s.h. of research credit toward the 34 s.h. required for the master's degree without thesis.

Visit Integrated Biology Graduate Program for more detailed information about the Master of Science program.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy in integrated biology requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit.

The department expects new Ph.D. students to do research in three laboratories on a rotating basis during their first semester (August-December). Students consult with their temporary advisors and with prospective faculty research sponsors before identifying their preferences for research rotations. Based on their rotations, they choose a laboratory affiliation for their thesis.

During the first year, students are required to enroll in BIOL:6298 (002:200) Concepts, Models, and Systems in Biology (COSMOS) Seminar, which introduces them to multiple levels of biological analysis and provides them with significant opportunities to hone their skills in written and oral communication. At the end of the first year, students take a qualifying exam that consists of essay questions based on major themes in biology; students must perform satisfactorily on this exam in order to continue in the program.

During the first two years, students must enroll in at least two advanced lecture courses, one seminar course (2 s.h.) that has a significant writing component, and a course on scientific writing designed for graduate students.

For the comprehensive examination, which is taken in summer of the second year in residence, students prepare a National Institutes of Health/National Science Foundation-style grant application on their planned thesis work and answer questions about the document in an oral exam. Students must demonstrate knowledge of biology fundamentals and the analytic and synthetic skills necessary to become creative, independent scientists. Once they complete the course work and proficiency requirements and pass the comprehensive examination, students may be admitted to full candidacy for the Ph.D.

Ph.D. students also must develop and demonstrate teaching skills by serving as teaching assistants for at least two semesters. The first teaching semester takes place during spring of the student's first year; it includes extensive departmental training in effective teaching skills.

The department also offers career seminars that explore types of employment outside of academic research, including teaching careers.

The program culminates in students' preparation of a dissertation based on original independent research. Students must pass a final examination that covers the thesis and its specialized field before the Ph.D. is awarded.

Visit Integrated Biology Graduate Program for more detailed information about the Doctor of Philosophy program.

Admission

Individuals who wish to pursue graduate study in integrated biology may apply to the Doctor of Philosophy program or the Master of Science with thesis program. The M.S. without thesis is an exit program; it does not admit entering graduate students.

Application materials for the graduate program must be sent both to the University's Office of Admissions and to the Department of Biology graduate admissions committee. For detailed instructions, visit Apply on the integrated biology graduate program web site.

Applicants should have official transcripts from each undergraduate and graduate institution they have attended sent to both the Office of Admissions and the Department of Biology. They also should arrange to have official scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test (verbal, quantitative, and analytical writing) sent to both offices. A valid B.A. or B.S. from an accredited institution is required.

Applicants whose first language is not English must score at least 100 (Internet-based) on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) and have their score sent to the Office of Admissions. International applicants who received their degrees (either bachelor's or master's) from a U.S. institution are exempt from this requirement. All international students whose first language is not English are required to take the on-campus English Proficiency Evaluation before they first enroll for classes.

Successful applicants for graduate admission typically have a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 (on a 4.00 scale) and a Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test score above 1200 (combined verbal and quantitative) on the old GRE or 308 (combined verbal and quantitative) on the revised GRE. The admissions committee also considers letters of recommendation, research experience, and other appropriate criteria.

Although most applicants have completed undergraduate programs in biology, the department also considers applicants with backgrounds in related sciences, providing they have taken the required course work.

Students applying for admission to the M.S. with thesis program should have a bachelor's degree in one of the biological sciences. Students with bachelor's degrees in other areas may need to register as nondegree students and complete the equivalent of the department's bachelor's degree program prior to consideration for admission. Nondegree students must complete chemistry, physics, and calculus requirements in addition to the biology courses listed in the undergraduate program. Nondegree students should consult the department's graduate program administrator before applying for admission.
Applications are due by January 1 (visit Integrated Biology Graduate Program for updated deadline information) and must include the applicant's GRE test scores. In order to meet the deadline, applicants must take the GRE in October or earlier. Late applications are considered as placement and funding permit.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Financial Support
All graduate students making satisfactory progress toward the Ph.D. receive stipend and full tuition support from the Hybridoma Bank. In addition to department facilities, the University offers more than 1600 monoclonal antibodies that are distributed laboratories all over the world. Its collection now contains

The department is home to the Developmental Studies Core Unit, which is accredited by the Association for Assessment and Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care. These facilities are managed by the University's animal care unit, which is accredited by the Association for Assessment and Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care. A central University facility provides assistance in the preparation of transgenic mice.

The department is housed in two contiguous buildings, with modern facilities and equipment for state-of-the-art research.

Facilities include the Keck Dynamic Image Analysis Facility, which couples sophisticated state-of-the-art microscopy and computerized motion analysis to permit three-dimensional real-time analysis of cell movement in vitro and in situ. The Roy J. Carver Center for Genomics houses the department's DNA sequencing, oligo synthesis, quantitative PCR, functional genomics/microarray facilities, and informatics facilities. The Roy J. Carver Center for Imaging is a microscopy and imaging facility: its confocal microscope is available for teaching and research.

A large greenhouse is used in plant research and education.

The department also houses animal-care facilities suitable for mice, rats, rabbits, Xenopus laevis, and zebra fish. These facilities are managed by the University’s animal care unit, which is accredited by the Association for Assessment and Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care. A central University facility provides assistance in the preparation of transgenic mice.

The department is home to the Developmental Studies Hybridoma Bank, which is affiliated with the National Institutes of Health. The hybridoma bank collects and distributes monoclonal antibodies that originate in laboratories all over the world. Its collection now contains more than 1600 monoclonal antibodies that are distributed to users internationally for a modest fee.

In addition to department facilities, the University offers a genomic sequencing service, a DNA oligonucleotide synthesis and enzyme lab, oligopeptide synthesis and sequencing equipment, and mass- and NMR spectroscopy facilities. The Center for Bicatalysis and Bioprocessing is available for growing large amounts of microorganisms (e.g., 100 liters) for use in protein isolation.

Iowa Lakeside Laboratory
The Iowa Lakeside Laboratory is a field station run cooperatively by The University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and the University of Northern Iowa. Located on West Lake Okoboji, in northwestern Iowa, the laboratory affords excellent conditions for summer study in field biology, limnology, palynology, aquatic ecology, pollination biology, and plant taxonomy. It offers a wide variety of summer courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Students should check with their advisors to determine whether specific courses may be counted toward requirements for graduation. See Iowa Lakeside Laboratory (p. 1267) (University College) in the Catalog or visit the Lakeside Laboratory web site.

Courses
Many courses include field and/or laboratory components.

Lower-Level Undergraduate

BIOL:1060 (002:050) Origins of Life in the Universe (Part 1) 3 s.h.
Fundamental questions (How old is the universe? What is the nature of life? How has life evolved on Earth? What are our human origins? Are there other habitable planets in the universe?) that revolve around understanding origins from different perspectives (i.e., astronomy, physics, geoscience, biology, chemistry, anthropology); work with faculty from several departments to investigate these questions; inquiry-based activities to build success in critical thinking, teamwork, effective written and oral communication; origin of the universe, biochemistry of life, and origin of life on Earth; first of a two-part sequence. Recommendations: first-year or sophomore standing. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab. Same as ASTR:1060 (029:040), EES:1060 (012:045).

BIOL:1061 (002:051) Origins of Life in the Universe (Part 2) 4 s.h.
Fundamental questions (How old is the universe? What is the nature of life? How has life evolved on Earth? What are our human origins? Are there other habitable planets in the universe?) that revolve around understanding origins from different perspectives (i.e., astronomy, physics, geoscience, biology, chemistry, anthropology); work with faculty from several departments to investigate these questions; inquiry-based activities to build success in critical thinking, teamwork, effective written and oral communication; second of a two-part sequence. Prerequisites: ASTR:1060 (029:040) or BIOL:1060 (002:050) or EES:1060 (012:045). Recommendations: first-year or sophomore standing. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab. Same as ASTR:1061 (029:041), ANTH:1061 (113:041), EES:1061 (012:046).

BIOL:1141 (002:002) Introductory Animal Biology 4 s.h.

BIOL:1261 (002:001) Introduction to Botany 4 s.h.
Biology of plant life; emphasis on structure, function, reproduction, inheritance, diversity, evolution. Requirements: one year of high school chemistry. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology
4 s.h.
Unifying concepts of living systems; emphasis on common properties and processes; chemical and cellular basis of life, genetics, and evolution. Prerequisites: CHEM:1110 (004:011). GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

BIOL:1412 (002:032) Diversity of Form and Function
4 s.h.
Underlying unifying concepts of life; emphasis on diversity of living systems; the tree of life, cellular evolution, prokaryotic and eukaryotic diversity, plant and animal form and function; interactions among diverse forms of life and their environment. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031). Requirements: grade of C- or higher in BIOL:1411 (002:031). GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

BIOL:1808 (002:028) Ways of Knowing Science
1 s.h.
Science as a powerful way of knowing based on experimentation and observation of natural world; introduction to subdisciplines of scientific research; scope and methods of scientific research; questions that scientific research seek answers for; methods that scientists use to obtain answers to their questions; how science affects us personally and how it affects the rest of society; research seminars, discussion, and exploration.

BIOL:2254 (002:150) Endocrinology
3 s.h.
Production and effect of hormonal chemical messengers of secretory glands; emphasis on cell signaling in vertebrate systems; actions of hormones in regulating growth, physiology, and reproduction; organ to molecular levels. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032). Recommendations: CHEM:2210 (004:121).

BIOL:2346 (002:108) Vertebrate Zoology
4 s.h.
Vertebrate diversity, success in relation to evolutionary history, and adaptive radiation of fish, amphibians, reptiles, birds, mammals; physiological, morphological, behavioral, life history adaptations; vertebrate zoogeography, systematics, patterns of reproduction, social systems. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032).

BIOL:2374 (002:103) Biogeography
3 s.h.
Patterns of plant and animal distribution and their interpretation; historical geography including glaciation and plate tectonics; ecological geography, including physical factors (e.g., climate and geology); applications to conservation in diverse regions. Prerequisites: GEOG:1020 (044:003) or BIOL:1141 (002:002) or BIOL:1261 (002:001) or BIOL:1370 (002:022) or BIOL:1412 (002:032). Same as GEOG:2374 (044:103).

BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics
4 s.h.

BIOL:2603 (002:105) Mechanisms of Aging
3 s.h.
Evolutionary theories of aging, cellular and genetic basis of aging and repair, disruption of homeostasis in aging; focus on studies of biological and environmental causes of age-related diseases. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031), and BIOL:1412 (002:032) or HHP:3500 (027:130).

BIOL:2673 (002:134) Ecology
3-4 s.h.
Adaptations of organisms to their physical and biological environments; organism-environment interactions; population biology; interactions between species; ecology of communities, ecosystems; human impact on ecosystems. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031), BIOL:1412 (002:032), and MATH:1460 (22M:016) or MATH:1550 (22M:031) or MATH:1850 (22M:025). Recommendations: a basic statistics course. Same as ENV:2673 (159:134).

BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology
3 s.h.
Structures of cells and organelles in relation to their functions at molecular, cellular levels; emphasis on higher eukaryotic cells. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031), BIOL:1412 (002:032), and CHEM:1120 (004:012).

BIOL:2753 (002:145) Introduction to Neurobiology
3 s.h.
Techniques of molecular biology, genomics, neuropharmacology, and functional brain imaging applied to understanding how the brain works. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032).

Elementary Topics of General Interest, Lower-Level Undergraduate

These courses are not open to graduate students and do not provide credit toward a biology major.

BIOL:1000 (002:029) First-Year Seminar
1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities, field trips). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

BIOL:1140 (002:021) Human Biology
4 s.h.
Molecular and cellular basis of human life; integration of humans and the biosphere through photosynthesis, respiration; structure, function of human tissues, organs, organ systems; reproduction, genetics, impact of molecular biology and genetic engineering; lecture, laboratory. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

BIOL:1251 (002:040) How the Brain Works (and Why it Doesn't)
3-4 s.h.
Introductory survey of neuroscience; structure and function of the brain; nature of consciousness; brain function in mental illness and degenerative disorders; genes and the mind; perception, sensation, memory, and emotions. Requirements: non-biology major. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.
BIOL:1260 (002:095) Plants and Human Affairs
2-3 s.h.
How plants are useful to people: food, clothing, shelter, medicines, psychoactive agents; plants' social, economic, ecological significance. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

BIOL:1311 (002:081) Human Genetics in the Twenty-First Century
3 s.h.
Analysis of human genes and genomes; genetic basis of simple and complex traits; genetic aspects of cancer; paleogenomics and tracing human migrations with DNA. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab. Same as ANTH:1310 (113:081).

BIOL:1360 (002:087) Spring Flora
3 s.h.
Recognition and identification of spring-flowering herbaceous plants, native woodland trees and shrubs, woody landscape plants; family characteristics, use of taxonomic key.

BIOL:1370 (002:022) Understanding Evolution
3 s.h.
Evolution and diversity of living things, their patterns on Earth, their organization in ecological systems; dynamics of evolutionary processes. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

BIOL:2211 (002:099) Genes, Genomes, and the Human Condition
3 s.h.

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution
4 s.h.

BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology
3 s.h.
Fundamental mechanisms in differentiation, organogenesis, morphogenesis; and pattern formation; mechanistic approach at molecular, cellular, tissue level of organizations. Prerequisites: BIOL:1412 (002:032) and CHEM:1120 (004:012). Requirements: grade of C- or higher in BIOL:1412 (002:032). Recommendations: BIOL:2512 (002:128).

BIOL:3244 (002:143) Animal Behavior
4 s.h.
Genetics, sensory physiology, migration, development of behavior, circadian rhythms, foraging strategies, aggression, sexual and parental behavior, group selection, social behavior. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032).

BIOL:3253 (002:180) Neurobiology
4 s.h.
Cellular neurobiology (cytoskeleton and transport, membrane physiology, synaptic transmission and plasticity, sensory transduction); systems neurobiology (peripheral and central sensory processing, autonomic and somatic motor systems); cognitive neurobiology (emotion, biological rhythms and sleep, memory, attention, language); developmental neurobiology. Prerequisites: BIOL:2753 (002:145). Recommendations: BIOL:2723 (002:114) and BIOL:3110 (099:110). Same as NSCI:7180 (132:180).

BIOL:3314 (002:178) Genomics
3 s.h.
Major areas of genomics, including DNA and protein sequence analysis, structural diversity of whole genomes, microarray applications, proteomics; computer workshop experience in applying bioinformatics tools. Prerequisites: BIOL:2512 (002:128) or BIOL:3120 (099:120).

BIOL:3343 (002:124) Animal Physiology
3 s.h.
Principles of cellular and systems physiology; emphasis on experimental and quantitative aspects. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031), BIOL:1412 (002:032), and PHYS:1511 (029:011) or PHYS:1611 (029:081). Corequisites: PHYS:1512 (029:012) or PHYS:1612 (029:082), if not taken as a prerequisite.

BIOL:3363 (002:117) Plant Developmental Biology
3 s.h.
Developmental processes throughout life cycle of vascular plants; current knowledge of mechanisms, control; emphasis on molecular and genetic approaches to studying development. Prerequisites: BIOL:2512 (002:128).

BIOL:3373 (002:141) Human Population Genetics and Variation
3 s.h.
Principles of evolutionary change of genes and genomes applied to human populations and to comparisons between humans and their closest primate relatives; emphasis on consequences of mutation, natural selection, and demographic changes. Prerequisites: BIOL:2211 (002:099) or BIOL:2512 (002:128). Requirements: grade of C- or higher in BIOL:2211 (002:099) or BIOL:2512 (002:128), or graduate standing.

BIOL:3626 (002:133) Cell Biology Laboratory
4 s.h.
Conceptual understanding and technical skills in fluorescence microscopy and digital imaging, mammalian cell culture, tissue fractionation, centrifugation, electrophoresis, and expression of recombinant proteins. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031), BIOL:1412 (002:032), and BIOL:2723 (002:114).

BIOL:3656 (002:186) Neurobiology Laboratory
4 s.h.
Principles and practice of neurobiology research, including microscopy and imaging, cellular and molecular neurobiology, and electrophysiology. Prerequisites: BIOL:2753 (002:145).

BIOL:3663 (002:139) Plant Response to the Environment
3 s.h.
BIOL:3676 (002:132) Evolution Lab
4 s.h.
Methods of sampling and describing variation in natural populations; application of molecular genetic, bioinformatic, and computational techniques to describe genetic variation through sequence analysis; use of controlled laboratory experiments and computer simulations to illustrate evolutionary principles.
Prerequisites: BIOL:2512 (002:128) or BIOL:3172 (002:131), if not taken as a prerequisite. Recommendations: grade of C or higher in BIOL:3172 (002:131).

BIOL:3713 (002:171) Molecular Genetics
4 s.h.
Mechanism, regulation of RNA, DNA, protein biosynthesis, with emphasis on methods of genetic analysis; application of modern recombinant DNA techniques to basic problems. Requirements: BIOL:2512 (002:128) or BIOL:3120 (002:128) or BIOL:3172 (002:131), if not taken as a prerequisite. Recommendations: grade of C or higher in BIOL:3172 (002:131).

BIOL:3716 (002:138) Genetics and Biotechnology Lab
4 s.h.

BIOL:3736 (002:135) Developmental Biology Lab
4 s.h.
Experimental manipulation of embryos to examine mechanisms of early development, including gametogenesis and fertilization, cleavage, gastrulation, pattern formation and organogenesis; in vivo imaging of development, methods to visualize gene expression and independent research; model organisms including sea urchin, fish, frog, chick, mouse. Prerequisites: BIOL:2512 (002:128) and BIOL:3233 (002:104).

BIOL:3743 (002:192) Basic Biology of Human Disease
2 s.h.
Basic problems of infectious disease; selected viral, bacterial, and fungal pathogens, with emphasis on fungal pathogenesis; DNA fingerprinting; epidemiological study of disease dynamics. Prerequisites: BIOL:2512 (002:128).

BIOL:3898 (002:101) Teaching Internship in Biology
2 s.h.
Training in teaching the laboratory component of a large General Education biology course; weekly session with instructor, shadowing and assisting a graduate teaching assistant in a lab section, leading laboratory exercises. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032). Requirements: grades of B or higher in BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032); and junior or senior standing.

BIOL:4213 (002:170) Bioinformatics
4 s.h.
Overview of bioinformatics topics, including access to sequence data, pairwise and multiple sequence alignment algorithms, molecular phylogeny, microarray data analysis, protein analysis, proteomics and protein structure analysis; emphasis on each topic includes biological motivation, computational approach (practical and theoretical), and interpretation of output. Prerequisites: BIOL:2512 (002:128) or BIOL:3120 (009:120). Recommendations: grade of B+ or higher in BIOL:2512 (002:128) or BIOL:3120 (099:120), or graduate standing. Same as GENE:6170 (127:170).

BIOL:4316 (002:175) Summer Practicum in Genomics
2 s.h.
Major areas of genomics, including sequence similarity searching, whole genome comparisons, phylogenetic analysis, and regulatory informatics; computer workshop experience in application of bioinformatics tools. Prerequisites: BIOL:3314 (002:178) or BIOL:4213 (002:170) or GENE:6170 (127:170).

BIOL:4333 (002:168) Genes and Development
3 s.h.
Mechanisms by which genes control development of multicellular animals; methodology of scientific research applied to developmental genetics. Requirements: grade of B or higher in BIOL:2512 (002:128). Recommendations: BIOL:3233 (002:104).

BIOL:4353 (002:181) Neurophysiology
3-4 s.h.
Physiological properties of nerve cells, nervous systems; axonal conduction, synaptic transmission, sensory transduction, integrative processes, higher functions. Prerequisites: BIOL:2753 (002:145) or BIOL:3253 (002:180), MATH:1460 (22M:016) or MATH:1850 (22M:025), and PHYS:1512 (029:012) or PHYS:1612 (029:082). Same as NSCI:4353 (132:181).

BIOL:4373 (002:160) Molecular Phylogenetics
3 s.h.
Theory underlying phylogenetic analysis with application of these methods to molecular data sets; analysis of multigene data, organellar, and nuclear genome sequences to reconstruct the history of cells. Requirements: grade of C- or higher in BIOL:3172 (002:131) or graduate standing.

BIOL:4753 (002:184) Developmental Neurobiology
3 s.h.
Neural induction and nervous system patterning; neurogenesis, axon and dendrite outgrowth and targeting; synapse formation, specificity, refinement; mechanisms of neuronal cell death; myelination; neural stem cells; introduction to cellular, molecular, and genetic techniques in studies of neural development. Prerequisites: BIOL:2753 (002:145). Corequisites: BIOL:3253 (002:180). Requirements: grade of B- or higher in BIOL:2753 (002:145) or graduate standing. Same as MPB:4753 (072:184), NSCI:4753 (132:184).

BIOL:4897 (002:188) Advanced Teaching Internship in Biology
Teaching the laboratory component of a large introductory-level biology course; weekly training session with instructor; shadowing and assisting a graduate teaching assistant in a weekly lab section. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032). Requirements: grades of B‑ or higher in BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032), junior or senior standing, and interview with instructor.

BIOL:4898 (002:189) Entering Research
1 s.h.
Independent, investigative research experience; research process—establishing goals and expectations with a mentor, defining a research hypothesis, presentation of results in written and oral form; supportive learning environment to share research experiences and develop identities as scientists, explore relationships between medicine and research, and learn skills to become effective independent researchers. Corequisites: BIOL:4899 (002:199) or BIOL:4999 (002:196).

BIOL:4899 (002:199) Introduction to Research
2-3 s.h.
Conduct independent scientific research related to the field of biology.

BIOL:4998 (002:198) Honors Seminar in Biology
2 s.h.
Requirements: honors standing.

BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations
arr.
Conduct independent scientific research related to the field of biology. Requirements: honors standing in biology, UI g.p.a. of at least 3.33, and biology g.p.a. of at least 3.33.

Graduate

BIOL:5117 (002:191) Topics in Molecular Genetics
1-2 s.h.
Requirements: grade of C+ or higher in BIOL:2512 (002:128) or graduate standing.

BIOL:5127 (002:194) Topics in Cell and Development
1-2 s.h.

BIOL:5157 (002:195) Topics in Neurobiology
1-2 s.h.
Topics vary. Requirements: BIOL:3253 (002:180) or graduate standing.

BIOL:5177 (002:190) Topics in Evolution and Ecology
1-2 s.h.

Requirements: grades of B- or higher in BIOL:2512 (002:128) and BIOL:3172 (002:131), or graduate standing.

BIOL:5199 (002:215) Critical Readings in Biology
arr.

BIOL:5211 (002:202) Genes, Genomes, and the Human Condition Graduate Lecture
Organization, expression, and evolution of genes in context of genomes; focus on human genome; distribution and transmission of variation in human population. Recommendations: BIOL:1411 (002:031) highly recommended.

BIOL:5218 (002:218) Microscopy for Biomedical Research
arr.
Basic microscopy methods for research including optics, preparation, and analysis of biomedical specimens; light, fluorescence, confocal, transmitting electron, scanning electron, atomic force microscopes, elemental analysis; immunochemistry and stereology techniques; individualized laboratory instruction. Prerequisites: BIOL:2723 (002:114). Same as ACB:5218 (060:218), MICR:5218 (061:218).

BIOL:5220 (002:220) Advanced Microscopy for Biomedical Research
arr.
Technically advanced microscopy and instrumentation for research; individualized laboratory experience with opportunity to explore applications of microscopy methods. Requirements: for ACB:5220 (060:220) — an introductory microscopy course; for BIOL:5220 (002:220) — ACB:4156 (060:156) or ACB:5218 (060:218) or CBE:4156 (052:156) or EES:4156 (012:156) or MICR:5218 (061:218); for MICR:5220 (061:220) — an introductory EM course. Same as ACB:5220 (060:220), MICR:5220 (061:220).

BIOL:5270 (002:270) Biosciences Critical Thinking and Communication
2 s.h.
Selected papers and oral and written presentations tied to students' research rotations; introductory seminar. Same as BISC:5265 (156:265), MPB:5342 (072:342).

BIOL:5289 (002:207) Research Method and Theory
2 s.h.
Materials and methods of scientific investigation; lab techniques; library resources usage, NCBI data base training; lab safety; research ethics; reading, writing, presenting scientific papers. Requirements: new graduate standing in biology.

BIOL:5320 (002:174) Computational Genomics
3 s.h.
Introduction to computational methods used in genome analysis and functional genomics; biological sequence analysis, sequence database search, microarray data analysis, biological network analysis; in-depth coverage of principal genome science challenges and recent solutions. Prerequisites: BME:5320 (051:123), CS:3110 (22C:104), and BIOS:5110 (171:161) or STAT:3510 (22S:101). Same as BME:5330 (051:122), GENE:5173 (127:173), ECE:5220 (055:122).

BIOL:5412 (002:227) Fundamental Genetics—Graduate Lecture
3 s.h.

BIOI:5512 (002:228) Fundamental Genetics—Graduate Discussion
1 s.h.
Critical evaluation of classic genetics papers. Requirements: biology graduate standing.

BIOI:5653 (002:244) Fundamental Neurobiology
4 s.h.
Neurobiology from molecular/cellular to systems levels, including cell biology of neuron; membrane electrophysiology, synaptic transmission and plasticity, functional neuroanatomy, sensory systems from periphery to CNS, peripheral and central motor systems, autonomic systems emotion, memory, sleep, language, attention and cognition, development of nervous system; discussion of classic and recent journal articles. Same as PSY:5203 (031:255), NSCI:5653 (132:247).

BIOI:6188 (002:234) Seminar: Writing in Natural Sciences
2 s.h.
Writing and critiquing skills in the natural sciences.

BIOI:6199 (002:301) Research: Biology
arr.

BIOI:6265 (002:265) Neuroscience Seminar
0-1 s.h.

1-2 s.h.
Primary research on central biological questions utilizing full array of organisms and analytical approaches; opportunity to improve skills in public speaking, presentation, and scientific writing. Requirements: integrated biology graduate standing.

BIOI:6759 (002:309) Molecular Neurobiology of Hearing Development, Function, and Disease
3 s.h.
Up-to-date overview of auditory system, function, and development; molecular basis for development, function, and disease; auditory system as basis for most human communication; prominent functional reduction during senescence; structure, function, development, and disease mechanisms that provide long-term solutions to cure or prevent beyond currently available treatment of hearing loss with a cochlear implant; series of lectures organized to provide an overview of various aspects of this system. Undergraduate major: biomedical sciences (B.S.)
Biomedical sciences is an interdisciplinary major designed for students who plan to attend medical school or conduct biomedical research in graduate school and beyond. Its focus stretches across scientific and mathematical fields.

The Departments of Biochemistry, Biology, Chemistry, and Microbiology collaborate to present the major in biomedical sciences; the major is administered by the Department of Biology.

Undergraduate Program of Study
- Major in biomedical sciences (Bachelor of Science)

Bachelor of Science
The Bachelor of Science with a major in biomedical sciences requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 79-81 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The interdisciplinary major provides an excellent foundation for medical training and for research and/or practice in the chemical, genetic, cellular, and physiological bases of human disease. The curriculum includes required and elective course work in biochemistry, biology, chemistry, health and human physiology, mathematics, microbiology, physics, psychology, sociology, and statistics. Students who wish to apply transfer credit toward the major should consult their departmental advisor.

The major in biomedical sciences requires the following course work.

REQUIRED COURSES
Students complete all of the following required courses (62-63 s.h.).

Chemistry
All of these:
- BIOC:3120 (099:120) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology I 3 s.h.
- BIOC:3130 (099:130) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology II 3 s.h.
- CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I 4 s.h.
- CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II 4 s.h.
- CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I 3 s.h.
- CHEM:2220 (004:122) Organic Chemistry II 3 s.h.

Life Sciences
All of these:
- BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:2211 (002:099) Genes, Genomes, and the Human Condition 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3373 (002:141) Human Population Genetics and Variation 3 s.h.
- HHP:3500 (027:130) Human Physiology 3 s.h.
- MICR:2157 (061:157) General Microbiology 5 s.h.

Mathematics/Statistics
All of these:
- MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
- STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.

Physics
All of these:
- PHYS:1511 (029:011) College Physics I 4 s.h.
- PHYS:1512 (029:012) College Physics II 4 s.h.

Social Sciences
All of these:
- PSY:1001 (031:001) Elementary Psychology 3 s.h.
- PSY:2130 (031:030) Advanced Psychology for Pre-Medical Track 3 s.h.
- SOC:1010 (034:001) Introduction to Sociology Principles 3-4 s.h.

ELECTIVE COURSES
Students complete a total of 17-18 s.h. of elective course work chosen from the following lists.

Lecture courses—two of these:
- BIOC:5241 (099:241) Biophysical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2254 (002:150) Endocrinology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2753 (002:145) Introduction to Neurobiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3343 (002:124) Animal Physiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:4213 (002:170) Bioinformatics 4 s.h.
- MICR:3147 (061:147) Survey of Immunology 3 s.h.

Chemistry lab—one of these:
- BIOC:3130 (099:130) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology II 3 s.h.
- CHEM:2410 (004:141) Organic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.

Experiential learning—one of these:
- Honors research course 4 s.h.
- Additional lab course 4 s.h.

Investigative lab—one of these:
- BIOL:3626 (002:133) Cell Biology Laboratory 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3656 (002:186) Neurobiology Laboratory 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3676 (002:132) Evolution Lab 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3716 (002:138) Genetics and Biotechnology Lab 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3736 (002:135) Developmental Biology Lab 4 s.h.
Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in biomedical sciences have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Honors students in the major may enroll in honors sections of courses offered by the Department of Biology and by other departments and programs. They also are advised to participate in the Iowa Center for Research by Undergraduates (ICRU) and to apply for research scholarships.

To graduate with honors in the biomedical sciences major, students must fulfill the following requirements:

- complete the requirements for a major in biomedical sciences with a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in all University of Iowa course work in the major;
- complete a minimum of 6 s.h. (taken over two or more semesters) of BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations;
- write a brief research proposal summarizing the background and goals of their proposed honors research;
- upon completion of their research, submit an acceptable honors thesis; and
- give an oral presentation of their research findings.

Honors students in biomedical sciences must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.
The Bachelor of Science with a major in chemistry requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 69 s.h. of work for the major (20 s.h. in foundation chemistry courses, 30 s.h. in advanced chemistry, and 19 s.h. in supporting course work). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The chemistry major for the Bachelor of Arts provides a more general education than the B.S. program offers and may be the degree of choice for students who are interested in earning licensure to teach in secondary schools (see “B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure” below). Advanced courses in chemistry, biology, mathematics, physics, or other science disciplines are recommended as electives for B.A. students. Those who choose appropriate electives may meet entrance requirements for graduate or professional programs such as chemistry, biochemistry, medicine, or dentistry. Graduates also may pursue careers and education in business, law, and other areas.

The chemistry major for the Bachelor of Science is certified by the American Chemical Society. Current and projected demand for Bachelor of Science graduates in chemistry is excellent in research and in control and process-development work. The program also provides all the prerequisites for graduate work in chemistry or biochemistry and in other biomedical areas with a molecular focus.

Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science students take the same chemistry foundation courses, but their requirements in other areas are different. B.A. students must earn at least 11 s.h. in advanced chemistry courses at The University of Iowa; B.S. students must earn at least 20 s.h. in advanced chemistry courses at the University. Mathematics and preferred physics requirements also differ for the two degrees, and B.S. students may count undergraduate research toward the science electives requirement.

Courses in the chemistry major have prerequisites, so they must be taken in the correct order. Advanced chemistry courses are built on the chemistry foundation courses. Most advanced courses are taught only once a year. Students should consult their academic advisors and plan their course schedules carefully. They should take CHEM:2011 (004:021) Basic Measurements during the first semester of the second year.

Students may not use a course to fulfill more than one requirement.

The major in chemistry requires the following course work.

CHEMISTRY FOUNDATION COURSES (B.A. AND B.S.)

All students (Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science) complete the following foundation courses.

All of these:

- CHEM:1110 (004:011) & CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry I-II 8 s.h.
- CHEM:2021 (004:021) Basic Measurements 3 s.h.

One of these sequences:

CHEM:2210 (004:121) & CHEM:2220 (004:122) 6 s.h.
Organic Chemistry I-II

One of these:
CHEM:2420 (004:142) Organic Chemistry Laboratory for Majors (preferred) 3 s.h.
CHEM:2410 (004:141) Organic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.

ADVANCED CHEMISTRY (B.A.)
Bachelor of Arts students complete one of these:
CHEM:3110 (004:111) Analytical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:3120 (004:112) Analytical Chemistry II (preferred) 3 s.h.

And all of these:
CHEM:3250 (004:125) Inorganic Chemistry 3 s.h.
CHEM:4430 (004:143) Principles of Physical Chemistry 3 s.h.
CHEM:4450 (004:146) Synthesis and Measurement 3 s.h.

ADVANCED CHEMISTRY (B.S.)
Bachelor of Science students complete one of these:
CHEM:3110 (004:111) Analytical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:3120 (004:112) Analytical Chemistry II (preferred) 3 s.h.

And all of these:
CHEM:3430 (004:143) Analytical Measurements 3 s.h.
CHEM:3440 (004:144) Physical Measurements 3 s.h.
CHEM:3530 (004:153) Inorganic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.

MATH:1850 (22M:025) & MATH:1860 (22M:026) Calculus I-II (preferred) 8 s.h.

INTRODUCTORY PHYSICS (B.A. AND B.S.)
All students complete one of these sequences:
PHYS:1511 (029:011)-PHYS:1512 (029:012) College Physics I-II (preferred for B.A.) 8 s.h.
PHYS:1611 (029:081)-PHYS:1612 (029:082) Introductory Physics I-II (preferred for B.S.) 8 s.h.

SCIENCE ELECTIVES (B.A.)
Bachelor of Arts students complete a total of 6 s.h. of elective courses chosen from the following list. Some of these courses may be used to fulfill other requirements for the major, as listed above; students who have used a course from this list to fulfill another requirement for the major may not use that course as an elective.

CHEM:3110 (004:111) Analytical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:3120 (004:112) Analytical Chemistry II 3 s.h.
CHEM:3430 (004:143) Analytical Measurements 3 s.h.
CHEM:3440 (004:144) Physical Measurements 3 s.h.
CHEM:3530 (004:153) Inorganic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.

MATH:1850 (22M:025) & MATH:1860 (22M:026) Calculus I-II (preferred) 8 s.h.

SCIENCE ELECTIVES AND RESEARCH (B.S.)
Bachelor of Science students complete a total of 3 s.h. chosen from these:

Students should consult their advisors to gain approval for a course that is not on the list.
Requirements for Major on the department's web site. (B.A. and B.S.) and a regression list are available at Typical chemistry course schedules are taught only once a year. Students should consult their academic advisors and plan their course schedules carefully. They should take CHEM:2021 (004:021) Basic Measurements during the first semester of the second year. Typical chemistry course schedules (B.A. and B.S.) and a regression list are available at Requirements for Major on the department's web site.

B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure

Chemistry majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Students who plan to use their work toward a minor in chemistry as academic background for earning teacher licensure should contact the Office of Education Services about requirements.

Students with a strong interest in science teaching may complete a major offered by the Science Education Program. Students choose one of five emphases—biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, and all-science—and earn a Bachelor of Science degree. They may apply for admission to the Teacher Education Program. See Science Education (p. 809) in the Catalog.

Joint B.A./M.A.T. with Science Education Subprogram

B.A. students majoring in chemistry who are interested in pursuing a graduate degree in teaching may apply to the joint Bachelor of Arts/Master of Arts in Teaching program offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the College of Education. Designed for undergraduates majoring in biology, chemistry, environmental sciences, or physics, the joint program enables students to earn a B.A. and an M.A.T. in five years by beginning to earn graduate credit during their fourth year of undergraduate study and by counting up to 18 s.h. of qualifying credit toward both degrees. For more information, see "Joint B.A./M.A.T. with Science Education Subprogram" in the Teaching and Learning (p. 814) (College of Education) section of the Catalog. Interested students should consult an advisor.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Note: Courses in the chemistry major have prerequisites, so they must be taken in the correct order. Most advanced courses are taught only once a year. Students should consult their academic advisors and plan their course schedules carefully. They should take CHEM:2021 (004:021) Basic Measurements during the first semester of the second year. Typical chemistry course schedules (B.A. and B.S.) and a regression list are available at Requirements for Major on the department's web site.

Bachelor of Arts

Before the fifth semester begins: basic measurements; organic chemistry I, II, and lab; and biostatistics or calculus II

Before the seventh semester begins: two more courses in the major; physics I and II; and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: principles of physical chemistry and one more course in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Bachelor of Science

Before the fifth semester begins: basic measurements; organic chemistry I, II, and lab; three other courses in the major; calculus II; physics I and II

Before the seventh semester begins: six more courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: three more courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in chemistry have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must complete an undergraduate research project acceptable to their research advisor and must write an honors thesis based on their research. Students register for CHEM:3999 (004:162) Undergraduate Research or HONR:3200 (143:100) Honors Research Practicum in order to earn credit for their research. They are encouraged, but not required, to present their research at local and regional meetings and to publish their results in professional journals.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in The University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor

The minor in chemistry requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in chemistry courses, including 12 s.h. in courses numbered 2210 or above taken in the Department of Chemistry
The department offers undergraduate students majoring in chemistry and other students interested in chemistry a number of opportunities to enrich their classroom studies.

Undergraduate Chemistry Center

The Chemistry Center serves all students who take chemistry courses as well as the department’s professors and teaching assistants. The center maintains waiting lists and offers other assistance with registration; returns examinations and homework assignments; schedules alternative exams; and provides information about all lower-level chemistry courses. Information about student organizations and departmental scholarships and awards also is available at the Chemistry Center.

Student Organizations

Students may join the University of Iowa undergraduate student chapter of the American Chemical Society (ACS). Chapter activities include dinner meetings with guest speakers; field trips to local industry; participation in local and national meetings of the ACS; and participation in chemistry outreach programs. Students in the ACS student chapter develop leadership, organization, and speaking skills valuable during their college experience and throughout their careers.

The department has a chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma, a co-ed chemistry fraternity. The Alpha Theta Chapter is open to students in chemistry, biochemistry, chemical engineering, and related fields. Alpha Chi Sigma sponsors many social and professional events throughout the year.

The department endorses the National Organization for the Professional Advancement of Black Chemists and Chemical Engineers (NOBCChE), which is committed to discovery, translatorial, and application of knowledge in science and engineering and to increasing the participation of underrepresented populations in these fields. NOBCChE sponsors diverse programs designed to foster professional development and to encourage students to pursue careers in science and technical fields.

The department also supports the activities of Women in Science and Engineering (WISE), whose aim is to increase women’s participation and advancement as students, faculty members, and professional staff; promote a supportive study and work environment for women; integrate women’s ideas, strengths, and approaches into research, teaching, and service; and inform the public of educational and career opportunities for women in scientific and technical fields. WISE sponsors a living-learning community in Stanley Hall (a University residence hall) for first-year female students majoring in science or engineering, the Student-to-Student Support in Science mentoring program, a service learning program, and the WISE Discourse and Dining series.

Scholarships and Awards

A number of awards and scholarships are available to chemistry majors, including the American Institute of Chemists Award, the Undergraduate Award in Analytical Chemistry, the Chemistry Alumni Awards (one each for a sophomore, a junior, and a senior), the Merck Index Award, and the Viksnins, Harris & Padys PLLP Award.

Chemistry majors also may apply for the Donald J. and Margaret Burton Scholarship, Ken Sando Scholarship, Shoemaker-Strickler Scholarship, E. David Cater Scholarship, and Russell K. Simms Scholarship.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Science in chemistry, with or without thesis
- Doctor of Philosophy in chemistry

Master of Science

The Master of Science in chemistry requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit. The degree is offered with or without thesis. M.S. students must demonstrate minimal proficiency in analytical, inorganic, organic, and physical chemistry by passing specific examinations or by enrolling in suitable core courses. This requirement must be completed by the end of the second year of enrollment. A g.p.a. of at least 3.00 is required for admission to the master’s examination.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy in chemistry requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. Ph.D. in chemistry includes minimal proficiency examinations, core courses as necessary, a minimum of 11 s.h. of advanced course work, and research.

Students who meet the course requirements with a cumulative g.p.a. of 3.00 or higher are admitted to the oral comprehensive examination upon presentation and preliminary approval of their written research proposal and research progress report; they must take the oral comprehensive examination no later than the end of their second year of enrollment. Upon completing Ph.D. research, candidates prepare the dissertation. The final examination consists of an oral defense of the thesis, at which time the candidate presents at least one manuscript of the publishable portion of his or her thesis.

Admission

Applicants for graduate admission should have a bachelor’s degree with a major in chemistry or a related field, preferably with a g.p.a. of 3.00 or higher. Most admitted graduate students receive financial support.

For application information, contact the Department of Chemistry or visit its web site.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations. of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Facilities

The Department of Chemistry office, support facilities, and faculty offices are located in the Chemistry Building, as is laboratory and classroom space dedicated to teaching and research activities. Several faculty members have offices and laboratories in the Iowa Advanced Technology Laboratories, across the street from the Chemistry Building. See the Department of Chemistry web site for information about facilities and advanced instrumentation available for instruction and research.

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

Students planning to take more than one year of chemistry should take CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I and CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II.

Students who require only one year of chemistry with no laboratory component may take CHEM:1070 (004:007) General Chemistry I and CHEM:1080 (004:008) General Chemistry II.

Students who have not had high school chemistry or do not have strong math and/or chemistry preparation should consider taking CHEM:1070 (004:007) General Chemistry I before CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I; academic advisors and the Chemistry Diagnostic Test can help students determine which of these courses to take first.

CHEM:1000 (004:029) First-Year Seminar 1-2 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

CHEM:1050 (004:005) Technology and Society 3 s.h.
Nonmathematical exploration of selected areas of technology; basic science background, current technological applications, implications for society; for nonscience majors. Recommendations: closed to students who have taken college chemistry courses. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

CHEM:1060 (004:006) Technology and Society Laboratory 1 s.h.
Laboratory for CHEM:1050 (004:005); demonstrations, student experiments. Corequisites: CHEM:1050 (004:005), if not taken as a prerequisite. Requirements: closed to students who have earned more than 3 s.h. in chemistry courses. GE: Natural Sciences Lab only.

CHEM:1070 (004:007) General Chemistry I 3 s.h.
Atomic structure, chemical bonds, mole relations, stoichiometry, states of matter, acids and bases, reaction rates, electrochemistry, nuclear chemistry. Requirements: elementary algebra. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

CHEM:1080 (004:008) General Chemistry II 3 s.h.
Organic chemistry and biochemistry. Requirements: CHEM:1070 (004:007) or high school chemistry. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

CHEM:1090 (004:009) Supplemental Chemistry Lab 1 s.h.
Lab techniques, elementary synthesis, measurement, analysis, case-study lectures and experiments; safety glasses, appropriate dress, compliance with laboratory safety protocols required. Requirements: grade of C or higher in CHEM:1180 (004:018) or CHEM:1190 (004:019).

CHEM:1100 (004:010) Chemistry in Industry and the Economy 3 s.h.
Atomic structure, chemical bonding, acid and bases, polymers, pharmaceutics, DNA, proteins, and basic economics. Requirements: non-science major. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I 4 s.h.
Chemical bonding and chemical reactions; atomic and molecular structure, chemical equations, stoichiometry, gases, liquids, thermodynamics of phase changes, solutions, equilibrium, acids, bases, pH, elementary organic chemistry; the solid state, including modern materials; lecture, discussion, laboratory. Requirements: MATH:1005 (22M:008), or ACT math subscore of 24 and ALEKS score above 65%. Recommendations: Chemistry Diagnostic Test score of 16. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II 4 s.h.
Continuation of CHEM:1110 (004:011); colligative properties of solutions, chemical thermodynamics, electrochemistry, chemical kinetics, chemical bonding, aspects of industrial chemistry, nuclear chemistry; lecture, discussion, laboratory. Prerequisites: CHEM:1110 (004:011). GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

CHEM:1160 (004:016) Principles of Chemistry Lab 2 s.h.
Laboratory techniques. Requirements: grades of C or higher in CHEM:1180 (004:018) and CHEM:1190 (004:019). GE: Natural Sciences Lab only.

CHEM:1180 (004:018) Chemical Science I 3 s.h.
GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

CHEM:1190 (004:019) Chemical Science II 3 s.h.
GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

CHEM:1200 (004:020) Chemical Science Laboratory 2 s.h.
GE: Natural Sciences Lab only.

CHEM:2021 (004:021) Basic Measurements 3 s.h.
Continuation of CHEM:1120 (004:012); techniques of data collection and processing, including titrimetric and instrumental techniques for data collection and computer techniques for data processing. Prerequisites: CHEM:1120 (004:012) or CHEM:1200 (004:020). Requirements: chemistry major.

Modern principles, including crystal field/ligand field/molecular orbital theory, inorganic reaction mechanisms, coordination chemistry, bioinorganic chemistry, main group and transition metal organometallic chemistry, solid-state inorganic chemistry. Prerequisites: CHEM:3250 (004:125) and CHEM:4432 (004:132). Corequisites: CHEM:3530 (004:153), if not taken as a prerequisite.

CHEM:4372 (004:172) Advanced Organic Chemistry 3 s.h.
Basic concepts from perspectives of structure, mechanism, synthesis, stereochemistry. Prerequisites: CHEM:2220 (004:122) or CHEM:2240 (004:124).

CHEM:4430 (004:133) Principles of Physical Chemistry 3 s.h.
Kinetics, transport properties, elementary thermodynamics, and selected topics in quantum mechanics and spectroscopy; emphasis on application of chemistry to areas of science including health and biosciences, environmental sciences, and related areas. Prerequisites: CHEM:1120 (004:012), MATH:1460 (22M:016) or MATH:1860 (22M:026), and PHYS:1512 (029:012) or PHYS:1612 (029:082).

CHEM:4431 (004:131) Physical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
Chemical thermodynamics and its application to chemical equilibrium, phase changes and chemical equilibria; ideal and real gases; kinetic theory; surface absorption and electrochemistry; thermodynamics. Prerequisites: CHEM:1120 (004:012) or CHEM:1190 (004:019), MATH:1560 (22M:032) or MATH:1860 (22M:026), and PHYS:1512 (029:012) or PHYS:1612 (029:082).

CHEM:4432 (004:132) Physical Chemistry II 3 s.h.
Quantum mechanics and its application to atomic and molecular structure; determination of structure and bonding by various spectroscopic methods; chemical kinetics. Prerequisites: CHEM:1120 (004:012) or CHEM:1190 (004:019), MATH:1560 (22M:032) or MATH:1860 (22M:026), and PHYS:1512 (029:012) or PHYS:1612 (029:082).

CHEM:4450 (004:146) Synthesis and Measurement 3 s.h.
Laboratory investigations integrating synthesis and measurement techniques from inorganic, analytical, and physical chemistry; emphasis on modern applications of chemistry in biology, medicine, environmental science, catalysis, and materials science. Prerequisites: CHEM:2021 (004:021), CHEM:2410 (004:141) or CHEM:2420 (004:142), CHEM:3110 (004:111) or CHEM:3120 (004:112), CHEM:3250 (004:125), and CHEM:4430 (004:133) or CHEM:4431 (004:131) or CHEM:4432 (004:132).

CHEM:4480 (004:180) Introduction to Molecular Modeling 3 s.h.
Theory and application of ab initio quantum mechanics, semiempirical molecular orbital theory, and molecular mechanics force fields to chemical research problems; underlying theory of these methods (with emphasis on ab initio theory) and their practical application to chemical problems; computational chemistry projects using modeling software. Corequisites: CHEM:4432 (004:132), if not taken as a prerequisite.

CHEM:4760 (004:176) Radiochemistry: Energy, Medicine, and the Environment 3 s.h.
Fundamental theoretical concepts of radiochemistry and their application in energy, medicine, and environmental sectors. Prerequisites: CHEM:1110 (004:011), CHEM:1120 (004:012), and CHEM:2210 (004:121).

CHEM:4873 (004:173) Atmospheric and Environmental Chemistry 3 s.h.
Fundamental chemical processes of importance in the atmosphere, soil, and water, with emphasis on kinetics and photochemistry of homogeneous and heterogeneous reactions, atmospheric structure and dynamics, global geochemical cycling, chemistry-climate relationships, environmental remediation strategies; experimental methods in field and laboratory studies. Corequisites: CHEM:4431 (004:131) or CHEM:4432 (004:132), if not taken as a prerequisite.

CHEM:4875 (004:175) Introduction to Polymer Chemistry 2-3 s.h.
Synthesis, structures, characterization, properties, and applications of polymers. Prerequisites: CHEM:2220 (004:122) or CHEM:2240 (004:124).

Graduate

CHEM:5091 (004:191) Graduate Chemistry Orientation 2 s.h.
Pedagogy, safety and research issues relevant to advanced chemistry careers. Requirements: senior standing.

CHEM:5092 (004:192) Ethics in Chemical Sciences 1 s.h.
Scholarly integrity for being a responsible chemist on graduate-level research; introduction to infrastructure of scientific scholarship with emphasis on interacting with peers, funding agencies, industrial entities; responsible conduct in research in the context of creation of knowledge, dissemination of scientific findings, intellectual property, and conflict of interest; workshops to study cases in chemical research to illustrate the principles of scholarly integrity.

CHEM:5107 (004:207) Electrochemistry 2-3 s.h.
Fundamental aspects, including mass transport and electron transfer, electrochemical methodology (e.g., voltammetry and potentiometry), determination of homogeneous and heterogeneous reaction mechanisms. Prerequisites: CHEM:3110 (004:111), CHEM:3120 (004:112), and CHEM:4171 (004:171).

CHEM:5108 (004:208) Spectroscopy 3 s.h.
Principles of atomic and molecular absorption and emission spectroscopy in ultraviolet, visible, and infrared regions of the spectrum, including fluorescence, phosphorescence, Raman spectroscopy; applications to analytical problems, with emphasis on modern instrumentation and methodology. Prerequisites: CHEM:3110 (004:111), CHEM:3120 (004:112), and CHEM:4171 (004:171).
CHEM:5109 (004:209) Separations 3 s.h.
Analytical separations; basic theory, practical applications, instrumentation, modern techniques (extractions, gas and liquid chromatography, capillary electrophoresis), and detection (mass spectrometry). Prerequisites: CHEM:3110 (004:111), CHEM:3120 (004:112), and CHEM:4171 (004:171).

CHEM:5110 (004:210) Chemical Sensors 2 s.h.
Theory, practical limitations, analytical utility based on immobilized reagents with electrochemical, thermal, optical transduction mechanisms. Prerequisites: CHEM:3110 (004:111) and CHEM:3120 (004:112), or CHEM:4171 (004:171).

CHEM:5114 (004:214) Chemical Systems Modeling 2 s.h.
Basic processes and techniques; these methods applied to systems relevant to students' own research. Prerequisites: CHEM:3110 (004:111) or CHEM:3120 (004:112) or CHEM:4171 (004:171).

CHEM:5115 (004:215) Biophotonics 3 s.h.
Structure, dynamics of biomolecules and their optical spectroscopy; ultrasensitive fluorescence spectroscopy, vibrational spectroscopy, optical activity and circular dichroism, time-resolved spectroscopy. Prerequisites: CHEM:3110 (004:111), CHEM:3120 (004:112), and CHEM:4171 (004:171).

CHEM:5118 (004:218) Nanomaterials 3 s.h.
Basic principles associated with nanoscience and nanotechnology; fabrication and synthesis, size dependent properties, characterization, applications of materials at nanometer length scales, recent technological breakthroughs in the field. Requirements: graduate standing or advanced undergraduate standing in engineering and science. Recommendations: knowledge of basic chemistry.

CHEM:5120 (004:220) Electrochemistry of Polymer Films 1 s.h.
Use of electrochemical methods to characterize polymer and thin films; transport through polymer films and composites, electrochemistry of polymer films. Requirements: physical chemistry course.

CHEM:5150 (004:250) Chemometrics 3 s.h.
Mathematical, statistical, and signal processing methods for analytical chemistry; hypothesis testing, experimental design, model building, optimization, digital filtering. Prerequisites: CHEM:4171 (004:171).

CHEM:5190 (004:281) Seminar: Analytical Chemistry 0-1 s.h.

CHEM:5199 (004:213) Special Topics in Analytical Chemistry arr.
Content varies.

CHEM:5202 (004:202) Coordination Chemistry and Spectroscopy 1,3 s.h.
Structure and bonding of d-block metal complexes, theory and application of relevant spectroscopic methods, inorganic reaction mechanisms, transition metals in catalysis. Prerequisites: CHEM:4270 (004:170).

CHEM:5203 (004:203) Organometallic Chemistry 3 s.h.

CHEM:5204 (004:204) Physical Methods in Inorganic Chemistry 3 s.h.
Application of physical methods to problems; recent developments; emphasis on magnetic resonance spectroscopy. Prerequisites: CHEM:4270 (004:170).

CHEM:5205 (004:205) Bioinorganic Chemistry 2-3 s.h.
The role of metal ions in biology from an inorganic chemical perspective; emphasis on structure and mechanism for transition metal-containing metallo-enzymes.

CHEM:5206 (004:206) Solid-State and Materials Chemistry 3 s.h.
Introduction to the chemical concepts of solid-state chemistry; focus on synthesis and characterization of various inorganic materials; structure/property relationships, real-world examples. Prerequisites: CHEM:4270 (004:170).

CHEM:5290 (004:283) Seminar: Inorganic Chemistry 0-1 s.h.

CHEM:5299 (004:201) Special Topics in Inorganic Chemistry 1-3 s.h.
Prerequisites: CHEM:4270 (004:170).

CHEM:5321 (004:221) Spectroscopic Methods in Organic Chemistry 3-4 s.h.
Methods and techniques of structure determination for organic compounds. Prerequisites: CHEM:4372 (004:172).

CHEM:5326 (004:226) Organic Reactions 3 s.h.
Survey of organic reactions used in contemporary organic synthesis; emphasis on C-C bond forming reactions, functional group interconversions, oxidations and reductions; mechanistic details of reaction types; innovations in catalytic and asymmetric organic reactions. Prerequisites: CHEM:4372 (004:172).

CHEM:5328 (004:228) Mechanisms of Organic Reactions 3 s.h.
Application of basic mechanistic concepts.

CHEM:5329 (004:229) Advanced Organic Synthesis 3 s.h.
Preparation of complex organic compounds. Prerequisites: CHEM:4372 (004:172).

CHEM:5390 (004:285) Seminar: Organic Chemistry 0-1 s.h.

CHEM:5399 (004:225) Organic Chemistry Special Topics 1,3 s.h.
Prerequisites: CHEM:4372 (004:172).

CHEM:5431 (004:231) Statistical Thermodynamics I 3 s.h.
Fundamentals of classical thermodynamics and equilibria; ensembles; noninteracting systems; theory of phase transitions; Monte-Carlo methods; classical fluids; nonequilibrium systems. Prerequisites: CHEM:4431 (004:131).

CHEM:5433 (004:233) Quantum and Computational Chemistry 3 s.h.
Fundamental principles of quantum chemistry; angular momentum; approximation methods; theory of atomic and molecular electronic structure; applications of computational quantum mechanics to chemical systems. Corequisites: CHEM:4432 (004:132), if not taken as a prerequisite.

CHEM:5434 (004:234) Molecular Spectroscopy 3 s.h.
Quantum mechanical theory of molecular spectroscopy; time-dependent perturbation theory, selection rules, lineshapes; selected applications in microwave, vibrational (infrared and Raman), electronic, optical, and magnetic resonance spectroscopy. Prerequisites: CHEM:5433 (004:233).

CHEM:5435 (004:235) Chemical Kinetics 3 s.h.
Potential energy surfaces, transition state theory, diffusion limited rates, linear free energy relationships, isotope effects, solvent effects, RRKM theory; connection between experiment and various theories in the gas and solution phases; emphasis on assignment of experimental error to derived quantities. Prerequisites: CHEM:4432 (004:132).

CHEM:5438 (004:238) Surface Chemistry and Heterogeneous Processes 3 s.h.
Fundamental and applied aspects of surface chemical processes; theories of molecular adsorption/desorption and surface complexation; kinetics; surface analysis and instrumentation; applications of surface chemistry in heterogeneous catalysis, heterogeneous environmental/atmospheric processes, and materials chemistry. Prerequisites: CHEM:4431 (004:131).

CHEM:5490 (004:286) Seminar: Physical and Environmental Chemistry 0-1 s.h.

CHEM:5499 (004:242) Physical Chemistry Topics 1-3 s.h.
Advanced topics relevant to modern physical chemistry. Prerequisites: CHEM:4432 (004:132) and MATH:1860 (22M:026).

CHEM:5875 (004:275) Perspectives in Biocatalysis 1-3 s.h.

CHEM:5890 (004:287) Research Frontiers in Chemistry 1 s.h.

CHEM:5990 (004:288) Chemistry Colloquium 0-1 s.h.

Undergraduate major: cinema (B.A.)
Undergraduate minor: cinema
Graduate degrees: M.F.A. in film and video production; M.A. in film studies; Ph.D. in film studies
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/ccl/

The Department of Cinematic Arts provides students with opportunities to explore and gain insight into cinema as a subject of international and interdisciplinary study as well as creative practice. The curriculum emphasizes film and related media in their historical and cultural contexts as well as film and video production in a variety of modes. The department’s faculty members offer expertise in film and video production; film history and theory, with emphasis on international film cultures; and the history, theory, and production of documentary media. Students conduct projects using state-of-the-art equipment and software that is updated regularly. Students and faculty members also have ready access to the extensive media holdings of University of Iowa Libraries and the Institute for Cinema and Culture.

The department offers undergraduate and graduate degree programs and an undergraduate minor. It also offers courses approved for the Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts area of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323) and a First-Year Seminar designed for entering undergraduates.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in cinema requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 33 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in cinema is an individualized, interdisciplinary study of film and the production of creative work in film, video, and interactive multimedia. It is designed to promote cultural and artistic awareness, to increase speaking and writing skills, and to develop capacities for systematic reasoning and effective production in cinema arts.

All students are expected to gain a perspective on both the study and the production of film, video, or digital media while becoming acquainted with the historical, critical, and theoretical issues of the area. In conjunction with an appropriate overall curriculum, the major in cinema can offer effective preparation for continuing study or creative work in the humanities, arts, and cinema; provide a solid foundation for careers in film, video, television, and digital production; and lead to careers in arts administration, advertising, and business.

Of the 33 s.h. required for the major, students must earn 21 s.h. in University of Iowa courses. They may count a maximum of 6 s.h. of course work from another major, minor, or certificate toward the major in cinema.

The course CINE:1834 (048:034) Modes of Film and Video Production is the only production course required for the major. Students may use more advanced production courses to complete the major, but admission to these courses is limited and depends on the student’s achievement in prerequisite production courses.

The major in cinema requires the following course work.

One of these:

CINE:1025 (048:025) Introduction to Critical Reading and Viewing 3 s.h.
CINE:1615 (048:030) Introduction to Film Theory 3 s.h.

All of these:

CINE:1601 (048:001) Introduction to Film Analysis 3 s.h.
CINE:1834 (048:034) Modes of Film and Video Production 4 s.h.
CINE:3195 (048:188) Undergraduate Seminar 3 s.h.

Additional cinematic arts course work (prefix CINE), including at least 6 s.h. of film studies courses numbered 3000 or above 20 s.h.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Note: Students must take CINE:1601 (048:001) Introduction to Film Analysis before or with CINE:1834 (048:034) Modes of Film and Video Production.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

- Major in cinema (Bachelor of Arts)
- Minor in cinema
Before the fifth semester begins: at least two courses in the major, including CINE:1601 (048:001) Introduction to Film Analysis and CINE:1834 (048:034) Modes of Film and Video Production

Before the seventh semester begins: at least five more courses in the major (total of seven), including CINE:1025 (048:025) Introduction to Critical Reading and Viewing or CINE:1615 (048:030) Introduction to Film Theory, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least three more courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major
Students majoring in cinema have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major, which requires that they complete an honors thesis. Once the student has earned 75 s.h., he or she submits a written proposal for the thesis. The proposal must be approved by the faculty member who heads the student's honors thesis committee; the committee must be composed of at least two faculty members from the Department of Cinematic Arts. The student must complete the honors thesis over the next two consecutive semesters. For specific honors thesis requirements in the cinema major, contact the Department of Cinematic Arts.

Departmental honors students must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor
The minor in cinema requires 15 s.h. of University of Iowa cinema courses, including at least 12 s.h. earned in courses numbered CINE:1620 (048:051) or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Contact the Department of Cinematic Arts for a list of approved courses.

Graduate Programs of Study
- Master of Arts in film studies
- Master of Fine Arts in film and video production
- Doctor of Philosophy in film studies

Master of Arts: Film Studies
The Master of Arts program in film studies requires 36 s.h. of graduate credit. The program’s focus is on film in an international context, with required distributions of course work in U.S. cinema, European cinema, world cinemas, and film production, documentary film, animation, or experimental film. Students meet formal degree requirements with course work and a written examination on two areas, which the student selects from one list focusing on film theory and another list focusing on film history. Exams are offered annually in January.

Master of Fine Arts: Film and Video Production
The Master of Fine Arts program in film and video production requires 54 s.h. of graduate credit. The curriculum consists of creative and scholarly course work aimed at producing a body of artistic work in film, digital media, multimedia installation, and/or animation. Degree requirements include advanced course work in film/media theory or history, annual public presentations and critiques, the development of an artist statement, a thesis paper, and a creative thesis project.

Doctor of Philosophy: Film Studies
The Doctor of Philosophy program in film studies requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. The program's course work is concentrated in film history and film theory. With the consultation and guidance of a faculty committee, students prepare for a qualifying examination in the first or second year, formulate and pursue a plan of study proposing areas to be mastered before the dissertation, present a predissertation exam on these areas, and write a dissertation in the area of advanced research.

Admission
Applications to graduate programs in the Department of Cinematic Arts are evaluated by faculty members. Application materials may include undergraduate and/or graduate transcripts, personal statements, writing samples, letters of recommendation, samples of creative work, and test scores. Admission decisions are based on the full range of an applicant's accomplishments and evidence that he or she will thrive in the department’s programs. The department welcomes applicants with diverse academic backgrounds; previous experience in the area of planned graduate study is desirable but not required. Contact the department or its director of graduate study for information about how to apply.

Resources
The Institute for Cinema and Culture promotes international film culture on the University of Iowa campus by supplementing the curriculum of the Department of Cinematic Arts with regular film screenings and public events, often in collaboration with other departments and programs. The institute helps departments, faculty members, and student groups present films and relevant speakers to an interdisciplinary audience. It is especially dedicated to providing Iowa students and faculty members the opportunity to view and study important films from nations and cultures otherwise underrepresented in course offerings and at local theaters.

Each semester the institute offers CINE:3627 (048:112) Proseminar in Cinema and Culture, a course with public screenings devoted to a single national cinema or a focused topic in world film. It also regularly sponsors a range of campus film festivals and hosts the Cinematheque series, which showcases rare and unusual films each semester.

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

CINE:1000 (048:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities, field trips). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

CINE:1025 (048:025) Introduction to Critical Reading and Viewing 3 s.h.
Critical approaches to literature and audiovisual media (film, video, interactive multimedia); selected texts, scholarly and critical responses to them. Requirements: completion of rhetoric requirement. Same as CL:1025 (218:025).

CINE:1185 (048:091) Internship arr.
Opportunity to apply skills; faculty supervision, on or off campus. Requirements: cinema and comparative literature major.

CINE:1601 (048:001) Introduction to Film Analysis 3 s.h.
Formal analysis of film; narrative cinema and approaches to narrative structure; authorship and genre issues, other major topics.

CINE:1602 (048:002) Introduction to Film Studies 3 s.h.
Film history, theory, criticism; issues of form, technologies, and cultural functions of cinema; screenings of narrative, documentary, experimental films from varied periods and nations. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

CINE:1610 (048:010) Contemporary Cinema 3 s.h.
Current cinema; key genres, movements, filmmakers, technological changes; recent cultural contexts, industrial and economic factors, changes in the film viewing experience. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

CINE:1615 (048:030) Introduction to Film Theory 3 s.h.
Classical film theory—formalist and realist theories, authorship, genre; contemporary film theory—semiotics, feminism, psychoanalysis, ideological criticism, postmodernism, queer theory.

CINE:1620 (048:051) Film Criticism 3 s.h.
Evaluation and analysis of film, from journalistic reviews to academic scholarship; principles and theoretical positions.

CINE:1625 (048:052) Gender and Film 3 s.h.
Representations of femininity, masculinity, sexual identity, how they relate to society, culture; examples from feminist, psychoanalytic, queer theory.

CINE:1630 (048:053) Introduction to Film Sound 3 s.h.
Sound as an acoustic, technological, aesthetic, and historical issue; functions of voice, music, sound effects.

CINE:1632 (048:062) Disney in America 3 s.h.
How Walt Disney Corporation has influenced American cultural values, ideals, and experiences through its evolution from an animation company in the 1920s, to a theme park company and television producer in the 1950s, to a media conglomerate today; the corporation's national importance. Hollywood's contributions to the Depression and World War II, postwar urban and community planning, America's changing leisure behavior, advertising and childhood, modern business history, and exportation of American culture. Same as AMST:1065 (045:065).

CINE:1635 (048:070) Styles and Genres 3 s.h.
Major film types (musicals, science fiction, westerns, film noir) and their cultural significance.

CINE:1640 (048:071) Film Authors 3 s.h.
A major director or comparison of directors; director's role in industrial and collaborative contexts, relations between biography and criticism, function of individual styles.

Undergraduate majors: ancient civilization (B.A.); classical languages (B.A.)

Undergraduate minors: ancient civilization; classical languages; Greek; health and the human condition; Latin

Postbaccalaureate certificate: classics

Graduate degrees: M.A. in classics; M.A. in Greek; M.A. in Latin; Ph.D. in classics

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/classics/

Classics is the study of ancient languages, literatures, and cultures of the Mediterranean basin from approximately 2000 B.C.E. to 600 C.E. It embraces three civilizations—Minoan-Mycenaean, Greek, and Roman; two languages—Greek and Latin; and a geographical area including Europe, North Africa, Egypt, and the Near East. The Department of Classics provides a basis for understanding and interpreting the contribution of the ancient world to life in the present and the future.

The department offers a substantial selection of courses taught in English at the undergraduate and graduate levels; several are approved for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Undergraduates in all majors may satisfy the World Languages requirement of the General Education Program with courses in Greek, Latin, or Sanskrit; see "Language for General Education" below. The department's First-Year Seminar introduces entering undergraduates to classics. The Department of Classics also administers an interdisciplinary minor for undergraduates; see "Minor: Health and the Human Condition" below.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

- Major in ancient civilization (Bachelor of Arts)
- Major in classical languages (Bachelor of Arts)
- Minor in ancient civilization
- Minor in classical languages
- Minor in Greek
- Minor in Latin
- Minor in health and the human condition

The department's undergraduate majors provide a solid foundation for graduate study in classics, European literature, law, history, art, philosophy, and religion. The major in classical languages offers concentrations in Greek and/or Latin. Bachelor of Arts graduates have become secondary school and university teachers, lawyers, doctors, librarians, museum curators, and bankers.

Bachelor of Arts: Ancient Civilization

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in ancient civilization requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 30 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major concentrates on the ancient civilization of the Mediterranean world, draws on courses offered by various University departments, and allows students to create individual programs. It offers an optional track for students with a particular interest in civilizations of the east Mediterranean from the earliest times through antiquity; see "Egypt and the Ancient Near East Track" below.

The major, including the Egypt and the ancient Near East track, is sponsored by the School of Art and Art History and the Departments of Classics, History, and Religious Studies.

Although the major is not preparation for graduate study in classics, it provides a sound basis for preparing individuals to teach at the secondary school and community college levels. It also provides a liberal arts and sciences foundation appropriate for further study in law, medicine, and other professions.

Students choose courses in consultation with their advisors. They must earn at least 15 s.h. of the credit required for the major in courses numbered 3000 or above, which may include classics in English courses numbered 3000 or above, the Greek language courses CLSG:2001 (20G:011) Second-Year Greek I and CLSG:2002 (20G:012) Second-Year Greek II, and the Latin language courses CLSL:2001 (20L:011) World of Cicero and CLSL:2002 (20L:012) Golden Age of Roman Poetry. Transfer credit is evaluated individually.

In addition to completing required course work, students maintain a required portfolio detailing their progress toward the major, which they must complete before graduation; see "Major Portfolio" below.

The major in ancient civilization requires the following course work.

ADDITIONAL COURSE
A course in material culture, history, philosophy, religion, or linguistics chosen in consultation with the advisor 3 s.h.

MAJOR PORTFOLIO
To comply with the Board of Regents, State of Iowa, policy on student outcomes assessment, the Department of Classics has established a method to assess the achievement level of B.A. students completing one of the department's majors. Each student must maintain a portfolio that details the student's progress in attaining the objectives of his or her major. Students must register for and complete the following course.

CLSA:3982 (20E:182) Graduation Portfolio 0 s.h.

The student submits the portfolio to the undergraduate advisor by midterm of the semester in which the student intends to graduate. Formal approval of the portfolio is required for graduation. Consult the undergraduate advisor for details.

Egypt and the Ancient Near East Track

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in ancient civilization, Egypt and the ancient Near East track, requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 30 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The Egypt and the ancient Near East track concentrates on the civilizations of the east Mediterranean, specifically Egypt and the cultures of Asia Minor, from the earliest times through late Antiquity.

The track is interdisciplinary; students select courses from archaeology, art, history, literature, and religion. The track provides a sound basis for preparing individuals to teach ancient civilizations of the Mediterranean and the Near East, ancient history, and ancient art history at the secondary school and community college levels. It also provides a strong liberal arts foundation suitable for further study in law, medicine, and other professions.

Students in the Egypt and the ancient Near East track choose courses in consultation with their advisors. They must earn at least 21 s.h. of the credit required for the ancient civilization major in courses listed under "Course Selection Requirements" below. They also must earn at least 15 s.h. for the major in courses numbered 3000 or above, which may include classics in English courses CLSG:2001 (20G:011) Second-Year Greek I and CLSG:2002 (20G:012) Second-Year Greek II, and the Latin language courses CLSL:2001 (20L:011) World of Cicero and CLSL:2002 (20L:012) Golden Age of Roman Poetry. Transfer credit is evaluated individually.

In addition to completing required course work, students maintain a required portfolio detailing their progress toward the major, which they must complete before graduation; see “Major Portfolio” below.

The major in ancient civilization with the Egypt and the ancient Near East track requires the following course work.

Bachelor of Arts: Classical Languages

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in classical languages requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 36 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses required for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Transfer credit is evaluated individually.

The major trains students to read the ancient Greek and/or Latin languages and acquaints them with the major works of Greek and/or Roman literature. Classical languages students learn about the history of ancient Greece of the eighth through the fourth centuries B.C.E., where most of the modern Western notions of political, artistic, and social life are rooted. They also develop an understanding of the Roman republic and empire, when Rome established its hegemony over the Mediterranean basin, laid the foundation of law for the Western World, and spread Greece’s culture to the West.

In addition to completing required course work, students maintain a required portfolio detailing their progress toward the major, which they must complete before graduation; see “Major Portfolio” below.

The major in classical languages requires the following course work.

REQUIRED COURSES
Intermediate or advanced Greek and/or Latin courses: CLSG:2001 (20G:011) through CLSG:4999, CLSL:2001 (20L:011) through CLSL:4999

Greek or Latin prose composition: CLSG:4076 (20G:176) or CLSL:3176 (20L:171) 3 s.h.
The following advanced undergraduate Greek courses are offered every other year and may be repeated or taken in any sequence. They cover a broad range of prose and poetry in historical context.

- CLSG:3001 (20G:120) Archaic and Classical Periods I 3 s.h.
- CLSG:3002 (20G:121) Archaic and Classical Periods II 3 s.h.
- CLSG:3003 (20G:122) Classical and Hellenistic Periods I 3 s.h.
- CLSG:3004 (20G:123) Classical and Hellenistic Periods II 3 s.h.

The following advanced undergraduate Latin courses are offered every other year and may be repeated or taken in any sequence. They cover a range of Latin prose and poetry in historical context from the mid-republic to the third century C.E.

- CLSL:3001 (20L:120) Latin Literature of the Republic I 3 s.h.
- CLSL:3002 (20L:121) Latin Literature of the Republic II 3 s.h.
- CLSL:3003 (20L:122) Latin Literature of the Empire I 3 s.h.
- CLSL:3004 (20L:123) Latin Literature of the Empire II 3 s.h.

B.A. with Teacher Licensure

Students majoring in ancient civilization or classical languages who are interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for their major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

B.A.: Ancient Civilization

Before the fifth semester begins: at least two courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: at least six courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least eight courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.A.: Classical Languages—Greek and Latin

Before the seventh semester begins: sixth semester of Latin and fourth semester of Greek, or sixth semester of Greek and fourth semester of Latin; two more courses in the major; and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least two or three more courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.A.: Classical Languages—Greek Only

Before the seventh semester begins: three or four more courses in the major

Before the eighth semester begins: two or three more courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate
B.A.: Classical Languages—Latin Only
Before the third semester begins: CLSL:1001 (20L:001) Elementary Latin I and CLSL:1002 (20L:002) Elementary Latin II
Before the seventh semester begins: three or four more courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
Before the eighth semester begins: two or three more courses in the major
During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major
Students majoring in ancient civilization or classical languages have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in their first three years of classics courses. To graduate with honors in the major, they must complete two courses in honors readings during their final year, one each semester of the year, earning 3 s.h. of credit for each course. The readings and discussions must be on an ancient author or a field in ancient history or literature chosen by the student and his or her instructor. At the end of the second semester, the student presents a substantial research project that has been approved by the department. The project is evaluated for honors by two members of the department. Students who write an honors thesis in classical languages must be enrolled at the same time in the appropriate advanced language courses.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor: Classical Languages
The minor in classical languages requires a minimum of 18 s.h., including 12 s.h. in advanced courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may count one relevant classics department course taught in English (prefix CLSA) toward the minor. A maximum of 6 s.h. of work for another University of Iowa major, minor, or certificate and up to 3 s.h. of lower-level transfer credit may be counted toward the minor.

Minor: Greek
The minor in Greek requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including at least 12 s.h. in advanced courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may count one relevant classics department course taught in English (prefix CLSA) toward the minor. A maximum of 6 s.h. of work for another University of Iowa major, minor, or certificate and up to 3 s.h. of lower-level transfer credit may be counted toward the minor.

The sequence CLSG:2001 (20G:011) Second-Year Greek I and CLSG:2002 (20G:012) Second-Year Greek II, and Department of Classics courses numbered 3000 or above are considered advanced for the minor in Greek. Students may satisfy the advanced courses requirement for the minor by completing CLSG:2001 (20G:011) Second-Year Greek I and CLSG:2002 (20G:012) Second-Year Greek II plus two courses numbered 3000 or above, one of which may be a relevant course in Greek history, culture, or literature (prefix CLSA). For a list of relevant courses, contact the undergraduate advisor. Students who have taken high school Greek should consult the advisor.

Minor: Latin
The minor in Latin requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including at least 12 s.h. in advanced courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may count one relevant classics department course taught in English (prefix CLSA) toward the minor. A maximum of 6 s.h. of work for another University of Iowa major, minor, or certificate and up to 3 s.h. of lower-level transfer credit may be counted toward the minor.

The sequence CLSL:2001 (20L:011) World of Cicero and CLSL:2002 (20L:012) Golden Age of Roman Poetry, and Department of Classics courses numbered 3000 or above are considered advanced for the minor in Latin. Students may satisfy the advanced courses requirement for the minor by completing CLSL:2001 (20L:011) World of Cicero and CLSL:2002 (20L:012) Golden Age of Roman Poetry plus two courses numbered 3000 or above, one of which may be a relevant course in Roman history, culture, or literature (prefix CLSA). For a list of relevant courses, contact the undergraduate advisor. Students who have taken high school Latin should consult the advisor.

Minor: Health and the Human Condition

The minor in health and the human condition requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including at least 12 s.h. in courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

The minor in health and the human condition is interdisciplinary. It is administered by the Department of Classics and draws on courses from several units in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. It requires the following course work.

Ethics and values—at least 3 s.h. from these:

- PHIL:1034 (026:034) Philosophy and the Just Society 3 s.h.
- PHIL:2401 (026:001) Matters of Life and Death 3 s.h.

Language for General Education

The Department of Classics offers course sequences in Greek, Latin, and Sanskrit that students in all majors may use to fulfill the World Languages requirement of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Students who have had previous course work or other experience with Greek or Latin should take the appropriate placement test, which helps determine the level at which a student should begin Greek or Latin language study at The University of Iowa. The tests are offered during summer orientation programs and monthly by Evaluation and Examination Service.

Students with previous knowledge of Sanskrit should consult the department about appropriate placement.

GREEK

Students who wish to fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement with Greek should complete the following sequence.

- CLSG:1001 (20G:001) Classical and New Testament Greek I 3-5 s.h.
- CLSG:1002 (20G:002) Classical and New Testament Greek II 3-5 s.h.
- CLSG:2001 (20G:011) Second-Year Greek I 3 s.h.
- CLSG:2002 (20G:012) Second-Year Greek II 3 s.h.

LATIN

Students who wish to fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement with Latin should complete the following sequence.

- CLSL:1001 (20L:001) Elementary Latin I 3-5 s.h.
- CLSL:1002 (20L:002) Elementary Latin II 3-5 s.h.
- CLSL:2002 (20L:012) Golden Age of Roman Poetry 3 s.h.
SANSKRIT

Students who wish to fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement with Sanskrit should complete the following sequence.

CLSA:2901 (20E:110) First-Year Sanskrit: First Semester 4 s.h.
CLSA:2902 (20E:111) First-Year Sanskrit: Second Semester 4 s.h.
CLSA:3901 (20E:121) Second-Year Sanskrit: First Semester 3 s.h.
CLSA:3902 (20E:122) Second-Year Sanskrit: Second Semester 3 s.h.

Postbaccalaureate Program of Study

• Certificate in Classics

Certificate

The Postbaccalaureate Certificate in Classics requires 18 s.h. in Department of Classics courses numbered 3000 or above (upper-level and graduate courses). The program is designed for students who have a bachelor's degree and would like further study in Greek and Latin in order to be competitive for admission to a graduate program in classics. Entry to most graduate programs requires study of both Latin and Greek, normally a minimum of three years in one language and two years in the other.

The certificate is designed to be completed in two semesters by students who enter with two years of Latin and one to two years of Greek, or vice versa. It requires 18 s.h. in Department of Classics courses numbered 3000 or above (upper-level and graduate courses). At least 12 s.h. of the required credit must be earned in Greek and Latin language courses; the remaining 6 s.h. may be earned in approved advanced courses taught in English (prefix CLSA). Transfer credit is not accepted toward the certificate. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 to remain in good standing and complete the program.

A suggested plan of study for a student who enters the program with two years of Latin and one year of Greek is as follows.

Fall semester:

CLSA:4085 (20E:198) Postbaccalaureate Seminar 0 s.h.
CLSG:2001 (20G:011) Second-Year Greek I 3 s.h.
CLSL:3001 (20L:120) Latin Literature of the Republic I 3 s.h.
CLSL:3176 (20L:171) Elementary Latin Composition 3 s.h.

Spring semester:

CLSG:2002 (20G:012) Second-Year Greek II 3 s.h.
CLSL:3002 (20L:121) Latin Literature of the Republic II 3 s.h.
One elective with prefix CLSA, CLSG, or CLSL numbered 3000 or above 3 s.h.

A suggested plan of study for a student who enters the program with two years of Greek and one year of Latin is as follows.

Fall semester:

CLSA:4085 (20E:198) Postbaccalaureate Seminar 0 s.h.
CLSL:2001 (20L:110) First-Year Greek 4 s.h.
CLSL:2002 (20L:111) Second-Year Greek I 3 s.h.

Admission

Applicants must have a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university and a minimum of two years of language study (two years of Latin or two years of Greek, or one year of each). In unusual circumstances, students with less language preparation may be admitted.

Applicants who are not enrolled in a graduate or professional program may apply to The University of Iowa as undergraduate transfer students; they must state on their application that they are applying to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences for admission to the classics postbaccalaureate certificate program. They must submit transcripts confirming preparation for certificate language study, a statement of purpose, scores on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation from faculty members at their baccalaureate institution.

Graduate Programs of Study

• Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy in classics
• Master of Arts in Greek
• Master of Arts in Latin

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in classics, Greek, or Latin requires a minimum of 30 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above. Students may count a maximum of 12 s.h. earned in courses numbered 3000-4999 toward the degree. Courses taken to compete the Postbaccalaureate Certificate in Classics do not count toward the degree.

Students must pass a sight examination in the language(s) studied and an examination on literature and history.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in classics requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit, including the courses listed below (27 s.h.). Students may count no more than 12 s.h. earned in courses numbered 3000-4999 toward the degree. Courses taken to complete the Postbaccalaureate Certificate do not count toward the degree.

Students also must take precomprehensive and comprehensive examinations and write a dissertation.

Fourth-year comprehensive exam:
- Greek and Roman history/material culture based on reading list—three hours, written
- Latin literature, based on reading list—three hours, written
- Greek literature, based on reading list—three hours, written

If a student performs unsatisfactorily on either or both of the Latin and Greek reading list exams, the director of graduate studies sets up an oral exam in order to review questions on which the student did not exhibit sufficient knowledge.

Oral exam:
- Special field or author (Greek)—four hours, written
- Special field or author (Latin)—four hours, written

Facilities

University of Iowa Libraries’ Main Library and the Art Library house extensive collections of classical texts and uninterrupted runs of classical periodicals from 1850 that facilitate research in the major areas of Greek and Roman civilization. The Department of Classics has a varied collection of slides on classical subjects and a small library of reference works, texts, and issues of classical and archaeological journals. The department's classical museum contains a small collection of coins, vases, and facsimiles in bronze from Mycenae, Pompeii, and Herculaneum.

The University is a supporting institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, the American Academy in Rome, and the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Consult the director of undergraduate studies for more information.

The department offers students the opportunity to participate in an archaeological dig during the summer. Contact the Department of Classics in mid-February for details.

Introduction to ancient Greek; Greek readings from all periods, from Homer and classical Greek poetry and prose to Christian writings and beyond; focus on classical and New Testament works, Greek culture and thought; comprehension, vocabulary, structure of Greek words and sentences; first of two-semester sequence. GE: World Languages First Level Proficiency.

CLSG:1002 (20G:002) Classical and New Testament Greek II
Continuation of CLSG:1001 (20G:001); focus on classical and New Testament works, Greek culture and thought, comprehension, vocabulary, structure of Greek words and sentences; increased emphasis on original texts. Prerequisites: CLSG:1001 (20G:001). GE: World Languages Second Level Proficiency.

CLSG:2001 (20G:011) Second-Year Greek I
Focus on reading Greek prose authors, such as Xenophon and Plato. Prerequisites: CLSG:1002 (20G:002). GE: World Languages Second Level Proficiency.

CLSG:2002 (20G:012) Second-Year Greek II

Greek, Upper-Level
Undergraduate and Graduate

CLSG:3001 (20G:120) Archaic and Classical Periods I
Readings in major Greek authors of the Archaic and Classical periods. Prerequisites: CLSG:2002 (20G:012).

CLSG:3002 (20G:121) Archaic and Classical Periods II

CLSG:3003 (20G:122) Classical and Hellenistic Periods I

CLSG:3004 (20G:123) Classical and Hellenistic Periods II

CLSG:4076 (20G:176) Greek Composition
Review of Greek morphology, syntax, sentence structure; composition of sentences, short passages in Greek.

CLSG:4090 (20G:199) Private Assignments
Directed reading and study with faculty member.

CLSG:4095 (20G:190) Honors Readings
Discussion, readings, research for a paper on Greek literature, history, or civilization. Requirements: classical languages major.

Greek, Graduate

Courses numbered CLSG:6011 (20G:222) Archaic Greece and CLSG:6013 (20G:223) Hellenistic Greece cover topics from the major genres and periods of Greek literature. They are offered on a four-year cycle.

Courses numbered CLSG:6011 (20G:222) Archaic Greece, CLSG:6013 (20G:223) Hellenistic Greece, and CLSG:6012 (20G:228) Classical Greece cover authors, genres, and topics of the major periods of Greek history. Specific topics are determined by the instructor's expertise and research interests. Ph.D. students are exposed to topics in all major periods at least once in four years of course work.

CLSG:5001 (20G:204) Archaic Greek Literature
Introductory survey of Greek literature and language from Homer to end of the fifth century.

CLSG:5002 (20G:205) Classical and Hellenistic Literature
Introductory survey of Greek literature and language in and after the fourth century B.C.E.

CLSG:6011 (20G:222) Archaic Greece
Topics chosen from Homer, Hesiod, Homeric hymns or lyric poetry.

CLSG:6012 (20G:228) Classical Greece
Authors, genres, and topics from the fourth and fifth centuries B.C.E.

CLSG:6013 (20G:223) Hellenistic Greece
Authors, genres, and topics from the death of Alexander to the accession of Augustus.

CLSG:6014 (20G:229) Roman Greece
Greek authors of the Second Sophistic, including Plutarch, Lucian, and Philostratus; seminar.

CLSG:6910 (20G:291) Graduate Pedagogy
Pedagogical theories on teaching classical languages, practical application of those theories; classroom management, grading, syllabus development; university, college, and department regulations. Requirements: graduate standing, and teaching assistant or instructor in Greek.

CLSG:7080 (20G:291) Greek Thesis
For Ph.D. students writing a dissertation. Requirements: Ph.D. candidacy.

CLSG:7090 (20G:202) Advanced Reading
Requirements: classics graduate standing.
Latin, Lower-Level
Undergraduate

CLSL:1001 (20L:001) Elementary Latin I 3.5 s.h.
Focus on reading Latin and on Roman culture. GE: World Languages First Level Proficiency.

CLSL:1002 (20L:002) Elementary Latin II 3.5 s.h.

CLSL:2001 (20L:011) World of Cicero 3 s.h.
Focus on reading Latin prose authors, such as Caesar and Cicero. Prerequisites: CLSL:1002 (20L:002). GE: World Languages Second Level Proficiency.

CLSL:2002 (20L:012) Golden Age of Roman Poetry 3 s.h.
Focus on reading and interpretation of Roman poets, such as Vergil and Catullus. Prerequisites: CLSL:2001 (20L:011). GE: World Languages Second Level Proficiency.

Latin, Upper-Level
Undergraduate and Graduate Student

CLSL:3001 (20L:120) Latin Literature of the Republic I 3 s.h.
Prose or poetry by major authors of the republic. Prerequisites: CLSL:2002 (20L:012).

CLSL:3002 (20L:121) Latin Literature of the Republic II 3 s.h.

CLSL:3003 (20L:122) Latin Literature of the Empire I 3 s.h.
Prose or poetry by major authors of the empire. Prerequisites: CLSL:2002 (20L:012).

CLSL:3004 (20L:123) Latin Literature of the Empire II 3 s.h.

CLSL:3176 (20L:171) Elementary Latin Composition 3 s.h.

CLSL:4090 (20L:199) Private Assignments 1-3 s.h.
Directed reading and study with faculty member for advanced students.

CLSL:4095 (20L:190) Honors Readings 3 s.h.
Discussions, readings, research for a paper on Roman literature, history, or civilization. Requirements: classical languages major.

Latin, Graduate

Course CLSL:6012 (20L:222) Augustan Rome covers topics from the major genres and periods of Latin literature. It is offered on a four-year cycle.

Courses numbered CLSL:6011 (20L:220) Republican Rome, CLSL:6014 (20L:228) Later Empire, and CLSL:6013 (20L:229) Tiberius to Trajan cover authors, genres, and topics of the major periods of Roman history. Specific topics are determined by the instructor’s expertise and research interests. Ph.D. students are exposed to topics in all major periods at least once in four years of course work.

CLSL:5001 (20L:204) Republican Literature 3 s.h.
Introductory survey of Latin literature and language from the early Republic to the end of the first century B.C.E.

CLSL:5002 (20L:205) Imperial Literature 3 s.h.
Introductory survey of Latin literature and language from the Augustan age through the second century C.E.

Authors and topics from the beginnings of Roman literature to the death of Julius Caesar.

CLSL:6012 (20L:222) Augustan Rome arr.
Authors and topics from the death of Caesar to the accession of Tiberius.

CLSL:6013 (20L:229) Tiberius to Trajan arr.
Authors and topics from the first and second centuries C.E. Same as RELS:6040 (032:229).

CLSL:6014 (20L:228) Later Empire arr.
Authors and topics from the third through fifth centuries C.E.

Writing of extended prose passages in Latin.

CLSL:6910 (20L:210) Graduate Pedagogy 1 s.h.
Pedagogical theories on teaching classical languages, practical application of those theories; classroom management, grading, syllabus development; university, college, and department regulations. Requirements: teaching assistant or instructor in Latin.

For Ph.D. students writing a dissertation. Requirements: Ph.D. candidacy.

CLSL:7090 (20L:202) Advanced Reading arr.
Requirements: classics graduate standing.

Sanskrit, Lower-Level
Undergraduate

CLSA:2901 (20E:110) First-Year Sanskrit: First Semester 4 s.h.
Grammar, basic vocabulary; elementary readings. Offered fall semesters of even years. Requirements: undergraduate standing. GE: World Languages First Level Proficiency. Same as SOAS:2901 (039:110).
CLSA:2902 (20E:111) First-Year Sanskrit: 4 s.h.

Undergraduate major: speech and hearing science (B.A.)

Undergraduate minor: communication sciences and disorders

Graduate degrees: M.A. in speech pathology and audiology; Au.D.; Ph.D. in speech and hearing science

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/comsci/

The courses and degree programs of the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders are planned to meet the needs of students preparing for careers in clinical service, college and university teaching, and research concerned with speech, language, or hearing processes and disorders. The department also offers courses for students with vocational and professional goals in other fields—for example, engineering, psychology, education, speech, theatre arts, dentistry, and medicine—whose preparation may be enriched by the study of speech and hearing processes and their disorders. Advanced degree holders in communication sciences and disorders provide clinical services for people with speech, hearing, or language problems in hospitals, community clinics, rehabilitation facilities, elementary and secondary schools, and private practice. They teach in colleges and universities and conduct research in laboratories concerned with communication processes and disorders. The department’s programs leading to the M.A. with professional emphasis and the Au.D. are accredited by the Council on Academic Accreditation of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA).

Undergraduate Programs of Study

• Major in speech and hearing science (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in communication sciences and disorders

Students who intend to pursue professional careers in communication sciences and disorders must complete a graduate program comparable to the department’s Master of Arts in speech pathology and audiology or its Doctor of Audiology (Au.D.). The undergraduate major in speech and hearing science emphasizes the normal processes of speech, hearing, and language and does not qualify an individual to work professionally in the field. Instead, it is designed primarily to prepare students for graduate work. It also may be an appropriate major for students earning College of Liberal Arts and Sciences degrees who are not planning careers in speech pathology and audiology.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in speech and hearing science requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 63-64 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Requirements include 12 core courses offered by the department and eight cognate courses offered by other departments. Transfer students must complete a minimum of 15 s.h. toward the major at The University of Iowa.

The major in speech and hearing science requires the following course work.

CORE COURSES

All of these:

- CSD:1015 (003:015) Introduction to Speech and Hearing Processes and Disorders 2 s.h.
- CSD:2110 (003:110) Phonetics: Theory and Applications 3 s.h.
- CSD:2111 (003:111) Basic Acoustics for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
- CSD:3112 (003:112) Anatomy and Physiology of Speech Production 4 s.h.
- CSD:3113 (003:113) Introduction to Hearing Science 4 s.h.
- CSD:3116 (003:116) Basic Neuroscience for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
- CSD:3117 (003:117) Psychology of Language 3 s.h.
- CSD:3118 (003:118) Language Acquisition 3 s.h.
- CSD:4145 (003:145) Developmental Speech and Language Disorders 3 s.h.
- CSD:4148 (003:148) Developmental Speech Disorders 3 s.h.
- CSD:4244 (003:244) Rehabilitative Audiology 3 s.h.

COGNATE COURSES

Students may choose cognate courses that help fulfill the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Both of these:

- LING:3001 (103:100) Introduction to Linguistics 3 s.h.
- PSY:1001 (031:001) Elementary Psychology 3 s.h.

One of these:

- PSQF:1020 (07P:025)/STAT:1020 (22S:025) Elementary Statistics and Inference 3 s.h.
- PSQF:4143 (07P:143)/STAT:4143 (22S:102) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.
- STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.
- STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.

One of these:

- CHEM:1070 (004:007) General Chemistry I 3 s.h.
- CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I 4 s.h.
- PHYS:1400 (029:008) Basic Physics (preferably with lab) 4 s.h.
- PHYS:1511 (029:011) College Physics I 4 s.h.

One of these:

- PSY:2301 (031:013) Introduction to Clinical Psychology 3 s.h.
- PSY:2915 (031:050) Psychology of Aging 3 s.h.
- PSY:2930 (031:063) Abnormal Psychology: Health Professions 3 s.h.
- SSW:1800 (042:085) Basic Aspects of Aging 3 s.h.

One of these:

- PSQF:4106 (07P:106) Child Development 3 s.h.
- PSY:2401 (031:014) Introduction to Developmental Science 3 s.h.

One of these:

- BIOL:1141 (002:002) Introductory Animal Biology (with lab) 4 s.h.
- BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology (with lab) 4 s.h.

One of these:

- MATH:1440 (22M:015) Mathematics for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
- MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
- MATH:1850 (22M:025) Calculus I 4 s.h.

This cognate requirement in mathematics may be fulfilled through an acceptable score on the Advanced Placement AB or BC Calculus exam; see Credit by Exam on the Office of Admissions web site. Students without AP credit are encouraged to take first-year calculus to satisfy this requirement, particularly those interested in earning a graduate degree in audiology.

CLINICAL OBSERVATION

Students have the opportunity and are encouraged to obtain 25 hours of supervised clinical observation, a prerequisite for participation in clinical practicums at the graduate level. This requirement is satisfied by completion of independent observations or required observations made for elective departmental courses.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Note: The major requires specific mathematics and science competencies that may be satisfied with courses approved for the General Education Program.

Before the fifth semester begins: three courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: nine courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: 12 courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate.
Honors in the Major

Students majoring in speech and hearing science who have a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 may enter the department's honors program upon recommendation of the departmental honors advisor. To graduate with honors in the major, students must complete at least 10 s.h. of course work for the major by the beginning of their junior year and must maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.50. They must complete both CSD:3097 (003:097) Honors Seminar and CSD:4098 (003:098) Honors Thesis, registering for CSD:3097 (003:097) in spring of their junior year and for CSD:4098 (003:098) in both fall and spring of their senior year.

Students who intend to graduate with honors in the speech and hearing science major must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor

The minor in communication sciences and disorders requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. in courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Students must begin the minor with CSD:1015 (003:015) Introduction to Speech and Hearing Processes and Disorders (2 s.h.), which provides a broad overview of all aspects of the normal communication process and of various disorders. Students complete the minor by choosing from the courses listed below, according to their individual interests.

- CSD:2110 (003:110) Phonetics: Theory and Applications 3 s.h.
- CSD:2111 (003:111) Basic Acoustics for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
- CSD:2140 (003:140) Manual Communication 1 s.h.
- CSD:3112 (003:112) Anatomy and Physiology of Speech Production 4 s.h.
- CSD:3113 (003:113) Introduction to Hearing Science 4 s.h.
- CSD:3116 (003:116) Basic Neuroscience for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
- CSD:3117 (003:117) Psychology of Language 3 s.h.
- CSD:3118 (003:118) Language Acquisition 3 s.h.
- CSD:3185 (003:185) Hearing Loss and Audiometry 4 s.h.
- CSD:4144 (003:244) Rehabilitative Audiology 3 s.h.
- CSD:4145 (003:145) Developmental Speech and Language Disorders 3 s.h.
- CSD:4148 (003:148) Developmental Speech Disorders 3 s.h.
- CSD:4149 (003:149) Developmental Audiology 3 s.h.
- CSD:4244 (003:244) Rehabilitative Audiology 3 s.h.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in speech pathology and audiology
- Doctor of Audiology
- Doctor of Philosophy in speech and hearing science

The Master of Arts program in speech pathology and audiology is offered with two emphases: research (general), and professional (speech-language pathology).

The M.A. with research emphasis and the Ph.D. are designed to train scholar-researchers; they do not provide preparation for professional work as speech-language pathologists or audiologists.

The M.A. with professional emphasis and the Au.D. provide training for individuals who wish to do clinical work in speech-language pathology or audiology. Graduates of the M.A. professional emphasis program meet all academic and practicum requirements for clinical certification by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) and for licensure by the State of Iowa. The Au.D. is required for ASHA national certification in audiology. Students preparing for clinical positions in public schools must meet school licensure or certification requirements of the states in which they plan to work. See “M.A. with Professional Licensure” later in this section.

Master of Arts: Research Emphasis

The Master of Arts program in speech pathology and audiology with research emphasis (general emphasis) requires a minimum of 38 s.h. of graduate credit. The program is designed for students who intend to pursue a Ph.D. or who seek additional education but do not intend to work professionally in the United States as speech-language pathologists or audiologists. It typically includes a substantial portion of the courses in the M.A. with professional emphasis and Au.D. curricula.

Students in the M.A. research emphasis program are required to complete a thesis and defend their research successfully at a final oral examination. The program typically requires two years to complete. Specific course work required depends on the student's background and interests.

Master of Arts: Professional Emphasis

The Master of Arts program in speech pathology and audiology with professional emphasis in speech-language pathology requires a minimum of 38 s.h. of graduate credit, although students typically earn 60-65 s.h. of credit by the time they complete the degree. The program prepares clinicians in speech-language pathology to be able to function independently in a variety of clinical settings. Graduates of the program meet all academic and practicum requirements for clinical certification by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association and for licensure by the State of Iowa. The program is designed to ensure that upon graduation, the student will meet requirements for immediate professional employment.

M.A. students usually have a background of undergraduate courses in speech and hearing science, psychology of language, and human behavior that is equivalent to an undergraduate major in speech and hearing science at The University of Iowa.

Before registering in the program, entering M.A. students receive descriptive materials about basic science core courses considered to be required preparation for the M.A. program, and required M.A. clinical core courses for which the department may accept comparable courses taken at the undergraduate level. Decisions about incorporating background course work in these areas are made by the faculty advisor in consultation with the student and the instructors of the basic science or clinical core courses. Entering students must have completed the following courses or their equivalents.

All of these:

- CSD:2110 (003:110) Phonetics: Theory and Applications 3 s.h.
- CSD:2111 (003:111) Basic Acoustics for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
- CSD:3112 (003:112) Anatomy and Physiology of Speech Production 4 s.h.
- CSD:3113 (003:113) Introduction to Hearing Science 4 s.h.
- CSD:3116 (003:116) Basic Neuroscience for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
- CSD:3117 (003:117) Psychology of Language 3 s.h.
- CSD:3118 (003:118) Language Acquisition 1-3 s.h.
- CSD:3185 (003:185) Hearing Loss and Audiometry 3 s.h.
- PSQF:1020 (07P:025) Elementary Statistics and Inference 3 s.h.
- Biology, physics, chemistry, or mathematics courses (must include at least one biology, physics, or chemistry course) 6 s.h.
- Behavioral science or social science courses (must include at least one psychology course) 6 s.h.

Students pursuing the M.A. with professional emphasis must complete at least 4 s.h. of work related to research. This may be accomplished by any combination of enrollment in seminars (2 s.h. each) and/or research hours. Completion of the research hours may consist of work toward a thesis or preparation of a paper involving one or a combination of the following: literature review, prospectus development, and presentation of data. A paper is required at the end of each semester's enrollment. An exception to this requirement can be made in the case of research hours leading to a thesis.

Candidates for an M.A. with professional emphasis in speech-language pathology are not required to complete a thesis, although all students demonstrating research aptitude and interest are encouraged to do so. Students who do not elect the thesis option are required to take final written comprehensive examinations.

A typical M.A. professional emphasis program usually takes two calendar years to complete but may take longer, depending on the student's background and personal interests.

CORE REQUIREMENTS

All students seeking an M.A. with professional emphasis in speech-language pathology must take the following.

- CSD:5135 (003:135) Foundations of Clinical Practice I 1-3 s.h.
- CSD:5136 (003:136) Foundations of Clinical Practice II 1 s.h.
- CSD:5137 (003:137) Foundations of Clinical Practice III 1 s.h.

In addition, they must take the following courses unless they completed equivalent courses as undergraduates.

- CSD:2140 (003:140) Manual Communication 1 s.h.
- CSD:3116 (003:116) Basic Neuroscience for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
- CSD:3185 (003:185) Hearing Loss and Audiometry 3 s.h.
- CSD:4114 (003:114) Introduction to Voice Disorders 2 s.h.
- CSD:4115 (003:115) Structural Disorders 2 s.h.
- CSD:4145 (003:145) Developmental Speech and Language Disorders 3 s.h.
- CSD:4146 (003:146) Neurogenic Disorders of Language 3 s.h.
- CSD:4147 (003:147) Neurogenic Disorders of Speech 2 s.h.
- CSD:4183 (003:183) Introduction to Stuttering 2 s.h.
- CSD:4244 (003:244) Rehabilitative Audiology 3 s.h.

Students must take CSD:5510 (003:510) Seminar: Introduction to Research in Speech and Hearing (0-1 s.h.) during the fall semester of their first year. They must take CSD:6515 (003:515) Proseminar (0 s.h.) during the fall and spring semesters of their first year.

Also required are additional semester hours of practicum registration sufficient to meet supervised, direct clinical experience requirements for the Certificate of Clinical Competence of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association and the Iowa license, and to provide broad, supervised practicum experience.

In addition to the core requirements listed above, all students preparing to be speech-language pathologists must earn a minimum of 12 s.h. from the following.

- CSD:5201 (003:201) Principles of Voice Production 3 s.h.
- CSD:5206 (003:206) Language Disorders: Birth to Five Years 3 s.h.
- CSD:5222 (003:222) Speech and Hearing Anatomy (dissection) 2 s.h.
- CSD:5233 (003:233) Aphasia 2 s.h.
- CSD:5236 (003:236) Swallowing Disorders 2 s.h.
- CSD:5237 (003:237) Cleft Palate and Related Disorders 2 s.h.
- CSD:5260 (003:260) Designing Assistive Devices 1-3 s.h.
- CSD:5282 (003:282) Phonological Development and Disorders 2 s.h.
- CSD:5283 (003:283) Stuttering 2 s.h.
- CSD:5350 (003:350) Preceptorship in Augmentative Communication 1 s.h.
- CSD:6213 (003:213) Voice Habilitation 2 s.h.
- EDTL:5104 (07E:104) Remedial Methods in Speech and Hearing 2 s.h.

Students also must earn a total of 4 s.h. in CSD:7590 (003:590) Research or 4 s.h. in a combination of research and seminar courses.

M.A. with Professional Licensure

M.A. with Licensure to Work Outside Public Schools

A number of states, including Iowa, require a state license in speech-language pathology or audiology for persons who work in settings outside the public schools. Students who meet the requirements listed above for the M.A. in speech pathology and audiology with professional emphasis also meet the academic requirements for the license in Iowa as well as in most other states. In 2007 the requirements to earn American Speech-Language-Hearing Association national certification in audiology changed. Certification now requires a clinical doctoral degree (Doctor of Audiology) or the equivalent. Students preparing for careers in audiology should consult their advisors.

M.A. with Public School Licensure

Students preparing for clinical positions in public schools typically must meet school licensure or certification requirements of the states in which they plan to work. The following criteria meet the requirements for endorsement as speech-language pathologists or audiologists in Iowa and most other states:

- a master's degree with professional emphasis in speech-language pathology or audiology or the equivalent;
- completion of an approved human relations component;
- completion of courses that cover the education of the disabled and the gifted and talented (e.g., exceptional persons, education of the gifted); and
- completion of the requirements in speech-language pathology or audiology and the 20 s.h. professional education sequence, including EDTL:5104 (07E:104) Remedial Methods in Speech and Hearing and EDTL:4192 (07E:192) Special Area Student Teaching as a speech-language pathologist or audiologist.

The professional education sequence requires course work in the following areas.

Curriculum (e.g., reading, methods, curriculum development)

Foundations (e.g., philosophy of education, foundations of education)

Educational measurement (e.g., tests and measurements, measures and evaluations of instruction)

Educational psychology (e.g., educational psychology, counseling theories and techniques)

Special education (e.g., introduction to special education, exceptional persons, learning disabilities)

Child development (e.g., human growth and development, principles and theories of child development, history and theories of early childhood education)

Note: General Education Program courses (e.g., introduction to psychology, sociology, history, literature, and humanities) do not meet the requirements of the professional education sequence.

Doctor of Audiology

The Doctor of Audiology (Au.D.) requires 95 s.h. of graduate credit. Individuals who wish to work as audiologists in the United States must hold a clinical doctoral degree or the equivalent.

The four-year Au.D. program is designed for students with an undergraduate degree in speech and hearing science. Au.D. students must complete the following courses. They may be excused from taking courses whose equivalents they completed successfully during undergraduate study. All of these:

- CSD:4145 (003:145) Developmental Speech and Language Disorders 3 s.h.
- CSD:4244 (003:244) Rehabilitative Audiology 3 s.h.
- CSD:5135 (003:135) Foundations of Clinical Practice I 1-3 s.h.
- CSD:5219 (003:219) Fundamentals of Laboratory Instrumentation 3 s.h.
- CSD:5224 (003:224) System and Signal Theory for Speech and Hearing Science 3 s.h.
- CSD:5240 (003:240) Hearing Aids I 3 s.h.
- CSD:5246 (003:246) Advanced Audiology 3 s.h.
- CSD:5255 (003:255) Educational Audiology 2 s.h.
- CSD:5256 (003:256) Anatomy and Physiology of Hearing 3-4 s.h.
- CSD:5311 (003:311) Clinical Practice in Audiology 2-3 s.h.
- CSD:6230 (003:230) Advanced Hearing Science 2 s.h.
- CSD:6242 (003:242) Hearing Aids II 3 s.h.
- CSD:6245 (003:245) Pediatric Audiology 3 s.h.
- CSD:6247 (003:247) Medical Audiology 2 s.h.
- CSD:6249 (003:249) Cochlear Implants 1-3 s.h.
- CSD:6290 (003:290) Auditory Evoked Potentials 3 s.h.
- CSD:6291 (003:291) Vestibular Assessment and Rehabilitation 3 s.h.
- CSD:6292 (003:292) Advanced Rehabilitative Audiology 1 s.h.
- CSD:6317 (003:317) Audiology Business Practice Management 1 s.h.
- CSD:6318 (003:318) Hearing Loss Prevention 2 s.h.
- CSD:6519 (003:519) Seminar: Evidence-Based Practice 2 s.h.
- CSD:7238 (003:238) Capstone Requirement 1 s.h.
- MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences (or one semester of calculus) 4 s.h.

One of these:

- BIOS:5120 (171:162) Design and Analysis of Biomedical Studies 3 s.h.
- PSQF:6243 (07P:243) Intermediate Statistical Methods 4 s.h.

Students may select any of the following electives. With their advisors’ consent, they may substitute other University of Iowa course work.

- CSD:5222 (003:222) Speech and Hearing Anatomy 2 s.h.
- CSD:6538 (003:538) Seminar: Hearing Science 2 s.h.
- ASL:3200 (158:101) Topics in Deaf Studies 3 s.h.
- ASLE:3905 (158:110) Teaching Deaf and Hard of Hearing Students 3 s.h.
- EDTL:5104 (07E:104) Remedial Methods in Speech and Hearing 2 s.h.
- NSCI:7180 (132:180) Neurobiology 4 s.h.
Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in speech and hearing science requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. The program provides flexible, comprehensive training for scholar-researchers interested in communication processes and disorders. Students with diverse backgrounds in the natural and behavioral sciences are encouraged to apply and develop their skills in an atmosphere of interdisciplinary research.

The Ph.D. program reflects the broad interests of its multidisciplinary faculty, whose members have diverse backgrounds in speech, language, hearing, engineering, physiology, physics, psychology, linguistics, and bioengineering. Faculty members are committed to an interdisciplinary approach to questions at every level of the speech and language production/perception system.

The purpose of the doctoral program is to provide the integrated knowledge necessary for a productive career in speech-language pathology and audiology, communication science, and related areas.

The department encourages candidates with special interests, goals, or backgrounds to develop individualized programs of study. There is no standard curriculum for the Ph.D.; rather, a program of study is developed by each student in consultation with a faculty committee. The course of study is developed from courses offered by the department, courses in other areas (e.g., physics, engineering, psychology, mathematics, statistics, physiology, neurology, anatomy, and others), and special reading and research experiences.

The following courses are offered by the department of Communication Sciences and Disorders primarily for Ph.D. students. (Students interested in specific areas of communication science and related areas.

In addition, seminars offered by the department cover a broad range of topics relevant to doctoral study.

Students in the Ph.D. program usually are expected to register for research credit (CSD:7590 (003:590) Research) during each semester of residence and to register for and participate in CSD:6515 (003:515) Proseminar.

Knowledge in each of the areas of hearing, speech, language, mathematics, statistics, computer science, and instrumentation is required of all students. Decisions regarding the extent of this knowledge and how it is obtained (e.g., course work or independent study) are made jointly by the student and the student's faculty committee.

Doctoral students who have not written a master's thesis must complete the equivalent of a master's thesis project as well as the comprehensive examination. They also must successfully complete and submit a dissertation based on original research.

Joint Au.D./Ph.D.

The Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders and the Graduate College offer the joint Doctor of Audiology/Doctor of Philosophy in speech and hearing science. The joint Au.D./Ph.D. program is especially appropriate for students who would like to practice audiology and hold a faculty position at a university. The program requires 137 s.h., permitting students to count 30 s.h. of the 95 s.h. required for the Au.D. degree toward the 72 s.h. required for the Ph.D. degree. Students complete all of the course work required for the Au.D.; the course of study for the Ph.D. is developed by each student in consultation with a faculty committee (see "Doctor of Philosophy" above). Consult the department to learn more about the joint degree program.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Each of the department's graduate programs requires that applicants take the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test before they apply for admission.

Admission to the M.A. and Au.D. programs is competitive; applicants' credentials are considered in relation to those of others in the applicant pool, and a limited number of individuals are admitted to each program. Applicants whose undergraduate g.p.a. is below 3.00 or whose GRE General Test scores are lower than 450 in any area (verbal, quantitative, and analytic) rarely are admitted to either program. Admission is for fall; the application deadline is January 1. All applications to the M.A. and Au.D. programs must be submitted through CSDCAS (Central Application Service for Communication Science and Disorders).

Admission to the Ph.D. program is based on each individual's aptitudes and interests in research areas rather than on admitting a certain number of students. Applicants should be enrolled in a master's degree program or should have completed a master's degree or equivalent graduate work. They should have a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 and should have GRE General Test scores no lower than 500 in any area (verbal, quantitative, and analytic). For best consideration, applications should be received by January 1. All applications to the Ph.D. program must be submitted through the University of Iowa Biosciences Centralized Application System.

For detailed information regarding evaluation of applicants, applications materials and requirements, and other matters, see Graduate Program on the department's web site.

Financial Support

The following information applies to all financial appointments administered by the department. For more detailed information, contact the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders director of graduate studies.

Graduate appointments usually begin only in fall semester. Students beginning study spring semester or summer session are considered for appointments for the following fall semester.

Appointment applications must be received by January 15 to ensure consideration for an appointment beginning the following fall semester. Initial appointment offers generally are made between April 1 and June 1; however, the department continues to make offers after this time.

Scores on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test are required for consideration for financial assistance.

Facilities

Clinical Facilities

The clinical training program benefits greatly from Iowa City's standing as the most comprehensive health sciences center in Iowa and from the ready availability of health service facilities for clinical training of students in speech-language pathology and audiology.

The University of Iowa Affiliated Speech and Hearing Services include the Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Clinic; the division of speech and hearing in the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics (UIHC) Department of Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery; UIHC Consolidated Speech and Swallowing Services, which provides services to the Departments of Neurology, Child Psychiatry, and Otolaryngology—Head and Neck Surgery; speech and hearing services in the Center for Disabilities and Development; Pediatrics Regional Child Health Specialty Clinics; and the audiology and speech pathology service in the Iowa City Veterans Affairs Medical Center. Directors of these programs form the Council on Speech Pathology and Audiology at The University of Iowa.

The Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Clinic serves the University and the general public. Included in its services are outpatient evaluation and rehabilitation programs for speech, hearing, and language problems; one-week intensive summer programs in stuttering, language development, reading, and aural rehabilitation; and a six-week summer preschool program for hearing-impaired children. These clinical programs give students supervised clinical experience with a wide variety of speech, hearing, and language disorders.

In addition to the clinical training in the Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Clinic, training also may be acquired in supervised clinical practice with elementary school children through various state area education agencies; and in supervised clinical practice in speech, language, and hearing services provided by the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics Consolidated Speech and Swallowing Services, the Regional Child Health Specialty Clinics, Center for Disabilities and Development, and the Veterans Affairs Iowa City Health Care System.

Public and private departments and programs in addition to those mentioned above often contribute to the cooperative professional training, research, and service programs.

Research Facilities

Facilities in the Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Center include audiometric testing suites, diagnostic and remediation suites, equipment for diagnosis and therapy, a closed-circuit television system, and laboratories and equipment for acoustic, physiologic, and perceptual studies of speech, and for audiologic, psychoacoustic, and neurophysiologic studies of hearing. Mechanical and electronic shops and trained technical personnel are available for assistance in research instrumentation.

Cooperation with departments in the Carver College of Medicine, the Department of Psychology (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences), and the University of Iowa DELTA Center makes additional laboratory facilities available for research on problems in speech and hearing. The participation and cooperation of specialists from varied fields, including psychology, child development, education, engineering, statistics, and medicine, further broaden the scope of research activities in speech and hearing.

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

CSD:1000 (003:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

CSD:1015 (003:015) Introduction to Speech and Hearing Processes and Disorders 2 s.h.
Introduction to communication sciences and disorders field; clinical and research works; wide range of readings; survey course with less emphasis on specific disorders.

Individual or small group participation in faculty research projects.

CSD:1800 (003:085) Basic Aspects of Aging 3 s.h.

CSD:2110 (003:110) Phonetics: Theory and Applications 3 s.h.
Basic concepts: articulatory and acoustic description of speech sound production, dialect variations, language differences; development of phonetic transcription skills with emphasis on English phonetics, clinical applications to developing and disordered speech. Offered fall semesters.

CSD:2111 (003:111) Basic Acoustics for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
Principles of sound, simple harmonic motion, sound pressure and intensity, decibels, complex waves, Fourier analysis, resonance and filters, distortion, transmission of sound. Requirements: completion of department math requirement.

CSD:2140 (003:140) Manual Communication 1 s.h.
Training in use of sign systems in manual communication.
Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

CSD:3097 (003:097) Honors Seminar 2 s.h.
Research topics and procedures in speech and hearing sciences; ongoing faculty research, research opportunities, possible research projects. Requirements: honors standing with intent to complete an honors thesis.

CSD:3101 (003:101) Mechanisms and Management of Hearing Loss 3 s.h.
Basics of hearing intervention (e.g., hearing aids, cochlear implants, assistive devices) particularly important to classroom teachers at a level appropriate for that group; meets requirements for endorsement for teaching hearing impaired.

CSD:3112 (003:112) Anatomy and Physiology of Speech Production 4 s.h.
Normal anatomy, physiology of structures used to produce speech; principles, methods for instrumental study of speech production. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:2110 (003:110).

CSD:3113 (003:113) Introduction to Hearing Science 4 s.h.
Normal auditory process; anatomy and physiology of auditory system; subjective correlates of auditory stimuli. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:2111 (003:111).

CSD:3116 (003:116) Basic Neuroscience for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.
Basic anatomy, physiology of central nervous system; emphasis on neural systems involved in normal and disordered communication. Offered fall semesters. Requirements: biology, zoology, or physiology course. Same as LING:3116 (103:177).

CSD:3117 (003:117) Psychology of Language 3 s.h.
Theoretical, empirical investigations of linguistic behavior; behaviorist, rationalist models in context of formal linguistic structure and context of models of speech perception and production. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: LING:3001 (103:100). GE: Social Sciences. Same as LING:3117 (103:172).

CSD:3118 (003:118) Language Acquisition 1-3 s.h.

CSD:3122 (003:122) Speech Production: Anatomy and Physiology 4 s.h.
Anatomy and physiology of the respiratory, phonatory, and articulatory systems and the systems' roles during speech production; approaches to instrumental assessment of speech physiologic events.

CSD:3126 (003:126) Neuroscience for Communication Science 3 s.h.
Basic anatomy, physiology of central nervous system, emphasis on neural systems involved in normal and disordered communication.

CSD:3127 (003:127) Introduction to Psycholinguistics 3 s.h.
Theoretical and empirical investigations of linguistic behavior in the context of formal linguistic structure, models of speech perception and production; readings of text and research papers; audio-visual demonstrations of classical speech perception and production phenomena.

CSD:3185 (003:185) Hearing Loss and Audiology 3 s.h.
Introduction to profession of audiology; overview of hearing disorders, evaluation, treatment; basic pure-tone and speech audiometry. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3113 (003:113).

CSD:3187 (003:187) Early Literacy Instruction for Young Children 3 s.h.
Service-learning involving lecture, class discussion, and student participation in an early literacy program for preschoolers; concepts and skills necessary to conduct story time groups with young children that target development of print knowledge; application of learning by reading to small groups of preschool children. Corequisites: PSQF:4106 (07P:106) or PSY:2401 (031:014).

CSD:4098 (003:098) Honors Thesis 2 s.h.
Close work with a faculty mentor. Prerequisites: CSD:3097 (003:097).

CSD:4114 (003:114) Introduction to Voice Disorders 2 s.h.
Basic foundations for management of voice disorders. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3112 (003:112).

CSD:4115 (003:115) Structural Disorders 2 s.h.
Therapy approaches used to treat speech production and swallowing disorders associated with disorders that affect structure and physiology of the speech and swallowing mechanism; basic knowledge necessary for clinical practice by clinicians who do not specialize in management of patients with head and neck cancer, cleft palate, or neurological disorders. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:2110 (003:110) and CSD:3112 (003:112).

CSD:4120 (003:120) Clinical Observations in Communication Disorders 2 s.h.
Diagnosis and treatment of a wide range of speech, language, or hearing disorders in a variety of settings; basic understanding of the evaluation process, goal setting, behavior management, pacing of therapy, shaping of behavior, tracking performance/learning, and professional and ethical behavior through observation of clinical interactions; completion of 25 hours of observation as required by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association for obtaining national certification. Recommendations: senior or graduate standing in communication sciences and disorders.

CSD:4145 (003:145) Developmental Speech and Language Disorders 3 s.h.
Nature of developmental disorders; basic concepts including behavioral characteristics, developmental patterns, etiology theories; assessment and intervention principles in phonology, semantics, morphology, syntax. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:1015 (003:015), CSD:2110 (003:110) or LING:3005 (103:110), CSD:3112 (003:112), and CSD:3118 (003:118).

CSD:4146 (003:146) Neurogenic Disorders of Language
Overview of communication disorders secondary to acquired brain damage in adults; focus on aphasia, communication disorders arising from dementia, right-hemisphere stroke, traumatic brain injuries; general principles of diagnosis and intervention. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:1015 (003:015), CSD:2110 (003:110) or LING:3005 (103:110), CSD:3112 (003:112), and CSD:3116 (003:116).

CSD:4147 (003:147) Neurogenic Disorders of Speech
Speech disorders secondary to acquired brain damage in adults; clinical intervention issues. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3116 (003:116).

CSD:4148 (003:148) Developmental Speech Disorders
Review of typical phonological development in children; introduction to assessment and intervention practices for articulation and phonological disorders in children; may include apraxia, cerebral palsy, and cleft palate. Prerequisites: CSD:2110 (003:110) and CSD:3118 (003:118).

CSD:4165 (003:165) Communication Disorders and Aging
Introduction to speech, language, and hearing processes and disorders among older adults; survey of characteristics of communication and communication breakdown, remediation, and strategies for improving communication with older adults with communication disorders; primarily for nonmajors and service providers other than speech-language pathologists and audiologists. Offered spring semesters of even years. Same as ASP:4165 (153:165).

CSD:4183 (003:183) Introduction to Stuttering
Theoretical perspectives on the nature of stuttering, including onset and development, basic phenomena, beginning treatment principles. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3112 (003:112).

CSD:4186 (003:186) Problems: Speech/ Hearing Processes and Disorders

CSD:4244 (003:244) Rehabilitative Audiology
Theory, procedures for assessment, rehabilitation of speech, hearing, language deficits of people with hearing impairment. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3185 (003:185) and CSD:4145 (003:145).

Graduate
CSD:5135 (003:135) Foundations of Clinical Practice I
1-3 s.h.

CSD:5136 (003:136) Foundations of Clinical Practice II
Advanced concepts of clinical practice, including principles of human behavior change, clinical decision making, generalization, transfer and maintenance, models of service delivery, ethical practice, advanced professional writing. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:5135 (003:135).

CSD:5137 (003:137) Foundations of Clinical Practice III
Advanced principles of clinical practice, including risk management, public policy and models of third-party reimbursement, professional issues. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:5136 (003:136).

CSD:5201 (003:201) Principles of Voice Production
Basic physical, physiological, pedagogical principles in understanding professional, nonprofessional, impaired voice production; vocal anatomy, voice classification; control of loudness, pitch, register, quality; efficient, inefficient use of voice; instrumentation for voice analysis, synthesis. Offered fall semesters of odd years. Same as MUS:5520 (025:201).

CSD:5203 (003:203) Counseling in Communication Disorders
Collection and integration of case history information from clients/patients, family, caregivers, teachers, relevant others, other professionals; development of appropriate intervention plans that meet client/patient needs in collaboration with client/patient and relevant others; communicating effectively and recognizing needs, values, preferred mode of communication, and cultural linguistic background of client/patient, family, caregivers, relevant others; providing counseling to clients/patients, family, and caregivers regarding communication and swallowing disorders. Prerequisites: CSD:5135 (003:135).

CSD:5206 (003:206) Language Disorders: Birth to Five Years
Disorders resulting from phonological, semantic, pragmatic, and morphosyntactic deficits; receptive, expressive problems; special assessment and intervention procedures. Offered fall semesters of even years. Prerequisites: CSD:4145 (003:145).

CSD:5219 (003:219) Fundamentals of Laboratory Instrumentation
Electrical circuits, emphasis on application to instrumentation used in speech and hearing; laboratory focus on instrumentation. Offered spring semesters.

CSD:5222 (003:222) Speech and Hearing Anatomy
2 s.h.
Laboratory course in anatomy of speech and hearing mechanisms; instruction in dissection techniques. Offered summer sessions. Prerequisites: CSD:3112 (003:112).

CSD:5224 (003:224) System and Signal Theory for Speech and Hearing Science
Principles of linear-systems theory applied to speech and auditory research, including system functions, filter properties, convolution, Fourier Series, Fourier transform. Offered fall semesters. Requirements: introductory calculus.

CSD:5233 (003:233) Aphasia

CSD:5234 (003:234) Acquired Cognitive-Communication Disorders
Cognitive, neuropsychological, and social aspects of communication and the management of acquired cognitive-communication disorders associated with traumatic brain injury, right hemisphere damage, and neurodegenerative diseases. Prerequisites: CSD:3116 (003:116) and CSD:4146 (003:146).

CSD:5236 (003:236) Swallowing Disorders
Physiology of normal, abnormal swallowing; assessment, treatment of swallowing disorders in adults, children. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3112 (003:112), CSD:4115 (003:115), and CSD:3116 (003:116).

CSD:5237 (003:237) Cleft Palate and Related Disorders

CSD:5240 (003:240) Hearing Aids I
Hearing aids, diagnostic procedures; laboratory emphasis on measurement procedures. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3185 (003:185).

CSD:5246 (003:246) Advanced Audiology
Theory, procedures for assessment of hearing loss in adult and pediatric populations; experience in test administration through supervised laboratory sessions. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3185 (003:185).

CSD:5253 (003:253) Speech Perception in Listeners with Hearing Loss
Introduction to study of speech perception in listeners with normal hearing and those with hearing loss; overview of speech acoustics; theories of speech perception; contributions of auditory, visual, and indexical (talker-specific) information in speech signal; assessment techniques; benefits of hearing aid and/or cochlear implant use; factors influencing speech perception by children and adults with hearing loss.

CSD:5255 (003:255) Educational Audiology
Training in skills necessary for working with the school-age population; case management and aural rehabilitation, amplification and classroom hearing technology, identification and assessment practices, federal legislation that affects services. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3185 (003:185) and CSD:4244 (003:244). Requirements: CSD:5240 (003:240) for Au.D. students.

CSD:5256 (003:256) Anatomy and Physiology of Hearing
Anatomy of auditory system, cochlear mechanics, electrophysiology of peripheral and central auditory nervous system; laboratory emphasis on physiological techniques for study of ear. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3113 (003:113) and CSD:5224 (003:224).

CSD:5260 (003:260) Designing Assistive Devices
System design (hardware and software) useful in building augmentative and alternative communication devices for the profoundly impaired; opportunity to build systems for theoretical and/or applied purpose; interdisciplinary, clinical perspectives. Offered summer sessions.

CSD:5282 (003:282) Phonological Development and Disorders
Advanced topics in phonological development and disorders; current theoretical approaches to phonological analysis and typical phonological acquisition applied to assessment and intervention with children who have phonological disorders. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:2110 (003:110) or LIN:3005 (003:110), CSD:3118 (003:118), CSD:4145 (003:145), and CSD:5135 (003:135).

CSD:5283 (003:283) Stuttering

CSD:5301 (003:301) Practicum: Speech-Language Pathology

CSD:5303 (003:303) Evidence Based/Emerging Practices in Communication/Social Interaction for Individuals with Autism
Evidence-based practices and emerging practices for promoting communication and social interaction skills in individuals with autism spectrum disorders; emphasis on intervention strategies specific to receptive and expressive language development, functional communication, social interaction, emotional regulation, play, structured learning environments, and opportunities.

CSD:5304 (003:304) Speech Pathology Outplacement: School
Supervised teaching and observation in speech-language pathology in an elementary school setting.

CSD:5305 (003:305) Speech Pathology Outplacement: Non-School
Supervised clinical work and observation in speech-language pathology in a non-school setting.

CSD:5310 (003:310) Scientific Writing  3 s.h.
Principles of writing for scientific posters, journal articles, grant proposals; effective communication of concepts and data.

CSD:5311 (003:311) Clinical Practice in Audiology  arr.
Varied topics relevant to professional issues in audiology clinical practice; presentations by clinical faculty members and guest speakers. Requirements: M.A. professional emphasis or Au.D. enrollment.

CSD:5314 (003:314) Audiology Student Teaching  arr.
Supervised teaching and observation in an area of audiology in the elementary schools.

CSD:5315 (003:315) Clinical Rotations in Audiology  arr.

CSD:5350 (003:350) Preceptorship in Augmentative Communication  1 s.h.
Approaches to develop alternate modes of communication for individuals with limited oral communication. Offered fall semesters.

CSD:5510 (003:510) Seminar: Introduction to Research in Speech and Hearing  0-1 s.h.
Philosophy of science; basic principles of research; issues in conducting research; review of research opportunities in the department. Offered fall semesters.

CSD:5511 (003:511) Introduction to Doctoral Research  1 s.h.
Topics related to development and execution of research; doctoral program, use of library, human and animal subject issues, philosophy of science, use of common research tools, reading and writing research papers, research grant preparation. Offered fall and spring semesters.

CSD:6101 (003:273) Cognitive Science of Language Proseminar I  3 s.h.
Survey of five major disciplines within language sciences: formal linguistic, communication disorders, psychological, neuroscience, and computational approaches. Requirements: graduate standing in communication sciences and disorders, linguistics, psychology, or neuroscience. Same as PSY:6101 (031:273), LING:6101 (103:273).

CSD:6102 (003:274) Cognitive Science of Language Proseminar II  3 s.h.
Survey of five major disciplines within language sciences: formal linguistic, communication disorders, psychological, neuroscience, and computational approaches. Requirements: graduate standing in communication sciences and disorders, linguistics, psychology, or neuroscience. Same as PSY:6102 (031:274), LING:6102 (103:274).

CSD:6202 (003:202) Methods of Teaching Voice  3 s.h.
Attitude, musicianship, foreign language aptitude, physical and emotional characteristics; mental images used to modify respiratory, phonatory, articulatory behavior; vocal hygiene; performance anxiety; student-teacher relationships; administration in vocal schools, professional organizations. Offered spring semesters. Same as MUS:6520 (025:202).

CSD:6204 (003:204) Voice for Performers  2 s.h.
Comparison of Kinesthetic techniques for singing and acting voice; relaxation, posture, breathing, tone quality, diction, interpretation. Same as MUS:6525 (025:216), THTR:6525 (049:201).

CSD:6213 (003:213) Voice Habilitation  2-3 s.h.
Application of methods of intervention in development, training, rehabilitation of vocal behavior; motor learning, efficacy of treatment strategies, factors affecting compliance with recommended therapy. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:4114 (003:114) or CSD:5201 (003:201). Same as MUS:6555 (025:356).

CSD:6221 (003:221) Instrumentation for Voice Analysis  2 s.h.
Glottographic, videostroboscopic, electromyographic, and acoustic analysis for assessment of vocal and respiratory function; using these techniques in conjunction with perceptual evaluation of voice; through the Vocolology Institute in Utah. Offered summer sessions of even years. Requirements: enrollment in Summer Vocolology Institute, Salt Lake City, Utah. Same as MUS:6556 (025:357).

CSD:6230 (003:230) Advanced Hearing Science  2 s.h.
Basic properties of auditory perception or psychoacoustics from material covered in CSD:5256 (003:256); perception of loudness, masking frequency selectivity, temporal processing, and spatial perception; basic perceptual properties, methods of measurement, and physiological basis for performance; properties of perception in normal ears, hearing impairment, and auditory prostheses (e.g., cochlear implants). Prerequisites: CSD:3113 (003:113) and CSD:5256 (003:256).

CSD:6231 (003:232) Speech Perception in Listeners with Hearing Loss  2 s.h.
Introduction to study of speech perception in listeners with normal hearing and those with hearing loss; overview of speech acoustics; theories of speech perception; contributions of auditory, visual, and indexical (talker-specific) information in speech signal; assessment techniques; benefits of hearing aid and/or cochlear implant use; factors influencing speech perception by children and adults with hearing loss. Prerequisites: CSD:6230 (003:230).

CSD:6242 (003:242) Hearing Aids II  3 s.h.
Evaluation, verification procedures; emphasis on advanced technologies, strategies. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:5240 (003:240).
CSD:6245 (003:245) Pediatric Audiology 3 s.h.
Theory, procedures for assessment, rehabilitation of pediatric populations; laboratory emphasis on test administration. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3185 (003:185).

CSD:6247 (003:247) Medical Audiology 2 s.h.
Genetic, acquired, traumatic pathologies that affect auditory systems; nature, etiology, principles of assessment, treatment. Offered spring semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: CSD:3185 (003:185).

CSD:6249 (003:249) Cochlear Implants 1-3 s.h.
Introduction to cochlear implantation; history of cochlear implantation, introduction to cochlear technology, basics of device programming and trouble shooting, candidacy issues, outcomes in children and adults, auditory rehabilitation specific to cochlear recipients, the auditory brainstem implant, future trends in cochlear implantation. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:3185 (003:185) and CSD:4244 (003:244).

CSD:6290 (003:290) Auditory Evoked Potentials 3 s.h.
Introduction to evoked potentials for assessing audiologic function. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: CSD:5219 (003:219).

CSD:6291 (003:291) Vestibular Assessment and Rehabilitation 1-3 s.h.
Introduction to otoacoustic emissions, vestibular theory, and testing techniques. Offered fall semesters.

CSD:6292 (003:292) Advanced Rehabilitative Audiology 1 s.h.
Current and developing procedures for assessment, habilitation of adults and children with hearing losses. Offered spring semesters.

CSD:6316 (003:316) Advanced Externship in Audiology arr.

CSD:6317 (003:317) Audiology Business Practice Management 1 s.h.
Introduction to the development and management of an audiology practice; topics include short and long range business planning, general accounting, budgeting, establishing fees for service, coding and third party reimbursement, marketing, professional liability, certification and licensure; business and professional ethics. Requirements: Au.D. second-year or higher enrollment and 3.00 cumulative g.p.a.

CSD:6318 (003:318) Hearing Loss Prevention 2 s.h.
Incidence and prevalence of hearing loss; risk factors and assessment; noise exposure guidelines; hearing protection devices; education and motivation. Prerequisites: CSD:5219 (003:219).

CSD:6519 (003:519) Seminar: Evidence-Based Practice 2 s.h.
Introduction to design and conduct of research and evidence-based clinical practice, observation and measurement, population sampling, group and single-subject research designs, treatment research, data organization and analysis, and presenting research results in graphic and written form; issues concerning research ethics and the protection of human subjects in research. Recommendations: clinical graduate standing in audiology or speech-language pathology.

CSD:6520 (003:520) Seminar: M.A. Language 2 s.h.
Research literature related to language. Offered spring semesters of odd years.

CSD:6522 (003:522) Clinical Speech Physiology 2 s.h.
Current approaches to the study of speech physiology and application in clinical practice; focus on providing hands-on experiences with common instrumental approaches to studying speech physiology, developing an appreciation of the factors and limitations that must be considered in applying and interpreting the findings of these approaches clinically, and developing abilities to critically evaluate the literature in this area.

CSD:6524 (003:524) International Service in Communication Disorders 0-2 s.h.
International service in communication and related disorders; foundational knowledge and project-based learning; cultural diversity, international speech-language pathology and audiology practices, disability and poverty, advocacy for individuals with communication and related disorders, staff-caregiver-parent training; required course for students who applied and are accepted for international service projects through the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders.

CSD:6538 (003:538) Seminar: Hearing Science 2 s.h.
Selected topics. Offered fall semesters of even years.

CSD:7238 (003:238) Capstone Requirement 1 s.h.
Individual work with a faculty member on audiology topics; final Au.D. project. Offered spring semesters.

CSD:7528 (003:528) Seminar: Ph.D. Language 2 s.h.
Theoretical issues related to language. Offered spring semesters.

CSD:7590 (003:590) Research arr.
Presentation of research ideas, results by faculty, students.

Graduate degrees: M.A. in communication studies; Ph.D. in communication studies
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/commstudies/

The Department of Communication Studies focuses on the study of human communication as a social practice. Scholarship and teaching in the department center on the role that human communication processes play in the construction, maintenance, reinforcement, and reformation of various aspects of social, professional, and institutional life.

The department provides a liberal-arts-based undergraduate education that prepares students to meet the complex communication challenges of the 21st century. It provides top-ranked doctoral education and is a national and international leader in research and knowledge dissemination.

The department has three areas of specialization. The rhetoric and discourse specialization focuses on how citizens use public argumentation and other rhetorical processes to bring about cultural, social, and political changes. The media studies specialization focuses on modern media in their cultural, economic, historical, political, and social contexts to understand how society and social relations shape and are shaped by media practices. The interpersonal communication and relationships specialization focuses on how the communicative practices of relating in everyday life construct, shape, sustain, and change who people are as individuals, as well as the quality of their lives.

The Department of Communication Studies encourages exploration of the practical, political, social, and aesthetic dimensions of symbolic exchange and awareness of the relationships among these dimensions. The department has produced many influential scholars and artists and has been a hub for the intersection of programs and projects of the University and other institutions.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

- Major in communication studies (Bachelor of Arts)
- Minor in communication studies

First-year students interested in completing a major in communication studies are advised at the Academic Advising Center. Students who have earned 24 s.h. or more and have declared the communication studies major are advised in the department by the communication studies academic advisor.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in communication studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 36 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). A cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.30 is required for enrollment in most communication studies courses.

The curriculum is designed to encourage learning that progresses from foundation courses that teach the basics of communication to intermediate and advanced (capstone) courses. Students may choose to build creative combinations of course work that suit their individual learning and career goals.

Students may count up to 56 s.h. of Department of Communication Studies course work (prefix COMM) toward credit required for the Bachelor of Arts degree. Guided Independent Study and transfer courses may be applied toward the requirements of the major, with the department's approval. A maximum of 15 s.h. of transfer credit may be counted toward the major.

Students work with the communication studies academic advisor to develop study plans that meet the requirements of the major. Students may check their progress toward the degree on ISIS.

Students are encouraged to discuss their career goals and interests with faculty members.

The 36 s.h. required for the communications studies major consists of foundation courses (15 s.h.), intermediate courses (12 s.h.), a capstone course (3 s.h.), and an additional 6 s.h., which may be earned in courses listed under “Intermediate Courses,” “Capstone Experience,” and/or “Additional Courses,” below. Students may not use a course to satisfy more than one requirement of the major.
FOUNDATIONS OF COMMUNICATION

Foundation courses cover introductory concepts in the field of communication. Students must complete five foundation courses (15 s.h.) and should take them early in their studies.

The following foundation courses are appropriate for first-year students. They do not require a minimum grade-point average for enrollment and do not have prerequisites, except COMM:1117 (036:017), which requires fulfillment of the General Education Program’s Rhetoric requirement for enrollment. Students complete the first three foundation courses as follows.

One of these:
COMM:1112 (036:012) Interpersonal Communication 3 s.h.
COMM:1170 (036:070) Communication Theory in Everyday Life 3 s.h.

One of these:
COMM:1117 (036:017) Theory and Practice of Argument 4 s.h.
COMM:1130 (036:030) The Art of Persuading Others 3 s.h.

And one of these:
COMM:1168 (036:068) Media, Music, and Culture 3 s.h.
COMM:1174 (036:074) Media and Society 3 s.h.

The fourth and fifth foundation courses are appropriate for second-year students. Enrollment in these courses requires completion of 30 s.h. and a g.p.a. of at least 2.30 for University of Iowa and transfer course work.

Both of these:
COMM:1305 (036:005) Studying Communication: Methods and Critiques 3 s.h.

INTERMEDIATE COURSES

Intermediate courses (those numbered 2000-2799) cover detailed aspects of the study of communication. Students must complete four intermediate courses (12 s.h.), usually during their third and fourth years of study. They must have completed four of five foundation courses listed above and must have a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.30 in order to enroll in intermediate courses.

Intermediate course—at least four of these (12 s.h.):
COMM:2000 (036:062) Feminist Critical Practice 3 s.h.
COMM:2011 (036:011) Group Communication 3 s.h.
COMM:2040 (036:040) Communication and Conflict 3 s.h.
COMM:2041 (036:041) Gender Roles and Communication 3 s.h.
COMM:2042 (036:042) Intercultural Communication 3 s.h.
COMM:2043 (036:043) Rhetoric, Science, and Technology 3 s.h.
COMM:2044 (036:044) Political Communication 3 s.h.

CAPSTONE EXPERIENCE

Capstone courses (those numbered 3000-4999) provide a faculty-led experience in which students participate directly in producing knowledge, research, or creative work about communication. The capstone experience gives students a chance to synthesize what they have learned about the study of communication. Students must complete one capstone course (3 s.h.).

In order to enroll in a capstone course, students must have completed at least two of the required intermediate courses and must have a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.30. Most students take the capstone course during their senior year.

Capstone course—one of these (3 s.h.):
COMM:3600 (036:146) Issues in Rhetoric and Culture 3 s.h.
COMM:4131 (036:131) Globalization and Culture 3 s.h.

Internships

Internships enable students to supplement their course work with professional experiences relevant to careers in communication-related fields. The department's internship program is open only to communication studies majors.

To earn academic credit for internships, students must obtain approval for their internship experience and site before they register for COMM:2828 (036:028) Communication Studies Internship (arr.). Internship academic credit is awarded for an analytical paper and daily log submitted at the end of the internship and for the number of hours worked. Internships can be completed during fall semester, spring semester, or summer session.

Visit the department's web site for information on communication studies internships.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. Students who have signed the four-year graduation agreement should consult the department for details.

Before the fifth semester begins: at least two courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: at least six courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least eight courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate.

ADDITIONAL COURSES

Students earn an additional 6 s.h. to complete the 36 s.h. in communication studies courses required for the major. They may choose from the courses listed below and/or from the lists of intermediate and capstone courses above. However, students may not use one course to fulfill more than one requirement for the major, so in selecting the additional 6 s.h. of course work, they may not choose a course they already used to fulfill the intermediate or capstone course requirement.
Honors in the Major

Students majoring in communication studies have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Students begin work toward graduation with honors by choosing a faculty member to supervise their honors project and act as their honors advisor. They must maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and complete the following courses.

</tbody>

In special cases, an independent study course may be substituted for COMM:2898 (036:098), with the honors advisor's permission. The advisor may require additional course work. Honors students also may take courses offered through the University of Iowa Honors Program and may add an honors designation to a departmental course by completing an agreement with the course instructor.

Departmental honors students must be members of the University's honors program, which requires students to have a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University of Iowa Honors Program.

Learn more about graduating with honors in the major; visit Honors on the department's web site.

Minor

The minor in communication studies requires a minimum of 18 s.h. in communication studies courses, including 12 s.h. in courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. In addition, enrollment in some courses for the minor requires a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.30. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. The minor must include the five courses (15 s.h.) listed under "Foundations of Communication" above and one (3 s.h.) listed under "Intermediate Courses" above.

Forensics/Debate

Students in the forensics/debate program have the opportunity to participate in on-campus debates, in developmental programs designed to improve speech activities in the state, and as members of competitive intercollegiate debate teams. Forensics scholarships are available. Students interested in debate should enroll in COMM:2813 (036:013) Practicum in Debate or COMM:1814 (036:014) Elements of Debate.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in communication studies
- Doctor of Philosophy in communication studies

The Doctor of Philosophy program in communication studies includes specializations in interpersonal communication and relationships, media studies, and rhetoric and discourse.

Graduate education in communication studies focuses on the Ph.D., but doctoral students may choose to earn a Master of Arts on their way toward the Ph.D. A terminal master's degree may be an option for some students already admitted to the doctoral program.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in communication studies requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit. It may be granted to students working toward the Ph.D.; it also may be granted as a terminal degree for doctoral students who decide not to complete the Ph.D. All master's students take COMM:5200 (036:200) Introduction to Research and Teaching (1 s.h.) and at least two courses numbered 5000 or above. They also prepare a graduate seminar paper that involves significant original research.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in communication studies requires a minimum of 82 s.h. of graduate credit, including dissertation credit. All students take COMM:5200 (036:200) Introduction to Research and Teaching and earn at least 10 s.h. of dissertation credit in COMM:6399 (036:399) Ph.D. Dissertation.

Ph.D. students must take a 3 s.h. course in each of the program's three areas of specialization; successfully complete a qualifying examination during their second or third semester and a comprehensive (predissertation) examination in their major research area during their fifth or sixth semester; and write a substantial scholarly dissertation. Students must maintain a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 3.00 throughout the graduate program.

 Admission usually is for fall semester entry. Applicants whose materials are received at the department by January 1 receive preference for admission and financial support. Admission decisions are based on undergraduate achievement, letters of reference, Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test scores, the statement of purpose, and samples of scholarly work.

Interpersonal Communication and Relationships

The communication and relationships program is centered on theory complemented by strength in quantitative and qualitative research methods. It focuses on scholarly issues that arise from face-to-face, everyday communication practices. It emphasizes personal relationship and family processes, identity construction, persuasion, and culture.

The goal of the program is to produce scholars who possess sophisticated knowledge of theory and methodology, who are careful consumers of theories and methods, and who can develop their own approaches to communication phenomena. The program emphasizes systematic analysis of the forms, functions, and meanings of messages within various contexts. Its broad social-scientific orientation springs from the belief that many methodological approaches are appropriate to studying and building theoretical explanations of communication. Graduate students typically enter the program to earn a Ph.D. Advisors and committee members work closely with individual students to select courses from communication studies and other University departments and plan teaching and research experiences that will prepare students well for the employment they seek after graduation.

Media Studies

The graduate program in media studies focuses on the interplay of institutions, texts, and audiences in mediated communication systems. Its central aim is to examine modern media—radio, television, advertising, music, new media, and a wide range of other popular cultural expressions—within their historical, social, political, economic, and cultural contexts. It also uses the mass media as sites for asking basic questions about culture, society, politics, and modernity.

Like the department's other graduate programs, media studies has a strong interdisciplinary flavor. Students draw not only on allied areas in the Department of Communication Studies but on fields across the University.

Rhetoric and Public Advocacy

The program in rhetoric and public advocacy is built on foundation courses in classical and 20th-century rhetorical theory and in an overview of 20th-century rhetorical criticism. Courses from a rhetorical perspective include rhetorical theory, rhetorical criticism, visual rhetoric and politics, public address and public culture, studies in argumentation and freedom of speech, work in science and technology as well as academic inquiry, and historical methods. Cognate work of interest to rhetoricians also can be found in interpersonal communication and relationship studies as well as media studies.

The Ph.D. in rhetoric and public advocacy is designed to give students a mature grasp of the specialties and perspectives embraced by the field and to develop research competence essential to a life of productive scholarship.

Work in related disciplines—political science, history, sociology, English, cinematic arts, anthropology, American studies, and journalism—complements rhetorical studies course offerings. Faculty from the Departments of Rhetoric, Political Science, and American Studies cross-reference their courses on rhetorical topics in this program.

Admission

Applicants to graduate programs in communication studies must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Facilities

The Samuel L. Becker Communication Studies Building is designed to meet the department's research and technological needs.

Courses

Courses numbered below 5000 are intended primarily for undergraduates; those numbered 5000 and above are for graduate students. Graduate students may take courses numbered 3000-4999 for credit, with their committee's approval.

Not all courses are offered each semester.

Lower-Level Undergraduate

To register for most undergraduate communication studies courses, students must have earned 30 s.h. and have a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.50. However, registration for the following General Education courses is open to all undergraduates, regardless of their grade-point average.

Undergraduate major: comparative literature (B.A.)
Undergraduate minor: comparative literature
Graduate degree: Ph.D. in comparative literature

The Comparative Literature Program addresses culture across regions and languages in relation to literature, social theory and philosophy, history, and other disciplines. Students draw resources from several University of Iowa arts and humanities units, including the Department of Cinematic Arts; the International Writing Program; the Department of English; and the Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures. Study of comparative literature prepares students to engage with critical concepts of tradition, identity, and expression in an interdisciplinary and multilingual environment.

In addition to degree programs and an undergraduate minor, the Comparative Literature Program offers courses approved for the Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts areas of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Undergraduate Programs of Study
- Major in comparative literature (Bachelor of Arts)
- Minor in comparative literature

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in comparative literature requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 33 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in comparative literature is designed to promote cultural awareness, to increase speaking and writing skills, and to develop capacities for systematic reasoning about literature. The program offers two tracks: language and literature, and literature and arts. Students work with faculty advisors close to their track to develop coherent, individualized programs of study that reflect their interests and developing skills.

Students share a common set of basic courses in the literatures of widely divergent cultures and historical periods, in translation, and in interaction among the arts. All students are expected to gain an international perspective on literature and the arts and to become acquainted with interdisciplinary approaches to cultural study.

The successful pursuit of comparative literature requires study of at least one foreign cultural tradition, with appropriate emphasis on language, literature, and the arts in historical context. Familiarity with the literatures and cultures of other nations goes hand-in-hand with theoretical inquiry and reflection on basic issues, such as the nature and value of storytelling in literature and other arts—for instance, film, song, and painting. Translation between languages and among different arts represents another basic center of theory and practice. Individual courses of study may extend into other disciplines, including history, philosophy, linguistics, anthropology, law, and psychology.

In conjunction with an appropriate overall curriculum, the major in comparative literature can offer effective preparation for professional studies in fields such as law and business, or for employment in fields that value critical thinking and international understanding. It also offers excellent preparation for graduate work in the humanities.

Of the 33 s.h. required for the major, students must earn 21 s.h. in University of Iowa courses. They may count a maximum of 6 s.h. of course work from another major, minor, or certificate toward the major in comparative literature. Students majoring in comparative literature with a second major in cinema may count a maximum of 12 s.h. of credit toward both majors.

The major in comparative literature requires the following course work.

Comparative literature elective(s) 3 s.h.
Tracks
Students complete 15 s.h. of work in one of the following tracks.

LITERATURE AND ARTS TRACK
To complete this track, students take 12 s.h. of upper-level course work (courses numbered 3000 or above) in a single fine arts area. They may include one upper-level course in performance, practice, or production, with consent of the director of undergraduate studies.

Course work for the track also must include one 3 s.h. course that focuses explicitly on arts and literature in comparative perspective.

WORLD LANGUAGES AND LITERATURE TRACK
To complete this track, students take 9 s.h. of courses in one foreign literature, read in the original language. They may include one course in composition and conversation. (Language courses taken to complete the General Education Program do not count toward the major.)

Students take an additional 6 s.h. of course work in comparative literature or a related area (e.g., English and American literature, film, linguistics, anthropology, philosophy, history) or in a second foreign literature.

Four-Year Graduation Plan
The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Note: When requirements for the major in comparative literature include advanced work in a language, the student may need to acquire competence in the language by completing course work early in his or her plan of study. Such course work is not reflected in the following checkpoints.

Before the fifth semester begins: at least two courses in the major
Before the seventh semester begins: at least four more courses in the major (total of six) and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
Before the eighth semester begins: at least three more courses in the major (total of nine)
During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major
Students majoring in comparative literature have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major, which requires that they complete an honors thesis. Once the student has earned 75 s.h., he or she submits a written proposal for the thesis. The proposal must be approved by the faculty member who heads the student's honors thesis committee; the committee must be composed of at least two faculty members from the Comparative Literature Program. The student must complete the honors thesis over the next two consecutive semesters. For specific honors thesis requirements in the comparative literature major, contact the Comparative Literature Program office.

Honors students in comparative literature must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor
The minor in comparative literature requires 15 s.h. of University of Iowa comparative literature courses, including at least 12 s.h. earned in courses numbered CL:1240 (218:040) or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Contact the Comparative Literature Program office for a list of approved courses.

Graduate Program of Study
- Doctor of Philosophy in comparative literature

Admission to the Doctor of Philosophy program in comparative literature is suspended; for degree requirements, see the 2010-11 General Catalog. For information about the Master of Fine Arts in comparative literature—translation, see Translation (p. 651) in the Catalog.

Undergraduate majors: computer science (B.A., B.S.); informatics (B.A., B.S.)

Undergraduate minors: computer science; informatics

Graduate degrees: M.C.S.; M.S. in computer science; Ph.D. in computer science

Web site: http://www.cs.uiowa.edu/

The Department of Computer Science offers undergraduate programs in computer science and in informatics as well as graduate degree programs in computer science. It also offers courses that students in all majors may use to satisfy the General Education Program (p. 323)’s Quantitative or Formal Reasoning requirement and a First-Year Seminar designed for entering undergraduate students.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

• Major in computer science (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science)
• Major in informatics (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science)
• Minor in computer science
• Minor in informatics

The majors in computer science and informatics provide students with the necessary training for employment in careers such as software development and information management. Both majors provide good preparation for graduate study in a variety of disciplines. The minor in each discipline helps students acquire fundamental knowledge of the use and applications of computers.

The department encourages students majoring in computer science or informatics to consider earning a second major, certificate, or minor.

Students may declare a major in computer science or in informatics when they are admitted to the University or afterward. All students begin the majors as Bachelor of Arts students but may switch to the Bachelor of Science programs at any time.

Undergraduates majoring in computer science develop competence in programming principles and methodologies, problem-solving techniques, mathematics, and computer systems. Computer science training is critical for many careers in science, engineering, business, and health care.

The informatics major combines fundamental and practical computing knowledge with a choice of cognate areas from the liberal arts and sciences, providing students with the necessary background and specialized skills to work at the interface of computing and another discipline. Informatics students may begin the major without a chosen cognate area; they may declare a cognate at any time. Some cognates are available only with the Bachelor of Arts, others are available only with the Bachelor of Science. So a student’s choice of cognate determines whether he or she will earn a B.A. or a B.S.

All students are advised at the Academic Advising Center until they have completed CS:2210 (22C:019) Discrete Structures (computer science students) or CS:2110 (22C:080) Programming for Informatics (informatics students). Students being advised at the Academic Advising Center are welcome to consult with a computer science or informatics faculty advisor, as well.

Transfer students who have taken a course approved as equivalent to a required computer science or informatics course are exempt from that course. Transfer course grades are included in the computer science or informatics grade-point average.

Students should consult the Department of Computer Science web site or visit the department’s office for information about general policies, elective areas, and internships, scholarships, and student groups, such as the University’s chapter of the Association for Computing Machinery (ACM) and Women in Informatics and Computer Science (WICS).

ADVANCED PLACEMENT

The Computer Science Advanced Placement Program test may be used to satisfy requirements. See Advanced Placement Credit Policy under Prospective Students on the Department of Computer Science web site.

JOINT BACHELOR’S/MASTER’S DEGREE PROGRAMS

Qualified computer science undergraduate students who plan to earn the Master of Computer Science degree may apply for the joint Bachelor of Arts/Master of Computer Science program or the joint Bachelor of Science/Master of Computer Science program. The joint programs allow students to earn both degrees in five years. See “Joint B.A./M.C.S. and B.S./M.C.S.” later in this section.

EARLY ADMISSION TO THE GRADUATE COLLEGE

Undergraduate computer science or informatics students who have 6 s.h. or less to earn toward graduation may apply for early admission to the Graduate College. Early admission allows students in their final undergraduate semester to take courses for graduate credit in addition to the courses they need to complete their bachelor’s degrees.

B.A. and B.S.: Computer Science

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in computer science requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 41 s.h. of work for the major. The Bachelor of Science with a major in computer science requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 64 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). A cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.00 is required for graduation.

The computer science major for the Bachelor of Arts is designed for students who would like to gain considerable knowledge in computer science and have flexibility in choosing electives. Students preparing for careers in the computing field are encouraged to supplement the base requirements with additional computer science courses. The program’s flexibility makes it suitable for combination with other majors.

The computer science major for the Bachelor of Science is more rigorous than the B.A. major; it is designed to provide in-depth training for students who would like to acquire strength in math and science in order to enhance their skills and job prospects. It also is appropriate for those who plan to pursue graduate work in computer science, although it is not required for graduate study at most universities.

Course work for the major includes computer science courses as well as courses in mathematics, statistics, and other supporting disciplines. Work for the major may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Bachelor of Science students and Bachelor of Arts students considering a switch to the B.S. program should choose their General Education Program’s Natural Sciences courses carefully, since they may be able to use the same courses to satisfy the Bachelor of Science major’s natural science requirement; see “Natural Science Sequences (B.S.)” under “Additional Bachelor of Science Requirements” below.

The major in computer science (B.A. and B.S.) requires the following work.

ADVANCED COMPUTER SCIENCE ELECTIVES (B.A.)

Bachelor of Arts students must earn at least 3 s.h. in advanced computer science electives chosen from these.

A computer science course (prefix CS) numbered 3620–4990, except CS:3910 (22C:094) and CS:3980 (22C:096)

A computer science course (prefix CS) numbered 5000 or above, with department approval

Students may count a maximum of 3 s.h. earned in CS:3990 (22C:099) Honors in Computer Science or Informatics toward the advanced computer science elective requirement.

Other probability and statistics courses (prefix STAT) with a calculus prerequisite may be approved by the department.
COMPUTATION THEORY (B.S.)

One of these:

- CS:4330 (22C:135) Theory of Computation 3 s.h.
- CS:4340 (22C:131) Limits of Computation 3 s.h.
- CS:4350 (22C:188) Logic in Computer Science 3 s.h.

ADVANCED TECHNICAL ELECTIVES (B.S.)

Bachelor of Science students must earn at least 12 s.h. (four courses) in advanced technical electives, as follows.

At least 6 s.h. from these:

A computer science course (prefix CS) numbered 3620-4990, except CS:3910 (22C:094) and CS:3980 (22C:096)

A computer science course (prefix CS) numbered 5000 or above, with department approval

And:

Advanced technical electives in computer science (prefix CS), or in other disciplines with department approval, to complete the required 12 s.h.

Students may count a maximum of 3 s.h. earned in CS:3990 (22C:099) Honors in Computer Science or Informatics toward the advanced technical elective requirement.

NATURAL SCIENCE SEQUENCES (B.S.)

Bachelor of Science students take two or more courses in a sequence (totaling at least 6 s.h.) in a cognate area of natural science. The natural science sequence is intended to enhance the student's perspective by providing a deeper understanding of the scientific method. Typically, it consists of a sequence of courses taken in the same science department. Students often choose courses that also fulfill the General Education Program (p. 323) Natural Sciences requirement. Some possible choices are listed below; the department chair may approve others.

CLEP/APP credit may be used to satisfy part or all of the natural science requirement only if the appropriate science department at The University of Iowa accepts the credit as equivalent to one or more of the specific courses listed below.

Astronomy:

- ASTR:1771 (029:061) General Astronomy I 4 s.h.
- ASTR:1772 (029:062) General Astronomy II 4 s.h.

Biological Sciences:

- BIOL:1411 (002:031)-BIOL:1412 (002:032) Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function 8 s.h.

- CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I 4 s.h.
- CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II 4 s.h.

Earth and environmental sciences—this course:

- EES:1080 (012:008) Introduction to Environmental Science 3-4 s.h.

And one of these:

- EES:1030 (012:003) Introduction to Earth Science 3-4 s.h.
- EES:1050 (012:005) Introduction to Geology 4 s.h.
- GEOG:1020 (044:003) The Global Environment 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
- Physics—one of these sequences:
  - PHYS:1611 (029:081)-PHYS:1612 (029:082) Introductory Physics I-II (recommended) 8 s.h.

B.A. and B.S.: Informatics

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in informatics requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 43-49 s.h. of work for the major. The Bachelor of Science with a major in informatics requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 52-55 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). A cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.00 is required for graduation.

Required credit for the major depends on the choice of cognate area. Work for the major may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Both programs (B.A. and B.S.) combine foundational informatics course work with course work in a cognate discipline. The Bachelor of Arts major in informatics offers the cognate areas of art, economics, geographic sciences, health informatics, human-computer interaction, linguistics, music, social informatics, and individualized cognates. The Bachelor of Science major in informatics offers the cognate areas of bioinformatics, medical informatics, and individualized cognates.

Course work for the major includes the informatics core, one (B.A.) or two (B.S.) electives, a statistics course, and a set of courses in their chosen cognate area. Students are expected to have taken MATH:1005 (22M:008) College Algebra or the equivalent.

The informatics major (B.A. and B.S.) requires the following course work.

INFORMATICS CORE

The informatics core consists of six required computing courses (at least 19 s.h.) that emphasize data manipulation, databases, and networking. It provides more applications-oriented content than the traditional computer science curriculum yet is designed to offer students a sound basis in underlying computer science themes and techniques.

This course:

- CS:2110 (22C:080) Programming for Informatics 4 s.h.

One of these:

- CS:2420 (22C:084) Databases for Informatics 3 s.h.
- MSCS:3200 (06K:182) Database Management 3 s.h.

All of these:
in cognate courses. Cognate courses are primarily in art history, design, elements of art, and photography.

Note: Some courses listed below are open only to students majoring in art, so they are appropriate choices only for students with a double major in art and Informatics. Non-art majors should work with an Informatics faculty advisor to develop an individual set of art cognate courses.

All of these:

ARTS:1510 (01A:003) Basic Drawing 3 s.h.
ARTS:1520 (01A:004) Design Fundamentals 3 s.h.
DSGN:2110 (01D:090) Graphic Design I 3 s.h.
DSGN:3120 (01D:100) Typography 4 s.h.

One of these:

ARTH:1010 (01H:001) Art and Visual Culture 3 s.h.
ARTH:1020 (01H:004) Masterpieces: Art in Historical and Cultural Perspectives 3 s.h.
ARTH:1030 (01H:008) Themes in Global Art 3 s.h.
ARTH:1040 (01H:002) Arts of Africa 3 s.h.
ARTH:1050 (01H:005) From Cave Paintings to Cathedrals: Survey of Western Art I 3 s.h.
ARTH:1060 (01H:006) From Mona Lisa to Modernism: Survey of Western Art II 3 s.h.
ARTH:1070 (01H:016) Asian Art and Culture 3 s.h.
ARTH:2020 (01H:084) Introduction to Western Architecture 3 s.h.
ARTH:2040 (01H:090) Introduction to Art and Religion 3 s.h.
ARTH:2220 (01H:031) Introduction to the Art of China 3 s.h.
ARTH:2250 (01H:033) Introduction to the Art of Japan 3 s.h.
ARTH:2320 (01H:026) Introduction to Ancient Art 3 s.h.
ARTH:2420 (01H:040) Introduction to Medieval Art 3 s.h.
ARTH:2520 (01H:047) Introduction to Italian Renaissance Art 3 s.h.
ARTH:2620 (01H:053) Introduction to Baroque Visual Culture 3 s.h.
ARTH:2730 (01H:062) Introduction to Nineteenth-Century Art 3 s.h.
ARTH:2820 (01H:073) Introduction to Modern/Contemporary Art 3 s.h.
ARTH:2920 (01H:066) Introduction to American Art 3 s.h.
ARTH:2975 (01H:099) Undergraduate Seminar in the History of Art 3 s.h.

At least 6 s.h. from these, with at least one course (3 s.h.) numbered 3000 or above:

DSGN:3110 (01D:120) Graphic Design II 4 s.h.
DSGN:3130 (01D:110) Web Site Design I 3 s.h.
DSGN:4130 (01D:140) Web Site Design II 4 s.h.
PHTO:2513 (01L:040) Digital Photographic Imaging 3 s.h.

ECONOMICS
The informatics major with the economics cognate requires a minimum of 49 s.h. of work for the major, including 24 s.h. in cognate courses, which are primarily from economics. The economics cognate is intended for students interested in working with economic, financial, or demographic data. It may lead to careers in administration, business, or government or to graduate study in management or policy areas.

All of these:
ECON:1100 (06E:001) Principles of Microeconomics 4 s.h.
ECON:1200 (06E:002) Principles of Macroeconomics 4 s.h.
ECON:3100 (06E:104) Microeconomic Theory 3 s.h.
ECON:3150 (06E:105) Macroeconomics 3 s.h.
MATH:1380 (22M:017) Calculus and Matrix Algebra for Business 4 s.h.

At least two of these, to complete 24 s.h. for the cognate:
ECON:3250 (06E:158) American Economic History 3 s.h.
ECON:3325 (06E:111) Personnel Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:3335 (06E:117) Money, Banking, and Financial Markets 3 s.h.
ECON:3345 (06E:125) Global Economics and Business 3 s.h.
ECON:3350 (06E:141) Industry Analysis 3 s.h.
ECON:3370 (06E:160) Household Finance 3 s.h.
ECON:3620 (06E:129) Economic Growth and Development 3 s.h.
ECON:3625 (06E:133) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:3640 (06E:135) Regional and Urban Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:3650 (06E:119) Policy Analysis 3 s.h.

ECON:4090 (06E:183) Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:4110 (06E:173) International Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:4140 (06E:175) Labor Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:4160 (06E:176) Public Sector Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:4170 (06E:174) Monetary Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:4180 (06E:177) Industrial Organization 3 s.h.
ECON:4190 (06E:187) Mathematical Economics 3 s.h.
ECON:4700 (06E:189) Topics in Analytical Economics arr.
ECON:4800 (06E:184) Introduction to Econometrics 3 s.h.

GEOINFORMATICS
The informatics major with the geoinformatics cognate requires a minimum of 46 s.h. of work for the major, including 21 s.h. in cognate courses, which are primarily from geographical and sustainability sciences. The geoinformatics cognate is intended for students interested in geographic information systems (GIS) and spatial aspects of data. It may lead to careers in business, government, or public health or to graduate study in geography, public health, or policy areas.

All of these:
GEOG:1020 (044:003) The Global Environment 3 s.h.
GEOG:1021 (044:004) The Global Environment Lab 1 s.h.
GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.

Two of these:
GEOG:1010 (044:001) Introduction to Human Geography 3 s.h.
GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.
GEOG:2110 (044:011) Population Geography 3 s.h.
GEOG:2130 (044:055) World Cities 3 s.h.
GEOG:2910 (044:030) The Global Economy 3 s.h.

One of these:
GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies 3 s.h.
GEOG:3530 (044:112) Mapping American Cities and Regions 3 s.h.
GEOG:4010 (044:180) Field Methods in Physical Geography 2-4 s.h.
GEOG:4020 (044:181) Field Methods: Mapping and Mobile Computing 3 s.h.

Two of these:
GEOG:3500 (044:105) Introduction to Environmental Remote Sensing 3 s.h.
GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies 3 s.h.

GEOG:4150 (044:137) Health and Environment: GIS Applications 3 s.h.
GEOG:4500 (044:145) Applications in Environmental Remote Sensing 4 s.h.
GEOG:4520 (044:128) GIS for Environmental Studies: Applications 3 s.h.
GEOG:4570 (044:139) Spatial Analysis and Location Models 3 s.h.
GEOG:4750 (044:125) Environmental Impact Analysis 4 s.h.

HEALTH INFORMATICS
The informatics major with the health informatics cognate requires a minimum of 46 s.h. of work for the major, including 21 s.h. in cognate courses, which are primarily from geographical and sustainability sciences. The health informatics cognate is intended for students interested in applications of computing to health care, especially in public health. It may lead to careers in medical or health-related areas or to graduate and professional degree programs.
programs in public health, health informatics, and medical informatics. Cognate courses are selected primarily from public health, geography, and global health studies.

Once students complete the required courses in each of the four sets below, they must select additional courses from the sets to complete 21 s.h. of credit for the cognate.

One of these:

- GHS:3720 (152:160) Global Health Seminar 3 s.h.
- MPH:3000 (170:099) Fundamentals of Public Health 3 s.h.

At least two of these:

- GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3110 (044:131) Geography of Health 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4150 (044:137) Health and Environment: GIS Applications 3 s.h.

At least two of these:

- GHS:3850 (152:158) Promoting Health 3 s.h.
- GHS:4160 (152:137) History of Public Health 3 s.h.
- GHS:4162 (152:138) History of Global Health 3 s.h.
- GHS:4340 (152:135) Global Health and Global Food 3 s.h.
- GHS:4600 (152:120) Global Health and Human Rights 2-3 s.h.
- INTD:3020 (145:120) Equity Issues in the Health Sciences 3 s.h.
- RHET:3610 (010:161) Rhetorical Issues in Health Care 3 s.h.

One of these:

- EPID:4400 (173:140) Epidemiology I: Principles 3 s.h.
- HMP:4000 (174:102) Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System 3 s.h.

HUMAN-COMPUTER INTERACTION

The informatics major with the human-computer interaction cognate requires a minimum of 43 s.h. of work for the major, including at least 18 s.h. in cognate courses. The human-computer interaction cognate is intended for students interested in designing useful and usable technologies. It can lead to careers in interaction design, web design, implementation of user interfaces, and evaluation of human-computer interactions as well as provide valuable skills for graduate study in human-computer interaction.

The cognate's courses are drawn largely from psychology, sociology, and industrial engineering. Four required courses include foundational aspects of psychology or sociology, an examination of basic human abilities and performance relevant to information technology use, and an introduction to research topics in human-computer interaction.

This course:

- CS:4500 (22C:148) Research Methods in Human-Computer Interaction 3 s.h.

Either these three psychology courses:

- PSY:1001 (031:001) Elementary Psychology 3 s.h.
- PSY:2601 (031:016) Introduction to Cognitive Psychology 3 s.h.
- PSY:2810 (031:010) Research Methods in Psychology 4 s.h.

Or these three sociology courses:

- SOC:1010 (034:001) Introduction to Sociology: Principles 3-4 s.h.
- SOC:2130 (034:009) Sociological Theory 3 s.h.
- SOC:2170 (034:011) Research Methods 3 s.h.

At least two of these for the cognate:

- IE:3400 (056:144) Human Factors 3 s.h.
- IE:3450 (056:147) Ergonomics 3 s.h.
- PSY:2401 (031:014) Introduction to Developmental Science 3 s.h.
- PSY:2501 (031:015) Introduction to Social Psychology 3 s.h.
- PSY:2701 (031:002) Biological Psychology 4 s.h.
- PSY:3040 (031:123) Psychology of Learning 3 s.h.
- PSY:3060 (031:133) Visual Perception and Cognition 3 s.h.
- SOC:3210 (034:020) Principles of Social Psychology 3-4 s.h.
- SOC:4210 (034:125) Small Group Analysis 3 s.h.

Most courses in this list have prerequisites, which students must complete before they may register for the course. The psychology courses (prefix PSY) require PSY:1001 (031:001) Elementary Psychology and/or PSY:2701 (031:002) Biological Psychology as prerequisite(s); the sociology course SOC:4210 (034:125) requires SOC:1010 (034:001) Introduction to Sociology Principles or SOC:1020 (034:002) Social Problems as a prerequisite. Students should choose courses from this list carefully.

LINGUISTICS

The informatics major with the linguistics cognate requires a minimum of 46 s.h. of work for the major, including at least 21 s.h. in cognate courses. Linguistics, the scientific study of human languages, is directly related to psychology, anthropology, and computer science as well as to more applied fields such as second language acquisition or speech and hearing science. The cognate focuses on computational representations of syntax and semantics for processing natural language. Cognate courses are drawn primarily from linguistics.

All of these:

- LING:3001 (103:100) Introduction to Linguistics 3 s.h.
- LING:3005 (103:110) Articulatory and Acoustic Phonetics 3 s.h.
- LING:3010 (103:111) Syntactic Analysis 3 s.h.
- LING:3020 (103:112) Phonological Analysis 3 s.h.

One of these:

- CS:4440 (22C:149) Web Mining 3 s.h.
- CS:4460 (22C:146) Introduction to Computational Linguistics 3 s.h.
LING:3080 (103:131) History of the English Language 3 s.h.
LING:3301 (103:139)/CHIN:3301 (039:139) Chinese Historical Phonology 3 s.h.

One of these:

ENGL:3256 (008:140) Elementary Old English 3 s.h.
ENGL:3257 (008:141) Old English Beowulf 3 s.h.

MUSIC
The informatics major with the music cognate requires a minimum of 48 s.h. of work for the major, including 23 s.h. in cognate courses. The music cognate is intended for students interested in audio recording, manipulation of sound, and digital media. It may help students prepare for careers in the entertainment industry. Cognate courses are primarily from music, with some from cinematic arts and from theatre arts. Entering students must possess basic musicianship skills; an audition may be required for admission.

All of these:
MUS:1200 (025:001) Fundamentals of Music for Majors 3 s.h.
MUS:1201 (025:002) Musicianship and Theory I 4 s.h.
MUS:1202 (025:003) Musicianship and Theory II 4 s.h.
MUS:1211 (025:071) Group Instruction in Piano I 1 s.h.
MUS:1212 (025:072) Group Instruction in Piano II 1 s.h.
MUS:3780 (025:149) Audio Recording I 3 s.h.
MUS:3781 (025:152) Audio Recording II 3 s.h.

Students who plan to take MUS:1201 (025:002) Musicianship and Theory I or MUS:1202 (025:003) Musicianship and Theory II must take the music theory diagnostic examination, which is administered online during summer, before fall semester begins. See Musicianship and Theory Placement on the School of Music web site for more information. Advanced placement in School of Music courses does not reduce the number of semester hours required for the cognate.

One of these:
MUS:3301 (025:144) History of Music I 3 s.h.
MUS:3302 (025:146) History of Music II 3 s.h.
MUS:3310 (025:103) World Music 3 s.h.
MUS:3311 (025:104) Music of Latin America and the Caribbean 3 s.h.
MUS:3720 (025:141) History of Jazz 3 s.h.

At least one of these, to complete 23 s.h. for the cognate:
CINE:1630 (048:053) Introduction to Film Sound 3 s.h.
CINE:4841 (048:131) Film/Video/Audio Production: Sound Design 4 s.h.
MUS:1007 (025:007) Garage Band: The Basics 2 s.h.
MUS:1010 (025:064) Recital Attendance for Non-Majors 1 s.h.
THTR:3260 (049:140) Sound Design for the Theatre 3 s.h.

SOCIAL INFORMATICS
The informatics major with the social informatics cognate requires a minimum of 45 s.h. of work for the major, including 20 s.h. in cognate courses, all from sociology.

All of these:
SOC:1010 (034:001) Introduction to Sociology Principles 3-4 s.h.
SOC:2130 (034:009) Sociological Theory 3 s.h.
SOC:2170 (034:011) Research Methods 3 s.h.

At least 11 s.h. from these:
SOC:1020 (034:002) Social Problems 3-4 s.h.
SOC:1310 (034:018) Gender and Society 3-4 s.h.
SOC:1410 (034:040) Introduction to Criminology 3 s.h.
SOC:2222 (034:022) Introduction to Social Work 4 s.h.
SOC:2810 (034:066) Social Inequality 3 s.h.
SOC:3210 (034:020) Principles of Social Psychology 3-4 s.h.
SOC:3220 (034:128) Sociology of Mental Illness 3 s.h.
SOC:3420 (034:141) Juvenile Delinquency 3 s.h.
SOC:3425 (034:146) Deviance and Control 3 s.h.
SOC:3450 (034:186) Criminal Legal System 3 s.h.
SOC:3520 (034:150) Political Sociology 3 s.h.
SOC:3525 (034:153) Public Opinion 3 s.h.
SOC:3610 (034:164) Organizations and Modern Society 3 s.h.
SOC:3710 (034:061) The American Family 3 s.h.
SOC:3830 (034:155) Race and Ethnicity 3 s.h.
SOC:3840 (034:175) Community and Urban Sociology 3 s.h.
SOC:3850 (034:158) Economy and Society 3 s.h.
SOC:4210 (034:125) Small Group Analysis 3 s.h.
SOC:4400 (034:148) Internship in Criminal Justice and Corrections 1-5 s.h.
SOC:4420 (034:149) Sociology of Criminal Punishment 3 s.h.
SOC:4460 (034:182) Sociology of Law 3 s.h.
SOC:4540 (034:126) Social Movements in the U.S. 3 s.h.
SOC:4820 (034:135) Sociology of Sexuality 3 s.h.
SOC:4900 (034:190) Selected Topics in Sociology 3 s.h.
SOC:4910 (034:195) Capstone Course in Sociology 3 s.h.

SOC:4997 (034:100) Honors Seminar 2 s.h.

INDIVIDUALIZED COGNATES

Students interested in developing individualized cognates may work with an informatics faculty advisor. Individualized cognates may be drawn primarily from one department or an appropriate mix of departments. For the Bachelor of Arts, individualized cognates require an approved set of cognate courses totaling 18-25 s.h.

Bachelor of Science Cognates

Students must complete all requirements listed under one of the cognate areas below: bioinformatics, medical informatics, or an individualized cognate.

BIOINFORMATICS

The informatics major with the bioinformatics cognate requires a minimum of 55 s.h. of work for the major, including at least 30 s.h. in cognate courses. The bioinformatics cognate is intended for students interested in applications of computing to the biological sciences. It may lead to careers in laboratory research, biotechnology, data management, and other related areas. It also may prepare students for graduate programs in bioinformatics or genetics. The cognate offers a choice of two areas: genome bioinformatics, or phylogenetics and evolution. Cognate courses are drawn primarily from biology and chemistry.

All of these:

BIOL:1411 (002:031)-BIOL:1412 (002:032) Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function 8 s.h.
CHEM:1110 (004:011) & CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry I-II 8 s.h.
CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I 3 s.h.

Students also must complete one of the following two areas.

Genome Bioinformatics Area

Both of these:

BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution 4 s.h.

One of these:

BIOL:3314 (002:178) Genomics 3 s.h.
BIOL:4213 (002:170) Bioinformatics 4 s.h.
BIOL:5320 (002:174) Computational Genomics 3 s.h.

Phylogenetics and Evolution Area

Both of these:

BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution 4 s.h.

One of these:

BIOL:2673 (002:134) Ecology 4 s.h.
BIOL:4273 (002:162) Population Genetics and Molecular Evolution 3 s.h.
BIOL:4373 (002:160) Molecular Phylogenetics 3 s.h.

MEDICAL INFORMATICS

The informatics major with the medical informatics cognate requires a minimum of 53 s.h. of work for the major, including at least 28 s.h. in cognate courses. The medical informatics cognate is intended for students interested in applications of computing to health care, especially in a clinical setting. It may lead to careers in medical or hospital settings, graduate programs in medical informatics, or professional degree programs in medicine, dentistry, nursing, or other allied health professions. Cognate courses are drawn from biology, chemistry, health and human physiology, and public health.

Students who choose the medical informatics cognate must satisfy the major's statistics requirement with STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics.

All of these:

BIOL:1411 (002:031)-BIOL:1412 (002:032) Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function 8 s.h.
CHEM:1110 (004:011) & CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry I-II 8 s.h.
CHEM:2210 (004:121) & CHEM:2220 (004:122) Organic Chemistry I-II 6 s.h.

At least two of these, to complete 28 s.h. in the cognate:

BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution 4 s.h.
CHEM:2410 (004:141) Organic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.
HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.
HMP:4000 (174:102) Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System 3 s.h.

INDIVIDUALIZED COGNATES

Individualized cognates may be drawn primarily from one department or an appropriate mix of departments. For the Bachelor of Science, individualized cognates require an approved set of cognate courses totaling 27-31 s.h. Students interested in developing individualized cognates should contact the Department of Computer Science for the name of an informatics faculty advisor.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The Four-Year Graduation Plan is not available to students majoring in computer science or informatics. Students work with their advisors on individual graduation plans.

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in computer science or informatics have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. To graduate with honors in either major, students must complete 4-6 s.h. of CS:3990 (22C:099) Honors in Computer Science or Informatics and submit an acceptable honors thesis. Students are responsible for finding a faculty member willing to supervise their honors project. The faculty member must approve the proposed project and a timetable for the work. Students register for CS:3990
(22C:099) Honors in Computer Science or Informatics under the thesis supervisor's instructor number. See Honors on the department's web site for details.

Honors students majoring in computer science may count a maximum of 3 s.h. of CS:3990 (22C:099) Honors in Computer Science or Informatics toward the major's advanced computer science elective requirement (B.A.) or advanced technical elective requirement (B.S.). Students in the joint B.A./M.C.S. or B.S./M.C.S. program may register for 4-6 s.h. of CS:3990 (22C:199) Individualized Research or Programming Project instead of CS:3990 (22C:099); this will allow them to receive graduate credit for the course while satisfying the course requirements to graduate with honors.

Departmental honors students must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Minor: Computer Science

The minor in computer science requires a minimum of 17 s.h. in computer science, including 12 s.h. in courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students excused from courses required for the minor may substitute other computer science electives. The minor requires the following courses.

All of these:
- CS:1210 (22C:016) Computer Science I: Fundamentals 4 s.h.
- CS:2210 (22C:019) Discrete Structures 3 s.h.
- CS:2230 (22C:021) Computer Science II: Data Structures 4 s.h.

At least one of these:
- CS:2630 (22C:060) Computer Organization 3 s.h.
- CS:2820 (22C:022) Object-Oriented Software Development 4 s.h.
- CS:3330 (22C:031) Algorithms 3 s.h.

Students choose one additional computer science course (prefix CS) numbered 3200-4990, except CS:3910 (22C:094) Informatics Project and CS:3980 (22C:096) Topics in Computer Science I, to complete the 17 s.h. required for the minor.

Students who have completed ECE:3330 (055:033) Introduction to Software Design, ENGR:2730 (057:017) Computers in Engineering, and ENGR:1300 (059:006) Engineering Problem Solving II are considered to have satisfied the minor’s requirement for CS:1210 (22C:016) Computer Science I: Fundamentals and CS:2820 (22C:022) Object-Oriented Software Development.

Students may declare the computer science minor on ISIS, and they may request an audit for the minor through ISIS.

Minor: Informatics

The minor in informatics requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including at least 12 s.h. in courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Students earning a major in computer science or in management information systems (Tippie College of Business) may not earn the minor in informatics.

The informatics minor requires the following course work.

Joint B.A./M.C.S. and B.S./M.C.S.

The joint Bachelor of Arts/Master of Computer Science and Bachelor of Science/Master of Computer Science programs allow qualified students to obtain an undergraduate and a graduate degree in computer science in five years. The B.A./M.C.S. and B.S./M.C.S. each require a total of 140 s.h., which is 12 s.h. less than the sum of the requirements for both degrees earned separately.

Students in the joint programs must complete all requirements for each degree. They may count a maximum of 12 s.h. (four courses) toward both degrees. The four courses must be taken during the fourth year of undergraduate study, after admission to the joint program, and must satisfy degree requirements of both the B.A. or B.S. and the M.C.S.

When a student withdraws from the joint program before completing his or her bachelor's degree, credit earned in the four courses is counted only toward the undergraduate degree.

Students are granted a B.A. or B.S. when they complete all requirements for the undergraduate degree.
Students apply for admission to the joint program during their third year as undergraduates and enter the program at the beginning of their fourth year. They usually complete the joint program comfortably in one year after completing the B.A. or B.S. requirements.

Applicants to the joint program must:

be enrolled as B.A. or B.S. students majoring in computer science at The University of Iowa;

have completed a minimum of 80 s.h. at the time of admission to the joint program, with at least 30 s.h. earned at The University of Iowa; and have a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.25 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.25 in the computer science major (computed on math prerequisites and core computer science course work taken at The University of Iowa).

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Applicants must submit an application for admission to the program, a statement of purpose, three letters of recommendation, and transcripts from all colleges attended; they also must apply to the Graduate College. Graduate Record Examination scores are not required. For more detailed information, see Prospective Students on the Department of Computer Science web site.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Computer Science
- Master of Science in computer science
- Doctor of Philosophy in computer science

The Master of Computer Science (M.C.S.) is a course-based, nonresearch program for students who wish to enhance their careers with advanced knowledge of computer science. The Doctor of Philosophy program emphasizes preparation for research and teaching in academic settings or for research in private, industrial, or government laboratories. The Master of Science is granted only to students working toward the Ph.D. in computer science.

Admission decisions are based on prior academic performance, letters of reference, the applicant’s statement about background and purpose, and for Ph.D. applicants, scores on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test. Students need not have a master’s degree to begin the Ph.D. program or to be granted the doctoral degree. A student admitted without a master’s degree may choose to be granted an M.S. or the M.C.S. while working toward the doctorate.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Current and prospective graduate students should consult the Computer Science Graduate Handbook, available from the department’s office and its web site. The handbook provides detailed information about specific degree requirements, such as required courses, examinations, and dissertation requirements. For general information about the department, faculty, and research activities, contact the Department of Computer Science or visit its web site.

Master of Computer Science

The Master of Computer Science (M.C.S.) requires a minimum of 32 s.h. of graduate credit, including at least 24 s.h. earned at The University of Iowa. Basic M.C.S. requirements are as follows. Consult the Computer Science Graduate Handbook for detailed information about M.C.S. requirements and graduate study policies.

FOUNDATIONS

One of these:

- CS:4330 (22C:135) Theory of Computation 3 s.h.
- CS:4340 (22C:131) Limits of Computation 3 s.h.
- CS:5350 (22C:231) Design and Analysis of Algorithms 3 s.h.

SYSTEMS

One of these:

- CS:5610 (22C:160) High Performance Computer Architecture 3 s.h.
- CS:5620 (22C:166) Distributed Systems and Algorithms 3 s.h.
- CS:5810 (22C:181) Formal Methods in Software Engineering 3 s.h.
- CS:5850 (22C:185) Programming Language Foundations 3 s.h.

COLOQUIUM

M.C.S. students must earn at least 2 s.h. in CS:6000 (22C:399) Research Seminar: Colloquium Series.

ELECTIVES

M.C.S. students complete the remaining 24 s.h. with a combination of computer science graduate courses, reading and project courses, and non-computer science graduate courses approved by their advisor. They must complete at least six computer science graduate courses (18 s.h.) numbered 3000 or above, which may not include the following courses:

- CS:5990 (22C:199) Individualized Research or Programming Project
- CS:6000 (22C:399) Research Seminar: Colloquium Series
- CS:6990 (22C:290) Readings for Research, and
- CS:7990 (22C:299) Research for Dissertation

The remaining 6 s.h. of electives may include technical or quantitative graduate courses outside of computer science, with the advisor’s approval. Students also may include up to 3 s.h. earned in independent study courses [CS:5990 (22C:199) Individualized Research or Programming Project or CS:6990 (22C:290) Readings for Research].

Master of Science

The Master of Science in computer science is offered only to students working toward the Ph.D. in computer science. Students who are interested primarily in a master’s degree and who do not intend to pursue a more advanced degree should apply to the M.C.S. program.
Computer Science

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in computer science requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit, three examinations (qualifying, comprehensive, and final), and a written dissertation. Basic Ph.D. requirements are as follows. Consult the Computer Science Graduate Handbook for detailed information about Ph.D. requirements and graduate study policies.

CORE REQUIREMENT

Both of these:

- CS:4330 (22C:135) Theory of Computation 3 s.h.
- CS:5350 (22C:231) Design and Analysis of Algorithms 3 s.h.

BREADTH

Ph.D. students must complete at least three of the following courses, with at least one course selected from each area (9 s.h.).

Systems and software:
- CS:4640 (22C:169) Computer Security 3 s.h.
- CS:4980 (22C:196) Topics in Computer Science II (section approved by advisor) 3 s.h.
- CS:5610 (22C:160) High Performance Computer Architecture 3 s.h.

Networks and distributed systems:
- CS:4980 (22C:196) Topics in Computer Science II (section approved by advisor) 3 s.h.
- CS:5620 (22C:166) Distributed Systems and Algorithms 3 s.h.

Programming languages and compilers:
- CS:4980 (22C:196) Topics in Computer Science II (section approved by advisor) 3 s.h.
- CS:5810 (22C:181) Formal Methods in Software Engineering 3 s.h.
- CS:5850 (22C:185) Programming Language Foundations 3 s.h.

PRACTICE

Ph.D. students must complete at least one course (3 s.h.) with significant practical or implementation-oriented content. Each semester the department designates courses that satisfy this requirement. The following are typical selections.

- CS:4400 (22C:144) Database Systems 3 s.h.
- CS:4420 (22C:145) Artificial Intelligence 3 s.h.
- CS:4440 (22C:149) Web Mining 3 s.h.
- CS:4460 (22C:146) Introduction to Computational Linguistics 3 s.h.
- CS:4520 (22C:151) Computer Graphics 3 s.h.
- CS:4700 (22C:177) High Performance and Parallel Computing 3 s.h.
- CS:4720 (22C:174) Optimization Techniques 3 s.h.
- CS:4980 (22C:196) Topics in Computer Science II (section approved by advisor) 3 s.h.
- CS:5520 (22C:251) Advanced Computer Graphics 3 s.h.
- CS:5800 (22C:180) Fundamentals of Software Engineering 3 s.h.
- CS:5990 (22C:199) Individualized Research or Programming Project 3 s.h.

COGNATE AREA

Ph.D. students are required to select, in consultation with their advisor, graduate course work totaling 9 s.h. that constitutes coherent coverage of an external cognate area; the courses need not be offered by the same department. Choices include, but are not limited to, mathematics, statistics, genetics, biology, and engineering disciplines.

COLLOQUIUM

Ph.D. students must earn at least 4 s.h. in CS:6000 (22C:399) Research Seminar: Colloquium Series.

ELECTIVES

Ph.D. students fill their remaining semester hours with a selection of computer science graduate courses numbered 3000 or above and graduate courses outside of computer science, approved by their advisor.

QUALIFYING EXAM

Ph.D. students are required to pass a qualifying examination by the end of their second year of graduate study. Once students select a topic in consultation with their advisor, they are assigned a three-member faculty examination panel by the department. Then they prepare a written prospectus for review by the committee, followed by an oral presentation.

COMPREHENSIVE EXAM

The comprehensive examination is an evaluation of the student's mastery of a research area near completion of formal course work, and before preparation of the dissertation. The exam may be written, oral, or both, at the department's discretion, and is administered by a faculty committee. The comprehensive exam typically should be completed by the end of the student's third year and no later than the end of the fourth year in the Ph.D. program.

DISSERTATION

Each Ph.D. student must write a dissertation, a significant, original contribution to the field of computer science. Once students obtain some preliminary results and can identify and describe the boundaries of their dissertation, they prepare a written proposal for their committee's review. The dissertation must be prepared in accordance with the format specified in the Graduate College Thesis Manual.

FINAL ORAL EXAMINATION

Once the dissertation is complete and has been reviewed by the student's committee, a final oral examination is administered on campus. This examination must take place no sooner than the semester following successful completion of the comprehensive examination and no later than five years after completion of the comprehensive exam.
Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

CS:1000 (22C:002) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

CS:1020 (22C:001) Principles of Computing 3 s.h.
Introduction to computing; broad overview of discipline; necessary skills and concepts for effective application of computing resources in student's profession. Recommendations: No credit for students who have completed a higher-numbered CS (22C) course. GE: Quantitative or Formal Reasoning.

CS:1110 (22C:005) Introduction to Computer Science 3 s.h.
Introduction to computer science and the study of algorithms; foundational ideas, computer organization, software concepts (e.g., networking, databases, security); programming concepts using Python. Recommendations: closed to students who have completed CS:2230 (22C:021) or a higher-numbered computer science course. GE: Quantitative or Formal Reasoning.

CS:1210 (22C:016) Computer Science I: Fundamentals 4 s.h.
Introduction to programming using Python; programming constructs, data types, problem-solving strategies, data structures, object-oriented programming. Requirements: MATH:1020 (22M:009) or MATH:1340 (22M:013) or MATH:1440 (22M:015) or math placement to a calculus course. GE: Quantitative or Formal Reasoning.

CS:2110 (22C:080) Programming for Informatics 4 s.h.
Computing fundamentals for informatics students, including practical programming skills (e.g., in Perl, other scripting languages) and introduction to algorithms, data structures, databases. Prerequisites: CS:1110 (22C:005). Corequisites: MATH:1010 (22M:005) or MATH:1020 (22M:009) or MATH:1240 (22M:010) or MATH:1340 (22M:013) or MATH:1440 (22M:015), if not taken as a prerequisite.

CS:2111 (22C:081) Programming Practice 2 s.h.
Review of introductory Python programming concepts taught in CS:1210 (22C:016) and CS:2110 (22C:080); enhance mastery of introductory programming. Prerequisites: CS:1210 (22C:016) or CS:2110 (22C:080).

CS:2210 (22C:019) Discrete Structures 3 s.h.
Mathematical methods used in computer science, including logic, proof techniques (with induction), functions, relations, algorithm analysis, recurrence relations, counting methods, combinatorics, graphs, trees. Corequisites: CS:1210 (22C:016), if not taken as a prerequisite. Recommendations: calculus I.

CS:2230 (22C:021) Computer Science II: Data Structures 4 s.h.
Design, implementation, and application of data structures (e.g., linked lists, stacks, queues, hash tables, trees); complexity analysis; recursion; introduction to object-oriented programming concepts; abstract data types and their realization using generic interfaces and classes; software design patterns (e.g., iterators, comparators). Prerequisites: CS:1210 (22C:016). Corequisites: CS:2210 (22C:019), if not taken as a prerequisite.

CS:2420 (22C:084) Databases for Informatics 3 s.h.
Design and implementation of relational database systems: introduction to the relational model, database design, database normalization, use of database query and manipulation languages such as SQL. Prerequisites: CS:2110 (22C:080).

CS:2520 (22C:082) Human-Computer Interaction 3 s.h.
Basic theories, principles, and guidelines for design and evaluation of human-computer interactions; design methodologies (e.g., participatory design, low- and high-fidelity prototyping), user interface technologies (e.g., input and output devices, interaction styles), quantitative and qualitative evaluation of user interfaces (e.g., expert reviews, usability testing). Corequisites: CS:2110 (22C:080), if not taken as a prerequisite.

CS:2620 (22C:086) Networking and Security for Informatics 3 s.h.
Introduction to computer networking, overview of network organization and management; basic understanding of encryption and network security; practical experience in network programming. Prerequisites: CS:2110 (22C:080).

CS:2630 (22C:060) Computer Organization 3 s.h.
Computer building blocks: representing data, computer arithmetic, instruction sets, assembly language, digital logic, control units, ALU design, register operations, memory organization, IO. Prerequisites: CS:2110 (22C:021).

CS:2820 (22C:022) Object-Oriented Software Development 4 s.h.
Object-oriented design and software development methodology; team programming projects; GUIs, event handling, network programming, concurrency, data representation, IO programming. Prerequisites: CS:2230 (22C:021).

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

CS:3110 (22C:104) Introduction to Informatics 3 s.h.
Fundamentals of computer science: algorithms, complexity, relational databases, systems concepts, programming in Python. Requirements: CS:1110 (22C:005) or graduate standing.

CS:3210 (22C:109) Programming Languages and Tools arr.
Varied programming languages and tools. Prerequisites: CS:1210 (22C:016) or CS:2110 (22C:080) or CS:3110 (22C:104).
CS:3330 (22C:031) Algorithms 3 s.h.
Algorithm design techniques (e.g., greedy algorithms, divide-and-conquer, dynamic programming, randomization); fundamental algorithms (e.g., basic graph algorithms); techniques for efficiency analysis; computational intractability and NP-completeness. Prerequisites: CS:2230 (22C:021), and MATH:1350 (22M:031) or MATH:1850 (22M:025).

CS:3620 (22C:112) Operating Systems 3 s.h.
Introduction to modern operating systems, including device control, memory management and addressing, process scheduling, interprocess communication, interrupts, synchronization, security. Prerequisites: CS:2630 (22C:060).

CS:3640 (22C:118) Introduction to Networks and Their Applications 3 s.h.
Introduction to networks and the development of network applications; basic concepts of network communication common to applications such as simulation and web services. Prerequisites: CS:2630 (22C:060).

CS:3700 (22C:072) Elementary Numerical Analysis 3 s.h.
Computer arithmetic, root finding, polynomial approximation, numerical integration, systems of linear equations, ordinary differential equations; use of higher-level computer language such as Matlab, Mathematica. Prerequisites: MATH:1560 (22M:032) or MATH:1860 (22M:026). Same as MATH:3800 (22M:072).

CS:3820 (22C:111) Programming Language Concepts 3 s.h.
Imperative, functional, and logical programming languages, and differences between them; syntax specification, types, control structures, recursion, data abstraction. Prerequisites: CS:2230 (22C:021), and CS:2630 (22C:060) or CS:2820 (22C:022).

CS:3910 (22C:094) Informatics Project 3 s.h.
Experience designing, implementing, documenting, and testing a system using appropriate software tools (e.g., a project working with an information management tool consisting of a database system with a Web-based front end); typically done in small groups; capstone project for informatics majors. Prerequisites: CS:2420 (22C:084), CS:2520 (22C:082), and CS:2620 (22C:086).

CS:3980 (22C:096) Topics in Computer Science I 3 s.h.
Complement to material in other courses. Prerequisites: CS:2110 (22C:080) or CS:2230 (22C:021) or CS:2820 (22C:022) or CS:3110 (22C:104).

CS:3990 (22C:099) Honors in Computer Science or Informatics arr.
Individual projects. Requirements: computer science or informatics major, and honors standing.

CS:4330 (22C:135) Theory of Computation 3 s.h.
Finite automata; regular sets and expressions; context-free and context-sensitive grammars, their properties; push-down automata; standard, universal, and linear-bounded Turing machines; relationships between formal languages and automata; undecidability and its consequences. Prerequisites: CS:3330 (22C:031).

CS:4340 (22C:131) Limits of Computation 3 s.h.
Turing machines, undecidability and complexity: reductions, Cook's theorem and NP-completeness, approximation algorithms and randomized algorithms. Prerequisites: CS:3330 (22C:031).

CS:4350 (22C:188) Logic in Computer Science 3 s.h.
Applications of symbolic logic in computer science; symbolic logic as a powerful tool for modeling computation and computational devices and reasoning formally about them; introduction to several logics (i.e., propositional, predicate, temporal, modal) differing in their expressive power and focus, their uses in computer science; how to represent knowledge in these logics, what represents a valid argument, and how to prove or disprove, possibly automatically, the validity of a logical statement. Prerequisites: CS:2210 (22C:019). Recommendations: computer science, math, or engineering major.

CS:4400 (22C:144) Database Systems 3 s.h.
Introduction to database systems including querying using SQL, design using ER diagrams, developing relational databases, programming web applications using PHP or JDBC. Prerequisites: CS:2230 (22C:021) and CS:3330 (22C:031).

CS:4420 (22C:145) Artificial Intelligence 3 s.h.
Introduction to artificial intelligence covering problem-solving methods, heuristic search, knowledge representation, automated reasoning, planning, game playing, machine learning, and neural networks. Prerequisites: CS:3330 (22C:031).

CS:4440 (22C:149) Web Mining 3 s.h.
Core methods underlying development of applications on the Web; examples of relevant applications, including those pertaining to information retrieval, summarization of Web documents, and identifying social networks. Prerequisites: CS:2230 (22C:021) and CS:2820 (22C:022). Recommendations: CS:4400 (22C:144) strongly recommended.

CS:4460 (22C:146) Introduction to Computational Linguistics 3 s.h.
Introduction to computational linguistics; focus on theory and practice of natural language processing and syntactic and semantic analysis. Same as LING:4030 (103:140).

CS:4500 (22C:148) Research Methods in Human-Computer Interaction 3 s.h.
Survey of recent research in the field of human-computer interaction; research methods and current readings. Prerequisites: CS:2520 (22C:082).
CS:4520 (22C:151) Computer Graphics 3 s.h.
Introduction to computer graphics algorithms and techniques, with emphasis on interactive 3-D graphics; coordinate systems and frames, modeling and viewing transformations, rendering, shading, lighting, texture, bump, environment mapping, animation, ray tracing, radiosity. Prerequisites: CS:3330 (22C:031) and MATH:2700 (22M:027).

CS:4640 (22C:169) Computer Security 3 s.h.
Mechanism versus policy; authentication, access control, security domains; perimeter security, defense in depth; cryptographic protocols; key management and distribution; security assessment. Prerequisites: CS:2630 (22C:060).

CS:4700 (22C:177) High Performance and Parallel Computing 3 s.h.
Parallel scientific computing methods such as parallel algorithms for dense and sparse matrices; implementation using libraries such as MPI; current topics such as grid computing. Prerequisites: CS:2630 (22C:060) and MATH:2700 (22M:027). Same as MATH:4860 (22M:178).

CS:4720 (22C:174) Optimization Techniques 3 s.h.
Basic theory of optimization, use of numerical algorithms in solution of optimization problems; linear and nonlinear programming, sensitivity analysis, convexity, optimal control theory, dynamic programming, calculus of variations. Prerequisites: MATH:2700 (22M:027), MATH:2850 (22M:028), and MATH:3800 (22M:072). Same as MATH:4820 (22M:174).

CS:4740 (22C:179) Large Data Analysis 3 s.h.
Current areas that deal with problem of Big Data; techniques from computer science, mathematics, statistics; high performance and parallel computing, matrix techniques, cluster analysis, visualization; variety of applications including Google PageRank, seismology, Netflix-type problems, weather forecasting; fusion of data with simulation; projects. Prerequisites: CS:1210 (22C:016) and STAT:3200 (22S:152). Corequisites: MATH:3800 (22M:072). Same as MATH:4740 (22M:179), STAT:4740 (22S:169).

CS:4980 (22C:196) Topics in Computer Science II 3 s.h.
Complements material in other courses. Prerequisites: CS:2110 (22C:080) or CS:2230 (22C:021) or CS:2820 (22C:022) or CS:3110 (22C:104).

Graduate

Competence and exposure to computer science are not only useful, they often are prerequisite to advanced study and research in many disciplines. For most graduate students from other disciplines, an appropriate first course is CS:3110 (22C:104) Introduction to Informatics.

CS:5350 (22C:231) Design and Analysis of Algorithms 3 s.h.
Review of design and analysis techniques; advanced data structures (binomial and Fibonacci heaps, disjoint sets); graph algorithms (network flows, matching, min-cut); NP-completeness, randomization and approximation algorithms; special topics (string matching, computational geometry, number theoretic algorithms). Prerequisites: CS:3330 (22C:031) or CS:4340 (22C:131).

CS:5520 (22C:251) Advanced Computer Graphics 3 s.h.
Topics such as global illumination and rendering; volume rendering; animation; curves and surfaces, advanced modeling and mapping techniques; graphics hardware; real-time graphics for virtual environments. Prerequisites: CS:4520 (22C:151).

CS:5610 (22C:160) High Performance Computer Architecture 3 s.h.
Problems involved in designing and analyzing current machine architectures using hardware description language (HDL) simulation and analysis, hierarchical memory design, pipeline processing, vector machines, numerical applications, multiprocessor architectures and parallel algorithm design techniques; evaluation methods to determine relationship between computer design and design goals. Prerequisites: CS:3620 (22C:112) or ECE:3350 (055:035). Same as ECE:5320 (055:132).

CS:5620 (22C:166) Distributed Systems and Algorithms 3 s.h.
Models of distributed systems, program correctness—safety and liveness properties, causality, logical and vector clocks, mutual exclusion, distributed snapshot, leader election, distributed algorithms for graph-theoretic problems, fault-tolerance—masking versus nonmasking types, checkpointing, stabilization, consensus—byzantine generals problem, fault-tolerant broadcast and multicast, management of replicated data. Prerequisites: CS:3330 (22C:031) and CS:3620 (22C:112). Requirements: some interest in networking.

CS:5710 (22C:170) Numerical Analysis: Nonlinear Equations and Approximation Theory 4 s.h.
Root finding for nonlinear equations; polynomial interpolation; polynomial approximation of functions; numerical integration. Prerequisites: MATH:2700 (22M:027) and MATH:2850 (22M:028), or MATH:3550 (22M:037). Requirements: knowledge of computer programming. Same as MATH:5800 (22M:170).

CS:5720 (22C:171) Numerical Analysis: Differential Equations and Linear Algebra 4 s.h.
Numerical methods for initial value problems for ordinary differential equations; direct and iterative methods for linear systems of equations; eigenvalue problems for matrices. Prerequisites: MATH:2700 (22M:027) and MATH:2850 (22M:028), or MATH:3550 (22M:037); and MATH:3600 (22M:100). Requirements: knowledge of computer programming. Same as MATH:5810 (22M:171).

CS:5800 (22C:180) Fundamentals of Software Engineering 3 s.h.
Problem analysis, requirements definition, specification, design, implementation, testing/maintenance, integration, project management; human factors; management, technical communication; design methodologies; software validation, verification; group project experience.

Prerequisites: CS:2820 (22C:022) or ECE:3330 (055:033). Same as ECE:5800 (055:180).

CS:5810 (22C:181) Formal Methods in Software Engineering
Models, methods, and their application in all phases of software engineering process; specification methods; verification of consistency, completeness of specifications; verification using tools. Prerequisites: CS:2820 (22C:022) or ECE:3330 (055:033). Recommendations: CS:4350 (22C:188). Same as ECE:5810 (055:181).

CS:5820 (22C:182) Software Engineering Languages and Tools
Modern agile software development practices for cloud and web-based applications, using state-of-the-art software engineering languages, tools, and technologies; agile software development practices, software-as-a-service (SAAS), and the Ruby on Rails Development Framework. Requirements: ECE:5800 (055:180) or CS:5800 (22C:180); or graduate standing with solid understanding of object-oriented design and programming, and facility with at least one object-oriented programming language. Same as ECE:5820 (055:182).

CS:5830 (22C:183) Software Engineering Project
Team software development project using concepts and methodologies learned in earlier software engineering classes; practical aspects of large-scale software development. Prerequisites: CS:5800 (22C:180) and CS:5820 (22C:182). Same as ECE:5830 (055:183).

CS:5850 (22C:185) Programming Language Foundations
Introduction to formal foundations of programming languages using a variety of models, including attribute grammars, operational, axiomatic, denotational, and algebraic techniques; proofs of program equivalence, correctness, termination. Prerequisites: CS:3330 (22C:031) and CS:3820 (22C:111).

CS:5980 (22C:296) Topics in Computer Science III
Complements material in other courses.

CS:5990 (22C:199) Individualized Research or Programming Project
Individualized research and/or programming projects in computer science, guided by a faculty member.

CS:6000 (22C:399) Research Seminar: Colloquium Series
Graduate colloquium. Requirements: graduate standing in computer science.

CS:6421 (22C:141) Knowledge Discovery 3 s.h.
Knowledge discovery process, including data reduction, cleansing, transformation; advanced modeling techniques from classification, prediction, clustering, association; evaluation and integration. Same as MSCI:6421 (06K:275).

CS:6990 (22C:290) Readings for Research arr.
Requirements: Ph.D. standing in computer science.

Requirements: Ph.D. candidacy (postcomprehensive exam) in computer science.
Creative Writing (Iowa Writers' Workshop)

The Creative Writing Program (Iowa Writers' Workshop) is a world-renowned graduate program for fiction writers and poets. It was the first creative writing program in the United States to offer a degree, and it became a model for many contemporary writing programs. In addition to its Master of Fine Arts program, it also offers writing courses for undergraduates.

Creative writing classes at The University of Iowa began in the 1890s, and in 1922 the University became the nation's first institution of higher education to accept creative work as theses for advanced degrees. The Iowa Writers' Workshop began in 1936, drawing distinguished fiction writers and poets who would lecture and stay to discuss students' work; some came for a full year of teaching.

Today the program's faculty and alumni include nationally and internationally prominent poets, novelists, and short story writers; many have won Pulitzer Prizes, National Book Awards, and other major literary honors. In 2003 the Iowa Writers' Workshop received a National Humanities Medal from the National Endowment for the Humanities—the first awarded to a university and only the second given to an institution rather than an individual. To learn more about the Creative Writing Program's history and faculty, visit the Iowa Writers' Workshop web site.

Graduate Program of Study
- Master of Fine Arts in English

The Program in Creative Writing offers a master's degree program. However, unusually well-qualified Ph.D. students in the Department of English may obtain permission to submit a creative dissertation for the doctoral degree; the Program in Creative Writing assumes responsibility for granting permission for the option of the creative dissertation and for approving the dissertation once it is completed. Contact the director of graduate studies in the Department of English for more information.

Master of Fine Arts

The Master of Fine Arts degree in English (creative writing) requires 48 s.h. of graduate credit taken over four semesters in residence at The University of Iowa. Students specialize in fiction or poetry.

The program is flexible and individualized. Approximately half of the credit required for the degree is earned in writing courses; the rest may be earned in other graduate courses. Up to 18 s.h. of graduate transfer credit may be counted toward the degree, but transfer credit does not change the residency requirement.

Students must enroll in CW:7870 (08C:251) Fiction Workshop or CW:7875 (08C:252) Poetry Workshop during each semester of residence in the program. In each course, groups of 10-15 students read and critique each others' work.

The program's seminars provide students with a thorough knowledge of their chosen literary form and related aspects of craft. Seminars include CW:7810 (08C:270) Form of Fiction, CW:7820 (08C:275) Form of Poetry, CW:7830 (08C:490) Seminar: Problems in Modern Fiction, and CW:7840 (08C:495) Seminar: Problems in Modern Poetry. Each focuses on a single aspect of modern poetry or fiction, such as a single writer's work or a body of work with a common theme or purpose.

In addition to taking Creative Writing Program courses, many M.F.A. students choose courses offered by other University of Iowa departments and programs, such as the Interdisciplinary Center for the Book (p. 956) (Graduate College), the Department of Theatre Arts (p. 640), the Comparative Literature (p. 199) Program, and the Department of English (p. 252).

During the second year of the program, each student must take the M.F.A. examination, an essay exam that may be written outside of the classroom. Students submit their graduate thesis during the last semester, CW:7895 (08C:590) M.F.A. Thesis; the thesis is a fiction or poetry manuscript of substantial length.

Admission

Applicants to the Creative Writing Program (Iowa Writers' Workshop) must meet the program's admission requirements as well as those of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

A creative writing manuscript is the most important element of the application for admission to the workshop. Submissions for poetry should include 10-12 poems. Submissions for fiction should include two or three short stories or a section of a novel, or both, usually 30-38 double-spaced pages (may not exceed 100 double-spaced pages).

Other application materials include a personal statement, official transcripts from all universities and colleges attended, the graduate application form, three letters of recommendation, an application for graduate awards, and an application to the Graduate College. Graduate Record Exam (GRE) General Test scores are optional, but they may make applicants more competitive for a wider range of financial assistance.

For detailed information on application materials and procedures, see How to Apply on the Iowa Writers' Workshop web site.

Financial Support

Financial assistance is available to Creative Writing Program students in the form of teaching assistantships, research assistants, and fellowships. See Financial Aid on the Iowa Writers’ Workshop web site.

Courses

The Creative Writing Program offers courses for undergraduates as well as graduate students. Enrollment in some graduate-level courses requires admission to the M.F.A. program. See "Courses" in the Department of English (p. 252) section of the Catalog for course descriptions and prerequisites to enrollment.

Lower-Level Undergraduate

Critical Cultural Competence

Coordinator
• Motier Haskins

Undergraduate certificate: critical cultural competence
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/socialwork/undergraduate-program/certificate-critical-cultural-competence

The Certificate in Critical Cultural Competence is administered by the School of Social Work (p. 586).

Undergraduate Program of Study

• Certificate in Critical Cultural Competence
The certificate program helps students develop an appreciation for their own cultural identities. It also helps them become critically self-reflective in their orientation to differences in other people's cultural identities as defined by matters such as race, ethnicity, gender, class, and sexual orientation.

Certificate
The Certificate in Critical Cultural Competence requires 18 s.h. of course work. The certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor's degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate. Completion of the certificate is noted on the student's transcript.

Ideally, students begin the certificate during their second year of undergraduate study.

Certificate students build the knowledge, skills, and attitudes they will need in order to increase their effectiveness in relating to others across cultural differences and in domestic and international environments that are increasingly diverse. Students who complete the certificate program develop:

• greater appreciation of cultural differences;
• increased ability to interact with individuals of diverse backgrounds;
• a philosophy of treating people fairly, equitably, and thoughtfully;
• critical self-reflection and awareness of their own culture;
• ability to assess and understand culture-related privilege and disprivilege; and
• concern with issues of power and privilege, and social justice.

The Certificate in Critical Cultural Competence requires the following course work.

Students begin the certificate with CCCC:2220 (208:120) Foundations of Critical Cultural Competence, which is offered spring semesters and is prerequisite to the course work that follows. They complete a minimum of three elective courses (9 s.h.) that cover at least two diversity categories; a maximum of two electives may be taken from the same department, and two of the three electives must be numbered 3000 or above. An additional experiential elective (3 s.h.) with an immersion-learning or service-learning component is required. Students complete the certificate's requirements with the capstone course, CCCC:4490 (208:190) Integrative Seminar in Critical Cultural Competence, which is offered spring semesters.

In collaboration with the certificate program's coordinator, students establish study plans while completing the foundation course. The coordinator works with the academic advisor in the student's major to ensure that the study plan complements the student's academic program and career interests. The program coordinator approves the final study plan, recommends the sequence in which course work should be taken, schedules required courses, and keeps a record of each student's approved program and progress.

Undergraduate major: dance (B.A., B.F.A.)
Undergraduate minor: dance

Graduate degree: M.F.A. in dance

Web site: http://dance.uiowa.edu/

The Department of Dance offers degree programs for undergraduates and graduate students. The undergraduate major in dance provides a liberal arts and sciences education and thorough preparation for careers in professional dance, choreography, and education as well as preparation for graduate studies.

The department offers as many as 14 concerts every year, providing dance students with numerous opportunities for performance and choreography. Each year the University of Iowa Dance Company performs Dance Gala on campus, and since 1986, the department's touring company, Dancers in Company, has given students an opportunity to perform in Iowa and surrounding states.

Dance faculty members regularly present their choreography in national and international venues, giving University student performers the opportunity to further develop their performance skills. Periodic master classes with noted guest teachers, choreographers, and touring companies add diversity to the dance experience.

The department is one of three academic units in the Division of Performing Arts (p. 234). It participates in offering the division's Certificate in Performing Arts Entrepreneurship (p. 512).

Undergraduate Programs of Study
- Major in dance (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts)
- Minor in dance

Students must audition on campus in order to be admitted to a degree program or the minor in dance, as well as for placement in advanced dance classes.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in dance requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 53 s.h. of work for the major (50 s.h. in dance and 3 s.h. in a required anatomy course). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The B.A. program is designed for students who want to acquire a strong liberal arts and sciences background while pursuing a comprehensive undergraduate dance education. The dance major for the Bachelor of Arts stresses performance and choreography as well as dance theory courses, including dance history, dance kinesiology, and dance production.

Students must audition on campus, during the semester before they enter the University, in order to be admitted to a degree program in dance. They must audition for placement in dance classes before they register for classes. Nonmajors may register only for beginning and continuing levels of ballet and modern dance, but they may register for all levels of jazz and Afro-Cuban dance. Contact the Department of Dance, its undergraduate program coordinator, or the University’s Office of Admissions for additional information.

All B.A. students must complete HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy (3 s.h.). The required 50 s.h. in Department of Dance courses must include two semesters of DANC:3530 (137:113) Major Ballet II or DANC:3540 (137:114) Major Modern Dance II with a grade of B-minus or higher. Two semesters of DANC:4040 (137:124) Major Modern Dance III, DANC:4030 (137:123) Major Ballet III, or DANC:4540 (137:130) Major Modern Dance IV also satisfy this requirement. At least half of all semester hours in the major must be earned at The University of Iowa. No more than 56 s.h. in Department of Dance courses may be counted toward the 120 s.h. required for the B.A.

The Bachelor of Arts major in dance requires the following course work.

CORE COURSES

B.A. students should register for cross-listed core courses under the Department of Dance course number (prefix DANC) in order for those courses to count toward the 50 s.h. in Department of Dance courses required for the major.

- DANC:1060 (137:040) Introduction to Dance Studies 1 s.h.
- DANC:1080 (137:060) Music Essentials for Dance 2 s.h.
- DANC:1090 (137:050) Dance Production 3 s.h.
- DANC:2060 (137:080)/DPA:2060 (188:080) Dance and Society in Global Contexts 3 s.h.
- DANC:2220 (137:051) Production Run Crew (2 s.h. required) 2 s.h.
- DANC:3060 (137:181) Dance History 3 s.h.
- DANC:3070 (137:147)/THTR:3070 (049:108) Dance Kinesiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.
STUDIO COURSES
DANC:2050 (137:134) Improvisation I 2 s.h.
DANC:3150 (137:070) Choreography I 2 s.h.
DANC:3250 (137:071) Choreography II 2 s.h.

DANCE TECHNIQUE
Students must complete 20 s.h. from the following courses. They must include 6 s.h. of ballet, 6 s.h. of modern dance, and two semesters of one of these:
DANC:3530 (137:113), DANC:3540 (137:114), DANC:4030 (137:123), DANC:4040 (137:124), or DANC:4540 (137:130). All courses may be repeated.

DANC:2020 (137:022) Intermediate Jazz 2 s.h.
DANC:2030 (137:023) Intermediate Ballet 2 s.h.
DANC:2040 (137:024) Intermediate Modern 2 s.h.
DANC:3030 (137:103) Major Ballet I 1-3 s.h.
DANC:3040 (137:104) Major Modern Dance I 1-3 s.h.
DANC:3085 (137:174) Introduction to Afro-Cuban Dance 1 s.h.
DANC:3530 (137:113) Major Ballet II 1-3 s.h.
DANC:3540 (137:114) Major Modern Dance II 1-3 s.h.
DANC:4030 (137:123) Major Ballet III 1-3 s.h.
DANC:4035 (137:133) Ballet Pointe II 1 s.h.
DANC:4040 (137:124) Major Modern Dance III 1-3 s.h.
DANC:4540 (137:130) Major Modern Dance IV 1-2 s.h.

DANCE ELECTIVES
Credit earned in Department of Dance courses (prefix DANC) that is not used to satisfy core, studio, or dance technique degree requirements is counted toward the dance elective requirement. Dance electives complete the 50 s.h. of dance courses required for the Bachelor of Arts.

The required number of semester hours in dance electives varies depending on whether the student completes the core with dance courses or with cross-listed courses from another department, or has a core requirement waived.

Bachelor of Fine Arts
The Bachelor of Fine Arts with a major in dance requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 78 s.h. of work for the major (75 s.h. in dance and 3 s.h. in a required anatomy course). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). B.F.A. students are required to maintain a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in dance department courses.

In contrast to the B.A. program, the dance major for the B.F.A. emphasizes choreography and performance. It requires an additional 25 s.h. of choreography, performance, and technique. Students may be admitted to the B.F.A. program after they have completed a minimum of 30 s.h. at The University of Iowa. Students who have achieved the equivalent of major II technique and who show academic and professional promise are selected by department faculty for admission to the program.

All B.F.A. students must complete HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy (3 s.h.). The required 75 s.h. in Department of Dance courses must include three semesters of DANC:4030 (137:123) Major Ballet III or DANC:4540 (137:130) Major Modern Dance IV with a grade of B-minus or higher. B.F.A. students must earn at least half of the semester hours in the major at The University of Iowa. No more than 75 s.h. in Department of Dance courses may be counted toward the 120 s.h. required for the B.F.A.

The Bachelor of Fine Arts major in dance requires the following course work.

CORE COURSES
B.F.A. students should register for cross-listed core courses under the Department of Dance course number (prefix DANC) in order for those courses to count toward the 75 s.h. in Department of Dance courses required for the major:
DANC:1060 (137:040) Introduction to Dance Studies 1 s.h.
DANC:1080 (137:060) Music Essentials for Dance 2 s.h.
DANC:1090 (137:050) Dance Production 3 s.h.
DANC:2060 (137:080)/DPA:2060 (188:080) Dance and Society in Global Contexts 3 s.h.
DANC:2220 (137:051) Production Run Crew (2 s.h. required) 2 s.h.
DANC:3060 (137:181) Dance History 3 s.h.
DANC:3070 (137:147)/THTR:3070 (049:108) Dance Kinesiology 3 s.h.
HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.

STUDIO COURSES
DANC:2050 (137:134) Improvisation I 2 s.h.
DANC:3150 (137:070) Choreography I 2 s.h.
DANC:3250 (137:071) Choreography II 2 s.h.
DANC:4350 (137:170) Choreography III 2 s.h.
DANC:4880 (137:106) Dance Performance (6 s.h. required) 6 s.h.

DANCE TECHNIQUE
Students must complete 32 s.h. from the following courses. They must include 14 s.h. of ballet, 14 s.h. of modern dance, and three semesters of either DANC:4030 (137:123) or DANC:4540 (137:130). All courses may be repeated.
DANC:1150 (137:057) Brazilian Culture and Carnival 3 s.h.
DANC:3030 (137:103) Major Ballet I 1-3 s.h.
DANC:3040 (137:104) Major Modern Dance I 1-3 s.h.
DANC:3085 (137:174) Introduction to Afro-Cuban Dance 1 s.h.
DANC:3530 (137:113) Major Ballet II 1-3 s.h.
DANC:3540 (137:114) Major Modern Dance II 1-3 s.h.
DANC:4030 (137:123) Major Ballet III 1-3 s.h.
DANC:4035 (137:133) Ballet Pointe II 1 s.h.
DANC:4040 (137:124) Major Modern Dance III 1-3 s.h.
DANC:4540 (137:130) Major Modern Dance IV 1-2 s.h.

DANCE ELECTIVES
B.F.A. students choose advanced-level elective course work by selecting one of the following three options.
Option 1, pedagogy—one of these:
DANC:4535 (137:143) Elementary Ballet Pedagogy 3 s.h.
DANC:4545 (137:144) Teaching of Modern Dance 3 s.h.

Option 2, advanced history or theory—one of these:
DANC:4060 (137:182) The Contemporary Dance Scene 3 s.h.
DANC:5060 (137:202) Theories of Dance and the Body 3 s.h.

Option 3, choreography—both of these:
DANC:4450 (137:171) Choreography IV 2 s.h.
DANC:4991 (137:172) Independent Choreography 1 s.h.

Credit earned in Department of Dance courses (prefix DANC) that is not used to satisfy core, studio, or dance technique degree requirements is counted toward the dance elective requirement. Dance electives complete the 75 s.h. of dance courses required for the Bachelor of Fine Arts.

The required number of semester hours in dance electives varies depending on whether the student completes the core with dance courses or with cross-listed courses from another department, or has a core requirement waived.

SENIOR PROJECT
B.F.A. students culminate their experience with senior projects in choreography or performance. Students may earn honors credit for this project by enrolling in DANC:4999 (137:140) Honors Project in Dance (enrollment requires membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program or special permission from the instructor). Other students must complete DANC:4998 (137:141) BFA Senior Project in Dance.

One of these:
DANC:4998 (137:141) BFA Senior Project in Dance arr.
DANC:4999 (137:140) Honors Project in Dance arr.

Four-Year Graduation Plan
The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Department of Dance course work beyond 50 s.h. for B.A. students and 75 s.h. for B.F.A. students does not apply toward semester hours required for graduation.

Bachelor of Arts
Before the third semester begins: 12 s.h. of course work in the major
Before the fifth semester begins: 24-32 s.h. of course work in the major
Before the seventh semester begins: 36-48 s.h. of course work in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
Before the eighth semester begins: 42-50 s.h. of course work in the major
During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Bachelor of Fine Arts
Before the third semester begins: 16 s.h. of course work in the major
Before the fifth semester begins: 25-40 s.h. of course work in the major
Before the seventh semester begins: 45-60 s.h. of course work in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
Before the eighth semester begins: 57-75 s.h. of course work in the major
During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major
Students majoring in dance have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. The honors program in dance serves and recognizes outstanding students in choreography, performance, and special projects. Departmental honors students must have a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in UI dance department courses. To graduate with honors in the major, students must complete 8-10 s.h. of honors work, taking two courses for honors credit and completing an honors project. All honors projects must be approved by the dance department faculty.

Honors students in dance must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Minor
The minor in dance requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in University of Iowa Department of Dance courses, including 12 s.h. in courses considered advanced for the minor. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Students must audition on campus in order to be admitted to the minor and for placement in dance classes. Auditions are held four times each year. Contact the Department of Dance for more information.

The minor requires the following course work.
DANC:2060 (137:080) Dance and Society in Global Contexts 3 s.h.
Advanced dance courses 12 s.h.
The advanced dance courses must include at least one of these:
DANC:1150 (137:057) Brazilian Culture and Carnival 3 s.h.
DANC:2050 (137:134) Improvisation I 2 s.h.
DANC:3085 (137:174) Introduction to Afro-Cuban Dance 1 s.h.
DANC:3850 (137:160) Introduction to Laban Movement Studies 2-3 s.h.
Students may choose their remaining advanced dance courses from these:

- DANC:3030 (137:103) Major Ballet I
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:3039 (137:137) Partnering Class
  - 1 s.h.
- DANC:3040 (137:104) Major Modern Dance I
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:3060 (137:181) Dance History
  - 3 s.h.
- DANC:3070 (137:147) Dance Kinesiology
  - 3 s.h.
- DANC:3086 (137:175) Afro-Cuban Drum and Dance Performance
  - 1 s.h.
- DANC:3521 (137:165) Acting for Singers and for Dancers
  - 2 s.h.
- DANC:3530 (137:113) Major Ballet II
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:3540 (137:114) Major Modern Dance II
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:4030 (137:123) Major Ballet III
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:4035 (137:133) Ballet Pointe II
  - 1-2 s.h.
- DANC:4040 (137:124) Major Modern Dance III
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:4540 (137:130) Major Modern Dance IV
  - 1-2 s.h.
- DANC:4880 (137:106) Dance Performance
  - 0-1 s.h.

Graduate Program of Study

- Master of Fine Arts in dance

The Master of Fine Arts is offered with a choice of choreography emphasis or performance emphasis. Students must audition on campus in order to be admitted to the M.F.A. program.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate College section of the Catalog.

Master of Fine Arts

The Master of Fine Arts program in dance requires a minimum of 60 s.h. of graduate credit. The program is designed to be completed in four to six semesters in residence. Students who demonstrate accomplishment in dance performance and/or choreography may apply for admission to the M.F.A. program. Applicants select the choreography or the performance emphasis before they are admitted.

Admission is based on a review of videotaped choreographic and performance work; letters of recommendation; application materials; and an on-campus audition, in which applicants perform a solo dance, teach one or more classes, and take advanced classes in ballet and modern technique to determine class placement level.

Advanced technique (ballet and/or modern) and demonstrated accomplishment in performance or choreography are prerequisites for admission to the M.F.A. program.

The M.F.A. requires the following course work.

DANCE CORE

A total of 19 s.h. of core course work is required for both the performance emphasis and the choreography emphasis.

One of these:

- DANC:4535 (137:143) Elementary Ballet Pedagogy
  - 3 s.h.

DANC:4545 (137:144) Teaching of Modern Dance

One of these:

- DANC:5050 (137:234) Graduate Improvisation I
  - 1-2 s.h.
- DANC:6050 (137:235) Graduate Improvisation II
  - 2 s.h.

All of these:

- DANC:5060 (137:202) Theories of Dance and the Body
  - 3 s.h.
- DANC:6060 (137:200) Graduate Seminar in Dance
  - 2 s.h.
- DANC:6080 (137:201) Graduate Production Practicum
  - 1 s.h.
- DANC:7990 (137:277) Thesis (8 s.h. required)
  - arr.

DANCE TECHNIQUE

The performance emphasis requires 18 s.h. from the following, and the choreography emphasis requires 12 s.h. All of these courses may be repeated.

DANCE TECHNIQUE

- DANC:3030 (137:103) Major Ballet I
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:3040 (137:104) Major Modern Dance I
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:5530 (137:213) Graduate Majors Ballet II
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:5540 (137:214) Graduate Majors Modern II
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:6030 (137:223) Graduate Majors Ballet III
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:6040 (137:224) Graduate Majors Modern III
  - 1-3 s.h.
- DANC:6540 (137:230) Graduate Major Modern IV
  - 1-2 s.h.
- DANC:7550 (137:231) Graduate Modern Dance Technique Practicum
  - arr.
- DANC:7560 (137:222) Graduate Ballet Technique Practicum
  - arr.

EMPHASIS COURSES

A total of 14 s.h. is required for both the choreography emphasis and the performance emphasis.

Choreography Emphasis

Both of these:

- DANC:6880 (137:206) Graduate Dance Performance (1 s.h. each performance)
  - 2 s.h.
- DANC:6990 (137:274) Graduate Independent Choreography (1 s.h. each project)
  - 4 s.h.

All of these:

- DANC:5550 (137:275) Collaborative Performance
  - 4 s.h.
- DANC:6350 (137:272) Graduate Choreography III
  - 2 s.h.
- DANC:6450 (137:273) Graduate Choreography IV
  - 2 s.h.

Performance Emphasis

All of these (total of at least 12 s.h.):

- DANC:3885 (137:107) Repertory Dance Company (up to 4 s.h. per year)
  - 0-8 s.h.
DANC:6880 (137:206) Graduate Dance Performance (1 s.h. each performance) 4-12 s.h.
DANC:6992 (137:269) Graduate Independent Performance Project

One of these:
DANC:6990 (137:274) Graduate Independent Choreography (1 s.h. each project) 2 s.h.
DANC:6992 (137:269) Graduate Independent Performance Project

A course from the choreography sequence 2 s.h.

ELECTIVES
M.F.A. candidates in performance must earn a total of 9 s.h. in elective courses numbered 3000 or above. A minimum of 6 s.h. must be earned in non-dance department courses. The remaining 3 s.h. must be earned in DANC:3070 (137:147) Dance Kinesiology, DANC:3060 (137:181) Dance History, or DANC:4060 (137:182) The Contemporary Dance Scene.

M.F.A. candidates in choreography must earn a total of 15 s.h. in elective courses numbered 3000 or above. A minimum of 6 s.h. must be earned in non-dance department courses; 6 s.h. must be earned in a course or courses that provide research material for the thesis. The remaining 3 s.h. must be earned in DANC:3070 (137:147) Dance Kinesiology, DANC:3060 (137:181) Dance History, or DANC:4060 (137:182) The Contemporary Dance Scene.

Facilities
The Department of Dance houses six technique studios, a movement training lab, a media classroom and library, a media laboratory, an audio recording laboratory, and its own theater for dance concerts.

Courses
Lower-Level Undergraduate

DANC:1000 (137:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

DANC:1010 (137:001) Beginning Tap 1-2 s.h.
Elementary techniques, steps, and performance skills for rhythm and show tap styles; enhancement of rhythmic ability through exercises, improvisation, creative activities; may include history of tap. Tap shoes required. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:1020 (137:002) Beginning Jazz 1-2 s.h.
Basic movement fundamentals, terminology, performance skills of jazz dance; enhancement of flexibility, strength, body alignment, coordination, balance, kinesthetic awareness, personal range of motion, and musicality; warm-up, locomotion, center combinations; may include history of jazz dance. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:1030 (137:003) Beginning Ballet 1-2 s.h.
Basic movement fundamentals, terminology, performance skills of ballet; enhancement of flexibility, strength, body alignment, coordination, balance, kinesthetic awareness, personal range of motion, and musicality; barre and center combinations; terminology; may include history of ballet. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:1040 (137:004) Beginning Modern Dance 1-2 s.h.
Basic movement fundamentals, terminology, performance skills of modern dance; enhancement of flexibility, strength, body alignment, coordination, balance, kinesthetic awareness, personal range of motion, and musicality; warm-up, locomotion, center combinations; may include history of modern dance. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:1050 (137:034) Beginning/Contact Improvisation 1-2 s.h.
Concepts of dance improvisation and contact improvisation; cultivation of creative freedom through the use and invention of movement; range of expression broadened through personal movement capacity, spontaneity and imagination, ability to make and commit to movement choices; new approaches to moving and movement elements such as time, space, motion, qualities, dynamics; shared weight, support, counter-balancing, elementary partnering; studio course.

DANC:1060 (137:040) Introduction to Dance Studies 1 s.h.
Introduction to dance studies in the liberal arts; breadth and diversity of contemporary scholarship on dance; dance history, criticism, ethnography, theory, conditioning and injury prevention, improvisation, choreography, technology.

DANC:1070 (137:047) Topics in Body Conditioning 2 s.h.
Somatic training techniques that address conditioning needs of dancers—yoga for dancers, pilates, release techniques; other somatic studies related to injury prevention, concentration, flexibility, efficient movement, strength training.

DANC:1080 (137:060) Music Essentials for Dance 2 s.h.
Evolution of music and dance from prehistoric times to the present; rhythmic analysis and fundamental music theory for dance students.

DANC:1090 (137:050) Dance Production 3 s.h.
Scenic design, costuming, lighting, audio/video, publicity; visits by professional guest lecturers, field trips to creative shops; projects.

DANC:1110 (137:011) Continuing Tap 1-2 s.h.
DANC:1120 (137:012) Continuing Jazz  1-2 s.h.
Continuation of DANC:1020 (137:002); skills for technique and performance of jazz dance; enhancement of flexibility, strength, body alignment, coordination, balance, kinesthetic awareness, personal range of motion, and musicality; warm-up, locomotion, center combinations; may include history of jazz dance. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:1130 (137:013) Continuing Ballet  1-2 s.h.
Continuation of DANC:1030 (137:003); skills necessary for technique and performance of ballet; enhancement of flexibility, strength, body alignment, coordination, balance, kinesthetic awareness, personal range of motion, and musicality; barre and center combinations; terminology; may include history of ballet. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:1140 (137:014) Continuing Modern Dance  1-2 s.h.
Continuation of DANC:1040 (137:004); skills necessary for the technique and performance of modern dance; enhancement of flexibility, strength, body alignment, coordination, balance, kinesthetic awareness, personal range of motion, and musicality; warm-up, locomotion, center combinations; may include history of modern dance. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:1150 (137:057) Brazilian Culture and Carnival  3 s.h.
Dance, music, historical, and social contents of Brazilian Carnival production, critical theories of performance, religious backgrounds, and theatre making in carnival parades. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.

DANC:1412 (137:052) The Arts in Performance  3 s.h.

DANC:2050 (137:134) Improvisation I  2 s.h.
Introduction to movement as research; experimental process as vehicle for invention, creative freedom, aesthetic range; development of kinesthetic imagination, awareness, creative problem solving; introduction to issues of artistic originality and authenticity; practical integration of improvisation and composition through spontaneous manipulation of time, space, and energy; knowledge of creative process supported by reading and individual research.

DANC:2060 (137:080) Dance and Society in Global Contexts  3 s.h.
Dance and other physical endeavors as embodied forms of knowledge and culture; U.S. dance practices; European and African dance cultures; aesthetic and political issues raised by concert dance (i.e., performance, choreography, spectatorship, criticism); ethnomusicological methods to examine the function of dance in cultural formation (i.e., spiritual, celebratory, social, political contexts); lecture, discussion, viewing, movement workshops, formal and informal writing, field research, and BLOG construction. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts. Same as DPA:2060 (188:080).

DANC:2070 (137:081) Ethnic Dance in a Global Society  3 s.h.
Investigation of why humans dance; dance, like language, as an expression of the human condition, joys, sorrows, love, fighting spirit, and joyous celebrations we all experience; diverse ways of expressing life through dance from one society to another due to varying histories; how individual's culture and geographic area affect ways of moving; discovering what we have in common with our dancing neighbors; when we understand the dance, we understand more about the person/country; recognizing a common link through the language of dance.

DANC:2080 (137:082) Dance and Social Action  3 s.h.
Exploration of dance as a means for civic engagement; readings that support theory and practice of dance as social action; practicum experience of facilitating a workshop to girls at the Iowa Juvenile Home.

DANC:2220 (137:051) Production Run Crew  1-2 s.h.
Hands-on experience in production work for live dance performance. Prerequisites: DANC:1090 (137:050).

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

DANC:3030 (137:103) Major Ballet I  1-3 s.h.
Builds on DANC:2030 (137:023); intermediate technical and performance training in ballet; flexibility, strength, body alignment, and coordination as foundation for introduction of more advanced aspects of dance artistry, including steps, musicality, mobility, balance; terminology related to barre and center vocabulary, including steps, head, body, and arm positions; practice of steps and combinations, variations in timing, changes of facing.
DANC:3034 (137:139) Acting for Dancers 3 s.h.
Beginning acting for dancers; spontaneity and expression, sources of action and reaction through theater games; emotional journey in effective drama and comedy; drama, comic structure, and tension through character and script analysis.

DANC:3039 (137:137) Partnering Class 1 s.h.
The art of partnering in dance, from salsa to Swan Lake; power sharing on the dance floor, including supported poses, balance, musical and physical timing, unity of movement, eloquence of gesture; for advanced dancers with strong coordination skills.

DANC:3040 (137:104) Major Modern Dance I 1-3 s.h.
Builds on DANC:2040 (137:024); intermediate technical and performance training in modern dance; physical and mental skills for transition to more advanced dance—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing; basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement; assimilation of new movement material; center of gravity and its role in body mobilization and control; personal movement choices, and expressive range.

DANC:3050 (137:101) Body/Image: Dance Discourse and Practice 2 s.h.
Intersection of body, image, and sound in analog and digital media; relationship to critical and practical texts; written and performative assignments that address fundamental concepts of corporeality in related fields including dance for camera, stage and film performance, and artistic, documentary, and publicity filmmaking and photography.

DANC:3060 (137:181) Dance History 3 s.h.
Dance history in the 19th and 20th centuries; changes in dance training and technique, theory, composition, performance practices in context of broader social, political, and cultural trends; how dance and choreographic practices have changed over time, relationships between social ideas about embodiment and production of dance forms, precedents for contemporary dance practices in past forms. Prerequisites: DANC:2060 (137:080).

DANC:3070 (137:147) Dance Kinesiology 3 s.h.
Body science related to demands of dance; structural and muscular analysis for efficient, effective dance training and prevention of injuries; investigation of skeletal and ligamentous structure for working knowledge of how the body produces movement; joint actions and restrictions, common injuries to those sites; attachments of the voluntary muscles, pathways and potential actions; neuromuscular analysis of an action; functional skeletal alignment; how individual differences may affect movement performance. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053). Same as THTR:3070 (049:108).

DANC:3075 (137:155) Yoga Teacher Training 3 s.h.
Expansion of yoga and/or teaching knowledge; in-depth physical practice of yoga postures; basic yoga philosophy and texts; personal practice of meditation; yoga for various populations; anatomy of yoga postures; practice teaching within class structure. Corequisites: DANC:3070 (137:147). Requirements: dance major and sophomore or higher standing. Recommendations: previous experience taking yoga classes.

DANC:3085 (137:174) Introduction to Afro-Cuban Dance 1 s.h.
Introduction to the dance, drumming, and songs of the Afro-Cuban folkloric traditions; emphasis on dance. May participate in UI Afro-Cuban Drum and Dance ensemble. Same as DPA:3085 (188:174).

DANC:3086 (137:175) Afro-Cuban Drum and Dance Performance 1 s.h.
Dance repertory for the UI Afro-Cuban Drum and Dance Ensemble. Performance pieces based on dance, drumming, songs of the Afro-Cuban folkloric traditions. May participate in UI Afro-Cuban Drum and Dance Ensemble. Same as DPA:3086 (188:175).

DANC:3150 (137:070) Choreography I 2 s.h.
Introduction to theories and practices of creating choreography; locating varied sources for movement; elementary considerations of choreographic form; development of ideas, impulses, and initial inspirations into short works; fundamentals of giving and receiving critical feedback; articulation of thoughts and experience as composers and watchers of choreography; exposure to choreographic concerns supported by video and reading.

DANC:3190 (137:126) Lighting for Dance and Entertainment 3 s.h.
How to research, conceptualize, and express ideas through light plots; design paperwork; dance lighting design projects.

DANC:3250 (137:071) Choreography II 2 s.h.
Continuation of DANC:3150 (137:070); development of intermediate choreographic skills; emphasis on cultivation of individual choreographic voice through expansion of vocabulary, discovery of complex ways to form and arrange, and use of widening range of methods and types of resources.

DANC:3521 (137:165) Acting for Singers and for Dancers 2 s.h.
Fundamentals of acting technique, with attention to demands on performers in opera, musical theater, and dance. Same as MUS:3521 (025:175), THTR:3521 (049:102).

DANC:3530 (137:113) Major Ballet II 1-3 s.h.
High intermediate training in ballet technique and performance; physical and mental skills necessary for more advanced work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body.

DANC:3540 (137:114) Major Modern Dance II 1-3 s.h.
High intermediate technical and performance training in modern dance; physical and mental skills necessary for more advanced work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body, consciousness of personal movement choices and expressive range.

DANC:3850 (137:160) Introduction to Laban Movement Studies
2-3 s.h.

Introduction to Bartenieff Fundamentals (BF) and Laban Movement Analysis (LMA) as methods of organizing and integrating movement to support artistic goals and expanding expressive range; BF teaches body awareness, breath support, developmental patterns, ergonomically-efficient alignment, balancing of muscular strength and stretch, and coordination; LMA teaches vocabulary of expressive movement and nonverbal communication, including effort (use of energy/dynamics for expression, stamina, stress relief) and shape (how posture and gesture communicate); quality of movement that supports individual goals in artistic expression, sound production, and wellness. Same as MUS:3850 (025:167), THTR:3850 (049:105), DPA:3850 (188:167).

DANC:3851 (137:173) Introduction to the Alexander Technique
3 s.h.

The Alexander Technique and "self-use"—how movement choices affect results achieved; improvement of physical skills and presence; principles in support of performing arts (e.g., speaking, singing, playing an instrument, dancing, acting); application to skills in daily life, addressing underpinnings of movement; physical participation (e.g., lying down, rolling, sitting, standing, locomotion). Same as DPA:3851 (188:168), MUS:3851 (025:176), THTR:3851 (049:170).

DANC:3885 (137:107) Repertory Dance Company
0-4 s.h.

Advanced repertory studies; learning and performing multiple works by professional guest artists, faculty, and invited graduate students; collaborative creation and performing in community outreach lecture-demonstration throughout Iowa and the region. Requirements: audition.

DANC:4030 (137:123) Major Ballet III
1-3 s.h.

Advanced training in ballet technique and performance; physical and mental skills necessary for professional work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body.

DANC:4035 (137:133) Ballet Pointe II
1-2 s.h.

Intermediate/advanced techniques and training for ballet pointe work; repetition and analysis of steps and combinations, assimilation of new material; barre and center exercises, pirouettes and turns commonly performed en pointe, learning and performing variations drawn from repertory.

DANC:4040 (137:124) Major Modern Dance III
1-3 s.h.

Advanced technical and performance training in modern dance; physical and mental skills necessary for professional work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body, consciousness of personal movement choices and expressive range; may include partnering exercises for investigation of weight exchange, timing, expressivity.

DANC:4050 (137:135) Improvisation II
2 s.h.

Advanced concepts in compositional improvisation; in-depth individual exploration, spontaneous ensemble composition; increasing authenticity, depth, and range; integrity in relating to the whole ensemble; connecting creative process to other bodies of knowledge; making contact with emerging premise; reading and discussion as integration of conceptual and experiential; speaking and writing as improvisational process. Prerequisites: DANC:2050 (137:134).

DANC:4060 (137:182) The Contemporary Dance Scene
3 s.h.

Historical, theoretical, and practical elements of contemporary dance; the term "postmodern" and its associations with dance, performing arts, contemporary culture; relationships between process and product, identity and subjectivity, artistic intent and authorship, meaning and intertextuality; possibility of art as a form of dissent; theory and practice placed in a dialectic; analysis and synthesis of previous research. Same as DPA:4060 (188:182).

DANC:4350 (137:170) Choreography III
2 s.h.

Continuation of DANC:3250 (137:071); increased emphasis on invention, clarity, sophistication, and development of complete works; creation of sharply defined mature movement worlds; increasingly thorough consideration of sources and methods, responsibility for applying course work to self-defined artistic concerns and emerging individual aesthetic; advanced theories and methods through video, reading, choreographic research.

DANC:4450 (137:171) Choreography IV
2 s.h.

Continuation of DANC:4350 (137:170); advanced theories and practices of choreography; complex concepts, methods, applications; analytical and creative connections with bodies of knowledge across the liberal arts and sciences; complete development of multiple works; advanced practice in critical feedback and articulation of ideas about process and product; development through reading, video, extensive creative research.

DANC:4535 (137:143) Elementary Ballet Pedagogy
3 s.h.

Methods, materials, concepts for teaching ballet techniques.

DANC:4540 (137:130) Major Modern Dance IV
1-2 s.h.

Professional technique and performance training in modern dance.

DANC:4545 (137:144) Teaching of Modern Dance
3 s.h.
Practices of teaching modern dance; information and experience for developing an individualized approach to teaching; educational methodology for defining essential elements of a modern class, approaches for planning and structuring classes.

DANC:4880 (137:106) Dance Performance 0-3 s.h.
Credit for rehearsal hours and performance of dance works in produced dance concerts. Requirements: audition and/or concert adjudication. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

DANC:4990 (137:190) Independent Study arr.
Credit for an individual student-designed project coordinated with a faculty advisor. Requirements: sophomore or higher standing.

DANC:4991 (137:172) Independent Choreography arr.
Credit for creation of independent choreographic project, developed under guidance of faculty advisor, that results in production of a dance work.

DANC:4995 (137:149) Honors Studies in Dance arr.
Choreography, performance, production, Labanotation, dance history, or pedagogy. Requirements: g.p.a. of 3.33 or higher.

DANC:4998 (137:141) BFA Senior Project in Dance arr.
Senior year choreographic/performance capstone to complete B.F.A. in dance under supervision of faculty advisor; culminates in public showing or produced concert. Requirements: admitted to B.F.A. program in dance and senior standing.

DANC:4999 (137:140) Honors Project in Dance arr.
Research, choreographic, reconstruction, or performance project under guidance of a faculty advisor. Requirements: senior standing.

Graduate

DANC:5050 (137:234) Graduate Improvisation I 1-2 s.h.
Dance improvisation.

DANC:5060 (137:202) Theories of Dance and the Body 3 s.h.
Theoretical trends in studies of dance and physical bodies; performative and choreographic aspects of being. Same as DPA:5060 (188:202).

DANC:5530 (137:213) Graduate Majors Ballet II 1-3 s.h.
High intermediate technique and performance training; physical and mental skills necessary for more advanced work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body.

DANC:5540 (137:214) Graduate Majors Modern II 1-3 s.h.
High intermediate technical and performance training in modern dance; physical and mental skills necessary for more advanced work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body, consciousness of personal movement choices and expressive range.

DANC:5550 (137:275) Collaborative Performance 1-4 s.h.
Collaborative experience with advanced artists from varied disciplines that culminates in a final performance; emphasis on sharing and investigating ideas, artistic intent, personal vision, and creating collaborative projects. Same as THTR:5610 (049:275), DPA:5550 (188:275).

DANC:6030 (137:223) Graduate Majors Ballet III 1-3 s.h.
Advanced ballet technique and performance training for proficient dancers; physical and mental skills necessary for professional work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, understanding of basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body.

DANC:6040 (137:224) Graduate Majors Modern III 1-3 s.h.
Advanced technical and performance training in modern dance; physical and mental skills necessary for professional work—physical stamina, strength, flexibility, articulation, coordination, musicality, phrasing, understanding of basic physical concepts underlying clear and efficient movement, capacity to assimilate new movement material, awareness of the center of gravity and its role in mobilization and control of the body, consciousness of personal movement choices and expressive range.

DANC:6050 (137:235) Graduate Improvisation II 2 s.h.
Advanced improvisation.

DANC:6060 (137:200) Graduate Seminar in Dance 2 s.h.
Research, careers, administrative, educational, professional, artistic topics.

DANC:6080 (137:201) Graduate Production Practicum 1 s.h.
Scenery and costume design, lighting, audio/video, publicity.

DANC:6350 (137:272) Graduate Choreography III 2 s.h.
Advanced choreographic concepts, methods, and applications with focus on the creative mind and choreographic process; concepts and experiences that support development of advanced choreographic skills and innovative dances.
DANC:6450 (137:273) Graduate Choreography IV
2 s.h.
Advanced choreography concepts, methods, applications.

DANC:6540 (137:230) Graduate Major Modern IV
1-2 s.h.
Professional technique and performance training in modern dance.

DANC:6880 (137:206) Graduate Dance Performance
0-3 s.h.
Credit for rehearsal hours and performance of dance works in produced dance concerts. Requirements: audition and/or concert adjudication.

DANC:6990 (137:274) Graduate Independent Choreography
arr.
Credit for creation of an independent choreographic project, developed under guidance of faculty advisor, that results in production of a dance work.

DANC:6991 (137:290) Graduate Independent Study
arr.
Credit for individually designed project coordinated with a faculty advisor.

DANC:6992 (137:269) Graduate Independent Performance Project
arr.
Credit for creative participation as a performer in a choreography project, developed under guidance of a faculty advisor, that results in the performance of a dance work.

DANC:7550 (137:231) Graduate Modern Dance Technique Practicum
arr.
Advanced, in-depth understanding of teaching dance technique at the college level; emphasis on studio practice of technique through active participation in technique class; individualized research on technical and pedagogical approaches to dance; class taken with a faculty member during student's teaching rotation to gain understanding of the teacher's pedagogical approach across three levels of the majors-level technique curriculum. Requirements: completion of one semester of MFA program and good standing.

DANC:7560 (137:222) Graduate Ballet Technique Practicum
arr.
Advanced, in-depth understanding of teaching dance technique at the college level; emphasis on studio practice of technique through active participation in technique class; individualized research on technical and pedagogical approaches to dance; class taken with a faculty member during student's teaching rotation to gain understanding of the teacher's pedagogical approach across three levels of the majors-level technique curriculum. Requirements: completion of one semester of MFA program and good standing.

Disability Studies

Coordinator

• Kenneth E. Mobily

Undergraduate certificate: disability studies

Disability studies examines disability as a social, cultural, historical, and political phenomenon rather than focusing on its clinical, medical, or therapeutic aspects. It is an interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary field that draws on scholarship from diverse disciplines, including anthropology, architecture, the arts, communication and media studies, cultural studies, economics, gender studies, geography, global studies, history, law, literature, medicine, nursing, philosophy, policy studies, political science, religious studies, social work, and sociology.

Its multidisciplinary nature makes disability studies a good complement to a broad range of undergraduate majors.

The certificate program in disability studies is administered by the Department of Health and Human Physiology (p. 359).

Undergraduate Program of Study

• Certificate in Disability Studies

Certificate

The Certificate in Disability Studies requires a minimum of 19 s.h. of credit. The certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor's degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate. Completion of the certificate is noted on the student's transcript.

The certificate program helps students expand their knowledge and awareness of disability issues and prepare for careers in public life. Students who complete the certificate develop:

• understanding of the history of disabilities in America;
• awareness of how culture and society define disability;
• the ability to interact with individuals from diverse backgrounds;
• a personal philosophy of treating people fairly, equitably, and thoughtfully; and
• greater understanding of and concern with public policy issues and active citizenship.

The Certificate in Disability Studies requires the following course work.

CORE COURSES

Students earn 10-12 s.h. by taking the following four core courses.

All of these:

DST:3101 (219:101) Introduction to Disability Studies 3 s.h.
EDTL:4967 (07U:167) Diversity, Career Exploration, and Transition I 1-3 s.h.
HIST:4203 (16A:106) Disability in American History 3 s.h.

And one of these:

EDTL:4940 (07U:140) Characteristics of Disabilities 3 s.h.
LEIS:3162 (169:162) Therapeutic Recreation: Clientele 3 s.h.

FOCUSED ELECTIVES

Students earn a minimum of 9 s.h. in focused electives, which they select from courses in at least two of the following lists (maximum of 6 s.h. from any one list). They may count a maximum of 3 s.h. earned in courses numbered below 3000 toward this requirement.

Aging Studies

ASP:3135 (153:135) Global Aging 3 s.h.
ASP:3150 (153:150)/PSY:2915 (031:050) Psychology of Aging 3 s.h.
ASP:4165 (153:165) Communication Disorders and Aging 2 s.h.

American Sign Language

ASL:3200 (158:101) Topics in Deaf Studies 3 s.h.
ASL:3300 (158:102) American Deaf Culture 3 s.h.
ASL:3400 (158:104) Issues in ASL and Deaf Studies 3 s.h.
ASL:3500 (158:105) Deafness in the Media 3 s.h.
ASL:3600 (158:103) American Sign Language Literature 3 s.h.
ASL:4201 (158:100) History of the American Deaf Community 3-4 s.h.
ASL:3905 (158:110) Teaching Deaf and Hard of Hearing Students 3-4 s.h.

American Studies

AMST:2025 (045:025) Diversity and American Identities 3 s.h.

Anthropology

ANTH:3102 (113:185) Medical Anthropology 3 s.h.

Communication Sciences and Disorders

CSD:1015 (003:015) Introduction to Speech and Hearing Processes and Disorders 2 s.h.
CSD:3185 (003:185) Hearing Loss and Audiology 3 s.h.
CSD:4145 (003:145) Developmental Speech and Language Disorders 3 s.h.
CSD:4147 (003:147) Neurogenic Disorders of Speech 2 s.h.
CSD:4165 (003:165) Communication Disorders and Aging 2 s.h.
CSD:5206 (003:206) Language Disorders: Birth to Five Years 3 s.h.
CSD:5233 (003:233) Aphasia 2 s.h.
CSD:5303 (003:303) Evidence Based/ Emerging Practices in Communication/Social Interaction for Individuals with Autism 1 s.h.

DST:3101 (219:101) Introduction to Disability Studies

3 s.h.

- Influence of social issues (e.g., diversity, equity) on human services; values, beliefs, lifestyles, and attitudes of individuals and diverse groups found in a pluralistic society; recognition of dehumanizing biases and their impact on interpersonal relations; translation of knowledge of culture into attitudes, skills, and techniques that result in favorable experiences for human services consumers; recognition of ways in which dehumanizing biases may be reflected in everyday encounters and understanding how these interactions may influence populations served by human service practitioners.

DST:3102 (219:102) Culture and Community in Human Services

3 s.h.

- Influence of social issues (e.g., diversity, equity) on human services; values, beliefs, lifestyles, and attitudes of individuals and diverse groups found in a pluralistic society; recognition of dehumanizing biases and their impact on interpersonal relations; translation of knowledge of culture into attitudes, skills, and techniques that result in favorable experiences for human services consumers; recognition of ways in which dehumanizing biases may be reflected in everyday encounters and understanding how these interactions may influence populations served by human service practitioners.
Division of Performing Arts

Director

• Alan MacVey

Undergraduate certificate: performing arts entrepreneurship
Web site: http://dpa.uiowa.edu/

The Division of Performing Arts includes the Department of Dance (p. 222), the School of Music (p. 488), and the Department of Theatre Arts (p. 640). The division fosters interdisciplinary collaboration among these units, coordinates artistic and academic activities, and sponsors a full array of performances and symposia. Performances are supported by professional staff in the division's Performing Arts Production Unit.

Each of the division's individual academic units offers undergraduate and graduate courses and degree programs in creative, performance, scholarly, and theoretical areas. Together they present an extensive schedule of dance productions, faculty and student recitals, ensemble concerts, and mainstage and gallery theater productions.

The division offers the undergraduate Certificate in Performing Arts Entrepreneurship in partnership with the John Pappajohn Entrepreneurial Center (Tippie College of Business). The certificate program combines courses in accounting, marketing, and financial management with those focused on arts management and leadership practices in commercial as well as nonprofit arts organizations. See Performing Arts Entrepreneurship (p. 512) in the Catalog.

The division also is home to an arts outreach program, Arts Share.

For information about the division and its programs and events, visit the Division of Performing Arts web site.
Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures

Director
• Russell Ganim

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/dwlcc/

The Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures includes several academic units: the Departments of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures, French and Italian, German, and Spanish and Portuguese and the American Sign Language, Comparative Literature, Second Language Acquisition, and Translation Programs. In addition to providing administrative leadership for all of its units, the division fosters interdisciplinary scholarship in languages, literatures, and cultures. It encourages synergy and collaboration among its faculty members and enhances opportunities for cross-cultural course development and research.

Undergraduate and graduate programs in the division serve students with varied interests and career aspirations, educating them to become global citizens who understand and are understood by diverse populations. Students are trained to be critical thinkers and problem solvers, capable scholars, lucid writers, and proficient speakers.

The division offers instruction in a wide array of languages and in the cultures associated with them:

- American Sign Language (p. 40) Program: American Sign Language and deaf studies;
- Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures (p. 102): Chinese, Czech, Hindi, Japanese, Korean, Russian, Sanskrit;
- Department of French and Italian (p. 300): Arabic, French, Italian, Swahili;
- Department of German (p. 347): German; and
- Department of Spanish and Portuguese (p. 609): Portuguese, Spanish

In addition to providing language instruction, the division focuses on theoretical and applied linguistics; non-Anglophone literatures and cultures, including those of bilingual, deaf, postcolonial, and heritage communities; and aesthetics, cultural theory, and creative writing in languages other than English.

The division’s Second Language Acquisition (p. 580) Program brings multidisciplinary resources together to examine the processes that underlie non-native-language learning. The Translation (p. 651) Program explores the literary, cultural, and historical contexts of work and their linguistic, aesthetic, and ideological dimensions while it builds skills for translating works from one language to another. The Comparative Literature (p. 199) Program addresses culture across regions and languages in relation to literature, social theory and philosophy, history, and other disciplines.

The division also administers the Language Media Center, which provides facilities for traditional language laboratory work as well as for language video and computer-based activities. The center sponsors a multimedia development studio, where faculty members and graduate students produce and test media-based materials for language instruction.

Courses

World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures, Lower-Level Undergraduate

WLLC:1100 (218:050) Contraception Across Time and Cultures 3 s.h.
Methods and history of contraception and abortion; issues of unwanted pregnancy and birth control in fiction, film, and media around the world. Same as GHS:1100 (152:030).

WLLC:1355 (218:005) Approaches to Global Cultural Studies 3 s.h.
Framework for thinking about global perspectives on culture; examination of themes within a transnational context; analysis of cultural expression from national and linguistic contexts.

WLLC:2550 (218:070) Mardi Gras and More: Cultures of Carnival 3-4 s.h.
Literature and customs associated with carnival from antiquity through present day; readings on theories of carnivalesque (Mikhail Bakhtin, Peter Burke, and others); materials from three distinct carnival cultures—Renaissance Europe (Francois Rabelais, German carnival plays), 19th-century New Orleans, and present day Rio de Janeiro. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.

World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

WLLC:3185 (218:185) Global Women’s Cinema 3 s.h.
Introduction to contemporary women's cinema and feminist filmmaking from around the world; emphasis on post-1968 period and cinema produced outside the United States. Same as GWSS:3185 (131:185), CINE:3185 (048:185).

WLLC:3191 (218:191) International Literature Today 1.3 s.h.
English majors may apply this course to the following area and/or period requirement. AREA: Transnational Literature and Postcolonial Studies. PERIOD: 20th/21st-Century Literature. Same as ENGL:3595 (008:191), IWP:3191 (181:191).

WLLC:3700 (218:160) Topics in Global Cinema 3 s.h.
Identification of new models and methods to investigate cinema’s relationship to current global issues beyond traditional scholarly focus in Western Europe and the United States; exploration of an emerging field, moving away from the paradigm of national cinema and bringing together shared theoretical frameworks while acknowledging different historical and cultural contexts. Same as JPNS:3700 (39J:162), ASIA:3700 (039:164).
WLLC:3834 (218:165) Arab Spring in Context: Media, Religion, and Geopolitics
3 s.h.
Protest movements that started in Tunisia in 2011 and swept across North Africa and the Middle East transforming Arab and Islamic societies in radically different ways; function of social media, satellite television, communication technology; influence of religious leaders and groups on some protest outcomes; impact of wealth and geopolitics on social fabric of Islamic societies within and outside Arab countries. Requirements: for COMM:3834 (036:129) — g.p.a. of at least 2.50, completion of Foundations of Communication requirement, and 6 s.h. of intermediate-level course work. Same as RELS:3834 (032:134), IS:3834 (187:126), JMC:3146 (019:146), COMM:3834 (036:129).

WLLC:4512 (218:172) Topics in Global and Transnational Culture
3-4 s.h.
In-depth look at a theme in cultural expression arising from interactions between countries and regions; focus on contemporary or historical issues; use of materials ranging from literature and the visual arts to music, mass media, and more; general processes through which cultures are formed in mutual and uneven relationships; research project. Recommendations: completion of an international and global issues GE course. Same as GRMN:4512 (013:172), ARAB:4512 (195:172).

WLLC:4800 (218:195) Topics in Global and Transnational Culture
arr.
In-depth look at a theme in cultural expression arising from interactions between countries and regions; focus on contemporary or historical issues; material from literature, visual arts, music, mass media, and more; general process through which cultures are formed in mutual and uneven relationships; original research project. Requirements: a general education course in international and global issues.

World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures, Graduate

WLLC:5000 (218:200) Teaching and Learning Languages
3 s.h.
Readings in pedagogical theory and practice, second language acquisition; experience designing activities for teaching and assessment with critiques based on current theories and approaches; development of reflective practices toward one’s language teaching. Same as SLA:5000 (164:200).

WLLC:6320 (218:210) Topics in Contemporary Critical Theory
3 s.h.
Focused discussion of critical discourses and paradigms that have contributed to development of contemporary literary and cultural theory.

Translation, Lower-Level Undergraduate

TRNS:1017 (218:017) Workshop in Literary Magazine Publishing
2 s.h.
Hands-on introduction to literary magazine publishing; major differences between print and digital publishing; the processes of design, layout, soliciting work, editing copy, proofing, promotion, and distribution; University of Iowa and Iowa City community resources; editors and writers share their expertise through a series of informal question-and-answer sessions and task-based assignments.

TRNS:1018 (218:018) Workshop in Literary Review Writing
2 s.h.
Hands-on introduction to literary review; process of selecting books (poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction) for review; writing, revising, and submission of work; University of Iowa and Iowa City community resources; editors and writers share their expertise through a series of informal question-and-answer sessions and task-based assignments.

TRNS:2179 (218:079) Undergraduate Translation Workshop
3 s.h.
Translation exercises, discussion of translation works in progress; alternative strategies for translation projects. Requirements: working knowledge of a language other than English. Same as ENGL:2810 (08W:079).

TRNS:2499 (218:078) Undergraduate Translation Seminar
3 s.h.
Translation studies for undergraduates; topics related to practice of literary translation.

Translation, Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

TRNS:3201 (218:130) Workshop in Japanese Literary Translation
3 s.h.

TRNS:3202 (218:131) Workshop in Chinese Literary Translation
3 s.h.
Translation from Chinese to English with emphasis on literary translation; issues in theory and practice of translation; special features of Chinese as a source language for translation. Prerequisites: CHIN:3102 (039:116). Same as CHIN:3201 (039:143).

TRNS:3480 (218:180) Literature and Translation
3 s.h.
Translation in the broadest sense; originality, authority, authorship, accuracy, ownership; audience; issues problematizing differences between medium and message. Same as SLAV:3480 (041:180), PORO:3480 (160:180).

TRNS:4481 (218:181) Introduction to Computer-Assisted Translation
1 s.h.
Translation memory, terminology management, multimodal translation, and project management to increase proficiency in a range of technological skills; evolving translation technologies emphasize learning skills required to employ tools of today and effectively learn to use those of tomorrow; use of translation technology in freelance and agency settings from document receipt through delivery. Requirements: completion of General Education Program rhetoric and interpretation of literature requirements.

TRNS:4497 (218:197) Techniques of Translation
3 s.h.
Prerequisites: FREN:3300 (009:112). Same as FREN:4890 (009:197).

Translation, Graduate

TRNS:5205 (218:205) International Translation Workshop
1-3 s.h.
International writers pair with University of Iowa translators to write new works of poetry and fiction in English; second-language fluency not required for international writers. Same as IWP:5205 (181:205).

TRNS:5491 (218:291) Translation Internship
arr.

TRNS:6050 (218:299) Independent Study
arr.

TRNS:6400 (218:240) Thesis
arr.
Translation thesis with critical introduction.

TRNS:6459 (218:259) Issues in Translation
3 s.h.
Contemporary and historical theories.

TRNS:7460 (218:260) Translation Workshop
4 s.h.
Requirements: at least one foreign language. Same as IWP:7460 (181:260).

Undergraduate major: geoscience (B.A., B.S.)
Undergraduate minor: geoscience
Graduate degrees: M.S. in geoscience; Ph.D. in geoscience
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/ees/

Faculty and students in the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences study the physical, chemical, and biological systems of Earth. Using modern observational, analytical, and computational methods, they examine how the planet's interior, surface, hydrosphere, and atmosphere have evolved since Earth was born in the solar system 4.6 billion years ago. Topics commonly studied in the department include how plate movements cause earthquakes, volcanoes, and mountain building; global climate change and how climate change and catastrophic events cause changes in biodiversity; how and where economic resources are generated on Earth; and how these resources are located and used in modern society.

The earth and environmental sciences curriculum provides students with hands-on experience analyzing rocks, minerals, fossils, soils, and waters, generally in a small classroom setting. Much of this experience is obtained in laboratory and field courses. Field courses include travel to other states or countries to view Earth's materials and fossils in the context of their natural surroundings.

The master's degree in geoscience is regarded by most hiring agencies as the working degree, but an undergraduate degree is fully satisfactory in certain teaching, government, and industry situations. The doctoral degree is required for college and university faculty positions and for some research positions in industry.

Many of The University of Iowa's geoscience graduates find employment with resource companies, environmental corporations, and educational institutions. Others continue in graduate school or take jobs with government or conservation agencies. Some intend to enter law, business, or fields such as urban planning, environmental studies, engineering, archaeology, science education, or oceanography as advanced areas. Geoscience provides skills useful for all of these fields.

The department offers a variety of courses appropriate for nonmajors, including several approved for the Natural Sciences requirement of the General Education Program (p. 323); see "Courses for Nonmajors" below.

Many of the department's faculty members are involved in the interdisciplinary Environmental Sciences (p. 288) Program, and a number of the department's courses satisfy requirements of the Certificate in Sustainability (p. 1304).

Undergraduate Programs of Study

• Major in geoscience (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science)
• Minor in geoscience

Students majoring in geoscience take at least an academic year's work in three allied scientific areas—physics, chemistry, and mathematics—and a semester of biology in addition to a course in each major area of geology.

Geoscience students may elect to pursue an additional major or a minor in a related discipline, usually chemistry, physics, biology, engineering, environmental sciences, or anthropology. See Majors, Minors & Certificates under For Students on the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences web site.

Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Science with a major in geoscience requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 70 s.h. (19 courses) of work for the major (39 s.h. in earth and environmental sciences courses and at least 31 s.h. in supporting disciplines). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Transfer students must complete a minimum of 15 s.h. of course work in the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences.

The geoscience major for the B.S. is designed to prepare students for immediate employment after graduation or to enter a graduate program in geology.

The department recommends that students fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement with French, German, Russian, or Spanish and the Social Sciences requirement with approved course work in economics, geography, or anthropology.

The geoscience major for the Bachelor of Science requires the following course work.

EARTH AND ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

One of these:

- EES:1030 (012:003) Introduction to Earth Science 4 s.h.
- EES:1050 (012:005) Introduction to Geology (preferred) 4 s.h.

All of these:

- EES:1040 (012:004) Evolution and the History of Life 4 s.h.
- EES:2410 (012:041) Mineralogy 4 s.h.
- EES:3300 (012:130) Sedimentary Geology 4 s.h.
- EES:3500 (012:150) Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology 4 s.h.
- EES:3840 (012:132) Structural Geology 4 s.h.
- EES:4831 (012:112) Geologic Field Methods 3 s.h.
- EES:4832 (012:113) Geologic Field Analysis 3 s.h.

At least two geoscience electives (see "Recommended Electives" below) 6-7 s.h.

One of these:

- EES:3210 (012:121) Principles of Paleontology 3 s.h.
- EES:4490 (012:149) Elements of Geochemistry 3 s.h.
- EES:4630 (012:166) Hydrogeology 3 s.h.
- EES:4790 (012:179) Engineering Geology 3 s.h.
- EES:4870 (012:178) Applied Geostatistics 3 s.h.

MATHEMATICS

At least 8 s.h. of calculus, including one of these:

- MATH:1560 (22M:032) Engineering Mathematics II: Multivariable Calculus 4 s.h.
- MATH:1860 (22M:026) Calculus II 4 s.h.

And:

An additional course in mathematics, computer science, or statistics numbered MATH:2700 (22M:207) or above, or CS:1110 (22C:005) or above, or STAT:2010 (22S:030) or above

CHEMISTRY

B.S. students must complete at least 8 s.h. of college-level chemistry, including the following sequence or equivalent courses or more advanced courses. Chemistry courses numbered below CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I do not count toward this requirement.

- CHEM:1110 (004:011) & CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry I-II 8 s.h.

PHYSICS

B.S. students must complete at least 8 s.h. of college-level physics, as follows. Physics courses numbered below PHYS:1511 (029:011) College Physics I do not count toward this requirement.

One of these sequences:

- PHYS:1511 (029:011)-PHYS:1512 (029:012) 8 s.h. College Physics I-II
- PHYS:1611 (029:081)-PHYS:1612 (029:082) 8 s.h. Introductory Physics I-II

BIOLOGY

B.S. students must complete at least one biology course that includes a laboratory (4 s.h.). Students with an interest in paleontology are encouraged to take BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology and BIOL:1412 (002:032) Diversity of Form and Function.

RECOMMENDED ELECTIVES

All B.S. students should take elective courses from the following groups in order to broaden their undergraduate experience and prepare themselves for graduate study or professional employment. Students who have clear career goals are advised to take three or more elective courses from the group that fits their needs most closely. Students also may seek a broad education in geoscience by choosing elective courses from a number of groups.

Quaternary Geology

- EES:3020 (012:102) Earth Surface Processes 3 s.h.
- EES:3360 (012:136) Soil Genesis and Geomorphology 3 s.h.
- EES:3380 (012:138) Fluvial Geomorphology 3 s.h.
- EES:4490 (012:149) Elements of Geochemistry 3 s.h.

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH OPTION FOR GEOSCIENCE MAJORS
A junior or senior who is ready to pursue independent research for credit in geoscience may assist a faculty member or graduate student with a current research project in EES:2190 (012:019) Directed Study or may initiate a small-scale project involving a combination of field, laboratory, and library investigation in EES:3190 (012:119) Directed Study. Independent study is encouraged and may lead to an honors thesis in EES:4999 (012:010) Honors Thesis in Geoscience or a senior thesis in EES:4990 (012:011) Senior Thesis in Geoscience that may be published subsequently.

Bachelor of Arts
The Bachelor of Arts with a major in geoscience requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 51 s.h. of work for the major (at least 35 s.h. in earth and environmental sciences courses and at least 16 s.h. in supporting disciplines). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Transfer students must complete a minimum of 15 s.h. of course work in the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences.

The geoscience major for the B.A. is designed to provide students with a varied background in geology and a broader choice of electives than is practical in the Bachelor of Science program. The major for the Bachelor of Arts is intended for students who are interested in the fundamentals of geology or earth science teaching (see "B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure" below). Completing the minimum requirements for this degree may not adequately prepare a student for an entry-level professional job in geology.

The department recommends that students fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement with French, German, Russian, or Spanish and the Social Sciences requirement with approved course work in economics, geography, or anthropology.

The geoscience major for the Bachelor of Arts requires the following course work.

EARTH AND ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

This course:
EES:2410 (012:041) Mineralogy 4 s.h.

One of these:
EES:1030 (012:003) Introduction to Earth Science 4 s.h.
EES:1050 (012:005) Introduction to Geology 4 s.h.

One or both of these:
EES:1040 (012:004) Evolution and the History of Life 4 s.h.
EES:3210 (012:121) Principles of Paleontology 3 s.h.

At least three of these:
EES:3300 (012:130) Sedimentary Geology 4 s.h.
EES:3360 (012:136) Soil Genesis and Geomorphology 3 s.h.
EES:3380 (012:138) Fluvial Geomorphology 3 s.h.
EES:3500 (012:150) Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology 3 s.h.
EES:3840 (012:132) Structural Geology 4 s.h.
EES:4630 (012:166) Hydrogeology 3 s.h.

And:
Geoscience electives 12 s.h.
MATHEMATICS
B.A. students must complete the following course work in mathematics.

College-level mathematics (may include computer science and statistics) 10 s.h.

CHEMISTRY
B.A. students must complete at least two college-level chemistry courses, as follows. Chemistry courses numbered below CHEM:1070 (004:007) General Chemistry I do not count toward this requirement.

One of these sequences:
CHEM:1070 (004:007) & CHEM:1080 (004:008) 6 s.h. General Chemistry I-II
CHEM:1110 (004:011) & CHEM:1120 (004:012) 8 s.h. Principles of Chemistry I-II

FIELD REQUIREMENT
To complete the major, B.A. students must have field experience. They may take two semesters of EES:1180 (012:018) Geology Field Trip: Selected National Parks, or two semesters of EES:3160 (012:116) Field Trip, or one semester of each of the two courses. Or they may take one semester of EES:4831 (012:112) Geologic Field Methods or the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory (p. 1267) session.

EES:1180 (012:018) Geology Field Trip: Selected National Parks 2 s.h.
EES:3160 (012:116) Field Trip 2 s.h.
EES:4831 (012:112) Geologic Field Methods 3 s.h.

One natural science session at Iowa Lakeside Laboratory for a minimum of 3 s.h.

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH OPTION FOR GEOSCIENCE MAJORS
A junior or senior who is ready to pursue independent research for credit in geoscience may assist a faculty member or graduate student with a current research project in EES:2190 (012:019) Directed Study or may initiate a small-scale project involving a combination of field, laboratory, and library investigation in EES:3190 (012:119) Directed Study. Independent study is encouraged and may lead to an honors thesis in EES:4999 (012:010) Honors Thesis in Geoscience or a senior thesis in EES:4990 (012:011) Senior Thesis in Geoscience that may be published subsequently.

B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure
Geoscience majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education’s Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Students with a strong interest in science teaching may complete a major offered by the Science Education Program. Students choose one of five emphases—biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, or all-science—and earn a Bachelor of Science degree. They may apply for admission to the Teacher Education Program. See Science Education (p. 809) in the Catalog.

Four-Year Graduation Plan
The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Note: These checkpoints show the range of required course work; the major for the Bachelor of Arts requires a minimum of 17 courses; the major for the Bachelor of Science requires 19.

The geoscience major requires field trip experiences, many of which take place during breaks in or between semesters or during the summer session. These checkpoints do not include the field trip requirements.

Before the third semester begins: competence in math through trigonometry and the first required chemistry course

Before the fifth semester begins: three to five courses in the major, including the remainder of the chemistry requirement and continuation of the mathematics requirement

Before the seventh semester begins: 7-11 courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: 10-14 courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major
Students majoring in geoscience have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must maintain a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in all University of Iowa course work and in all geoscience courses. To graduate with honors in geoscience, students must complete a senior thesis, registering in EES:4999 (012:010) Honors Thesis in Geoscience. They must obtain approval of their honors thesis contract from their advisor and the department’s undergraduate committee, and they must earn a grade of B or higher in EES:4999 (012:010).

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Minor
The minor in geoscience requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in geoscience courses, including 12 s.h. in courses considered advanced for the minor offered by the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences at The University of Iowa (EES:2410 (012:041) Mineralogy and all earth and environmental sciences courses numbered 3000 or above are considered advanced for the minor). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the College-level courses in mathematics, physics, chemistry, and biology usually are required as collateral work for geoscience students. Those seeking a minor in geoscience should be sufficiently prepared in the areas of supporting sciences before they take advanced courses in geoscience.

Recommended advanced courses in geoscience that deal with important areas of earth materials and earth processes are as follows.

Courses for Nonmajors

Each year more than 1,800 students enroll in Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences introductory courses that are approved for General Education; look for courses with the prefix EES under "Natural Sciences" in the General Education Program (p. 323) section of the Catalog.

The department also offers the following upper-level courses with few or no prerequisites.

National Honor Society

The department sponsors a chapter of Sigma Gamma Epsilon National Honor Society for the Earth Sciences. Students with an overall g.p.a. of at least 2.80 and at least 3.20 in geoscience courses are considered for membership after they have completed a minimum of 16 s.h. of course work in geoscience. Consult the departmental honors advisor for more information.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Science in geoscience
- Doctor of Philosophy in geoscience

The Master of Science program in geoscience prepares students for employment in industry or for doctoral study. The Doctor of Philosophy program is designed to prepare students for future employment in higher education or research and to bring them to the forefront of a specialized area of geoscience.

All geoscience graduate students must meet the admission and degree requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College (particularly sections IX, X, and XII) or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog. They also should acquaint themselves with the University calendar, for deadline dates and so forth.

All entering graduate students are required to enroll in EES:5070 (012:207) Geologic Orientation during the fall semester of their first year in the graduate program.

The department provides detailed information about current graduate degree requirements and timelines for making satisfactory progress toward a degree in the document "The University of Iowa Guidelines for Graduate Study in Geoscience"; see Graduate Student Guidelines under Academics/Geoscience Graduate Program/Information on the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences web site.

Throughout their graduate study, all M.S. and Ph.D. students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 in all course work required for their degree and in all graduate-level geoscience course work. Students whose grade-point average drops below 3.00 are placed on academic probation.

Geoscience graduate students are encouraged to present their research at local, regional, national, or international meetings. The department provides partial funding for travel to such meetings.

Master of Science

The Master of Science degree in geoscience requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit. The program is designed primarily to prepare students for employment in industry or for study toward a Ph.D. degree. M.S. students may count up to 8 s.h. of research credit toward the 30 s.h. required for the degree. They must earn at least 24 s.h. toward the degree in University of Iowa courses taken after they enroll in the program. M.S. students also must complete EES:5010 (012:201) Geoscience Seminar Series each semester until they defend their thesis.

M.S. thesis students are responsible for obtaining their advisory committee's approval of a suitable program of course work and for satisfactory development of research plans as outlined in a thesis proposal, which should be completed and approved by the department chair before the end of the second semester of full-time study. The thesis typically has depth and breadth similar to those of one published research paper. Thesis students must deliver a half-hour public presentation of their thesis, followed by an oral defense. They also are required to present their research at a local, regional, national, or international meeting approved by the department chair before they may graduate.
Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy degree in geoscience requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. The program is designed to prepare students for future employment in higher education or research and to bring them to the forefront of a specialized area of geoscience.

The Ph.D. requires a dissertation, which has the approximate research content of three published papers.

Ph.D. students usually enter the program with established fields of interest and a research advisor already selected. Under exceptional circumstances, a student may be admitted to the Ph.D. program without an established field of interest.

Entering Ph.D. students must consult with a research advisor or the department's director of graduate study before they enroll in courses. By the first month of their second semester of doctoral study, all Ph.D. students must select an advisor. Each student also must select a thesis topic and forward it to the department chair for approval by the end of the first month of the second semester of doctoral study.

Within broad limits, Ph.D. students should select courses that reflect their individual needs, interests, and talents; their advisor and advisory committee must approve their course selections.

During the second semester of doctoral study, each Ph.D. student should propose an advisory committee of at least five faculty members. Before the end of the second semester of doctoral study, each student must obtain his or her committee's approval of a suitable plan of study, which is then submitted to the department chair for approval. In consultation with the advisor and other faculty members, each doctoral candidate prepares a formal dissertation proposal, which must be submitted to the department chair by the end of the candidate's third semester of doctoral study.

Students are required to include in their plan of study at least 18 s.h. of regular course work taught by tenured or tenure-track faculty members of the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences. Students must earn the 18 s.h. after being admitted to and enrolling in the Ph.D. program. Directed study and research credit do not count toward the required 18 s.h.

Ph.D. students must enroll in EES:5010 (012:201) Geoscience Seminar Series each semester they are registered until they successfully defend their dissertation, or for two consecutive semesters after the semester in which they pass their comprehensive examination, whichever comes first.

After earning their first 24 s.h. of graduate credit, Ph.D. students must be enrolled at least two consecutive semesters in full-time study (at least 9 s.h. per semester) at The University of Iowa; or they must be enrolled three consecutive semesters for at least 6 s.h. per semester at the University, during which time they hold at least a one-quarter-time assistantship that is certified by the department as contributing to their doctoral program.

Students should complete most of their course work before taking the comprehensive examination, which consists of both written and oral portions and which must be passed before the end of the fourth semester of doctoral study.

Once Ph.D. candidates have passed the comprehensive examination, they are required to register each semester until they receive the degree. Candidates who have completed their plan of study may register for GRAD:6002 (000:002) Doctoral Continuous Registration or GRAD:6003 (000:003) Doctoral Final Registration.

Students must submit their written dissertation to the committee at least two weeks before the final examination. All Ph.D. candidates must deliver a one-hour public presentation associated with the dissertation defense. They also are required to submit a manuscript presenting the results of their graduate research to a refereed journal or other publication approved by the department chair before they may defend their dissertation.

Facilities

Resources and equipment available for research in the Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences include the following.

Computer facilities: three teaching classrooms with 10-12 networked PC workstations; a computing classroom with 20 PCs and 10 Mac workstations with GIS, GMS, remote sensing, image analysis, and specialized computational software packages; a student computer room with six PCs and two Macs; and a number of multiprocessor workstations in research laboratories.

Electron microprobe: JOEL JXA-8230 electron probe microanalyzer with five wavelength-dispersive spectrometers capable of quantitatively analyzing a full spectrum of elements in solid materials to a spot size as small as one micron.

Environmental and Hydrogeology Laboratory: permeameters and tensionometers; pumping and slug/ball test units with transducers and data-loggers; water-quality analysis facility; advanced groundwater modeling and geostatistics software; advanced data logging systems for field research; 3-D sensor arrays (wind and water systems); and facilities for field instrumentation design and construction.

Environmental Instrumentation Laboratories: storage, testing, and teaching facility focusing on field instrumentation; assembly, housing, and testing of climatic, meteorological, fluvial, water quality and associated environmental instrumentation data recording systems and sampling systems.

Geomorphic Computing Laboratory: high-end visualization, digitizing, remote sensing and GIS systems; and high-end multiprocessor workstations.

Morphometric laboratories: reflex microscope and microscribe for capturing 3-D data; high-resolution digital cameras and microscopes for 2-D image analysis; and laboratories for micro- and macro-fossil preparation.

Paleontological Repository: more than a million specimens, including some 25,000 type and referred specimens, with 6,000-7,000 primary types; invertebrate, vertebrate, and plant fossils of all geologic ages, and more than 90 percent Paleozoic invertebrates; the fifth-largest university collection in North America (CONARIP 1977).

Petroleum and geochemistry laboratories: laser-ablation inductively coupled plasma mass spectrometer (LA-ICPMS); clean laboratory for preparation of samples for elemental and isotopic analysis; alpha- and gammaspectrometry laboratories; image analysis; heating freezing stage; petrographic microscopes; photo microscopy; wet-chemistry facilities; rock preparation and mineral separation; UNIX, Windows, and Mac workstations for data analysis and modeling; and one atm gas-drill furnace for melt inclusion homogenization.

Quaternary Materials Laboratory: pipette grain-size analysis apparatus; chittick apparatus; Sedigraph 5100 X-ray particle-size analyzer; Horiba Camsizer L digital image particle analyzer; wet-chemistry facilities; C-H-N element analyzer; a Flotech flotation system; and a Giddings drill rig.

Scanning Electron Microscope: Hitachi S-3400N, a variable-pressure scanning electron microscope (SEM) equipped with a motorized stage, large chamber, and digital image capture; capable of imaging specimens with no metal coating, or specimens that are slightly hydrated or porous, as well as conventionally processed specimens; equipped with a Bruker AXS Quantax 400 X-ray microanalysis system; XFlash silicon drift detector with excellent energy resolution and light element detection, providing ultra-fast acquisition of line scans and elemental maps.

Sedimentary geology laboratories: water ion chromatograph; image analysis; Sedigraph X-ray particle-size analyzer; Horiba Camsizer L digital image particle analyzer; and a soil/sediment characterization laboratory.

Thin-section and rock preparation laboratory: diamond saws and specialized grinding equipment used to prepare ultrathin slices (30 microns thick) of rocks and fossils for microscopic and electron microprobe analysis.

Cooperative Activities

The department does collaborative work with the Iowa Geological & Water Survey and the Office of the State Archaeologist of Iowa. Earth and environmental sciences students sometimes work on projects for the survey.

The Departments of Anthropology, Biology, Chemistry, Civil and Environmental Engineering, Earth and Environmental Sciences, and Geographical and Sustainability Sciences share services, expertise, joint instruction, and equipment. The Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences is an important participant in the Iowa Quaternary Studies group, an interdisciplinary program that promotes projects combining work in anthropology, biology, geography, geology, and statistics. Course work, degree programs, and facilities are shared among departments. The Department of Earth and Environmental Sciences and its faculty also support and actively participate in the interdisciplinary Environmental Sciences (p. 288) Program, which offers an undergraduate major, and a number of the department's courses satisfy requirements of the undergraduate Certificate in Sustainability (p. 1304).

Field Trips

Field trips are integral parts of several courses in earth and environmental sciences, with frequent weekend general-interest events. The geology of the Iowa City region is characterized by Quaternary glacial sediments on a largely Paleozoic sedimentary section a few hundred meters thick, overlying a Precambrian crystalline basement. Marine and terrestrial fossil assemblages, extensive reefs, and unique geode sites are located within a few hours' drive. Numerous Pleistocene glaciations are represented in Iowa, and field studies of landforms, exposures, and cores continue to yield information on sedimentology, stratigraphy, soil formation, paleopedology, and fossil biotas from both glacial and interglacial deposits.

Spring break and summer provide time for longer trips, which are open to all geoscience students. In recent years, students have traveled to the southern Appalachians, Arizona, China, Death Valley, Dominican Republic, the Florida Keys, Hawaii, New Mexico, the Ozarks, Puerto Rico, and Texas. Advanced classes have visited California, Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, and Ontario, Canada.

Courses

Not all courses are offered every year.

Lower-Level Undergraduate

EES:1000 (012:029) First-Year Seminar 1-2 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

EES:1020 (012:020) Loess Hills Service Learning Trip 1 s.h.
Special topics, directed research.

EES:1021 (012:021) Spring Break Service Learning Trip 1 s.h.
Special topics, directed research.

EES:1030 (012:003) Introduction to Earth Science 3-4 s.h.
Relationships between plate tectonics, geologic time, and the rock cycle with volcanoes and igneous, sedimentary, metamorphic rocks; fossils; radioactive isotopes; landscape evolution; mountain building; natural resources; their impacts on civilization. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab; Natural Sciences with Lab. Same as CEE:1030 (053:003).

EES:1040 (012:004) Evolution and the History of Life 3-4 s.h.
Fossils over the past 3.5 billion years, origin and evolution of life, evolutionary radiations and mass extinctions, the invasion of land, dinosaurs, the age of mammals, relationship between biological systems and environmental change in earth history. Offered spring semesters. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab; Natural Sciences with Lab.

EES:1050 (012:005) Introduction to Geology 4 s.h.
Minerals, rocks, and rock-forming processes (including volcanoes and sedimentary environments); surface processes (rivers, groundwater, glaciers, deserts, ocean shorelines), major earth processes (continental drift, plate tectonics, earthquakes, mountain building); impact on civilization. Offered fall semesters. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

EES:1060 (012:045) Origins of Life in the Universe (Part 1) 3 s.h.
Fundamental questions (How old is the universe? What is the nature of life? How has life evolved on Earth? What are our human origins? Are there other habitable planets in the universe?) that revolve around understanding origins from different perspectives (i.e., astronomy, physics, geoscience, biology, chemistry, anthropology); work with faculty from several departments to investigate these questions; inquiry-based activities to build success in critical thinking, teamwork, effective written and oral communication; origin of the universe, biochemistry of life, and origin of life on Earth; first of a two-part sequence. Recommendations: first-year or sophomore standing. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab. Same as ASTR:1060 (029:040), BIOL:1060 (002:050).

EES:1061 (012:046) Origins of Life in the Universe (Part 2) 4 s.h.
Fundamental questions (How old is the universe? What is the nature of life? How has life evolved on Earth? What are our human origins? Are there other habitable planets in the universe?) that revolve around understanding origins from different perspectives (i.e., astronomy, physics, geoscience, biology, chemistry, anthropology); work with faculty from several departments to investigate these questions; inquiry-based activities to build success in critical thinking, teamwork, and effective written and oral communication; second of a two-part sequence. Prerequisites: ASTR:1060 (029:040) or BIOL:1060 (002:050) or EES:1060 (012:045). Recommendations: first-year or sophomore standing. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab. Same as ASTR:1061 (029:041), BIOL:1061 (002:051), ANTH:1061 (113:041).

EES:1070 (012:007) Age of Dinosaurs 4 s.h.
Origin and evolutionary history of dinosaurs; diversity of dinosaurian groups, their geographic distributions and paleoecology; origins of flight among dinosaurs; environmental context, including other animals and plants that lived alongside dinosaurs; the so-called extinction of dinosaurs and radiation of modern forms; the role dinosaurs play in the interaction between science and the popular media. Offered fall semesters. GE: Natural Sciences with Lab.

EES:1080 (012:008) Introduction to Environmental Science 3-4 s.h.
Biological and physical character of the Earth; interaction of humans with the environment, including impacts on ecosystems, climate, natural processes, resources; alternative options, including sustainability, waste management, energy, land reform. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab; Natural Sciences with Lab. Same as ENVS:1080 (159:008).

EES:1090 (012:009) Introduction to Environmental Sciences Laboratory 1 s.h.
Laboratory component of EES:1080 (012:008). Requirements: completion of 3 s.h. in EES:1080 (012:008) or ENVS:1080 (159:008); or 3 s.h. of transfer equivalent. GE: Natural Sciences Lab only. Same as ENVS:1090 (159:009).

EES:1170 (012:017) Geology of the U.S. National Parks 2 s.h.
Geologic features, geologic history, important biological and archaeological characteristics, with emphasis on features that caused certain areas to be included in national park system. Offered spring semesters.

EES:1180 (012:018) Geology Field Trip: Selected National Parks 2 s.h.
Observation, interpretation of prominent geologic, geomorphic, biological features; semester-break or semester-end visits to different parks or groups of parks each year. Offered spring semesters.

EES:1400 (012:140) Natural Disasters 3 s.h.
How earth-atmosphere-hydrosphere-space systems produce events catastrophic to humans on the scale of individual lives to civilizations; root causes of earthquakes, landslides, volcanic eruptions, floods, hurricanes, tsunami, tornadoes, and asteroid impact, and their local, national, and global impact; spatial and temporal occurrences of these hazards; methods and processes for hazard preparedness, response, and recovery; social, economic, and policy aspects that affect and compound the magnitude of disasters associated with natural phenomena; case studies drawn from contemporary and ancient societies. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

EES:2115 (012:015) History and Science of Oil 3 s.h.

EES:2190 (012:019) Directed Study arr.
Special topics, independent research.

EES:2310 (012:104) Climatology 3 s.h.
Boundary layer processes that drive atmospheric dynamics; exchanges of energy and water at simple and complex surfaces; global climate change records, theories, models; impacts of climate on society. Prerequisites: EES:1020 (012:020). Same as GEOG:2310 (044:101).

EES:2410 (012:041) Mineralogy 4 s.h.
Physical, chemical, and optical properties of minerals; phase relations; structures; associations; diagnostic features for identification. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:1050 (012:005), CHEM:1070 (004:007) or CHEM:1110 (004:011), and MATH:1010 (22M:001) or MATH:0300 (22M:003) or MATH:1010 (22M:005).

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

EES:3000 (012:100) Geologic Training Assignment 1-3 s.h.
Practical experience. Requirements: grade of C or higher in EES:3500 (012:150) and geology g.p.a. of at least 3.00.

EES:3020 (012:102) Earth Surface Processes 3 s.h.
Basic geomorphic and environmental processes that shape the earth's surface; emphasis on erosion, transport, deposition by land mass movement (creep, landslides, earth flow), fluid agents (wind, water, ice); methods used to study these processes. Prerequisites: EES:1050 (012:005) or EES:3080 (012:008) or ENSVS:1080 (159:008) or GEOG:1020 (044:003). Same as ENVS:3020 (159:102), GEOG:3020 (044:102).

EES:3050 (012:115) Geology of Iowa 3 s.h.
Investigation of geologic history responsible for landscape, soil, rocks, fossils, and geologic resources of Iowa. Recommendations: previous geology course.

EES:3070 (012:107) Marine Ecosystems and Conservation 3 s.h.
Introduction to ocean ecosystems, including coral reefs, mangroves, estuaries and salt marshes, sandy and rocky shores, seagrass and kelp beds, the deep sea, plankton; biodiversity of each ecosystem; interrelationship of biota and physical/chemical environment; interactions among organisms, including food webs and symbiosis; local and global threats such as overfishing, pollution, ocean acidification, global warming, sea level change; ongoing biodiversity crisis, solutions for conservation problems.

EES:3080 (012:108) Introduction to Oceanography 2 s.h.
Descriptive, chemical, physical, biological, geological aspects of oceans; impact on weather, climate, shoreline, food supply, other aspects of civilization. Offered spring semesters. Recommendations: knowledge of basic chemistry, biology, physics, earth science.

EES:3090 (012:159) Topics in Museum Studies 1 s.h.
Systematic and analytic methods used for research in physical collections; tutorials in collection building, curation, and preservation; designed by members of the University of Iowa Collections Coalition. Same as MUSM:3090 (024:190).

EES:3100 (012:110) Introduction to Applied Remote Sensing 4 s.h.
Remote sensing of the earth's surface from aircraft, satellites; aerial photograph interpretation; remote sensing systems, methods, data analysis using electromagnetic spectrum and digital processing techniques, including visible, infrared, microwave radiation; remote sensing applied to geologic and environmental problems. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:1050 (012:005) or EES:1080 (012:008). Same as ENVS:3100 (159:110).

EES:3110 (012:111) Chemical Evolution of the Oceans 3 s.h.
Investigation of various physico-chemical states oceans have assumed over the past four billion years of Earth history; use of isotope geochemistry as a proxy for ancient ocean conditions; focus on integrated Earth system science, paleoceanographic and paleoclimate modeling, role of chemical stratigraphy in deciphering past climate states of ocean-atmosphere system; relationship between chemical changes in ocean/atmosphere and biological systems of the Earth. Same as ENVS:3110 (159:111).

EES:3140 (012:114) Energy and the Environment 3 s.h.
Scientific concepts related to potentially significant energy sources of the 21st century; environmental impacts, positive and negative, of each energy source as well as geologic and geographical distributions and applications. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

EES:3150 (012:193) Sustainability Project arr.
Individual or collective project related to sustainability under the direction and supervision of a faculty member; involves regularly scheduled meetings, data collection and interpretation, and a final project report.

EES:3160 (012:116) Field Trip 2 s.h.
Field trip to an area of geologic interest, such as carbonate area of Florida, Grand Canyon (Arizona), Rio Grande Rift (New Mexico), Death Valley (California, Nevada), Appalachian Mountains (Virginia); preceded by weekly discussions of destination's geology. Offered spring semester.

EES:3190 (012:119) Directed Study arr.
Special topics, independent research.

EES:3200 (012:120) Collection Care and Management 3 s.h.
How a museum's management policy relates to its administrative, legal, and ethical obligations to its collections; acquisitions, deaccessions, collection use, data standards, storage environment, health, safety, documentation. Same as MUSM:3200 (024:120).

EES:3206 (012:174) Seminar: Taphonomy 3 s.h.
Taphonomy (study of fossil record in paleontology and archaeology); processes for accumulation, modification, and deposition of remains in prehistory; instruction by archaeologist and paleontologist. Requirements: graduate standing. Same as ANTH:3206 (113:174).

EES:3210 (012:121) Principles of Paleontology 3 s.h.
Patterns of evolution in fossil record; species and analysis of their evolutionary relationships; paleoecology, paleocommunity evolution; evolutionary radiation and mass extinctions; large-scale relationships between biodiversity and climatic change. Offered fall semesters.

EES:3220 (012:122) Evolution of the Vertebrates 3 s.h.
Evolutionary history of vertebrates revealed by fossils and information from living animals; biogeographic, stratigraphic, paleoecological aspects of selected groups, especially mammals and dinosaurs; transitions from aquatic to terrestrial life, origins of flight, major events in vertebrate history (including mass extinctions and explosive radiations). Requirements: introductory course in geoscience or bioscience.

EES:3260 (012:126) Wetlands: Function, Geography, and Management 3 s.h.
Hydrological, geomorphological, and ecological processes and their interaction in wetlands; geographic differences in wetlands based on climate and hydrology; wetlands, lakes, and rivers; role of wetlands in drainage basin hydrology and flooding; values and valuation of wetlands; wetland law and wetland delineation; wetlands and water resources. Prerequisites: GEOG:2374 (044:103) or EES:2310 (012:104). Same as GEOG:3320 (044:126).

EES:3300 (012:130) Sedimentary Geology 4 s.h.
Basic concepts of sedimentology, stratigraphy, depositional environments, sedimentary petrology; hands-on analyses of sediments and sedimentary rocks, including thin-section petrography; lecture/laboratory. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:1050 (012:005).

EES:3360 (012:136) Soil Genesis and Geomorphology 3 s.h.
Introduction to soil genesis, soil geomorphology, and classification including the basics of soil profile description and soil-landscape, soil-vegetation, and soil-climate relationships; emphasis on study of soils as the interface between living and non-living Earth systems and the role of soils in sustaining ecosystems and human societies; short field excursions and a weekend field trip. Requirements: college earth science and chemistry. Same as GEOG:3360 (044:186).

EES:3380 (012:138) Fluvial Geomorphology 3 s.h.
Hydrological principles, stream channel processes, and fluvial geomorphology within drainage basin systems; spatial and temporal variations in water distribution, analysis of hydrological data, flow mechanisms, sediment transport, forecasting procedures, hydrograph construction, modeling. Requirements: EES:3020 (012:102) or another 3000-level geology or hydraulics course. Same as CEE:3328 (053:128).

EES:3390 (012:139) Integrated Watershed Analysis 3 s.h.
Integration of existing knowledge of physical, hydrological, and environmental processes with management issues and challenges in water resources and environmental management; aspects of water quantity and quality, water use and treatment; basin management issues related to forestry, agriculture, urbanization, floods, droughts.

EES:3410 (012:141) Analytical Methods 2 s.h.
Theory and practice of analyzing the chemical, isotopic, and mineralogical compositions of rocks, organic materials, and waters; use of modern analytical instruments. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: EES:3500 (012:150), CHEM:1070 (004:007), and PHYS:1512 (029:012) or PHYS:1702 (029:028).

EES:3500 (012:150) Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology 4 s.h.
Nature, origin, and petrography of igneous and metamorphic rocks in hand specimen and thin-section. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:1050 (012:005), EES:2410 (012:041), CHEM:1070 (004:007) or CHEM:1110 (004:011), and MATH:0100 (22M:001) or MATH:0300 (22M:003) or MATH:1010 (22M:005).

EES:3770 (012:177) Global Stratigraphy 3 s.h.
Types of stratigraphy (e.g., biostratigraphy, lithostratigraphy, sequence stratigraphy, chemostratigraphy, magnetostratigraphy, cyclostratigraphy, chronostratigraphy) that share a number of procedures and practices and how differences cloud understanding of Earth history; central role of stratigraphy in modern geoscience pursuits; issue of time in stratigraphic record as an organizing theme for investigation of comparative stratigraphy.

EES:3840 (012:132) Structural Geology 4 s.h.
Rock deformation; description, classification of geologic structures such as faults and folds; processes that generate geologic structures; solution of structural problems; interpretation of geologic maps. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:1050 (012:005).

EES:4156 (012:156) Scanning Electron Microscopy and X-Ray Microanalysis 3 s.h.
Microscopy methods for research; all aspects of research, from sample preparation to imaging to data analysis; when to use a particular microscopy procedure; theory, operation, and application of scanning electron microscopy, scanning probe microscopy, laser scanning microscopy, X-ray microanalysis. Requirements: a physical science course. Same as CBE:4156 (052:156), ACB:4156 (060:156).

EES:4200 (012:160) Advanced Collection Care and Management 3 s.h.
Builds on MUSM:3200 (024:120): types of museum objects and materials, their care and management; care, storage, and use of paper, books, photographs, works of art, electronic information media, textiles, furniture, archaeological artifacts, natural history specimens, archives; digitization projects, integrated pest management, risk assessment, museum security, museum construction and renovation, grant writing; for students planning museum careers or for professions that require care of collections. Prerequisites: MUSM:3200 (024:120) or EES:3200 (012:120). Same as MUSM:4200 (024:140).

EES:4230 (012:131) Special Topics 1-3 s.h.
Contemporary issues in earth sciences.

EES:4420 (012:142) Vertebrate Osteology and Phylogeny 3 s.h.
Anatomy of the vertebrate skeleton from developmental, functional, and phylogenetic perspectives; relationship between skeletal, muscular, and nervous systems; history of the skeleton through modern forms; lecture and laboratory. Prerequisites: EES:3220 (012:122) or ANTH:3305 (213:190).

EES:4440 (012:144) Phylogenetics and Biodiversity 3 s.h.
Methods available for reconstructing evolutionary history and measuring biodiversity, including distance, parsimony, likelihood, and taxic approaches; applications to molecular and morphological systematics, historical biogeography, study of diversity through time. Prerequisites: EES:1040 (012:004) or EES:3210 (012:121), or BIOL:1411 (002:031) and BIOL:1412 (002:032).

EES:4450 (012:145) Morphometrics
Quantitative methods for collection and analysis of morphologic data, including 2-D and 3-D geometric morphometrics and use of multivariate statistical methods to study of size and shape; applications of morphometric techniques to study development, adaptation, variation within and among species, related topics in paleontology and evolutionary biology. Offered alternate years. Prerequisites: EES:1040 (012:004) or EES:3210 (012:121).

EES:4490 (012:149) Elements of Geochemistry
Introduction to application of chemical principles to solution of geologic problems concerning earth and environmental processes; origin of elements, chemical differentiation of Earth and the solar system, geochronology, application of radiogenic and stable isotopes, chemical equilibrium, elementary thermodynamics and kinetics, carbonate and silicate stability relationships, chemical weathering, adsorption, trace element behavior, oxidation-reduction reactions, characterization of surface and ground waters, and ocean chemistry. Prerequisites: EES:1050 (012:005) and CHEM:1080 (004:008).

EES:4520 (012:152) Isotope Geochemistry
Radiogenic and stable isotope systematics, applications to geological, cosmological, and environmental problems.

EES:4620 (012:185) Approaches to Geoarchaeology
Geoarchaeology as multidisciplinary contextual framework for human paleoecology; natural processes that create the archaeological record, approaches to reconstructing landscapes of the past as a context for archaeological deposits; weekend field trip. Prerequisites: EES:3360 (012:136) or EES:4720 (012:172) or ANTH:3205 (113:161) or ANTH:4205 (113:164). Same as ANTH:4620 (113:189).

EES:4630 (012:166) Hydrogeology
Role of groundwater in water cycle, subsurface water profile, aquifers and aquitards, basic principles and laws of physical and chemical processes of groundwater flow and contaminant transport in geological formations for sustainable development and protection of groundwater resources; groundwater geology and hydrology, regional aquifer systems, well hydraulics, slug/bail and pumping test and their analyses, groundwater contamination and remediation, management and sustainability of groundwater resources.

EES:4660 (012:184) Groundwater Modeling
Groundwater flow and contaminant transport modeling; numerical methods, applications of groundwater modeling to water supply, groundwater resources evaluation, remediation design using software; GMS (MODFLOW, MODPATH, and MT3D). Prerequisites: EES:4630 (012:166) or CEE:4103 (053:103), and MATH:1860 (22M:026). Same as CEE:4104 (053:104).

EES:4680 (012:168) Field Methods in Hydrologic Science
Collection and interpretation of physical hydrology and hydraulics field measurements; basic data quality assurance and quality control; hands-on experience with field equipment and data collection; may lead to Hydrologic Technician Certification by American Institute of Hydrology. Prerequisites: EES:3020 (012:102) or EES:3300 (012:130) or EES:3360 (012:136) or EES:3380 (012:138) or EES:3390 (012:139) or EES:4630 (012:166) or EES:4720 (012:172) or EES:4790 (012:179) or EES:4800 (012:180) or EES:4831 (012:112) or CEE:3371 (053:071) or ENGR:2510 (057:020) or ENVIS:3020 (159:102).

EES:4700 (012:170) Evolution of Ecosystems
Evolutionary history of terrestrial and marine ecosystems; ecological processes from population to ecosystem levels; community assembly, trophic levels, networks, biodiversity dynamics; practical aspects of paleoecological data collection, statistical analysis, modeling. Requirements: two courses in geoscience, biology, environmental sciences, anthropology, or geography. Same as ENVS:4700 (159:170).

EES:4710 (012:171) Evolution of Plants
Evolutionary history of plants over geologic time: relationships, morphology, and fossil record of major plant lineages; patterns and processes in evolution of plant morphology and diversity; ecological innovations and evolution of terrestrial ecosystems; relationships between biotic and environmental change; paleobotanical tools in stratigraphy, paleoclimatology, sedimentology; practical aspects of paleobotanical data collection, statistical analysis, modeling; field trip. Requirements: two courses in geoscience, anthropology, biology, environmental science, or geography.

EES:4720 (012:172) Glacial and Pleistocene Geology
Introduction to glaciers and glacial and interglacial Earth systems; linkages among glacial, oceanic, and atmospheric systems and their effects on landscapes and biota over the past two million years; how oceans, atmosphere, and glaciers interact and landscape effects of past glacial and interglacial cycles. Requirements: physical geology or physical geography or anthropology.

EES:4750 (012:175) Mineral and Petroleum Exploration Geology
Fundamentals of resource exploration philosophy and methods, with project-based presentation of techniques and strategies for mineral exploration and petroleum exploration; integration and evaluation of geological, geochemical, and geophysical techniques for mineral exploration; hydrocarbon systems and seismic interpretation for petroleum exploration. Corequisites: EES:3500 (012:150) and EES:3840 (012:132).

EES:4790 (012:179) Engineering Geology
Application of geology, water, and earth processes to civil and environmental engineering practice; physical properties of rock and soil, geologic mapping and surveying, groundwater supplies and wells, stream engineering, watershed management, site investigations for environmental assessment, and geologic hazards. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:1050 (012:005) or EES:1080 (012:008).
EES:4800 (012:180) Survey of Geophysical Methods
3 s.h.
Geophysical methods used to address geological and engineering problems (e.g., finding petroleum and mineral deposits, studying groundwater resources, tracing contaminant plumes, evaluating archaeological sites); methods including gravity, magnetics, radiometrics, refraction and reflection seismography, geophysical well logging, and geoelectrical methods (direct current, frequency- and time-domain electromagnetics, induced polarization, magnetic resonance surveying, ground-penetrating radar); capabilities, drawbacks, costs; planning and budgeting surveys, processing the resulting digital data. Requirements: introductory geology or physics.

EES:4831 (012:112) Geologic Field Methods
3 s.h.
Introduction to basic methods of geologic field work in southwest Montana using topographic maps and GPS to locate oneself, identifying geologic map units (including superficial deposits), recognizing geologic contacts, constructing stratigraphic sections, measuring planar structures, and making geologic maps complete with a legend and cross-section. Offered summer session. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:4520 (012:152).

EES:4832 (012:113) Geologic Field Analysis
3 s.h.
Structural, stratigraphic, and regional analysis of geology in the Rocky Mountains of Montana; emphasis on making reasonable geologic interpretations from field relationships; mapping projects in vicinity of Dillon, Montana that build on experience gained in EES:4831 (012:112); capstone experience dedicated to synthesizing the geology of a fold-and-thrust belt near Glacier National Park. Offered summer session. Prerequisites: EES:3840 (012:132) and EES:4831 (012:112).

EES:4870 (012:178) Applied Geostatistics
3 s.h.
Applications of geostatistical methods to geology, geography, hydrology, environmental sciences, and engineering; variogram, Kriging, analysis of spatial-varied data with varied computer software in participants' specialties. Same as GEOG:4870 (044:188).

EES:4990 (012:011) Senior Thesis in Geoscience
arr.
Independent research resulting in a senior thesis. Requirements: senior standing.

EES:4999 (012:010) Honors Thesis in Geoscience
arr.
Independent research resulting in an honors thesis. Requirements: honors standing.

Graduate

EES:5010 (012:201) Geoscience Seminar Series
1 s.h.
Scholarly work and research in geoscience.

EES:5015 (012:215) American Association of Petroleum Geologists Fall Field Trip
1 s.h.
Resource-related topics in mineral and hydrocarbon exploration; joint field trip with Iowa State University. Requirements: AAPG student chapter member or graduate standing, and basic understanding of mineralogy, petrology, and structural geology.

EES:5070 (012:207) Geologic Orientation
1 s.h.
Department degree requirements, programs; field survey of local geology; tips for TAs; introduction to specialized facilities; for new graduate students.

EES:5120 (012:189) Global Change Seminar
1-2 s.h.
Current global change issues, including climate change, ecosystem changes and conservation, energy; seminar format with student presentations.

EES:5250 (012:250) Environmental Seminar
1 s.h.
Environmental topics selected by student and instructor.

EES:5330 (012:233) Carbonate Petrology
2 s.h.
Identification of constituents and interpretation of genesis, structures, environments of formation, and patterns and processes of diagenesis in limestones; laboratory-based. Requirements: familiarity with optical microscope and sedimentation principles.

EES:5350 (012:235) Depositional Environments
3-4 s.h.
Modern patterns of sedimentation; emphasis on interpreting depositional environments of ancient sedimentary rocks and deciphering resulting stratigraphic patterns. Requirements: knowledge of basic sedimentary geology and paleontology.

EES:5380 (012:238) Process Geomorphology
1-3 s.h.
Topics in process geomorphology ranging from fluvial dynamics to mass movement to sediment transport and related environmental processes.

EES:5530 (012:253) Geochronology
3 s.h.
How to evaluate published ages, and assumptions/errors involved; how to select and sample suitable materials for dating, and choose a suitable dating method and analytical technique; opportunity to develop skills for research and professional careers. Prerequisites: EES:4490 (012:149) or EES:4520 (012:152).

EES:5550 (012:265) Metamorphic Petrology
3 s.h.
Interpretation of metamorphic rocks using hand specimens, thin sections, field relationships, mineralogical composition, texture, geochronology, isotopic geochemistry, thermodynamics, kinetics, and tectonic setting; phase equilibria in pelitic, mafic, and carbonate rocks; thermobarometry, petrogenetic grids, P-T-X relationships, and pseudosections; kinetic models of metamorphic textures, heat-flow modeling, P-T paths, and tectonic evolution of metamorphic rocks. Prerequisites: EES:3500 (012:150).
EES:5820 (012:191) Tectonics 3 s.h.
Dynamic processes responsible for crustal genesis, plate movements, mountain building; plate boundary zones; sedimentologic, structural, petrologic, geophysical characteristics of major tectonic settings; multidisciplinary approach; week-long field trip. Prerequisites: EES:3840 (012:132).

EES:6250 (012:225) Paleontology Seminar 1-3 s.h.

EES:6390 (012:239) Advanced Watershed Analysis Seminar 1-3 s.h.
Integration of existing knowledge of physical, hydrological, and environmental processes with management issues and challenges in water resources and environmental management; aspects of water quantity and quality, water use and treatment, and basin management issues related to forestry, agriculture, urbanization, floods, droughts.

EES:6570 (012:257) Tectonics and Petrology Seminar 1-2 s.h.
Topics in tectonics, structural geology, petrology.

EES:6920 (012:293) Advanced Structural Geology 3 s.h.
Kinematic and dynamic analysis of deformed rocks; microstructural analysis; strain analysis, field investigations of highly deformed rocks. Prerequisites: EES:3840 (012:132).

EES:7990 (012:310) Research: Geoscience arr.
Independent research related to theses or dissertations in geoscience.
Elementary Education

Undergraduate major: elementary education (B.A., B.S.)
Web site: http://www.education.uiowa.edu/teach

Undergraduate Program of Study

- Major in elementary education (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science)

Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science

The College of Education offers the major in elementary education. The major is available with a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science; both degrees are awarded by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The College of Education also offers endorsement for instruction of middle school students (secondary education).

Students interested in pursuing a degree in elementary education must first be admitted to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and then must apply to the College of Education. Admission to the College of Education's elementary education program is not guaranteed. In order to be considered for admission to the elementary education program, undergraduates must complete a minimum of 30 s.h. of course work and must have a University of Iowa and a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 3.00. All students must submit PRAXIS I or PRAXIS Core test scores with their application to the Teacher Education Program (TEP). Students should visit with an advisor or speak with Teacher Education Program staff about complete admission requirements.

The elementary education major prepares students to teach kindergarten through sixth grade. Students complete course work in the foundations and methods of teaching. They also may complete requirements for an endorsement, choosing from reading, English/language arts, science, social science, and other areas. Contact the College of Education's Office of Education Services for information about endorsement requirements.

Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323) and must satisfy all other requirements for graduation with a bachelor's degree from the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

For information about elementary and secondary education curriculum requirements, student teaching, and teacher licensure, see "TEP: Elementary Education (Undergraduate)" and "TEP: Secondary Education (Undergraduate and Graduate)" in the Teaching and Learning (p. 814) (College of Education) section of the Catalog and contact the Office of Education Services.

Undergraduate major: English (B.A.)
Undergraduate minor: English
Graduate degrees: M.A. in English; M.F.A.in English (creative writing, nonfiction writing); Ph.D. in English
Web site: http://english.uiowa.edu/

The Department of English offers courses in literature, cultural studies, language, and writing. In these courses, students read poetry, fiction, essays, criticism, and theory to acquire methods for understanding literature and culture. In addition to providing these essential elements of a liberal arts and sciences education, the department’s courses can augment students’ specialized interests in other fields.

Many undergraduate and graduate students enroll in the department’s degree programs. Most Ph.D. students in English are preparing for careers as teachers and scholars, and many M.F.A. students in the creative writing program and the nonfiction writing program are preparing for lives as storytellers, essayists, and poets. The B.A. and M.A. programs provide valuable training for careers in a variety of fields. Students who have earned English degrees from The University of Iowa write for advertising firms, newspapers, the entertainment industry and book publishers; teach in primary and secondary schools; practice law and medicine; work in business, industry, and nonprofits; and participate in state and federal government. As far as possible, a student’s course of study is arranged to meet his or her individual needs and objectives.

The Department of English participates in several of the University’s interdisciplinary units: the Departments of American Studies, Cinematic Arts, and Gender, Women’s, and Sexuality Studies; the African American Studies Program; the American Indian and Native Studies Program; the Comparative Literature Program; and the Center for the Book.

WRITING PROGRAMS

For the past 75 years, The University of Iowa has been a national leader in all areas of creative writing. The University offers graduate degrees in creative writing, with specializations in fiction, nonfiction, and poetry. Undergraduate students majoring in English have the opportunity to enter the major’s creative writing track, and all qualified undergraduates in other majors may enroll in creative writing courses offered by the Department of English.

Find creative writing courses (prefixes CW and CNW) under "Courses" toward the end of this Catalog section. See which ones are offered in certain semesters by searching for course subjects CW and CNW on the ISIS Courses page.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
  • Major in English (Bachelor of Arts)
  • Minor in English

The Department of English offers undergraduate courses in literature, film, digital media, critical theory, cultural studies, language, and writing. In these courses, students acquire methods for understanding the history and significance of texts in the cultures from which they emerge.

The department challenges students to strive for excellence as writers. It provides instruction in and opportunities for writing in all of its classes and offers students the option of building individual concentrations in creative or nonfiction writing. It also offers an honors program and a creative writing track, both of which have selective admission.

The Department of English is home to Alpha Tau Iota, the University of Iowa chapter of Sigma Tau Delta International English Honor Society. Membership is by invitation to high achieving students.

Students who plan to teach English in secondary schools should consult with an advisor in the College of Education as early as possible; contact the Office of Education Services. The education endorsement requirements迫使 students choose particular courses in the English major in order to meet state requirements. See "B.A. with Teacher Licensure" below.

Students interested in an English major should consult the academic advisor in the English undergraduate advising office. Visit the Department of English web site to learn about the faculty, courses, and upcoming events.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in English requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 36 s.h. (12 courses) of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Students must earn at least 21 s.h. of credit for the major at The University of Iowa. Transfer students may count a maximum of 15 s.h. of approved transfer credit toward the major.

Students majoring in English should not use ENGL:1200 (08G:001) The Interpretation of Literature to fulfill the General Education Program's Interpretation of Literature requirement. They may substitute a course from the Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts area of General Education, excluding these:

- DANC:1010 (137:001) through DANC:2040 (137:024);
- DANC:4880 (137:106) Dance Performance; and

The following courses do not count toward the English major:

- ENGL:1410 (008:003) Sex and Popular Culture in the Postwar U.S.;
- ENGL:1420 (008:006) Technologies and Literatures of the Future;
- CNW:1620 (08N:020) Introduction to Creative Nonfiction;
- CW:1800 (08C:001) Creative Writing Studio Workshop; courses with the prefix ENNM; and courses numbered ENGL:1200 (08G:001) through ENGL:1355 (08G:005).

Students may count up to 6 s.h. earned in courses with prefix CW toward the English major.

All English majors must complete ENGL:2010 (008:005) Foundation of the English Major: Histories, Literatures, Pleasures.

Other course work for the major is divided into six areas and three historical periods. Students must complete a total of eight area courses (see "Areas" below) and six historical period courses (see "Historical Periods" below). Most courses (except those in the creative writing and nonfiction writing list) satisfy both an area and a historical period requirement, so many students complete the historical period requirements as they complete the area requirements. This allows them to choose additional elective course work to complete the major.

Each course's area and period designations are included in its course description, which is provided in the comprehensive list of Department of English courses; see "Courses" at the end of this Catalog section. A course's area and/or period designation may vary by semester; consult ISIS for semester-specific course information. Additional information about courses is available on the Department of English web site and from the academic advisor.

The major in English requires the following course work.

INTRODUCTORY COURSE

All English majors must complete this course and are encouraged to enroll in it as soon as they declare the major.

ENGL:2010 (008:005) Foundation of the English Major: Histories, Literatures, Pleasures 3 s.h.

AREAS

Students must complete at least one course (3 s.h.) from each of the following six areas. Each student also must choose one of the six areas as a concentration area and take an additional two courses in that area, for a total of three courses (9 s.h.) in one area, and eight area courses in all.

Creative Writing Track

Students majoring in English may be eligible to enter the creative writing track. The track maintains the English major's emphasis on training artful and intelligent readers while providing a focus on creativity and excellence in writing.

ADMISSION TO THE TRACK

Admission to the creative writing track is selective; students must apply and be admitted. Students who apply must have junior or senior standing (at least 60 s.h. earned) at the beginning of the semester in which they intend to start the track; a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in English (based on all English courses taken, including creative writing courses); at least 9 s.h. earned in University of Iowa English literature courses, excluding those with prefixes CNW and CW; and two completed prerequisites for admission to the track (see list below).

For more information and online application forms, visit the creative writing track web page.

PREREQUISITES FOR ADMISSION TO THE TRACK

Applicants must have completed two prerequisites for admission to the creative writing track (6 s.h.), chosen from the following list of introductory writing courses.

CNW:2680 (08N:080) The Art and Craft of Creative Nonfiction 3 s.h.
CNW:2690 (08N:090) The Art and Craft of Writing About Business 3 s.h.
CNW:2700 (08N:081) The Art and Craft of Personal Writing 3 s.h.
CNW:2710 (08N:082) The Art and Craft of Food Writing 3 s.h.
CNW:2720 (08N:083) The Art and Craft of Writing About Culture 3 s.h.
CNW:2730 (08N:084) The Art and Craft of Science Writing 3 s.h.
CNW:2740 (08N:085) The Art and Craft of Writing about the Environment 3 s.h.
CNW:2760 (08N:087) The Art and Craft of Writing for Social Change 3 s.h.
CNW:2770 (08N:088) The Art and Craft of Writing for New Media 3 s.h.

CNW:2830 (08N:095) The Art and Craft of Immersion Journalism 3 s.h.
CNW:2900 (08N:099) The Essay Prize 3 s.h.
CW:2100 (08C:023) Creative Writing 3 s.h.
CW:2870 (08C:097) Fiction Writing 3 s.h.
CW:2875 (08C:098) Poetry Writing 3 s.h.
THTR:2301 (049:062) Playwriting I 3 s.h.
THTR:3301 (049:155) Playwriting II 3 s.h.

CREATIVE WRITING TRACK REQUIREMENTS

The creative writing track requires 13 s.h. of credit. Students earn 4 s.h. in genre-based writing seminars, 3 s.h. in a special topics course, and 6 s.h. in approved upper-level creative writing courses.

The creative writing track requires the following course work.

Genre-based writing seminars—two of these (4 s.h.):
ENGL:3721 (8WS:121) Writers' Seminar: Fiction 2 s.h.
ENGL:3722 (8WS:122) Writers' Seminar: Poetry 2 s.h.
ENGL:3723 (8WS:123) Writers' Seminar: Nonfiction 2 s.h.
ENGL:3724 (8WS:124) Writers' Seminar: Literary Translation 2 s.h.
ENGL:3725 (8WS:125) Writers' Seminar: Playwriting 2 s.h.

Special topics course (3 s.h.):
ENGL:4720 (8WS:170) Creative Writing Track: Special Topics 3 s.h.

Upper-level creative writing—two of these (6 s.h.):
ENGL:4020 (008:120) Honors Thesis Workshop 3 s.h.
ENGL:4720 (8WS:170) Creative Writing Track: Special Topics 3 s.h.
CW:4870 (08C:163) Undergraduate Writers' Workshop: Fiction 3 s.h.
CW:4875 (08C:166) Undergraduate Writers' Workshop: Poetry 3 s.h.
CNW:3630 (08N:120) Advanced Nonfiction Writing 3 s.h.
CNW:3632 (08N:102) Prose Style 3 s.h.
CNW:3633 (08N:104) Personal Writing 3 s.h.
CNW:3660 (08N:145) Multimedia Writing 3 s.h.
CNW:3663 (08N:148) Radio and Writing 3 s.h.
CNW:3664 (08N:149) Writing About Science 3 s.h.
CNW:4631 (08N:150) Undergraduate Essay Workshop 3 s.h.
THTR:3300 (049:165) Advanced Playwriting 3 s.h.
THTR:3310 (049:169) Undergraduate Playwriting Workshop 1-3 s.h.
THTR:3320 (049:168) Writing for Film/Television 3 s.h.

In order to take ENGL:4020 (008:120) Honors Thesis Workshop (an honors thesis in creative writing), students must be in the creative writing track and must be members of the English Honors Program. They must fulfill all requirements for registration in the course; see "Honors in the Major" below.

B.A. with Teacher Licensure

English majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education’s Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the College of Education’s Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Students interested in earning elementary school licensure should contact the Office of Education Services for information about requirements.

The following courses are required for students earning secondary school licensure.

ENGLISH COURSES

Students complete these courses as part of the English major.

ENGL:3190 (08B:182)/EDTL:3382 (07S:182) Language and Learning (area: literary theory and interdisciplinary studies) 2-3 s.h.
ENGL:3191 (08B:198)/EDTL:3393 (07S:193) Reading and Teaching Adolescent Literature (area: literary theory and interdisciplinary studies) 3 s.h.
CNW:4355 (08N:141)/EDTL:4355 (07S:155) Approaches to Teaching Writing (area: nonfiction and creative writing) 3 s.h.
A Shakespeare course
Three American literature courses
A British literature course
One nonfiction or creative writing course in addition to CNW:4355 (08N:141)

EDUCATION COURSES

These College of Education courses are required for teacher education.

EDTL:3002 (07E:102) Technology in the Classroom 2 s.h.
EDTL:3090 (07S:190) Orientation to Secondary Education 1 s.h.
EDTL:4087 (07S:187) Seminar: Curriculum and Student Teaching 1-3 s.h.
EDTL:4091 (07S:191) Observation and Laboratory Practice in the Secondary School (student teaching) 6 s.h.
EDTL:4092 (07S:192) Observation and Laboratory Practice in the Secondary School (student teaching) 6 s.h.
EDTL:4314 (07S:114) Introduction and Practicum: Secondary English 3 s.h.
EDTL:4315 (07S:115) Methods: Secondary English 3 s.h.
EDTL:4394 (07S:194) Methods: Secondary Reading 2-3 s.h.
EDTL:4900 (07U:100) Foundations of Special Education 3 s.h.
EPLS:3000 (07B:103) Foundations of Education 3 s.h.
EPLS:4180 (07B:180) Human Relations for the Classroom Teacher 3 s.h.
PSQF:1075 (07P:075) Educational Psychology and Measurement 3 s.h.

One college-level mathematics or statistics course

ADMISSION

Applicants to the Teacher Education Program in English must complete a minimum of 30 s.h., including ENGL:2010 (008:005) Foundation of the English Major: Histories, Literatures, Pleasures and an additional 12 s.h. in English courses, before they are admitted to the program. The following courses do not count toward the additional 12 s.h.:

ENGL:1200 (08G:001) through ENGL:1355 (08G:005); ENGL:3190 (08B:182) Language and Learning; ENGL:3191 (08B:198) Reading and Teaching Adolescent Literature; and CNW:4355 (08N:141) Approaches to Teaching Writing.

Admission to the Teacher Education Program is selective; contact the College of Education’s Office of Education Services for information.

Minor Licensure in English

Students who seek licensure for secondary teaching in fields other than English may seek minor licensure in English. First-year courses in rhetoric, speech, or writing do not count toward this requirement.

The English minor licensure program includes the following course work.

ENGL:3190 (08B:182)/EDTL:3382 (07S:182) Language and Learning 2-3 s.h.
ENGL:3191 (08B:198)/EDTL:3393 (07S:193) Reading and Teaching Adolescent Literature 3 s.h.
CNW:4355 (08N:141)/EDTL:4355 (07S:155) Approaches to Teaching Writing 3 s.h.
EDTL:4315 (07S:115) Methods: Secondary English 3 s.h.
EDTL:4394 (07S:194) Methods: Secondary Reading 2-3 s.h.
An American literature course
A British literature course
A course in creative or nonfiction writing
An additional English course

While this program meets minimum requirements for licensure, the department recommends that students who want to teach English have considerably more training in the field.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan.

Before the fifth semester begins: at least two courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: at least four more courses (total of six) in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least two more courses (total of eight) in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in English have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major and to enhance their course of study through honors seminars and thesis writing. All students interested in taking honors course work are encouraged to join the English Honors Program as soon as they qualify. Students may join online; visit English Honors Program.

Students who wish to graduate with honors in the English major must take two honors seminars, complete a two-semester thesis project, and maintain a University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in English.

Each year the department offers four honors seminars covering a wide range of subject areas and historical periods. Honors seminars are limited to 18 students, carry 3 s.h. of credit, and meet three hours each week. These courses require substantial reading and research and culminate in a 15-20 page essay. Students register for ENGL:4000 (008:098) English Honors Seminar.

To register for a seminar, students are encouraged to have a University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and must have completed three English courses (not including introductory courses in nonfiction or creative writing) with a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in English. The department also recommends that students complete ENGL:2010 (008:005) Foundation of the English Major: Histories, Literatures, Pleasures before taking an honors seminar.

The two-semester thesis project requires ENGL:4020 (008:120) Honors Thesis Workshop (fall) and ENGL:4040 (008:198) Undergraduate Honors Project (independent study), for a total of 6 s.h. To enroll in ENGL:4020 (008:120), students must have completed one honors seminar with a grade of A-minus or higher and must have a University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in English.

The English Honors Program has established careful guidelines for each of the six types of honors theses accepted by the department: literary and cultural studies, nonfiction writing, electronic writing and multimedia production, English education, creative writing, and the interdisciplinary thesis for double honors, which allows a student to earn honors in two majors with one longer project. Information on thesis guidelines is available on the English Honors Program web site.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Minor

The minor in English requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in English courses, including 12 s.h. in courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may count a maximum of 3 s.h. of approved transfer credit toward the minor. Before taking courses for the minor, students must complete the General Education Program requirement ENGL:1200 (08G:001) The Interpretation of Literature.

The minor must include at least 6 s.h. in literature courses numbered ENGL:2100 (008:033) through ENGL:4810 (08P:190); the remaining 9 s.h. may be selected from additional courses in literature and from most courses in writing (prefixes CNW and CW), with a maximum of 6 s.h. earned in courses with the prefix CW. The following courses do not count toward the minor:

ENGL:1410 (008:003) Sex and Popular Culture in the Postwar U.S.;
ENGL:1420 (008:006) Technologies and Literatures of the Future;
CNW:1620 (08N:020) Introduction to Creative Nonfiction;
CW:1800 (08C:001) Creative Writing Studio Workshop; courses with the prefix ENNM; and courses numbered ENGL:1200 (08G:001) through ENGL:1355 (08G:005).

Students may declare the English minor on ISIS. In order for the minor to be recorded, students must indicate completion of the minor on their Application for Degree.

Students who would like help declaring the minor or in planning how to meet its requirements may stop by the Department of English advising office or schedule an appointment with an advisor by contacting the undergraduate English secretary.

Graduate Programs of Study

• Master of Arts in English
• Master of Fine Arts in English (creative writing or nonfiction writing)
• Doctor of Philosophy in English

The Master of Arts program in English introduces students to the professional study of literature; the Doctor of Philosophy program prepares them to serve as faculty members at colleges and universities.

The Master of Fine Arts program in creative writing features advanced courses in writing fiction and poetry.
Students in creative writing study at the Iowa Writers' Workshop, renowned as a pioneer in teaching writers since its founding in 1936. The Master of Fine Arts program in nonfiction writing is one of the few programs in the nation that offer a full range of graduate courses in literary nonfiction.

The M.A. is appropriate for students who would like graduate training in English and who may have an undergraduate major in a different field or who intend to earn a Ph.D. at another institution. Students interested in careers in any area of book studies (professional writing, editing, web design, or publishing) may wish to earn the M.A. as a terminal degree, as may teachers seeking to enhance their credentials or students pursuing intellectual growth unrelated to a specific career.

M.A. and Ph.D. students in English mix freely in graduate courses, share the same access to faculty, and meet the same standards of quality in their work.

EXAM FOR THE MASTER OF ARTS IN TEACHING

The department administers the English component of the exam for the Master of Arts in Teaching (M.A.T.) in coordination with the College of Education. M.A.T. students should contact the Department of Teaching and Learning for information.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in English requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit. The program's focus is literary studies. The required 30 s.h. includes 24 s.h. earned in residence at The University of Iowa with a g.p.a. of at least 3.25. Students who wish to transfer to Iowa's Ph.D. program must complete two semesters or 15 s.h. of course work in literature (whichever they complete first) before applying for admission to the doctoral program.

COURSE WORK

Each student must take the following five courses numbered 5000 or above. Applicable transfer courses must be approved by the director of graduate study in English.

One course in criticism and theory numbered 5000 or above

Four courses numbered 5000 or above, chosen from the following five eras of British or American literature and culture: pre-1500; 1500-1660; 1660-1800; 1800-1900; 20th and 21st centuries

Elective courses constitute half of the total credit for the degree and may be chosen from graduate courses both in and outside the English department. Students may wish to explore opportunities for interdisciplinary study, language study, experience in theory and practice of writing, or specialization in a field of literary scholarship.

Department of English graduate courses are repeatable with the written approval of the department's director of graduate studies.

Completion of the M.A. requires either a thesis or a portfolio. Students submit a written description of their choice to the director of the program before the semester in which they plan to graduate.

M.A. THESIS

Students who choose to write an M.A. thesis must submit a brief prospectus approved by a thesis director before they register for thesis credit and at least one semester before they submit the thesis. The thesis committee consists of the thesis director, the director of the M.A. program, and one other faculty member. The thesis is evaluated by the committee as either satisfactory or unsatisfactory.

A copy of the thesis must be presented to the Graduate College for approval. For detailed information about Graduate College deadlines and policies, see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College.

PORTFOLIO

Near the end of their course work, students who do not choose the thesis option must submit a portfolio of work to the M.A. examination committee, which consists of the director of the M.A. program and two other English faculty members. All three read the full portfolio. To pass, the candidate must win a majority vote of the committee members.

Students take the first step toward preparing to submit a portfolio by meeting with the director of the M.A. program to discuss the portfolio, early during the semester in which they plan to graduate. After fulfilling all distribution and eligibility requirements and clearing all incomplete grades, students present the director with a draft of the portfolio's introductory statement. Students planning to graduate at the end of fall semester should present the statement by the first week of October; those who plan to graduate at the end of spring semester should present the statement by the first week of March. Once the director approves the statement, the student must submit three copies of the full portfolio; the submission deadline is November 1 for students planning to graduate at the end of fall semester and April 1 for those who will graduate at the end of spring semester.

The work in the portfolio should demonstrate the student’s knowledge of literature as a broad historical and theoretical inquiry. Students submit approximately 50 pages (12,500 words) of their best work, along with a self-reflective introductory statement of five to seven pages. The body of the portfolio should contain papers originally produced for classes, revised for a broader audience unfamiliar with the original classes. The introduction should detail the student's trajectory in the program and the literary-critical or methodological skills he or she has gained. It also should explain the contents of the portfolio; contextualize each paper; and give a brief overview of the writing. Students are expected to describe the research methods used in assembling their portfolios and the critical practices that ground their work.

Master of Fine Arts: Creative Writing

The Master of Fine Arts program in creative writing requires a minimum of 48 s.h. of graduate credit. The degree is offered through the Creative Writing Program (Iowa Writers’ Workshop), a two-year residency program that culminates in a creative thesis, such as a novel, a collection of stories, or a book of poetry.

Throughout the program, workshop students craft their manuscripts and engage in an exchange of ideas about writing and reading with each other and with the renowned teacher-authors who make up the workshop's faculty. Admission to the program is competitive.

For details about the M.F.A. in creative writing and about the Iowa Writers' Workshop, see Creative Writing (Iowa Writers' Workshop) (p. 219) in the Catalog.

Master of Fine Arts: Nonfiction Writing

The Master of Fine Arts program in nonfiction writing requires 48 s.h. of graduate credit. It is designed for accomplished students and writers of literary nonfiction; most complete it in three years. The program culminates in a thesis of at least 75 pages.

M.F.A. students must complete 32 s.h. in residence at The University of Iowa, in courses specified by the program. They may choose electives widely, from courses offered by the English department and by all other University of Iowa departments.

Department of English graduate courses are repeatable with the written approval of the department's director of graduate studies.

In addition to completing course work, students are required to enroll for at least 2 s.h. and no more than 8 s.h. of thesis credit. The thesis may be a single extended piece of nonfiction, a collection of shorter nonfiction pieces, or a collection of essays. Whatever the project, the thesis is expected to be of publishable quality.

For more information, consult the director of the Nonfiction Writing Program.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in English requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. The program is designed as preparation for the teaching, publishing, and administrative service required of college and university faculty members. Concentrations are offered in areas such as literary history and critical theory, as well as interdisciplinary areas such as cultural studies and transnational studies.

Of the minimum 72 s.h. required for the degree, at least 30 s.h. must be earned in residence at The University of Iowa with a g.p.a. of at least 3.50.

Students must gain formal admission to Ph.D. candidacy by a vote of the Graduate Steering Committee, usually during the third semester of doctoral study.

Students complete course work in literature and culture of any four of these historical periods, as expressed in texts of the English-speaking and -writing world (usually but not always British or American): pre-1500; 1500-1660; 1660-1800; 1800-1900; 20th and 21st centuries. They also complete three seminars in the University of Iowa Department of English.

Students also must fulfill the program's language requirement, usually by completing an advanced undergraduate course numbered 3000 or above in a language other than English.

The comprehensive examination consists of the following: a portfolio of five scholarly questions based on a period of literary history (usually British or American); a review essay and annotated bibliography in a special area of interest; two course syllabi; an article to be submitted for publication; and an introduction to the portfolio that synthesizes its parts in preparation for a two-hour oral exam.

A dissertation is required. Students present their prospectus formally to a faculty committee and must undergo a final exam defending the dissertation.

All doctoral candidates are required to gain some teaching experience, preferably in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences Department of Rhetoric and in General Education Program (p. 323) literature courses.

For application forms and a complete description of the Ph.D. program, contact the department's graduate program academic coordinator.

Admission

Applications for admission must be postmarked by the following deadlines.

- M.A. and Ph.D.: postmark by January 3
- M.F.A. (creative writing): postmark by January 3
- M.F.A. (nonfiction writing): postmark by December 15

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Financial Support

Graduate scholarships, fellowships, and teaching and research assistantships are awarded on a competitive basis. The department strives to provide five years of support for students who enter with an M.A. and six years of support for students who enter with a B.A. Students must be in good standing, which requires a University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.50 and full-time enrollment.

Financial aid applications are considered only from students who have applied or been admitted to a degree program in the Graduate College. Applications and all necessary supporting material must be submitted by the end of January for the following academic year. Forms are available from the Department of English and the University's Office of Admissions.

Facilities and Resources

The University of Iowa Libraries collection is strong in all areas of English and American literature. Partly because of the influence of the Iowa Writers' Workshop, University Libraries has particular strengths in 20th-century fiction and poetry, including manuscript collections of 20th-century authors.

Several periodicals are published under the department's aegis. The Iowa Review, Walt Whitman Quarterly Review, and Philological Quarterly offer opportunities for especially qualified graduate students to work as research assistants or editorial associates. The Iowa Journal of Cultural Studies, edited by English department graduate students, features creative and scholarly work by students in English and related areas.

The Department of English and the Iowa Writers' Workshop sponsor a rich and extensive series of readings and lectures by poets, fiction writers, and scholars, all open to students in the department.
The Association of Graduate Students in English sponsors social and intellectual events during the year and provides a forum for student opinion. All graduate students in the department are members.

English as a Second Language

Director
• Maureen Burke

Lecturers
• Eric Bodin, Jennifer Brown, Craig Dresser, Susan Isham, Katherine Kasten, Jeffrey Knowling, Melissa Meisterheim

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/esl/

The University of Iowa offers English as a Second Language (ESL) instruction in three distinct, but related, programs: ESL credit classes, the Iowa Intensive English Program (IIEP), and the Teaching Assistant Preparation in English program (TAPE).

These programs meet the needs of students whose first language is not English. ESL credit classes help students raise their English proficiency so they can complete a degree successfully. IIEP provides intensive instruction for students who must raise their English proficiency to gain admission to a university or college. TAPE helps students improve their oral competence in English so they may assume classroom teaching responsibilities.

Programs

ESL Credit Program

English as a Second Language credit classes bridge the gap between full-time language instruction and full-time academic work, serving students who score a minimum of 80-100 (Internet-based) with no subscore below 17 on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). ESL courses are offered to help students increase their proficiency in four skill areas: reading, writing, speaking, and listening. A course in grammar also is available. Each course offers 3 s.h. of credit, which undergraduates may count as elective credit toward graduation. Courses are taught by ESL lecturers and by teaching assistants pursuing advanced degrees in linguistics.

Acceptable TOEFL scores may change. Check with the Office of Admissions for more information.

Courses taken to meet the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences English proficiency requirement must be completed with a grade of C or higher. If a student earns a grade of C-minus or lower in an ESL course, the course must be retaken in order for the student to fulfill the ESL course requirement. An ESL course must be taken for a letter grade and may not be taken pass/nonpass or satisfactory/unsatisfactory. Students are not allowed to drop ESL courses once the semester begins. A student held for ESL courses may not enroll in a rhetoric course until the ESL requirement is completed.

Visit the ESL Credit Program web site for more information.

Iowa Intensive English Program (IIEP)

The Iowa Intensive English Program (IIEP) primarily serves students on conditional admission and persons who have not yet been admitted to the University and who score below 80 (Internet-based) on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). The program welcomes international students preparing to enter universities and colleges as well as other adults who want to improve their English skills.

IIEP offers intensive English instruction and a cultural, social, and academic orientation to the United States. Instruction emphasizes proficiency in spoken and written English, which is crucial to college and university work. Grammar and the basic language skills of writing, reading, listening comprehension, and speaking are taught each day at all levels, from beginning through advanced. Instruction is by full-time professional ESL instructors.

Each IIEP student receives 20 hours of classroom instruction each week plus individual work in the language laboratory. IIEP students have full access to all University facilities. Field trips and cultural and social experiences are integral parts of the program.

International students admitted to the IIEP receive a certificate of eligibility (Form I-20), which enables them to apply for a student visa at the nearest U.S. consulate or embassy. Application materials are available from the ESL Programs Office and on the Iowa Intensive English Program web site.

Teaching Assistant Preparation in English (TAPE)

The Teaching Assistant Preparation in English program (TAPE) is designed for graduate students whose first language is not English, who need additional work on English communication, and who will hold teaching assistantships while enrolled at The University of Iowa. Only students who need the program and who have sufficient competence in English to profit from it are eligible. TAPE courses are open to graduate students who have been evaluated for TA certification and to others if space is available. Students are taught by full-time professional ESL instructors.

Courses

ESL Credit Program

The following courses are for students whose first language is not English. Courses taken to meet the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences English proficiency requirement may not be taken pass/nonpass. English as a Second Language (ESL) courses may not be taken satisfactory/unsatisfactory. In order to enroll in ESL courses, undergraduates must score 80 (Internet-based) or higher on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL), or the equivalent; graduate students must score 81 (Internet-based) or higher on TOEFL, or the equivalent. IIEP:0535 (212:035) Iowa Intensive English Reading: Advanced Comprehensive reading curriculum designed to help students become effective readers; variety of skills and opportunities to practice many strategies while reading different kinds of written material (i.e., newspapers, magazines, schedules, documents, textbooks, correspondence, literature); emphasis on learning by doing; eclectic teaching approach.

IIEP:0545 (212:045) Iowa Intensive English Grammar: Advanced
Correct use of the grammatical structures of English; learning grammar in a systematic and logical way; extensive practice to meet the goal of communicative competence in English.

IIEP:0555 (212:055) Iowa Intensive English Writing: Advanced
Personal and formal writing; experiment with varied forms of writing, from journal entries and letters to critiques, essay examinations, and short papers that involve use of the library; students read and respond to each other's writing, and in the process become more aware of their own strengths and weaknesses as writers.

IIEP:0565 (212:065) IIE Listening Skills: Advanced
Listening skills needed for academic success; note taking and listening skills associated with small group discussions and everyday conversations.

Teaching Assistant Preparation in English (TAPE)
The TAPE program is designed for prospective teaching assistants whose first language is not English and who need additional work on English communication skills. Entry to the program is determined by a test.

TAPE:5100 (212:250) Pronunciation, Fluency Building, and Culture
Attain greater fluency for teaching by making short presentations and participating in natural interactions about U.S. culture; intensive work on pronunciation to help future teaching assistants attain maximum intelligibility.

TAPE:5200 (212:006) TA Preparation in English: Fluency Building
Pronunciation, fluency building, knowledge of the University of Iowa classroom.

TAPE:5220 (212:007) TA Preparation in English: Pronunciation
Intensive work toward maximum intelligibility; emphasis on stress, timing, intonation.

TAPE:5300 (212:008) TA Preparation in English: Presentation Skills
Intelligibility of speech and clarity of expression in presenting and responding; practice in videotaped lectures.

TAPE:5330 (212:009) TA Preparation in English: Orientation
Student expectations, typical teacher/student relationships, basic classroom management at the University.
Environmental Policy and Planning

Undergraduate major: Environmental Policy and Planning (B.A., B.S.)
Undergraduate minor: Environmental Policy and Planning

The undergraduate programs of study in environmental policy and planning are administered by the Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
- Major in environmental policy and planning (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science)
- Minor in environmental policy and planning

Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in environmental policy and planning requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 40-43 s.h. of work for the major. The Bachelor of Science with a major in environmental policy and planning requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 47-49 s.h. of work for the major. Credit required for the major depends on the student’s choice of track. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Transfer students must complete at least 21 s.h. of work for the major in residence at The University of Iowa.

The major in environmental policy and planning concentrates on the social science and policy dimensions of environmental problems, which often are caused by people and may have significant economic effects. Environmental issues are embedded in a complex mesh of economics, politics, culture, and behavior. Planners and policy makers must understand the human dimensions of these factors in order to solve environmental problems.

The environmental policy and planning major is interdisciplinary; it draws courses from geographical and sustainability sciences, anthropology, economics, political science, and other disciplines. Work for the major includes introductory courses, methods courses, intermediate courses, and one of two tracks: the planning track or the policy track.

Students who earn a second major in anthropology, geography, or political science must complete a minimum of 12 s.h. of course work in the second major that they do not also count toward the major in environmental policy and planning. The 12 s.h. of courses must be offered by the second major’s administrative home: anthropology (prefix ANTH), geographical and sustainability sciences (prefix GEOG), or political science (prefix POLI). This requirement applies whether students earn the same degree (B.A. or B.S.) with both majors or earn a B.A. with one major and a B.S. with the other. Exception: honors students in environmental policy and planning may count their honors thesis credit toward this 12 s.h. requirement.

Students may not use a course to satisfy more than one requirement of the major.

The major in environmental policy and planning requires the following course work.

Common Requirements (B.A. and B.S.)

INTRODUCTORY COURSES (B.A. AND B.S.):
Both of these:
- ECON:1100 (06E:001) Principles of Microeconomics 4 s.h.
- GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.
One of these:
- ANTH:2261 (113:113) Human Impacts on the Environment 3 s.h.

INTERMEDIATE COURSES (B.A. AND B.S.):
This course:
One of these:
- ANTH:3103 (113:143) Environment and Culture 3 s.h.
- ANTH:3112 (113:114) Environmentalisms 3 s.h.
- ANTH:4130 (113:139)/RELS:4730 (032:130) Religion and Environmental Ethics 3 s.h.
One of these:
- POLI:3140 (030:045) Introduction to Comparative Politics 3 s.h.
- POLI:3111 (030:126) American Public Policy 3 s.h.

METHODS COURSES (B.A.)
This course:
- GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
One of these:
STAT:1020 (22S:025)/PSQF:1020 (07P:025) Elementary Statistics and Inference 3 s.h.
STAT:1030 (22S:008) Statistics for Business 4 s.h.
STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.
STAT:2020 (22S:039) Probability and Statistics for the Engineering and Physical Sciences 3 s.h.
STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.
STAT:4143 (22S:102)/PSQF:4143 (07P:143) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.

METHODS COURSES (B.S.)
All of these:
GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies 3 s.h.
STAT:4143 (22S:102)/PSQF:4143 (07P:143) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.

Tracks (B.A. and B.S.)
Students choose either the planning track or the policy track and complete their track's required course work.

PLANNING TRACK
The planning track requires 12 s.h.; all students complete ECON:3625 (06E:133) and choose three additional courses from the list below. Some of these courses have prerequisites; students must complete all of a course's prerequisites before they may register for the course or seek permission of the instructor.

This course:
ECON:3625 (06E:133)/URP:3135 (102:135) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.

Three of these:
ECON:3640 (06E:135)/URP:3134 (102:134) Regional and Urban Economics 3 s.h.
GEOG:2410 (044:104) Environment and Development 3 s.h.
GEOG:2930 (044:111) Water Resources 3 s.h.
GEOG:3340 (044:179) Ecosystem Services: Human Dependence on Natural Systems 3 s.h.
GEOG:3350 (044:116) Urban Ecology 3 s.h.
GEOG:3400 (044:117) Iowa Environmental Policy in Practice 3 s.h.
GEOG:3760 (044:175)/GHS:3760 (152:180) Hazards and Society 3 s.h.
GEOG:4770 (044:177) Environmental Justice 3 s.h.
URP:3350 (102:133)/ECON:3750 (06E:145)/GEOG:3940 (044:133) Transportation Economics 3 s.h.

POLICY TRACK
The policy track requires 13 s.h.; all students complete GEOG:4750 (044:125) and choose three additional courses from the list below. Some of these courses have prerequisites; students must complete all of a course's prerequisites before they may register for the course.

This course:
GEOG:4750 (044:125)/URP:4750 (102:125) Environmental Impact Analysis 4 s.h.

Three of these:
ANTH:3240 (113:170) Cultural Resource Management Archaeology: Practice and Practicalities 3 s.h.
GEOG:3400 (044:117) Iowa Environmental Policy in Practice 3 s.h.
POLI:2700 (030:189) Business, Government, and Society (section EXW) 3 s.h.
POLI:3100 (030:113) American State Politics 3 s.h.
POLI:3102 (030:152) The U.S. Congress 3 s.h.
POLI:3110 (030:111) Local Politics 3 s.h.
POLI:3111 (030:126) American Public Policy 3 s.h.
POLI:3117 (030:120) Public Administration and Bureaucratic Politics 3 s.h.
POLI:3118 (030:125) Interest Groups 3 s.h.
POLI:3122 (030:121) Public Choice 3 s.h.
POLI:3123 (030:110) State Politics in Iowa (section EXW) 3 s.h.
POLI:3125 (030:188) Perspectives on Contemporary Iowa 3 s.h.
POLI:3404 (030:150) Public Policy Around the World 3 s.h.
POLI:3408 (030:148) Government and Politics of China 3 s.h.

The course POLI:3125 (030:188) Perspectives on Contemporary Iowa must be taken concurrently with POLI:3124 (030:187) Political Science Des Moines Internship Program. Credit from POLI:3124 (030:187) does not count toward the major.

Four-Year Graduation Plan
The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Bachelor of Arts
Before the third semester begins: one introductory course in the major
Before the fifth semester begins: four courses in the major
Before the seventh semester begins: eight courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
Before the eighth semester begins: 11 courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Bachelor of Science

Before the third semester begins: one introductory course in the major

Before the fifth semester begins: five courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: eight courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: 12 courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in environmental policy and planning have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Honors students in the program must maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in all work for the major. They must be admitted to the major's honors program by the first semester of their senior year or earlier.

Honors students in environmental policy and planning pursue study beyond the typical undergraduate level. In order to graduate with honors in the major, they work under the direction of a faculty member to conduct original research and then prepare and present an honors thesis based on their research. The thesis is reviewed by a committee of at least three faculty members. Students earn credit for the thesis by registering for GEOG:4995 (044:199) Honors Thesis or POLI:4601 (030:186) Honors Senior Thesis, or ANTH:4995 (113:186) Honors Research Seminar and ANTH:4996 (113:176) Honors Research.

In addition to honors in the major, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor

The minor in environmental policy and planning requires a minimum of 18 s.h., including 12 s.h. in University of Iowa courses numbered 3000 or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. For help in selecting courses, students should contact the department secretary to request an advisor for the minor.

Students may apply a maximum of 6 s.h. toward both the minor in environmental policy and planning and any major or minor in the Departments of Anthropology (p. 55), Geographical and Sustainability Sciences (p. 334), or Political Science (p. 535).

The minor in environmental policy and planning requires three core courses plus three courses from the student's choice of track: the planning track or the policy track. Students may not use a course to satisfy more than one requirement of the minor.

All students complete three core courses.

This course:

GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.

One of these:

ANTH:2261 (113:113) Human Impacts on the Environment 3 s.h.

ANTH:3103 (113:143) Environment and Culture 3 s.h.

ANTH:3112 (113:114) Environmentalisms 3 s.h.

ANTH:4130 (113:139)/RELS:4730 (032:130) Religion and Environmental Ethics 3 s.h.

One of these:

POLI:1400 (030:045) Introduction to Comparative Politics 3 s.h.

POLI:3111 (030:126) American Public Policy 3 s.h.

Students also complete course work in a single track, choosing three courses from either the planning track list or the policy track list below.

Planning track:

GEOG:2410 (044:104) Environment and Development 3 s.h.

GEOG:2930 (044:111) Water Resources 3 s.h.

GEOG:3340 (044:179) Ecosystem Services: Human Dependence on Natural Systems 3 s.h.

GEOG:3350 (044:116) Urban Ecology 3 s.h.

GEOG:3400 (044:117) Iowa Environmental Policy in Practice 3 s.h.

GEOG:3760 (044:175) Hazards and Society 3 s.h.

GEOG:4770 (044:177) Environmental Justice 3 s.h.

URP:3134 (102:134)/ECON:3640 (06E:135) Regional and Urban Economics 3 s.h.

URP:3135 (102:135)/ECON:3625 (06E:133) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.

URP:3350 (102:133)/ECON:3750 (06E:145)/GEOG:3940 (044:133) Transportation Economics 3 s.h.

Policy track:

ANTH:3240 (113:170) Cultural Resources Management Archaeology: Practice and Practicalities 3 s.h.

GEOG:3400 (044:117) Iowa Environmental Policy in Practice 3 s.h.

GEOG:3760 (044:175)/GHS:3760 (152:180) Hazards and Society 3 s.h.

Undergraduate major: Environmental Sciences (B.A., B.S.)
Undergraduate minor: Environmental Sciences
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/envsci/
The tracks aim to prepare scientists who can tackle problems that require particular areas of expertise, and to help students develop the skills needed for future employment or graduate study.

The environmental sciences major for the Bachelor of Science requires the following course work.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS FOUNDATION

Students must complete at least 31 s.h. of course work for the science and mathematics foundation, as follows.

All of these:

- BIOL:1411 (002:031) - BIOL:1412 (002:032) 8 s.h. Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function
- CHEM:1110 (004:011) & CHEM:1120 (004:012) 8 s.h. Principles of Chemistry I-II
- EES:1050 (012:005) Introduction to Geology 4 s.h.
- MATH:1850 (22M:025) & MATH:1860 (22M:026) Calculus I-II 8 s.h.

One of these:

- CHEM:2021 (004:021) Basic Measurements 3 s.h.
- STAT:2020 (22S:039) Probability and Statistics for the Engineering and Physical Sciences 3 s.h.
- STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.
- STAT:4200 (22S:105) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.

ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES FOUNDATION

Students must complete at least 17-18 s.h. of course work for the environmental sciences foundation, as follows.

All of these:

- ENVS:1080 (159:008) Introduction to Environmental Science 4 s.h.
- ENVS:2673 (159:134) Ecology 3 s.h.
- ENVS:3000 (159:100) Environmental Sciences Seminar (taken twice; section 1 for 0 s.h. and section 2 for 1 s.h.) 1 s.h.
- ENVS:3020 (159:102) Earth Surface Processes 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.

One of these:

- ENVS:3100 (159:110) Introduction to Applied Remote Sensing 4 s.h.
- GEOG:3500 (044:105) Introduction to Environmental Remote Sensing 3 s.h.

Tracks for the Bachelor of Science

Bachelor of Science students majoring in environmental sciences must choose one of the following four tracks. Each track includes required general sciences courses, track foundation courses, field study courses, and elective courses.

BIOSCIENCES (GREEN) TRACK

The environmental biosciences track provides the essential skills for entry-level positions that require a good knowledge of biotic systems and the ability to inventory biologic resources. The track's aim is to produce scientists who are capable of tackling environmental problems in which links and interactions with life sciences are crucial and in which a substantial knowledge of biological/ ecological sciences is required. The track also provides a strong foundation for graduate or professional training in disciplines such as ecology, wildlife management, and natural resource management.

Students must complete at least 32 s.h. of environmental biosciences track course work, including one field study course.

Biosciences Track: General Sciences

CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I 3 s.h.

Students are encouraged to take at least one semester of physics.

Biosciences Track: Foundation

Both of these:

- BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3172 (002:131) Evolution 4 s.h.

At least 7 s.h. from these:

- BIOL:2346 (002:108) Vertebrate Zoology 4 s.h.
- EES:3070 (012:107) Marine Ecosystems and Conservation 3 s.h.

Biosciences Track: Field Study

One of these:

- ENVS:3095 (159:195) Field Ecology 4 s.h.
- IALL:3103 (00L:103) Aquatic Ecology 4 s.h.
- IALL:3105 (00L:105) Plant Taxonomy 4 s.h.
- IALL:3109 (00L:109) Ecology and Systematics of Algae 4 s.h.
- IALL:3115 (00L:115) Field Mycology 4 s.h.
- IALL:3117 (00L:117) Ecology and Systematics of Diatoms 4 s.h.

Biosciences Track: Electives

Biosciences track students must complete at least 10 s.h. of elective course work, with at least 6 s.h. from the following lists. They may include an additional field study course to satisfy 4 s.h. of the elective requirement (see "Biosciences Track: Field Study" above).

- BIOL:3244 (002:143) Animal Behavior 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3343 (002:124) Animal Physiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:4273 (002:162) Population Genetics and Molecular Evolution 3 s.h.
- BIOL:4899 (002:199) Introduction to Research 3 s.h.
CHEM:3110 (004:111) Analytical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:3120 (004:112) Analytical Chemistry II 3 s.h.
EES:3080 (012:108) Introduction to Oceanography 2 s.h.
EES:3210 (012:121) Principles of Paleontology 3 s.h.
GEOG:2310 (044:101) Climatology 3 s.h.
GEOG:3310 (044:123) Landscape Ecology 3 s.h.
GEOG:3320 (044:126) Wetlands: Function, Geography, and Management 3 s.h.
STAT:6513 (22S:148) Intermediate Statistical Methods 4 s.h.

May include one of these policy courses:
ECON:3625 (06E:133) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.
GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.
GEOG:2950 (044:088) Environmental Conservation 3 s.h.
GEOG:3340 (044:179) Ecosystem Services: Human Dependence on Natural Systems 3 s.h.
GEOG:3350 (044:116) Urban Ecology 3 s.h.
GEOG:4750 (044:125) Environmental Impact Analysis 4 s.h.

CHEMICAL SCIENCES (YELLOW) TRACK

The environmental chemical sciences track provides the essential skills for entry-level positions that require a basic understanding of chemical principles and a working knowledge of basic chemical concepts as applied in the environment. The track's aim is to produce scientists who are capable of tackling environmental problems in which chemical and molecular processes play an important role. The track also provides a strong foundation for graduate or professional training in environmental chemistry.

Students must complete at least 35 s.h. of environmental chemical sciences track course work.

Chemical Sciences Track: General Sciences

One of these sequences:
PHYS:1511 (029:011)-PHYS:1512 (029:012) College Physics I-II 8 s.h.
PHYS:1611 (029:081)-PHYS:1612 (029:082) Introductory Physics I-II 8 s.h.

Chemical Sciences Track: Foundation

This sequence:
CHEM:3110 (004:111) & CHEM:3120 (004:112) Analytical Chemistry I-II 6 s.h.

One of these sequences:
CHEM:2210 (004:121) & CHEM:2220 (004:122) Organic Chemistry I-II 6 s.h.

One of these:
CHEM:4431 (004:131) Physical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:4432 (004:132) Physical Chemistry II 3 s.h.

Chemical Sciences Track: Lab and Field Study

Both of these:
CHEM:2410 (004:141) Organic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.
CHEM:3430 (004:143) Analytical Measurements 3 s.h.

Chemical Sciences Track: Electives

Chemical sciences track students must complete at least 6 s.h. of elective courses chosen from the following lists. Students may petition the chemistry department's environmental sciences advisor to use appropriate Department of Chemistry courses numbered 3000 and above as electives.

ENVS:3110 (159:111) Chemical Evolution of the Oceans 3 s.h.
BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
CEE:4153 (053:153) Environmental Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.
CEE:5152 (053:152) Environmental Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:3250 (004:125) Inorganic Chemistry 2 s.h.
CHEM:3999 (004:162) Undergraduate Research 1-3 s.h.
CHEM:4873 (004:173) Atmospheric and Environmental Chemistry 3 s.h.
EES:4490 (012:149) Elements of Geochemistry 3 s.h.
EES:4520 (012:152) Isotope Geochemistry 3 s.h.
GEOG:2310 (044:101) Climatology 3 s.h.

May include one of these:
CHEM:4431 (004:131) Physical Chemistry I (if not taken as a foundation course) 3 s.h.
CHEM:4432 (004:132) Physical Chemistry II (if not taken as a foundation course) 3 s.h.

May include one of these policy courses:
ECON:3625 (06E:133) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.
GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.
GEOG:2930 (044:111) Water Resources 3 s.h.

GEOSCIENCES (BROWN) TRACK

The environmental geosciences track provides the essential skills for entry-level positions that require a basic understanding of geologic principles and a working knowledge of basic geologic concepts applied in the environmental industry. The track's aim is to produce scientists who are capable of tackling environmental problems in which earth materials and surficial geologic processes are of primary importance. The track also lays a strong foundation for graduate study in environmental geology, engineering geology, and natural hazards assessment.

Students must complete at least 31 s.h. of environmental geosciences track course work.

CHEM:2410 (004:141) Organic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.
CHEM:3430 (004:143) Analytical Measurements 3 s.h.
Geosciences Track: General Sciences

PHYS:1400 (029:008) Basic Physics 4 s.h.

Students are strongly encouraged to take additional course work in physics.

Geosciences Track: Foundation

All of these:

- EES:2410 (012:041) Mineralogy 4 s.h.
- EES:3300 (012:130) Sedimentary Geology 4 s.h.
- EES:3360 (012:136) Soil Genesis and Geomorphology 3 s.h.
- EES:3840 (012:132) Structural Geology 4 s.h.
- EES:4790 (012:179) Engineering Geology 3 s.h.

Geosciences Track: Field Study

One of these:

- CEE:4103 (053:103) Water Quality 3 s.h.
- EES:4680 (012:168) Field Methods in Hydrologic Science 3 s.h.
- EES:4831 (012:112) Geologic Field Methods 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4010 (044:180) Field Methods in Physical Geography 3 s.h.
- IALL:3142 (00L:142) Watershed Hydrology and Surficial Processes 4 s.h.

Geosciences Track: Electives

Geosciences track students must complete at least 6 s.h. of elective courses chosen from the following lists.

- ENVS:3110 (159:111) Chemical Evolution of the Oceans 3 s.h.
- CEE:2150 (053:050) Natural Environmental Systems 3 s.h.
- CEE:4158 (053:158) Solid and Hazardous Wastes 3 s.h.
- EES:1400 (012:140) Natural Disasters 3 s.h.
- EES:3080 (012:108) Introduction to Oceanography 3 s.h.
- EES:3140 (012:114) Energy and the Environment 3 s.h.
- EES:3190 (012:119) Directed Study 3 s.h.
- EES:3300 (012:130) Sedimentary Geology 4 s.h.
- EES:3380 (012:138) Fluvial Geomorphology 3 s.h.
- EES:3390 (012:139) Integrated Watershed Analysis 3 s.h.
- EES:3500 (012:150) Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology 4 s.h.
- EES:4490 (012:149) Elements of Geochemistry 3 s.h.
- EES:4520 (012:152) Isotope Geochemistry 3 s.h.
- EES:4630 (012:166) Hydrogeology 3 s.h.
- EES:4720 (012:172) Glacial and Pleistocene Geology 3 s.h.
- EES:4800 (012:180) Survey of Geophysical Methods 3 s.h.
- EES:4870 (012:178) Applied Geostatistics 3 s.h.
- EES:5820 (012:191) Tectonics 3 s.h.
- GEOG:2310 (044:101) Climatology 3 s.h.

May include one of these policy courses:

- ENVS:2115 (159:015) History and Science of Oil 3 s.h.
- ECON:3625 (06E:133) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.
- GEOG:2950 (044:088) Environmental Conservation 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3760 (044:175) Hazards and Society 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4750 (044:125) Environmental Impact Analysis 4 s.h.

HYDROSCIENCES (BLUE TRACK)

The environmental hydrosciences track provides the essential skills for entry-level positions that require a basic understanding of geologic principles and a working knowledge of hydrogeology and hydrogeochemistry. The aim of the track is to produce scientists who are capable of tackling environmental problems that emphasize hydrogeologic systems and for which substantial knowledge of hydrogeology and water chemistry are essential. The track also lays a strong foundation for graduate education in hydrogeology, hydrology, geochemistry, and aqueous chemistry.

Students must complete at least 34 s.h. of environmental hydrosciences track course work.

Hydrosciences Track: General Sciences

PHYS:1511 (029:011)-PHYS:1512 (029:012) College Physics I-II 8 s.h.

Hydrosciences Track: Foundation

Both of these:

- EES:4630 (012:166) Hydrogeology 3 s.h.
- EES:4790 (012:179) Engineering Geology 3 s.h.

One of these:

- EES:3380 (012:138) Fluvial Geomorphology 3 s.h.
- EES:3390 (012:139) Integrated Watershed Analysis 3 s.h.

One of these:

- CEE:5152 (053:152) Environmental Chemistry I 3 s.h.
- EES:4490 (012:149) Elements of Geochemistry 3 s.h.

Hydrosciences Track: Field Study

One of these:

- EES:4680 (012:168) Field Methods in Hydrologic Science 3 s.h.
- IALL:3142 (00L:142) Watershed Hydrology and Surficial Processes 4 s.h.

Hydrosciences Track: Electives

Hydrosciences track students must complete at least 11 s.h. of elective courses chosen from the following lists.

- ENVS:3110 (159:111) Chemical Evolution of the Oceans 3 s.h.
- CEE:2150 (053:050) Natural Environmental Systems 3 s.h.
- CEE:3371 (053:071) Principles of Hydraulics and Hydrology 3 s.h.
Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in environmental sciences requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including a minimum of 60 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323); some courses required for the major in environmental sciences may be used to satisfy General Education Program requirements.

Bachelor of Arts students majoring in environmental sciences complete requirements in four areas: the science and mathematics foundation, the environmental sciences foundation, environmental sciences field study, and environmental sciences track courses.

The science and mathematics foundation develops fundamental skills and comprehension in biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics, and statistics. The environmental sciences foundation includes an introductory course in environmental science and additional courses that focus on the geomorphic and environmental processes that shape the Earth’s surface, the ecological factors that influence the distribution and abundance of organisms, and a choice of one course that deals with remote sensing techniques or with the use of geographic information technologies. The environmental sciences field study gives students hands-on experience with methods of analysis and interpretation of natural systems/organisms.

Each of the program's four tracks focuses on areas of specialization within environmental sciences:

- biosciences (green) track—biological systems and ecological approaches;
- chemical sciences (yellow) track—environmental systems and chemistry;
- geosciences (brown) track—earth materials and surficial geologic processes; and
- hydrosciences (blue) track—hydrogeology and hydrogeologic systems, and water chemistry.

Students select one course from each of three of the four tracks in order to develop breadth of understanding and skill in these areas.

The environmental sciences major for the Bachelor of Arts requires the following course work.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS FOUNDATION

Students must complete at least 31 s.h. of course work for the sciences and mathematics foundation, as follows.

All of these:

- BIOL:1411 (002:031)-BIOL:1412 (002:032) Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function 8 s.h.
- CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I 4 s.h.
- CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II 4 s.h.
- EES:1050 (012:005) Introduction to Geology 4 s.h.
- First semester math and calculus—one of these:
  - MATH:1440 (22M:015) Mathematics for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
  - MATH:1850 (22M:025) Calculus I 4 s.h.
- Second semester math and calculus—one of these:
  - MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
  - MATH:1860 (22M:026) Calculus II 4 s.h.
- One semester of statistics—one of these:
  - CHEM:2021 (004:021) Basic Measurements 3 s.h.
  - STAT:2020 (22S:039) Probability and Statistics for the Engineering and Physical Sciences 3 s.h.
  - STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.
  - STAT:4200 (22S:105) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.

ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES FOUNDATION

Students must complete at least 17-19 s.h. of course work for the environmental sciences foundation, as follows.

All of these:

- ENVS:1080 (159:008) Introduction to Environmental Science 4 s.h.
- ENVS:2673 (159:134) Ecology 3 s.h.
- ENVS:3000 (159:100) Environmental Sciences Seminar (taken twice; section 1 for 0 s.h. and section 2 for 1 s.h.) 1 s.h.
- ENVS:3020 (159:102) Earth Surface Processes 3 s.h.

One of these:
ENVS:3100 (159:110) Introduction to Applied Remote Sensing 4 s.h.
GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
GEOG:3500 (044:105) Introduction to Environmental Remote Sensing 3 s.h.

One of these:
ENVS:2115 (159:015) History and Science of Oil 3 s.h.
ANTH:4130 (113:139) Religion and Environmental Ethics 3 s.h.
ECON:3625 (06E:133) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.
GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.
GEOG:2910 (044:030) The Global Economy 3 s.h.
GEOG:2950 (044:088) Environmental Conservation 3 s.h.
GEOG:3350 (044:116) Urban Ecology 3 s.h.
GEOG:3910 (044:194) Geographic Perspectives on Development 3 s.h.
GEOG:4750 (044:125) Environmental Impact Analysis 4 s.h.
GEOG:4770 (044:177) Environmental Justice 3 s.h.

ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES FIELD STUDY
Students must complete at least one field study course (at least 3 s.h.) from the following list.
ENVS:3095 (159:195) Field Ecology 4 s.h.
CEE:4103 (053:103) Water Quality 3 s.h.
EES:4680 (012:168) Field Methods in Hydrologic Science 3 s.h.
IALL:3103 (00L:103) Aquatic Ecology 4 s.h.
IALL:3105 (00L:105) Plant Taxonomy 4 s.h.
IALL:3117 (00L:117) Ecology and Systematics of Diatoms 4 s.h.
IALL:3126 (00L:126) Ornithology 4 s.h.
IALL:3142 (00L:142) Watershed Hydrology and Surficial Processes 4 s.h.
IALL:3163 (00L:163) Conservation Biology 4 s.h.

ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES TRACK COURSES
Students must complete 9-12 s.h. (three courses), choosing one course from each of three of the following four lists of environmental sciences track courses.

Biosciences (Green) Track
BIOL:2346 (002:108) Vertebrate Zoology 4 s.h.
EES:3070 (012:107) Marine Ecosystems and Conservation 3 s.h.
EES:3220 (012:122) Evolution of the Vertebrates 3 s.h.
EES:4700 (012:170) Evolution of Ecosystems 3 s.h.
EES:4710 (012:171) Evolution of Plants 3 s.h.
GEOG:2374 (044:103) Biogeography 3 s.h.
IALL:3105 (00L:105) Plant Taxonomy 4 s.h.

IALL:3117 (00L:117) Ecology and Systematics of Diatoms 4 s.h.

Chemical Sciences (Yellow) Track
BIOL:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
CEE:5152 (053:152) Environmental Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:3110 (004:111) Analytical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
CHEM:4431 (004:131) Physical Chemistry I 3 s.h.

Geosciences (Brown) Track
ENVS:2115 (159:015) History and Science of Oil 3 s.h.
ENVS:3110 (159:111) Chemical Evolution of the Oceans 3 s.h.
EES:1400 (012:140) Natural Disasters 3 s.h.
EES:2410 (012:041) Mineralogy 4 s.h.
EES:3140 (012:114) Energy and the Environment 3 s.h.
EES:3300 (012:130) Sedimentary Geology 4 s.h.
EES:3360 (012:136) Soil Genesis and Geomorphology 3 s.h.
EES:3380 (012:138) Fluvial Geomorphology 3 s.h.
EES:3390 (012:139) Integrated Watershed Analysis 3 s.h.
EES:3840 (012:132) Structural Geology 4 s.h.
EES:4490 (012:149) Elements of Geochemistry 3 s.h.
EES:4520 (012:152) Isotope Geochemistry 3 s.h.
EES:4720 (012:172) Glacial and Pleistocene Geology 3 s.h.
EES:4790 (012:179) Engineering Geology 3 s.h.
EES:4800 (012:180) Survey of Geophysical Methods 3 s.h.

B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure
Environmental sciences majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student... teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Students with a strong interest in science teaching may complete a major offered by the Science Education Program. Students choose one of five emphases—biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, or all-science—and earn a Bachelor of Science degree. They may apply for admission to the Teacher Education Program. See Science Education (p. 809) in the Catalog.

Joint B.A./M.A.T. with Science Education Subprogram

B.A. students majoring in environmental sciences who are interested in pursuing a graduate degree in teaching may apply to the joint Bachelor of Arts/Master of Arts in Teaching program offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the College of Education. Designed for undergraduates majoring in biology, chemistry, environmental sciences, or physics, the joint program enables students to earn a B.A. and an M.A.T. in five years by beginning to earn graduate credit during their fourth year of undergraduate study and by counting up to 18 s.h. of qualifying credit toward both degrees. For more information, see "Joint B.A./M.A.T. with Science Education Subprogram" in the Teaching and Learning (p. 814) (College of Education) section of the Catalog. Interested students should consult an advisor.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The Four-Year Graduation Plan is not available for the environmental sciences major. Students work with their advisors on individual graduation plans.

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in environmental sciences have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Honors study in environmental sciences provides students with opportunities to engage in independent research under the guidance of a faculty sponsor chosen from affiliated faculty of the Environmental Sciences Program; the program draws faculty members from the Departments of Anthropology, Biology, Chemistry, Civil and Environmental Engineering, Earth and Environmental Sciences, and Geographical and Sustainability Sciences. Honors students learn how to write the results of their research in the format of a scientific paper, and they have the experience of formally presenting their research as either a short seminar or a poster.

Environmental sciences honors students must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

To graduate with honors in environmental sciences, students must fulfill the following requirements:

- complete a B.S. or B.A. with a major in environmental sciences with a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in all work for the major;
- submit a research proposal to the honors director within two months of the beginning of the semester in which the research is initiated;
- complete a minimum of 6 s.h. of honors research taken over two semesters in BIOL:4999 (002:196) Honors Investigations, CHEM:3999 (004:162) Undergraduate Research, EES:3190 (012:119) Directed Study, or GEOG:3992 (044:195) Undergraduate Research, depending on the departmental affiliation of the faculty sponsor;
- prepare a thesis presenting the research in the format of a scientific paper with abstract, introduction, methods, results, discussion, and conclusions; the thesis must include a title page and an abstract formatted according to the specifications of the Honors Program and must be submitted to the honors director at least one week before the Honors Program deadline for submission; and
- present either a short seminar or a poster about the research at a professional meeting and/or at The University of Iowa.

Beginning in their sophomore or junior year, students should identify potential faculty sponsors by conducting a web-based survey of the research interests of the program's affiliated faculty. The student should contact potential sponsors to determine who would be willing to sponsor an honors student and what research projects the student might undertake. Students who choose a sponsor whose faculty appointment is not in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences must choose a cosponsor who does have a faculty appointment in CLAS.

After the student has identified a sponsor and the two have agreed on a project, the sponsor guides the student in the preparation of a research proposal that identifies the background, goals, methods, and significance of the research project. The proposal serves as the foundation of the honors thesis, which the student prepares under the sponsor's supervision upon completion of the research. Once the thesis is nearing completion or is completed, the student presents a short seminar or a poster detailing the purpose of the research.

For examples of honors projects in environmental sciences, see Undergraduate Program/Honors Projects on the Environmental Sciences Program web site.

Minor

The minor in Environmental Sciences requires a minimum of 16 s.h. in University of Iowa environmental sciences courses. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. The following courses are required.

ENVS:1080 (159:008)/EES:1080 (012:008)
Introduction to Environmental Science (with lab) 4 s.h.

One environmental sciences foundation course, chosen from these:

ENVS:2673 (159:134)/BIOL:2673 (002:134) 3 s.h.
Ecology
ENVS:3020 (159:102)/EES:3020 (012:102) 3 s.h.
Earth Surface Processes
GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
GEOG:3500 (044:105) Introduction to Environmental Remote Sensing 3 s.h.

And:

Courses in one of the four environmental sciences tracks, listed under "Bachelor of Science"/"Tracks" early in this Catalog section 8-9 s.h.

Track courses must include one track foundation course (3-4 s.h.) and one track field study course (2-4 s.h.). The tracks are environmental biosciences, environmental chemical sciences, environmental geosciences, and environmental hydrosciences.

Facilities

Depending on their choice of track and/or courses, students majoring in environmental sciences may have the opportunity to take courses at Iowa Lakeside Laboratory, a field station located on West Lake Okoboji, in northwestern Iowa. Run cooperatively by The University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and the University of Northern Iowa, the laboratory offers courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels and provides excellent conditions for summer study in several disciplines. See Iowa Lakeside Laboratory (p. 1267) (University College) in the Catalog or visit the Lakeside Laboratory web site.

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

ENVS:1080 (159:008) Introduction to Environmental Science 3-4 s.h.
Biological and physical character of the Earth; interaction of humans with the environment, including impacts on ecosystems, climate, natural processes, resources; alternative options, including sustainability, waste management, energy, land reform. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab; Natural Sciences with Lab. Same as EES:1080 (012:008).

ENVS:1090 (159:009) Introduction to Environmental Sciences Laboratory 1 s.h.
Laboratory component of EES:1080 (012:008). Requirements: completion of 3 s.h. in EES:1080 (012:008) or ENVS:1080 (159:008); or 3 s.h. of transfer equivalent. GE: Natural Sciences Lab only. Same as EES:1090 (012:009).

ENVS:2115 (159:015) History and Science of Oil 3 s.h.

ENVS:2673 (159:134) Ecology 3-4 s.h.
Adaptations of organisms to their physical and biological environments; organism-environment interactions; population biology; interactions between species; ecology of communities, ecosystems; human impact on ecosystems. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031), BIOL:1412 (002:032), and MATH:1460 (22M:016) or MATH:1550 (22M:031) or MATH:1850 (22M:025). Recommendations: a basic statistics course. Same as BIOL:2673 (002:134).

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

ENVS:3000 (159:100) Environmental Sciences Seminar 0-1 s.h.
Role of sciences in environmental issues and problems; progression from observation to evaluation to design of better questions and experiments. Requirements: environmental sciences major.

ENVS:3020 (159:102) Earth Surface Processes 3 s.h.
Basic geomorphic and environmental processes that shape the earth's surface; emphasis on erosion, transport, deposition by land mass movement (creep, landslides, earth flow), fluid agents (wind, water, ice); methods used to study these processes. Prerequisites: EES:1050 (012:005) or EES:1080 (012:008) or ENVS:1080 (159:008) or GEOG:1020 (044:003). Same as GEOG:3020 (044:102), EES:3020 (012:102).

ENVS:3095 (159:195) Field Ecology 4 s.h.
Analysis and interpretation of patterns and underlying physical and biotic basis for regional and local distributions of plants and animals of eastern Iowa; field observation, sampling, and laboratory analysis; conduction of several field research projects requiring collection, statistical analysis, and interpretation of data in short reports; field-oriented course. Prerequisites: BIOL:1411 (002:031). Recommendations: advanced undergraduate standing or graduate standing in ecology, environmental sciences, or geoscience.

ENVS:3100 (159:110) Introduction to Applied Remote Sensing 4 s.h.
Remote sensing of the earth's surface from aircraft, satellites; aerial photograph interpretation; remote sensing systems, methods, data analysis using electromagnetic spectrum and digital processing techniques, including visible, infrared, microwave radiation; remote sensing applied to geologic and environmental problems. Prerequisites: EES:1030 (012:003) or EES:1050 (012:005) or EES:1080 (012:008). Same as EES:3100 (012:110).

ENVS:3110 (159:111) Chemical Evolution of the Oceans 3 s.h.
Investigation of various physico-chemical states oceans have assumed over the past four billion years of Earth history; use of isotope geochemistry as a proxy for ancient ocean conditions; focus on integrated Earth system science, paleoceanographic and paleoclimate modeling, role of chemical stratigraphy in deciphering past climate states of ocean-atmosphere system; relationship between chemical changes in ocean/atmosphere and biological systems of the Earth. Same as EES:3110 (012:111).

ENVS:4700 (159:170) Evolution of Ecosystems

Evolutionary history of terrestrial and marine ecosystems; ecological processes from population to ecosystem levels; community assembly, trophic levels, networks, biodiversity dynamics; practical aspects of paleoecological data collection, statistical analysis, modeling. Requirements: two courses in geoscience, biology, environmental sciences, anthropology, or geography. Same as EES:4700 (012:170).

Undergraduate major: ethics and public policy (B.A.)
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/ethics/

Ethics and public policy is an interdisciplinary major that presents perspectives on intersecting issues that connect the study of philosophy, economics, law, political science, and sociology. All of these disciplines involve a focus on practical questions concerning how individuals ought to behave and how they ought to regulate the behavior of others.

For example, law exists in order to regulate human behavior, enforce human ideals, and resolve human conflict; most people agree that what society should do depends in part on the actual or potential consequences of its actions; and some of the most important consequences of actions and policies are economic. So it is folly to try to reason clearly about how to rectify injustice without thinking long and hard about the economic impact of one’s plans. But law and social policy affect more than economics; they have a role in constructing the very fabric of society and the nature of the political state in which we want to live.

The major in ethics and public policy provides an ideal background for law school. The study of reasoning, an important component of the major, is useful in preparing for the LSAT, GMAT, and MCAT. The major also prepares students to bring a sophisticated, cross-disciplinary perspective to diverse fields such as government, urban and regional planning, social work, and business.

Students choose one field of specialization for the major and may find it easy to pursue a second major in another of the major’s specialization fields, thus broadening their prospects for choosing graduate schools or beginning professional careers.

The Departments of Economics, Philosophy, Political Science, and Sociology collaborate to present the major in ethics and public policy; the major is administered by the Department of Philosophy.

Undergraduate Program of Study
- Major in ethics and public policy (Bachelor of Arts)

Bachelor of Arts

The major in ethics and public policy requires the following course work.

Foundation Courses
Foundation courses introduce students to each of the disciplines that participate in the major: philosophy, economics, political science, and sociology. These courses provide students with the basic reasoning skills they will need for advanced study. The foundation courses also help students make an informed selection of specialization field.

All students are required to take PHIL:1636 (026:036) Principles of Reasoning: Argument and Debate or PHIL:2603 (026:103) Introduction to Symbolic Logic in order to gain facility with abstract, formal reasoning.

Some courses may be listed in both a foundation area and a specialization field; students may use a course to fulfill only one requirement for the major.

Philosophy Foundation
Reasoning—one of these:
- PHIL:2603 (026:103) Introduction to Symbolic Logic 3 s.h.

Value theory—one of these:
- PHIL:1034 (026:034) Philosophy and the Just Society 3 s.h.
- PHIL:2401 (026:001) Matters of Life and Death 3 s.h.
- PHIL:2402 (026:102) Introduction to Ethics 3 s.h.
- PHIL:3432 (026:132) Introduction to Political Philosophy 3 s.h.
- PHIL:3435 (026:135) Philosophy of Law 3 s.h.
- PHIL:3436 (026:136) The Nature of Evil 3 s.h.

Economics Foundation
This course:
- ECON:1100 (06E:001) Principles of Microeconomics 4 s.h.

One of these:
- ECON:3650 (06E:119) Policy Analysis 3 s.h.
- ECON:3800 (06E:172) Law and Economics 3 s.h.

Political Science Foundation
Foundation—one of these:
- POLI:1001 (030:020) Introduction to Politics 3 s.h.
- POLI:1100 (030:001) Introduction to American Politics 3 s.h.
- POLI:1400 (030:045) Introduction to Comparative Politics 3 s.h.
- POLI:3000 (030:100) Understanding Political Research 3 s.h.

Policy course—one of these:
- POLI:1501 (030:061) Introduction to American Foreign Policy 3 s.h.
- POLI:3111 (030:126) American Public Policy 3 s.h.

Sociology Foundation
Theory—one of these:
SOC:1010 (034:001) Introduction to Sociology 3-4 s.h.

SOC:1020 (034:002) Social Problems 3-4 s.h.

Law and sociology—one of these:

SOC:2810 (034:066) Social Inequality 3 s.h.

SOC:3425 (034:146) Deviance and Control 3 s.h.

SOC:3450 (034:186) Criminal Legal System 3 s.h.

SOC:4420 (034:149) Sociology of Criminal Punishment 3 s.h.

SOC:4460 (034:182) Sociology of Law 3 s.h.

FIELDS OF SPECIALIZATION

Students select one of the following fields of specialization: philosophy, economics, political science, or sociology. They must complete four courses in their field, selected from the appropriate list below. Three of the four courses must be numbered 3000 or above.

Some courses may be listed in both a foundation area and a specialization field; students may use a course to fulfill only one requirement for the major.

Philosophy

PHIL:2402 (026:102) Introduction to Ethics 3 s.h.

PHIL:3139 (026:139) Introduction to Public International Law and Human Rights 3 s.h.

PHIL:3342 (026:140) Philosophical Controversies: Multiculturalism and Tolerance 3 s.h.

PHIL:3430 (026:140) Philosophy of Human Rights 3 s.h.

PHIL:3432 (026:132) Introduction to Political Philosophy 3 s.h.

PHIL:3435 (026:135) Philosophy of Law 3 s.h.

PHIL:3436 (026:136) The Nature of Evil 3 s.h.

PHIL:3604 (026:104) Introduction to Philosophy of Science 3 s.h.

PHIL:3633 (026:133) Philosophy of History 3 s.h.

PHIL:4480 (026:180) Analytic Ethics 3 s.h.

PHIL:4481 (026:181) Issues in Philosophy of Law 3 s.h.

PHIL:4482 (026:182) History of Ethics 3 s.h.

PHIL:4485 (026:185) Political Philosophy 3 s.h.

PHIL:4696 (026:196) Philosophy of the Human Sciences 3 s.h.

Economics

ECON:3100 (06E:104) Microeconomic Theory 3 s.h.

ECON:3345 (06E:125) Global Economics and Business 3 s.h.

ECON:3620 (06E:129) Economic Growth and Development 3 s.h.

ECON:3625 (06E:133) Environmental and Natural Resource Economics 3 s.h.

ECON:3640 (06E:135) Regional and Urban Economics 3 s.h.

ECON:3650 (06E:119) Policy Analysis 3 s.h.

ECON:3760 (06E:113) Health Economics 3 s.h.

ECON:3790 (06E:171) Antitrust Economics 3 s.h.

ECON:3800 (06E:172) Law and Economics 3 s.h.

ECON:4160 (06E:176) Public Sector Economics 3 s.h.

Political Science

POLI:3101 (030:116) American Constitutional Law and Politics 3 s.h.

POLI:3102 (030:152) The U.S. Congress 3 s.h.

POLI:3104 (030:108) Immigration Politics 3 s.h.

POLI:3105 (030:112) Minority Representation in American Politics 3 s.h.

POLI:3111 (030:126) American Public Policy 3 s.h.

POLI:3114 (030:107) Women and Politics in the United States 3 s.h.

POLI:3116 (030:115) The Presidency 3 s.h.

POLI:3118 (030:125) Interest Groups 3 s.h.

POLI:3120 (030:158) The Criminal Justice System 3 s.h.

POLI:3121 (030:153) The Judicial Process 3 s.h.

POLI:3400 (030:137) Introduction to Political Economy 3 s.h.

POLI:3401 (030:142) European Union 3 s.h.

POLI:3404 (030:150) Public Policy Around the World 3 s.h.

POLI:3406 (030:156) Ethnic and Religious Conflict in the Muslim World 3 s.h.

POLI:3410 (030:146) Russian Foreign Policy 3 s.h.

POLI:3501 (030:161) International Organization and World Order 3 s.h.

POLI:3503 (030:168) Politics of Terrorism 3 s.h.

POLI:3504 (030:177) Globalization 3 s.h.

POLI:3505 (030:178) Causes, Consequences, and Management of Civil War 3 s.h.

SOC:3520 (034:150) Political Sociology 3 s.h.
Student-Designed Field

In rare circumstances, a student may be given permission to design his or her own specialization field. The student specifies four courses numbered 3000 or above that are interconnected and that suggest a coherent interest. The student-designed field may not duplicate any of the established specialization fields for the major. It also may not include a course that satisfies another requirement for the major.

Students interested in designing their own specialization field should speak with an advisor as early as possible. They must obtain approval from their advisor and from the steering committee of the major in ethics and public policy as soon as possible after they declare the major and before they complete the designated course work.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major.)

Before the third semester begins: at least one course in the major

Before the fifth semester begins: at least three courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: at least seven courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least nine courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in ethics and public policy have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Honors students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in work for the major and a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.50. In order to graduate with honors in the major, they must complete all work for the major and write an acceptable honors thesis on a significant topic related to the major. Students who write their honors thesis in philosophy should consider preparing for the thesis by taking PHIL:4048 (026:148) Readings in Philosophy; students who write in economics should consider taking ECON:3999 (06E:194) Honors Seminar; students who write in political science should take POLI:4000 (030:180) Honors Seminar on the Study of Politics; and students who write in sociology should consider taking SOC:4997 (034:100) Honors Seminar. Contact the coordinator of the Ethics and Public Policy Program for more information.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Undergraduate minors: Arabic; French; Italian
Graduate degrees: M.A. in French and Francophone world studies; Ph.D. in French and Francophone world studies
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/french-italian

The Department of French and Italian introduces students to the cultures of France, the Francophone world, Italy, and parts of the Middle East, providing an understanding of those countries' historical and contemporary importance. It also facilitates development of proficiency in the French, Italian, Arabic, and Swahili languages and fosters critical appreciation of French, Francophone, Italian, and Arabic literatures and cultures.

Undergraduate students in all majors may satisfy the World Languages requirement of the General Education Program (p. 323) with courses in Arabic, French, Italian, or Swahili; see “Language for General Education” below. The department offers other General Education courses, and entering students may take the department's First-Year Seminars, one on France, the other on Italy.

The Department of French and Italian is one of the academic units in the Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures (p. 235).

Undergraduate Programs of Study

• Major in French (Bachelor of Arts)
• Major in Italian (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in Arabic
• Minor in French
• Minor in Italian

Students majoring in French or Italian may combine their studies with courses in education to prepare for jobs in high school teaching. They may go on to graduate study in areas such as French, Italian, comparative literature, and other interdisciplinary areas as preparation for college-level teaching. Or they may combine other skills and studies with their major in French or Italian to prepare for challenging career opportunities in international government, business, finance, travel, communications, and other fields where the knowledge of more than one language is essential.

Bachelor of Arts: French

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in French requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 31-35 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Students majoring in French complete a set of four foundation courses (10 s.h.) plus the requirements for one of four tracks (21-25 s.h.): the French and Arabic track; the language track; the literature and culture track; or the teaching track.

The major in French requires the following course work.

FOUNDATION COURSES

FREN:3020 (009:106) Oral Expression in French II 2 s.h.
FREN:3060 (009:111) Introduction to Reading and Writing in Literature 3 s.h.
FREN:3300 (009:112) French Grammar 3 s.h.
FREN:4020 (009:136) Oral Expression in French III 2 s.h.

Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all course work for the major, including all University of Iowa course work. Majors must maintain portfolios documenting their progress toward attaining the objectives of the French major.

A maximum of one course taught in English may be counted toward the major; courses taught in English with an additional semester hour in French are exempt from this rule. Students should consult with their advisors before registering.

Transfer credit may be accepted, and students are encouraged to participate in study abroad, but the last two courses in the major ordinarily must be completed at The University of Iowa. Transfer credit is evaluated on an individual basis by the faculty in charge of study abroad.

Students choose an emphasis in one of the following four tracks when they declare the major (or later, but before their fourth year).
French and Arabic Track
The French and Arabic track is designed for students interested in combining study of the French and Arabic languages with history, politics, and religions of Middle Eastern cultures and with a major in another area, such as comparative literature, political science, geography, or history.

Requirements for the French and Arabic track include the following seven or eight courses (25 s.h.) in addition to the 10 s.h. of foundation course work in French.

Three courses in French language, or literature and culture, taught in French, with at least one numbered above 4000 9 s.h.
Two or three courses in Arabic language beyond first year 10 s.h.
Two courses on Middle Eastern cultures (prefix FREN), taught in French or English, or approved courses from other departments 6 s.h.

Language Track
The language track is designed for students with an interest in language and translation, as well as literature and culture. Students work in specific areas such as international business, comparative stylistics, and translation.

Requirements for the language track include the following seven courses (21 s.h.) in addition to the 10 s.h. of foundation course work in French.

FREN:3410 (009:115) Business French 3 s.h.
FREN:4890 (009:197) Techniques of Translation 3 s.h.
Five courses in French language, or literature and culture

All language track students take FREN:3410 (009:115) and FREN:4890 (009:197). Of the remaining five courses, only one may be taught in English under the French department (prefix FREN). This restriction does not apply to courses taught in French with an additional semester hour in French. At least two courses must be numbered above 4000.

Literature and Culture Track
The literature and culture track is designed for students who are interested in combining study of French and Francophone literatures and cultures with a major in another area, such as cinema, communication studies, comparative literature, history, international studies, political science, or journalism.

Requirements for the literature and culture track include the following seven courses (21 s.h.) in addition to the 10 s.h. of foundation course work in French.

Five courses in literature and culture
Two courses in language, or literature and culture

Only one of these courses may be taught in English under the French department (prefix FREN). This restriction does not apply to courses taught in English with an additional semester hour in French. At least two courses must be numbered above 4000.

Teaching Track
The teaching track is designed for students who intend to earn licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools. Students must successfully complete the requirements for the major in French with the teaching track and must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP), which requires several education courses and student teaching (see "B.A. with Teacher Licensure" below).

Requirements for the French major's teaching track include the following seven courses (21 s.h.) in addition to the 10 s.h. of foundation course work in French.

Four courses in literature and culture
Three courses from these areas: language, literature and culture, or pedagogy

Only one of these courses may be taught in English under the French department (prefix FREN). This restriction does not apply to courses taught in English with an additional semester hour in French. At least two courses must be numbered above 4000.

Bachelor of Arts: Italian
The Bachelor of Arts with a major in Italian requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 31 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Students may count a maximum of 9 s.h. (three courses) of approved upper-level transfer or study abroad credit toward the major in Italian, but they must take either ITAL:3305 (018:112) Advanced Italian or ITAL:3306 (018:111) Advanced Italian II at The University of Iowa.

The major in Italian requires the following course work.

ITAL:2203 (018:011) Beginning Italian I 4 s.h.
ITAL:2204 (018:012) Beginning Italian II 4 s.h.
ITAL:2305 (018:111) Intermediate Italian I 4 s.h.
ITAL:2306 (018:112) Intermediate Italian II 4 s.h.
ITAL:3305 (018:112) Advanced Italian I 3 s.h.
ITAL:3306 (018:113) Advanced Italian II 4 s.h.
ITAL:4668 (018:106) Modern Italian Poetry and Drama 3 s.h.
ITAL:4670 (018:107) Modern Italian Fiction 3 s.h.
ITAL:4676 (018:108) Modern Italian Poetry and Drama 3 s.h.
ITAL:4634 (018:110) Medieval Italian Literature 3 s.h.
ITAL:4635 (018:120) Medieval and Renaissance Italian Literature 4 s.h.
ITAL:4636 (018:109) Renaissance Italian Literature 3 s.h.
ITAL:4667 (018:105) Modern Italian Fiction 3 s.h.
ITAL:4668 (018:106) Modern Italian Poetry and Drama 3 s.h.

An additional course taught in Italian, numbered above ITAL:3002 (018:103) 3 s.h.

B.A. with Teacher Licensure
French or Italian majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements of their major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.
Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

French majors who want to earn teacher licensure should choose the French teaching track. See "Teaching Track" under "Bachelor of Arts: French" above.

Italian majors who want to earn teacher licensure should include an additional 2 s.h. in their work for the major, in either ITAL:2013 (018:013) Everyday Italian I or ITAL:2014 (018:014) Everyday Italian II.

Students who plan to use their work toward a minor in either French or Italian as academic background for earning teacher licensure should contact the Office of Education Services about requirements.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan.

B.A.: French

Before the third semester begins: competence in first-year French

Before the fifth semester begins: second-year French [FREN:2002 (009:012) Intermediate French II]

Before the seventh semester begins: FREN:3020 (009:106) Oral Expression in French II, two semesters of third-year French, FREN:3060 (009:111) Introduction to Reading and Writing in Literature, FREN:3300 (009:112) French Grammar, one or two other courses in the major, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: FREN:4020 (009:136) Oral Expression in French III and three more courses in the major; for the French language track, FREN:3410 (009:115) Business French and FREN:4890 (009:197) Techniques of Translation

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.A.: Italian

Before the third semester begins: competence in first-year Italian

Before the fifth semester begins: competence in second-year Italian [ITAL:2204 (018:012) Intermediate Italian II]

Before the seventh semester begins: four courses in the major numbered above ITAL:3002 (018:103) and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: a total of at least five courses in the major numbered above ITAL:3002 (018:103)

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in French or Italian have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must have a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 for work done in the department.

To graduate with honors in the major, departmental honors students must register for FREN:4995 (009:198) Honors Research and Thesis (French majors) or ITAL:4998 (018:198) Honors Research and Thesis (Italian majors) and one honors-designated course numbered above 4000 (French) or 3002 (Italian). They must complete an honors thesis or the equivalent (e.g., translation, comparative stylistics, cultural studies, or research) in French or Italian and must present their work to a faculty committee.

Honors students in French or Italian must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor: Arabic

The minor in Arabic requires a minimum of 15 s.h. earned in Arabic language courses considered intermediate or advanced for the minor, including 12 s.h. taken at The University of Iowa (prefix ARAB). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. All courses for the minor must be taught in Arabic. Credit from the University of Iowa Regents Summer Program in Fez, Morocco, earned in courses with prefix ARAB counts as University of Iowa credit for the minor.

Minor: French

The minor in French requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor; 9 s.h. of the 12 s.h. in advanced courses must be taken at The University of Iowa in courses numbered 3000 or above (prefix FREN). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. All courses for the minor must be taught in French. Credit from the University Studies Abroad Consortium (USAC) program in Pau, France, and the Study in Montpellier program in France counts as University of Iowa credit for the minor; 6 s.h. earned in other study abroad programs may be counted toward the minor.

Minor: Italian

The minor in Italian requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. earned in Italian courses (prefix ITAL) numbered above 3002 taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. All courses for the minor must be taught in Italian. Students who wish to count ITAL:3550 (018:132) Images of Modern Italy toward the minor must enroll in the 4 s.h. section, which includes discussion in Italian.

Language for General Education

The Department of French and Italian provides course sequences in four languages—Arabic, French, Italian, and Swahili—that students in all majors may use to fulfill the World Languages requirement of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). It also offers a variety of language courses that nonmajors may take to satisfy their own educational goals and interests.

ARABIC

The department is the administrative home for Arabic language and culture courses. It offers elementary, intermediate, and advanced Arabic as well as conversational Arabic, for which intermediate Arabic is a prerequisite. See "Courses" toward the end of this Catalog section. Students without background in Arabic should begin with ARAB:1001 (195:101) Elementary Modern Standard Arabic I.

Students who wish to fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement with Arabic should complete the following course sequence.

FRENCH

Students who have a background in French should take the online World Languages Placement Test, which helps determine the level at which a student should begin French language study at The University of Iowa. Students without background in French should begin with FREN:1001 (009:001) Elementary French I.

Students who wish to fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement with French should complete the following course sequence.

Study Abroad

The department participates in several study abroad programs. Some of them are the University Study Abroad Consortium (USAC) French Studies in Pau; University of Minnesota/Paul Valery University Study Abroad in Montpellier; and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC) Summer French Program in Quebec at the Université de Laval. For information about these and other programs abroad, contact International Programs Study Abroad and use its Programs by Language search; or see Study Abroad (p. 1288) (University College) in the Catalog.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in French and Francophone world studies (with or without thesis)
- Doctor of Philosophy in French and Francophone world studies

The Master of Arts is offered with an optional French education emphasis.

Faculty expertise enables the department to offer courses in the traditionally recognized historical periods of French literature, various literary genres, and critical theories as well as the Francophone literatures of Canada, North and sub-Saharan Africa, the Caribbean, and the Indian Ocean. The department has particular strengths in interdisciplinary studies, notably in the areas of comparative arts, film studies, history, and second language acquisition.

For more detailed information on graduate degrees in French and Francophone world studies, contact the Department of French and Italian or visit its web site. The department also publishes the Guide for Graduate Students and Assistants.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in French and Francophone world studies requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit and is offered with or without thesis.
Thesis students may apply up to 6 s.h. of thesis credit toward the 30 s.h. required for the degree. They must take a written and oral examination on their areas of study and must defend their thesis at the time of the comprehensive examination. The thesis prospectus must be accepted one year before the student defends the thesis.

Nonthesis students must pass a written and oral examination. With permission of the director of graduate studies and the department chair, nonthesis students may earn up to 6 s.h. of the required 30 s.h. outside the department or transfer up to 6 s.h. of course work completed at another institution.

All M.A. students must complete the following course work.

Courses in French literature numbered 5000 and above (minimum requirement) 9 s.h.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in French and Francophone world studies requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit, including credit earned for the M.A. The program is designed to prepare students for research, teaching, and professional service normally required of college and university faculty members.

The Ph.D. takes at least three years of graduate study, including at least one year spent in residence at The University of Iowa. Students must pass a comprehensive examination and make a successful oral defense of their dissertation.

Requirements for the Ph.D. include the following.

</tbody>
</table>

Three graduate courses in a related field, such as another in literature, history, or philosophy (8 s.h. minimum)

Ph.D. students must possess fifth-semester or equivalent proficiency in a foreign language other than French.

Students working toward the Ph.D. are required to spend at least one year teaching as graduate assistants in the department.

Admission

Applicants to the M.A. program in French and Francophone world studies must have completed the equivalent of the University of Iowa undergraduate major in French. An M.A. in French is prerequisite to admission to the Ph.D. program in French and Francophone world studies. However, successful completion of an M.A. in French does not necessarily qualify a student for doctoral study.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog. Applicants for fall semester whose application materials are received in the department by January 15 have the best chance to be admitted and receive financial aid. They must submit academic transcripts, letters of recommendation from three persons familiar with their past academic work, Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test results, a statement of purpose in taking graduate work, and one or more samples of original writing, one of which should be in French, that show their ability to pursue graduate work in French (an honors thesis, term paper, seminar paper, or other course papers).

Financial Support

Teaching assistantships are offered through the department, and University fellowships and scholarships are available through the Graduate College. Contact the Department of French and Italian for details.

Teaching assistants in the department must take FREN:5030 (009:234) Principles of Teaching and Learning Foreign Languages.

Exchange assistantship agreements with the University of Pau and the University of Poitiers provide one year of residence at these Universities in France for graduate students.

Courses

The department offers courses in French, Italian, Arabic, and Swahili. For a detailed description of courses offered each semester, contact the Department of French and Italian. French courses are conducted in French, and Italian courses are conducted in Italian, unless otherwise indicated. Students may not receive credit for a course that is prerequisite to, or whose equivalent is prerequisite to, a higher-level course they have already completed.

French courses numbered 4000-4999 are intended primarily for advanced undergraduates; graduate students should consult with their advisors before registering for these courses.

Undergraduates may count a maximum of one course taught in English toward requirements for the major in French. This restriction does not apply to courses taught in English with an additional semester hour in French. Students should consult with their advisors before registering.

Students who have had significant experience with French through living or studying abroad should consult with the department before enrolling in any French course.

Undergraduate certificate: fundraising and philanthropy communication
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/sjmc/philanthropy-certificate

The Certificate in Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication is administered by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication (p. 447).

Undergraduate Program of Study
• Certificate in Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication

The certificate program prepares students for careers in the growing field of development, institutional advancement, fundraising, donor relations, and public relations for nonprofit organizations.

Certificate

The Certificate in Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication requires a minimum of 18 s.h. The certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor’s degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate. Completion of the certificate is noted on the student’s transcript.

All certificate students complete core courses (9-10 s.h.), which provide an overview of communication, writing, and management in nonprofit organizations. Students also choose electives (9 s.h.) from a range of courses that match their particular interests, selecting from social service, politics, the arts, environmental issues, and skills useful in fundraising. An optional internship offers practical experience working with development professionals in a nonprofit organization.

Students majoring in journalism and mass communication may count toward the certificate a maximum of 7 s.h. of journalism credit (prefix JMC) that they earn for the major. The certificate cannot be used to satisfy the major’s concentration area requirement. Students minoring in mass communication may count toward the certificate a maximum of 7 s.h. of journalism credit (prefix JMC) that they earn for the minor. Students in other majors should consult with their advisors to learn whether they may count certificate course work toward their majors.

When certificate students register for fundraising and philanthropy communication courses (prefix FPC) that are cross-listed with journalism and mass communication (prefix JMC), they should register for the FPC course number.

The Certificate in Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication requires the following course work.

CORE COURSES

Students earn 9-10 s.h. in courses chosen from these:

- FPC:2200 (217:096) Communication and Public Relations 3 s.h.
- FPC:3185 (217:169) Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication 3 s.h.
- FPC:3633 (217:133) Philanthropy Communication in a Digital World 4 s.h.

May include one of these:

- MGMT:3500 (06J:147) Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness I 3 s.h.
- MGMT:3600 (06J:148) Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness II 3 s.h.

ELECTIVES AND OPTIONAL INTERNSHIP

Students complete a minimum of 9 s.h. in approved elective courses chosen from those listed below. Credit earned for the optional internship counts as elective credit.

The certificate program coordinator may add special topics courses that fulfill certificate requirements to this list. The coordinator also may consider other courses for approval if they fit the program’s guidelines and purpose.

The certificate’s core courses provide a general background in fundraising and philanthropy communication. Students should choose electives that focus on their interests in a specific type of nonprofit work—advocacy, the arts, community service, environmental and global issues, or other areas. Students should speak with the certificate program coordinator when selecting electives.

Some of these courses have prerequisites, which students must complete before they register for the course. Some require special permission.

Advocacy

- POLI:1600 (030:070) Introduction to Political Communication 3 s.h.
- POLI:3111 (030:126) American Public Policy 3 s.h.
- POLI:3118 (030:125) Interest Groups 3 s.h.
- POLI:3119 (030:129) Policy Matters: Perspective on Contemporary Problems 3 s.h.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

- Major in gender, women's, and sexuality studies (Bachelor of Arts)
- Minor in gender, women's, and sexuality studies

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in gender, women's, and sexuality studies (GWSS) requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 36 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in gender, women's, and sexuality studies emphasizes breadth, depth, and interdisciplinary study. Students acquire knowledge of the field’s history, gender and sexuality issues outside the United States and Western Europe, major feminist ideas and debates, and other areas of scholarly concern. They apply this knowledge to an individual research project during their senior year.

Students may declare the major at any time. They are advised by the Academic Advising Center until they have earned 24 s.h. of credit. Transfer credit is evaluated case by case; a maximum of 12 s.h. of transfer credit may be counted toward the degree. Students earning more than one major may count a maximum of three courses completed for the other major toward the GWSS major.

Work for the major consists of the undergraduate core, distribution requirements, and electives. The undergraduate core includes a practicum and culminates in a research seminar.

The major in gender, women's, and sexuality studies requires the following course work.

UNDERGRADUATE CORE

The undergraduate core consists of four courses (minimum of 12 s.h.). Two introductory courses, GWSS:1001 (131:010) Introduction to Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies and GWSS:1002 (131:055) Diversity and Power in the U.S., orient students to the major conceptual areas that constitute GWSS as an interdisciplinary field: GWSS:1001 (131:010) introduces the study of cultural and social beliefs about sex, gender, race, class, and sexuality; GWSS:1002 (131:055) examines issues of race, class, and gender in the United States and the consequences of inequity for communities and individuals.

Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies Practicum (GWSS:3005 (131:105)) allows students to explore the intersection of race, sexuality, class, and gender, focusing on social justice issues, through a practicum experience in collaboration with community partners. Students earn 3-4 s.h. for the practicum, depending on the semester in which they take it.

Students take GWSS:4090 (131:199) Senior Research Seminar during their last semester; members of the University of Iowa Honors Program may take GWSS:4095 (131:198) Honors Senior Thesis instead. In these courses, students design and develop individual creative or scholarly projects that synthesize and extend work they GWSS:4090 (131:199) Senior Research Seminar 3 s.h.

GWSS:4095 (131:198) Honors Senior Thesis (open only to honors students) 3 s.h.

DISTRIBUTION REQUIREMENTS

The distribution requirements (total of at least 12 s.h.) are chosen from the following lists. They include one GWSS theory course, one transnational theory course, one GWSS course with comparative/non-U.S. focus, and one GWSS or other course with a race/ethnicity focus. Students may request permission from the director of undergraduate studies to use courses not on these lists; ideally, these courses should be offered by GWSS (prefix GWSS). At least half of the material in comparative/non-U.S. topics courses must have a non-U.S. context.

Theory—one of these:

GWSS:2095 (131:095) Queer Rhetorics 3 s.h.
GWSS:3200 (131:151) Feminist Theory 3 s.h.

Transnational theory—one of these:

GWSS:2150 (131:149) Transnational Feminism 3 s.h.
GWSS:3010 (131:110) Transnational Sexualities in a Globalizing World 3 s.h.

Comparative/non-U.S. focus—one of these:

GWSS:2052 (131:060) Women in Islam and the Middle East 3 s.h.
GWSS:2108 (131:107) Gendering India 3 s.h.
GWSS:3121 (131:127) Love and Kinship in South Asia 3 s.h.
GWSS:3131 (131:131) Gender and Sexuality in East Asia 3 s.h.
GWSS:3157 (131:157) Gender, Sexuality, and Human Rights 3 s.h.
GWSS:3185 (131:185) Global Women's Cinema 3 s.h.
GWSS:3360 (131:162) Latin American Women Writers 3 s.h.
GWSS:4026 (131:193) French Women Writers 3 s.h.
GWSS:4725 (131:125) Women and Gender in African History 3 s.h.

Race/ethnicity—one of these:

THTR:3415 (049:185) Cultural Diversity and Identity 3 s.h.

Any African American studies course (prefix AFAM) numbered 3000 or above
Any American Indian and native studies course (prefix AINS) numbered 3000 or above

ELECTIVES

Students choose elective courses from the list below, in consultation with their advisor. They must complete at least four electives (minimum of 12 s.h.), earning at least 6 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above. With the instructor's permission, honors students may count a graduate-level course numbered 5000 or above toward the electives requirement.

In choosing electives, students are encouraged to pursue a course of study that emphasizes both breadth and depth. Students should choose three or four courses in a focus area in which they would like to gain deeper knowledge. The area may be within a specific discipline, such as literature, anthropology, or history. This is especially useful for students pursuing double majors, since they may count toward the GWSS major a maximum of three courses they complete for the other major.

The focus area need not be limited to a traditional discipline. Students may seek more specialized education in fields such as sexuality studies or international issues. Breadth also is important; advisors direct students who have taken several courses in one focus area to take additional electives in another focus area.

Students may request permission to use upper-level courses not listed below. At least half of the course's content and requirements must focus on gender and/or sexuality. For information on requesting permission to use a course not listed here, contact the GWSS undergraduate advisor.

At least four of these (minimum of 12 s.h.), with at least 6 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan.

Before the third semester begins: GWSS:1001 (131:101) Introduction to Gender, Women’s, and Sexuality Studies

Before the fifth semester begins: GWSS:1002 (131:055) Diversity and Power in the U.S. and two GWSS electives

Before the seventh semester begins: one GWSS distribution course (theory or comparative/non-U.S. focus) and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: GWSS:3005 (131:105) Gender, Women’s, and Sexuality Studies Practicum, one more GWSS distribution course (theory or comparative/non-U.S. focus), and at least one more GWSS elective

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in gender, women’s, and sexuality studies have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must maintain a University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in the major. To graduate with honors in the major, students must write an honors thesis, which requires two semesters of work during the senior year: fall (thesis research) and spring (thesis writing).

Students who intend to graduate with honors in the major should notify the GWSS director of undergraduate study by the end of their junior year. Before their senior year, they must find a faculty member to serve as their honors thesis supervisor; the department recommends that students consider faculty members from whom they have taken courses.

Students have three options for conducting the fall semester honors research: enroll in GWSS:3990 (131:199) Independent Readings and Research in Gender, Women’s, and Sexuality Studies for 3 s.h.; or complete a graduate readings course or seminar. Each option involves working closely with the student’s honors thesis supervisor.

Students write the honors thesis during spring semester of the senior year, enrolling in GWSS:4095 (131:198) Honors Senior Thesis. They share their research and writing with their classmates and receive aid in writing their thesis from the instructor of GWSS:4090 (131:199) Senior Research Seminar.

A student earning more than one major may be able to graduate with honors in both majors. GWSS faculty members work with the student and the other major’s honors advisor to plan a single thesis that satisfies the honors requirements of both majors. GWSS students writing a thesis for double honors must complete their GWSS thesis work during their senior year, according to the usual timeline: research completed in fall semester, thesis writing completed in spring semester.

In addition to honors in the major, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Minor

The minor in gender, women's, and sexuality studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in course work associated with the department, including 12 s.h. in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa. For the minor, courses numbered 3000 or above and GWSS:1002 (131:055) Diversity and Power in the U.S. are considered advanced. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may count a maximum of 3 s.h. of work for their major toward the GWSS minor.

The minor must include GWSS:1001 (131:010) Introduction to Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies. The department strongly advises students to include an approved theory course in the minor.

Graduate Program of Study

• Certificate in Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies

The certificate program is open to University of Iowa graduate students working toward a degree; interested students should contact the GWSS director of graduate studies.

Certificate

The Certificate in Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies requires 16 s.h., including a two-course core, several elective courses, and a capstone course (1 s.h.), for which students attend a GWSS conference and present their own research there. Students receive certificate advising from the GWSS director of graduate studies.

The certificate requires the following course work. Students may not use one course to satisfy more than one certificate requirement.

CERTIFICATE CORE

GWSS:5000 (131:200) Foundations for Feminist Inquiry I 3 s.h.
One approved course on theory of gender, 3 s.h.
women, or sexuality

Electives

Cross-referenced GWSS elective courses numbered 5000 or above 9 s.h.

One of the electives must have a transnational or international focus and one must focus on diversity in the United States. Students may count up to 6 s.h. of elective credit earned in GWSS courses that are cross-referenced with their major department. Courses that are not cross-referenced may be counted with permission of the director of graduate studies.

CAPSTONE

Students must present their own research at a GWSS conference, earning credit for the presentation by registering for the following course.

GWSS:7400 (131:400) Graduate Research Conference Presentation 1 s.h.

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

GWSS:1000 (131:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities, field trips). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

GWSS:1001 (131:010) Introduction to Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies 3 s.h.

General Education Program

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/students/general-education-program-requirements

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program provides students with a broad foundation of knowledge and a focused practice of transferable skills necessary for a lifetime of learning.

General Education courses are particularly valuable for students making the transition into The University of Iowa. They help students understand the expectations of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences while providing the tools needed for more advanced academic work in the major.

All students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences who wish to earn an undergraduate degree—Bachelor of Arts (B.A.), Bachelor of Science (B.S.), Bachelor of Fine Arts (B.F.A.), or Bachelor of Music (B.M.)—must complete the requirements of the CLAS General Education Program.

General Education Areas and Requirements

The General Education Program has 10 required areas, grouped into three categories. Students must fulfill the requirements in each General Education area.

Communication and literacy:
- Rhetoric: a minimum of 4 s.h.
- World Languages: required credit varies by language (see "World Languages" below)
- Interpretation of Literature: a minimum of 3 s.h.

Natural, quantitative, and social sciences:
- Natural Sciences: a minimum of 7 s.h.; must include one lab
- Quantitative or Formal Reasoning: a minimum of 3 s.h.
- Social Sciences: a minimum of 3 s.h.

Culture, society, and the arts:
- Historical Perspectives: a minimum of 3 s.h.
- International and Global Issues: a minimum of 3 s.h.
- Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts: a minimum of 3 s.h.
- Values, Society, and Diversity: a minimum of 3 s.h.

Students may count transfer credit and/or credit by exam toward some General Education Program requirements. See General Education Policies for details regarding use of transfer credit, credit by exam, and other policies for how General Education requirements may be fulfilled.

Communication and Literacy

Rhetoric

Rhetoric courses develop speaking, writing, listening, and critical reading skills and build competence in research, analysis, and argumentation.

All entering first-year students are required to complete RHET:1030 (010:003) Rhetoric (4-5 s.h.). Because rhetorical skills lay the foundation for further study at the University, most students register for RHET:1030 (010:003) during their first year at Iowa. Students in some majors, such as English or journalism and mass communication, enroll in RHET:1030 (010:003) during their first semester.

Students who must enroll in English as a Second Language (ESL) courses as determined by their English proficiency evaluation must complete all ESL courses before they may register for RHET:1030 (010:003) Rhetoric.

Students who have transfer credit in composition, speech, and argumentation but have not been granted an A.A. degree must complete the equivalent of RHET:1030 (010:003) Rhetoric and often must take RHET:1040 (010:004) Writing and Reading or RHET:1060 (010:006) Speaking and Reading in addition to their transfer courses in composition and/or speech.

Each entering student's degree audit shows the course(s) he or she must complete in order to fulfill the Rhetoric requirement.

The following courses are approved for the Rhetoric area.

TRANSFER OF CREDIT FOR RHETORIC

Transfer students who have been granted an Associate of Arts (A.A.) degree from an Iowa community college, Waldorf College in Iowa, or Black Hawk College in Illinois have satisfied the Rhetoric requirement.

Transfer credit for students without an A.A. degree is evaluated as follows:

- transfer students who have completed composition I, composition II, and speech at another institution have satisfied the General Education Program's Rhetoric requirement of RHET:1030 (010:003) Rhetoric;
- transfer students who have completed only composition I must complete RHET:1030 (010:003) Rhetoric at The University of Iowa;
- transfer students who have completed composition I and speech must complete RHET:1040 (010:004) Writing and Reading at The University of Iowa;
- transfer students who have completed composition I and speech at another institution have satisfied the General Education Program's Rhetoric requirement of RHET:1040 (010:004) Writing and Reading at The University of Iowa;
- transfer students who have completed any other course at another institution that may be equivalent to RHET:1030 (010:003) Rhetoric, the University of Iowa Office of Admissions examines the content of the course and decides on equivalency based on the content of that course, conferring with the Department of Rhetoric on the correct equivalency, if necessary.

Interpretation of Literature

Courses in the Interpretation of Literature area focus on the major genres of literature (short and long fiction, nonfiction, poetry, and drama), improving students' abilities to read and analyze a variety of texts. Small group discussions in these courses challenge students to think... all students must complete at least 3 s.h. of course work in the interpretation of literature area. the following courses are approved for the area.

ENGL:1200 (08G:001) The Interpretation of Literature 3 s.h.
FREN:1005 (009:005) Texts and Contexts: French-Speaking World 3 s.h.
HONR:1885 (143:085) Reading the Ancient City 3 s.h.

World Languages

Courses in the World Languages area provide students with speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills in a second language as well as knowledge of the culture in which the language is spoken. To fulfill the World Languages requirement, students must:

- complete the fourth year of a world language in high school; or
- complete the last course in the designated course sequence of an approved world language at the University of Iowa or the equivalent course at another college or university or during study abroad; or
- pass an achievement test or evaluation that measures proficiency in a foreign language equivalent to that usually attained through four semesters of college-level language study.

For information about proficiency examinations and guidelines for taking them, see the World Languages web page. The page also provides information about how students whose first language is not English may fulfill the World Languages requirement.

Once students have completed the World Languages requirement, they may earn up to 6 s.h. of additional credit in language study; see the Furthering Language Incentive Program (FLIP) web page.

Students may use the following language course sequences to fulfill the World Languages requirement. To avoid duplication or regression, consult the appropriate language department before registering for courses.

AMERICAN SIGN LANGUAGE

Courses in American Sign Language (ASL) are offered by the American Sign Language (p. 40) Program. The following sequence fulfills the General Education Program's World Languages requirement.

ASL:1001 (158:011) American Sign Language I 4 s.h.
ASL:1002 (158:012) American Sign Language II 4 s.h.
ASL:2001 (158:013) American Sign Language III 4 s.h.
ASL:2002 (158:014) American Sign Language IV 4 s.h.

Students with previous knowledge of American Sign Language should consult the ASL program for placement.

ARABIC

Courses in Arabic are offered by the Department of French and Italian (p. 300). The following sequence fulfills the General Education Program's World Languages requirement.

ARAB:1002 (195:102) Elementary Modern Standard Arabic II 5 s.h.

Students with previous knowledge of Arabic should consult the department for appropriate placement.

CHINESE

Courses in Chinese are offered by the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures (p. 102). For students without previous knowledge of Chinese, the department recommends the following sequence to fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement.

CHIN:1111 (039:008) First-Year Chinese: First Semester 5 s.h.
CHIN:1112 (039:009) First-Year Chinese: Second Semester 5 s.h.
CHIN:2101 (039:105) Second-Year Chinese: First Semester 5 s.h.
CHIN:2102 (039:106) Second-Year Chinese: Second Semester 5 s.h.

Students may use varied combinations of Chinese language courses approved for General Education to fulfill the World Languages requirement. Heritage learners and students who have studied Chinese abroad may be able to fulfill the requirement by substituting CHIN:2103 (039:107) Accelerated Second-Year Chinese: First Semester and CHIN:2104 (039:114) Accelerated Second-Year Chinese: Second Semester for CHIN:2101 (039:105) and CHIN:2102 (039:106). Consult the department for more information.

CZECH

Courses in Czech are offered by the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures (p. 102). The following sequence fulfills the General Education Program's World Languages requirement.

SLAV:1211 (041:141) Conversational Czech I 3 s.h.
SLAV:1212 (041:142) Conversational Czech II 3 s.h.
SLAV:2211 (041:143) Conversational Czech III 3 s.h.
SLAV:2212 (041:144) Conversational Czech IV 3 s.h.

Students with previous knowledge of Czech should consult the department for proper placement.

FRENCH

Courses in French are offered by the Department of French and Italian (p. 300). For students without previous knowledge of French, the department recommends the following sequence to fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement.

FREN:1001 (009:001) Elementary French I 5 s.h.
FREN:1002 (009:002) Elementary French II 5 s.h.
Students may use varied combinations of French language courses approved for General Education to fulfill the World Languages requirement. Those with previous knowledge of French may be able to fulfill the requirement by substituting FREN:1010 (009:010) First-Year French Review for FREN:1001 (009:001) and FREN:1002 (009:002) in the sequence above. Some students may be evaluated as ready for FREN:2001 (009:011) or FREN:2002 (009:012). Consult the department for appropriate placement.

German
Courses in German are offered by the Department of German (p. 347). For students without previous knowledge of German, the department recommends the following sequence to fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement.

<table>

</tbody>

Students may use varied combinations of German language courses approved for General Education to fulfill the World Languages requirement. Those with previous knowledge of German may be able to fulfill the requirement by substituting GRMN:1010 (013:014) First-Year German Review for GRMN:1001 (013:011) and GRMN:1002 (013:012) in the sequence above. Some students may be evaluated as ready for GRMN:2001 (013:021) or GRMN:2002 (013:022). Consult the department for appropriate placement.

The department also offers accelerated intensive courses, GRMN:1020 (013:013) Intensive Elementary German and GRMN:2020 (013:025) Intensive Intermediate German, which may be appropriate for students with strong language learning abilities or experience. The intensive courses may be combined with nonintensive courses to create other sequences that may be used to fulfill the General Education World Languages requirement. Consult the department to identify an appropriate course sequence.

Greek
Courses in Greek are offered by the Department of Classics (p. 155). Students without previous knowledge of Greek should fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement with the following sequence.

Students with previous knowledge of Korean should consult the department for appropriate placement.

LATIN

Courses in Latin are offered by the Department of Classics (p. 155). Students without previous knowledge of Latin should fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement with the following sequence.

CLSL:1001 (20L:001) Elementary Latin I 3-5 s.h.
CLSL:1002 (20L:002) Elementary Latin II 3-5 s.h.
CLSL:2001 (20L:011) World of Cicero 3 s.h.
CLSL:2002 (20L:012) Golden Age of Roman Poetry 3 s.h.

Students with previous knowledge of Latin should consult the department for appropriate placement.

PORTUGUESE

Courses in Portuguese are offered by the Department of Spanish and Portuguese (p. 609). Only one sequence in Portuguese is approved to fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement. Both courses in the sequence are open to entering first-year students.

PORT:3010 (038:100) Accelerated Elementary Portuguese 5 s.h.
PORT:3020 (038:101) Accelerated Intermediate Portuguese 5 s.h.

Students with previous knowledge of Portuguese should consult the department for appropriate placement.

RUSSIAN

Courses in Russian are offered by the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures (p. 102). Students without previous knowledge of Russian should fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement with the following sequence.

SLAV:1111 (041:001) First-Year Russian I 5 s.h.
SLAV:1112 (041:002) First-Year Russian II 5 s.h.
SLAV:2111 (041:003) Second-Year Russian I 4 s.h.
SLAV:2112 (041:004) Second-Year Russian II 4 s.h.

Students with previous knowledge of Russian should consult the department for appropriate placement.

SANSKRIT

Courses in Sanskrit are offered by the Department of Asian and Slavic Languages and Literatures (p. 102). Students without previous knowledge of Sanskrit should fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement with the following sequence. Each of these courses is open to entering first-year students.

SOAS:2901 (039:110)/CLSA:2901 (20E:110) 4 s.h. First-Year Sanskrit: First Semester
SOAS:2902 (039:111)/CLSA:2902 (20E:111) 4 s.h. First-Year Sanskrit: Second Semester
SOAS:3901 (039:112)/CLSA:3901 (20E:121) 3 s.h. Second-Year Sanskrit: First Semester
SOAS:3902 (039:113)/CLSA:3902 (20E:122) 3 s.h. Second-Year Sanskrit: Second Semester

Students with previous knowledge of Sanskrit should consult the department for appropriate placement.

SPANISH

Courses in Spanish are offered by the Department of Spanish and Portuguese (p. 609). For students without previous knowledge of Spanish, the department recommends the following sequence to fulfill the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement.

SPAN:1001 (035:001) Elementary Spanish I 5 s.h.
SPAN:1002 (035:002) Elementary Spanish II 5 s.h.
SPAN:1501 (035:011) Intermediate Spanish I 5 s.h.
SPAN:1502 (035:012) Intermediate Spanish II 5 s.h.

Students may use varied combinations of Spanish language courses approved for General Education to fulfill the General Education World Languages requirement. Those with previous knowledge of Spanish may be able to fulfill the requirement by substituting SPAN:1003 (035:005) Elementary Spanish Review for SPAN:1001 (035:001) and SPAN:1002 (035:002) in the sequence above.

The accelerated course SPAN:1503 (035:013) Accelerated Intermediate Spanish, which combines SPAN:1501 (035:011) and SPAN:1502 (035:012), may be appropriate for some students.

Students with previous knowledge of Spanish should take the language placement test in Spanish to help determine proper placement.

SWAHILI

Courses in Swahili are offered by the Department of French and Italian (p. 300). The following sequence fulfills the General Education Program’s World Languages requirement. Each of these courses is open to entering first-year students.

SWAH:3001 (211:125) Elementary Swahili I 4 s.h.
SWAH:3002 (211:126) Elementary Swahili II 4 s.h.
SWAH:3003 (211:127) Intermediate Swahili I 4 s.h.
SWAH:3004 (211:128) Intermediate Swahili II 4 s.h.

Students with previous knowledge of Swahili should consult the department for appropriate placement.

OTHER COURSE SEQUENCES

A student who successfully completes a four-semester world language sequence that has not been approved for General Education may have the sequence substituted for a proficiency test to fulfill the General Education requirement.

Students who complete a world language sequence this way should notify the department that offers the sequence; the department will contact Graduation Analysis, which will update the student’s degree audit to show fulfillment of the World Languages requirement.
Natural, Quantitative, and Social Sciences

Natural Sciences

Courses in the Natural Sciences area explore the scope and major concepts of a scientific discipline. Students learn the attitudes and practices of scientific investigators: logic, precision, experimentation, tentativeness, and objectivity. In courses with a laboratory component, students gain experience in the methods of scientific inquiry.

All students must complete at least 7 s.h. of course work in the Natural Sciences area, including at least one natural science lab component. The following courses are approved for the area; courses with a lab component are noted "(lab)."

Quantitative or Formal Reasoning

Courses in the Quantitative or Formal Reasoning area help develop analytical skills through the practice of quantitative or formal symbolic reasoning. Courses focus on presentation and evaluation of evidence and argument; understanding the use and misuse of data; and organization of information in quantitative or other formal symbolic systems, including those used in computer science, linguistics, mathematics, philosophy, and statistics.

All students must complete at least 3 s.h. of course work in the Quantitative or Formal Reasoning area. Students may fulfill this requirement of the General Education Program by completing a course that lists an approved course as a prerequisite. The following courses are approved for the area.

All students must complete at least 3 s.h. of course work in the Social Sciences area. The following courses are approved for the area.

Social Sciences

Courses in the Social Sciences area focus on human behavior and the institutions and social systems that shape and are shaped by that behavior. Courses provide an overview of one or more social science disciplines, their theories, and their methods.

All students must complete at least 3 s.h. of course work in the Social Sciences area. The following courses are approved for the area.

Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts

Courses in the Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts area provide students with opportunities to appreciate the arts and to analyze them within their historical and theoretical contexts. They also help students develop the analytic, expressive, and imaginative abilities necessary for understanding, appreciating, and creating art.

All students must complete at least 3 s.h. of course work in the Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts area. The following courses are approved for the area.

Values, Society, and Diversity

Courses in the Values, Society, and Diversity area explore fundamental questions about the human experience from a variety of perspectives. Students consider topics in relation to their own values and actions. They gain a deeper appreciation of how cultural differences arise and of the importance of diversity.

All students must complete at least 3 s.h. of course work in the Values, Society, and Diversity area. The following courses are approved for the area.

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/geography/

Geographical and sustainability sciences are concerned with place, environment, and the ongoing processes of change within and between social and physical systems. Geographical and sustainability sciences' importance to scholarly inquiry is rooted in the complexity of social and environmental problems. Three concepts at the core of the disciplines—space, place, and scale—provide theoretical constructs and methodological tools for sciences that investigate the complex character of social and environmental phenomena.

Geographical and sustainability scientists examine issues such as distribution and consumption of natural resources, air and water quality, climate changes and ecosystem dynamics, growth and development of urban areas, population dynamics, politics and practice of international development, and social justice. They view society and the environment as a physical/social/cultural system. They apply uniquely geographical and sustainability perspectives and tools, as well as knowledge from other social and scientific disciplines, to analyze the emergent properties of these systems.

Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences graduates find employment opportunities in government, nongovernmental organizations, and business. For example, many geographical and sustainability scientists are employed in resource management, urban and regional development, public health, and market area analysis. They analyze problems in the distribution and interactions among physical, ecological, social, and political systems.

Geographical and sustainability sciences students acquire skills in computer-based cartography and geographic information systems (GIS) software used to investigate and solve many environmental and social problems. Opportunities for graduates with GIS training are growing rapidly in both private and governmental organizations.

The geographical and sustainability sciences faculty has developed an undergraduate instructional program that serves students majoring or minoring in geography as well as students in other disciplines. Courses in geography are commonly required for students preparing to teach at the elementary and secondary school levels and for those who want to pursue careers in urban and regional planning. They also provide a background for many related professions, including law, health care, environmental or transportation engineering, and international business.

Geographical and sustainability sciences students use the University's Geographical Information Systems Instructional Lab (GISIL) for GIS instruction and research. The lab is located in the department; see "Facilities and Resources" later in this Catalog section.

The Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences participates in a number of University of Iowa interdisciplinary programs that have international, area studies, urban, or environmental components, including an interdisciplinary undergraduate major, which it administers; see Environmental Policy and Planning (p. 284) in the Catalog. It also participates in the University's internship program for students; see "Internships" later in this Catalog section.

• Minor in geography

Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in geography requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 37-39 s.h. of work for the major. The Bachelor of Science with a major in geography requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 43-46 s.h. of work for the major. Credit required for the major depends on the student's choice of track. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Transfer students majoring in geography must earn a minimum of 15 s.h. for the major in residence at The University of Iowa.
Students majoring in geography may not earn the minor in geographic information science.

The major in geography (either B.A. or B.S.) is appropriate preparation for advanced training or careers in geographical and sustainability sciences. Students with strong interest in quantitative analysis and model building should pursue the Bachelor of Science and are encouraged to master an appropriate computer programming language.

Students choose one of three tracks in the major: environmental studies, geographic information science (GISci), or health and society. All students majoring in geography complete a common set of foundation courses in addition to the requirements for their choice of track. Bachelor of Science students take additional mathematics course work.

Consistent with the CLAS maximum semester hours rule, students may count a maximum of 56 s.h. earned in their major department toward graduation.

The major in geography requires the following work.

Common Requirements (B.A. and B.S.)

All geography majors must complete the following courses. Students may not use a course to fulfill more than one major requirement.

One of these:
- GEOG:1010 (044:001) Introduction to Human Geography 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1090 (044:010) Globalization and Geographic Diversity 3 s.h.

All of these:
- GEOG:1020 (044:003) The Global Environment 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1021 (044:004) The Global Environment Lab 1 s.h.
- GEOG:1050 (044:005) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1060 (044:060) Geography of Asia: From Japan to Pakistan 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary Environmental Issues 3 s.h.
- GEOG:1090 (044:010) Globalization and Geographic Diversity (if not chosen above) 3 s.h.
- GEOG:2110 (044:011) Population Geography 3 s.h.
- GEOG:2130 (044:055) World Cities 3 s.h.
- GEOG:2910 (044:030) The Global Economy 3 s.h.
- GEOG:2950 (044:088) Environmental Conservation 3 s.h.

One of these, in addition to any course required to fulfill a track requirement:
- GEOG:2960 (044:130) Spatial Analyses of Wind Energy 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3560 (044:130) Spatial Analyses of Wind Energy 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3570 (044:146) Light Detection and Ranging (LiDAR): Principles and Applications 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4010 (044:180) Field Methods in Physical Geography 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4020 (044:181) Field Methods: Mapping and Mobile Computing 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4150 (044:137) Health and Environment: GIS Applications 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4650 (044:142) Simulation in Environmental Geography 3 s.h.
- GEOG:5129 (044:140) Information Systems for Resource Management 3 s.h.

One of these:
- GEOG:4030 (044:150) Senior Project Seminar 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4990 (044:151) Senior Thesis 3 s.h.

Senior Project Seminar [GEOG:4030 (044:150)] is offered only in spring semesters. Students who choose GEOG:4990 (044:151) Senior Thesis or GEOG:4995 (044:199) Honors Thesis must make arrangements with a faculty advisor.

STATISTICS COURSES (B.A.)

Bachelor of Arts students must earn a minimum of 3 s.h. in statistics by completing one of the following courses or a statistics course equivalent to or numbered above one of these.

- PSQF:4143 (07P:143)/STAT:4143 (22S:102) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.
- STAT:1020 (22S:025)/PSQF:1020 (07P:025) Elementary Statistics and Inference 3 s.h.
- STAT:1030 (22S:008) Statistics for Business 4 s.h.
- STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.
- STAT:2020 (22S:039) Probability and Statistics for the Engineering and Physical Sciences 3 s.h.
- STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.

STATISTICS/MATHEMATICS COURSES (B.S.)

Bachelor of Science students must earn a minimum of 9 s.h. in statistics/mathematics by completing one of the following options or courses equivalent to or numbered above these.

Option 1

This sequence:
- PSQF:4143 (07P:143)/STAT:4143 (22S:102) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.

Or this sequence:
- BIOS:5110 (171:161) Introduction to Biostatistics 3 s.h.
- BIOS:5120 (171:162) Design and Analysis of Biomedical Studies 3 s.h.

Or this sequence:
- STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.
information systems, quantitative analysis/computing, The environmental studies track offers training in law, policy, and politics. Environmental planning and regulation; or environmental issues. Graduates may find employment change, sustainable development, or other complex environmental policy or law, global environmental management, landscape ecology, water resources, for careers or pursuit of personal interests in resource that affect the environment. The track prepares students of 15 s.h. It is designed for students interested in the ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES TRACK

And one of these:

EES:4870 (012:178) Applied Geostatistics 3 s.h.
MATH:1380 (22M:017) Calculus and Matrix Algebra for Business 4 s.h.
MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
MATH:1550 (22M:031) Engineering Mathematics I: Single Variable Calculus 4 s.h.
MATH:1850 (22M:025) Calculus I 4 s.h.

Option 2

One of these:

PSQF:4143 (07P:143)/STAT:4143 (22S:102) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.
STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.

And one of these sequences:

MATH:1440 (22M:015) & MATH:1460 (22M:016) Mathematics for the Biological Sciences - Calculus for the Biological Sciences 8 s.h.
MATH:1850 (22M:025) & MATH:1860 (22M:026) Calculus I-II 8 s.h.

Tracks (B.A. and B.S.)

All geography majors must complete one of the three tracks described below: environmental studies, geographic information science (GISci), or health and society. Students should pay close attention to prerequisites for the upper-level courses in each track in order to develop a study plan that allows them to complete their major in a timely way. Students in the environmental studies track complete a common track course (3 s.h.) and at least 12 s.h. of upper-level geographical and sustainability sciences courses.

Common course—all environmental studies track students take this:

GEOG:1070 (044:019) Contemporary 3 s.h.
Environmental Issues

Students choose a total of four upper-level courses (at least 12 s.h.) from the following lists, in consultation with their advisors. Those who wish to gain additional experience in theory and application of GIS systems should take GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies and GEOG:4520 (044:128) GIS for Environmental Studies: Applications, or they should earn 6 s.h. in other GIS-based geographical and sustainability sciences courses.

At least one of these:

GEOG:2310 (044:101) Climatology 3 s.h.
GEOG:2374 (044:103) Biogeography 3 s.h.
GEOG:2410 (044:104) Environment and Development 3 s.h.
GEOG:2930 (044:111) Water Resources 3 s.h.
GEOG:3500 (044:105) Introduction to Environmental Remote Sensing 3 s.h.
GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies 3 s.h.

At least one of these:

GEOG:3310 (044:123) Landscape Ecology 3 s.h.
GEOG:3320 (044:126) Wetlands: Function, Geography, and Management 3 s.h.
GEOG:3340 (044:179) Ecosystem Services: Human Dependence on Natural Systems 3 s.h.
GEOG:3350 (044:116) Urban Ecology 3 s.h.
GEOG:3400 (044:117) Iowa Environmental Policy in Practice 3 s.h.
GEOG:3560 (044:130) Spatial Analyses of Wind Energy 3 s.h.
GEOG:3760 (044:175) Hazards and Society 3 s.h.
GEOG:3920 (044:136) Planning Livable Cities 3 s.h.
GEOG:4010 (044:180) Field Methods in Physical Geography 2-4 s.h.
GEOG:4500 (044:145) Applications in Environmental Remote Sensing 4 s.h.
GEOG:4520 (044:128) GIS for Environmental Studies: Applications 3 s.h.
GEOG:4650 (044:142) Simulation in Environmental Geography 3 s.h.
GEOG:4750 (044:125) Environmental Impact Analysis 4 s.h.
GEOG:4770 (044:177) Environmental Justice 3 s.h.

And cartographic representation. It also provides a sound foundation for graduate or professional-level studies in the natural or social aspects of the environment.

In addition to satisfying the common requirements for all geography majors, students in the environmental studies track must complete 15 s.h. of upper-level geographical and sustainability sciences courses.

Students may use GEOG:3001 (044:197) Special Topics to fulfill a track requirement if the course content is applicable.

ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES TRACK

The environmental studies track requires a minimum of 15 s.h. It is designed for students interested in the interrelationships among social and natural processes that affect the environment. The track prepares students for careers or pursuit of personal interests in resource management, landscape ecology, water resources, environmental policy or law, global environmental change, sustainable development, or other complex environmental issues. Graduates may find employment in an environmental profession such as conservation, environmental planning and regulation; or environmental law, policy, and politics.

The environmental studies track offers training in field observation, remote sensing, geographical information systems, quantitative analysis/computing,
GEOGRAPHIC INFORMATION SCIENCE TRACK

The geographic information science track (GISci) requires a minimum of 18-19 s.h. It is designed for students preparing for positions in government agencies, nongovernment organizations, international development agencies, and business. It also provides preparation for graduate study in geography, planning, and other disciplines. The track focuses on the design, implementation, and use of geographic information systems. Courses address how geographic data are acquired, stored, accessed, displayed, managed, and analyzed.

Students in the geographic information science track learn to address problems involved in modeling environmental systems, identifying the best locations for service facilities, assessing environmental impacts, and forecasting the populations of small areas. They use the department’s Geographical Information Systems Instructional Lab (GISIL) extensively to develop expertise in using GIS software.

Course work in the track covers methods of spatial analysis and geographical modeling and involves database management and computer programming.

In addition to the common requirements for all geography majors, students in the geographic information science track complete a common track course (3-4 s.h.) and at least 15 s.h. of upper-level geographical and sustainability sciences courses.

Common course—all GISci track students take one of these:

- CS:1110 (22C:005) Introduction to Computer Science 3 s.h.
- CS:1210 (22C:016) Computer Science I: Fundamentals 4 s.h.
- CS:2110 (22C:080) Programming for Informatics 4 s.h.

Students choose a total of five upper-level courses (at least 15 s.h.) from the following list, in consultation with their advisors (a total of four courses from the first two lists plus one course from the third list). GISci track students are encouraged to add breadth to their degree by taking additional upper-level courses in the department. Students interested in the application of GIS to environmental issues should select additional courses from the department's environmental studies area; those interested in socioeconomic issues should select additional courses from the department's health and society area.

At least one of these:

- GEOG:3500 (044:105) Introduction to Environmental Remote Sensing 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3530 (044:112) Mapping American Cities and Regions 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3540 (044:109) Introduction to Geographic Visualization 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4650 (044:142) Simulation in Environmental Geography 3 s.h.

At least one of these:

- GEOG:4520 (044:128) GIS for Environmental Studies: Applications 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4570 (044:139) Spatial Analysis and Location Models 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4580 (044:141) Introduction to Geographic Databases 3 s.h.

At least one of these:

- GEOG:3340 (044:179) Ecosystem Services: Human Dependence on Natural Systems 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3560 (044:130) Spatial Analyses of Wind Energy 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3760 (044:175) Hazards and Society 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4100 (044:180) Field Methods in Physical Geography 2-4 s.h.
- GEOG:4020 (044:181) Field Methods: Mapping and Mobile Computing 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4150 (044:137) Health and Environment: GIS Applications 3 s.h.

HEALTH AND SOCIETY TRACK

The health and society track requires a minimum of 15 s.h. It is designed for students interested in understanding the causes and consequences of social inequalities, the long-term effects that changing human/environmental interactions have on human health, and emerging transnational challenges to the sustainability of livelihoods. The track provides students with foundational knowledge and skills to support postgraduate employment in governmental or nongovernmental positions, graduate study in public health or in health-related fields, and service experiences such as the Peace Corps and AmeriCorps.

Students in the health and society track gain understanding of the factors and processes that determine geographic patterns of health. They explore the effects of the social, built, and natural environments on the physical, social, and mental health of populations. Course work in the track examines patterns and causes of infectious and chronic diseases; hazards, vulnerability, and environmental justice; and the spatial methods used to understand such issues.

Thematic content from courses is complemented by quantitative spatial and statistical analysis course work, enabling students to analyze and understand geographic patterns of health. Students have opportunities to work on applied problems, such as assessing patterns of disease, identifying the underlying population and environmental drivers of good or poor health, and evaluating the social dimensions of environmental impacts.

In addition to satisfying the common requirements for all geography majors, students in the health and society track complete three common track courses (9 s.h.) and at least two upper-level geographical and sustainability sciences courses (6 s.h.).

Common courses—all health and society track students take these:

- GEOG:2110 (044:011) Population Geography 3 s.h.
- GEOG:3110 (044:131) Geography of Health 3 s.h.
- GEOG:4150 (044:137) Health and Environment: GIS Applications 3 s.h.

Students choose two upper-level courses (at least 6 s.h.) from the following list, in consultation with their advisors. Those who wish to gain additional experience in theory and application of GIS systems should also take an additional 6 s.h. in GIS-based geographical and sustainability sciences courses.

B.A. or B.S. with Teacher Licensure

Geography majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Bachelor of Arts

Before the third semester begins: one introductory course in the major

Before the fifth semester begins: five courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: 11 courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: 14 courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Bachelor of Science

Before the third semester begins: two introductory courses in the major

Before the fifth semester begins: six courses in the major

Before the seventh semester begins: 12 courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: 15 courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in geography have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in all work for the major. They must be admitted to the department's honors program by the first semester of their senior year or earlier.

Honors students in geography pursue study beyond the typical undergraduate level. In order to graduate with honors in the major, they work under the direction of a faculty member to conduct original research and then prepare and present an honors thesis based on their research. The thesis is reviewed by a committee of at least three faculty members. Departmental honors students earn credit for their thesis by registering for GEOG:4995 (044:199) Honors Thesis. They may substitute GEOG:4030 (044:150) Senior Project Seminar for GEOG:4995 (044:199), as long as they continue to work on the thesis under the direction of a faculty member.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor: Geographic Information Science

The minor in geographic information science requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in geographical and sustainability sciences courses, including 12 s.h. in University of Iowa courses numbered 3000 or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

Students majoring in geography may not earn the minor in geographic information science.

Geographic Information Science is the study of geography using digital technology. The field uses geographic information systems (computer-based technologies designed to facilitate the capture, organization, analysis, and display of geographic data), remote sensing (primarily interpretation of satellite imagery), and spatial modeling (viewing, analyzing, and mapping spatial data) to study geographic patterns and processes and to examine research on the nature, development, and use of these tools.

The minor in geographic information science requires one core course, three mid-level specialization courses, and an advanced course that builds on one of the three mid-level courses. Students should contact the department secretary to request an advisor for help in selecting the advanced course.

Minor: Geography

The minor in geography requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in geographical and sustainability sciences courses, including 12 s.h. in University of Iowa courses numbered 3000 or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students are encouraged to concentrate their course work in tracks—environmental studies, geographic information science, or health and society (see "Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science" above). For help in selecting courses, students should contact the department secretary to request an advisor for the minor.

Courses for General Education

The Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences offers a number of courses that students in other majors may use to satisfy requirements of College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program. Look for courses with the prefix GEOG under "Natural Sciences," "Social Sciences," and "International and Global Issues" in the General Education Program (p. 323) section of the Catalog.

Nonmajors also may choose geographical and sustainability sciences courses as electives.

Certificate in Wind Energy

The Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences) and the Department of Mechanical and Industrial Engineering (College of Engineering) administer the undergraduate certificate program in wind energy; see Wind Energy (p. 939) (College of Engineering) in the Catalog.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in geography
- Doctor of Philosophy in geography

In addition to offering graduate degree programs, the department administers the geoinformatics subtrack of the graduate Certificate in Informatics; see Informatics (p. 972) (Graduate College) in the Catalog.

Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences graduate programs focus on investigating the environmental consequences of human decisions on local, regional, and global scales. Central to the department's studies are geographic information science and the theories and models of environmental and social sciences. Within this broad domain, the department is developing strengths in environmental justice, environmental modeling, GIScience and GIS, land use and its environmental consequences, and health geography.

The Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy programs prepare students to carry on creative and productive research in selected areas of geography. University of Iowa graduates hold positions on college and university faculties, in private research organizations, and in business and government.

The department provides opportunities for graduate students to gain practical teaching experience through service as departmental teaching assistants or graduate instructors.

Graduate students present research papers at conferences and regularly win awards. Students are involved in faculty research that leads to coauthored publications; they also publish their own papers. Graduate students compete successfully for intramural and extramural funding for graduate education and research.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in geography requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit with thesis and 32 s.h. of graduate credit without thesis. The program is designed to be completed in four semesters.

Thesis students must earn 15 s.h. of credit in Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences courses numbered 5000 or above; they may count 6 s.h. of thesis credit and 2 s.h. earned in GEOG:7000 (044:350) Geography Colloquium toward the degree. Students who earn more than 30 s.h. may use the additional work to increase their breadth of knowledge in geography and to tailor their study programs to their individual interests.

Nonthesis students build skills across a range of topics in geographical and sustainability sciences during their first year and develop skills in particular application areas during their second year. Nonthesis students must earn 15 s.h. of credit in Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences courses numbered 5000 or above.

M.A. students demonstrate competence by completing appropriate course work; completing and defending an M.A. thesis (for thesis students) or completing a portfolio of finished work and having it reviewed (nonthesis students).

More detailed information about M.A. requirements is provided in the department's Manual for Graduate Degree Requirements; contact the Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in geography requires 72 s.h. of graduate credit and is designed to be completed in four or five years. The degree prepares students for college and university teaching and for advanced research. It provides study programs that lead to broad knowledge of a field of geography and its literature and to special expertise in a subfield.

Students may enter the Ph.D. program upon completing an undergraduate degree or with advanced standing corresponding to previous graduate education.

All Ph.D. students take the following courses. They take GEOG:7000 (044:350) Geography Colloquium (1 s.h.) each semester they are in residence.

- GEOG:5010 (044:210) Fundamentals of Geography 3 s.h.
- GEOG:5050 (044:211) Research and Writing in Geography 3 s.h.
- GEOG:7000 (044:350) Geography Colloquium (taken each semester) 1 s.h.
- Two courses in geography numbered above GEOG:5001 (044:200) 6 s.h.
- Two research seminars chosen from GEOG:6500 (044:315) through GEOG:6900 (044:319); each course for 3 s.h.

Doctoral students complete a set of research milestones, including a research paper, an area of concentration bibliography, and a written qualifying examination in the discipline. With the approval of his or her dissertation advisor, each student submits a dissertation proposal to the dissertation committee for critical comments, oral questioning, and approval. Once the dissertation is completed, an oral defense of the dissertation is held.

More detailed information about Ph.D. requirements is provided in the department's Manual for Graduate Degree Requirements; contact the Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

A bachelor's degree with a major in geography is not required, but applicants must have an undergraduate background relevant to the field. Strength in social science, environmental science, or geographic information science and interest in exploring the spatial perspectives that characterize modern geography are important in admission decisions. Depending on their prior training, graduate students may be required to take courses that are prerequisites for course work in their chosen area of graduate study; credit earned in prerequisites does not count toward the graduate degree.

Application materials include an undergraduate transcript with grade-point average, scores on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test, three letters of recommendation, and an essay in which the applicant states his or her reasons for wanting to study geography at The University of Iowa.

Applicants whose first language is not English must take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Their scores must be sent to the University's Office of Admissions.

New graduate students whose first language is not English are required to take a speaking proficiency test when they arrive at the University; eventually they take the English Language Performance Test (ELPT). Students must be fully certified by the ELPT before they begin their fourth semester in order to be considered for funding in succeeding semesters. Students who do not pass the tests are required to take Teaching Assistant Preparation in English (TAPE) courses until they have achieved proficiency in spoken English.

Financial Support

A number of graduate teaching and research assistantships are available. In addition, outstanding applicants and underrepresented minorities are eligible for several fellowships. Awards are based on merit. In making awards, the department pays particular attention to grade-point average, especially for the junior and senior years; score on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test; letters of recommendation; and fit of the student's objectives with department specializations. Applications for graduate appointments must be received by February 1. Applications for fellowships are due by January 15.

Internships

The Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences is a participant in the University's internship program, which provides opportunities for both undergraduate and graduate students to participate in paid and unpaid activities related to their academic programs. The Pomerantz Career Center works with students to develop appropriate internships.

Facilities and Resources

The department houses three geographic information computational laboratories. They support a variety of GIS software packages, including the latest software from ESRI (ArcGIS) and Erdas (Imagine) as well as a suite of other commercial and open-source software. All lab computers are regularly updated to ensure that they are capable of running the latest software at peak performance.

The Geographical Information Systems Instructional Lab (GISIL) is the department's center for GIS teaching as well as a place where students conduct geographic and GIS-related projects. It is equipped with 27 networked student workstations, instructional support technology (e.g., CRT projection), and a suite of peripherals, including a LiDAR 3-D scanner, high-end global positioning system (GPS) units, and a large-format printer.

Environmental modeling and GIS research laboratories contain state-of-the-art machines (Windows and Linux platforms), geoprocessing and statistical software, and an array of software development tools. Projects requiring massive storage or high-performance computing have access to additional resources managed by the University's Information Technology Services research support group. The University of Iowa is a charter member of Internet2, with a high-performance network link to the Department of Geographical and Sustainability Sciences. The University also is a member of the University Consortium on Geographic Information Science.

To aid studies of water resources and physical geography, the department has a laboratory for the analysis of vegetation, soil, and water quality. The laboratory has a variety of field equipment, including soil probes, portable meteorological stations, GPS, ground-based 3-D LiDAR, anemometers, spectrometers, light sensors, and data loggers.

Faculty and graduate students participate in multidisciplinary working groups through the University's Program in Applied Mathematical and Computational Sciences (p. 949), the Center for Global and Regional Environmental Research, the Center for Health Effects of Environmental Contamination, International Programs, the Institute for Rural and Environmental Health, the Iowa Quaternary Studies Group, and the Public Policy Center. Participation in multidisciplinary working groups also is available through interdisciplinary research grants with investigators from other UI academic units, for example, the College of Engineering, the Carver College of Medicine, and the College of Public Health.

Geographic researchers have access to other University of Iowa resources, as well, such as the University's Main Library, whose collections include more than 115,500 maps; 3,600 atlases and reference works; and around 100,000 aerial photographs, primarily of Iowa.

Introduction to soil genesis, soil geomorphology, and classification including the basics of soil profile description and soil-landscape, soil-vegetation, and soil-climate relationships; emphasis on study of soils as the interface between living and non-living Earth systems and the role of soils in sustaining ecosystems and human societies; short field excursions and a weekend field trip. Requirements: college earth science and chemistry. Same as EES:3360 (012:136).

GEOG:3400 (044:117) Iowa Environmental Policy in Practice 3 s.h.
How Iowa government addresses environmental policy development and implementation; policy process and current environmental issues; meetings with Iowa state legislators and relevant agency personnel in Des Moines, attendance at legislative sessions and hearings, and observation of how policies move into practice in agency offices; small group work to prepare a presentation on a policy or planning issue. Requirements: GEOG:3780 (044:120) or ANTH:3102 (113:185) or ANTH:3112 (113:114) or POLI:3111 (030:126) or mid-level or higher course in environmental policy and planning curriculum; and junior or higher standing.

GEOG:3500 (044:105) Introduction to Environmental Remote Sensing 3 s.h.
Basic concepts and principles of remote sensing; sources of data; georegistration; digital processing and classification of remotely sensed images for extraction of environmental information; linkage of remote sensing techniques with GIS analysis.

GEOG:3505 (044:106) Foundations of GIS 3 s.h.
Cartography, map analysis, and geographic information systems; map projections and scale; data collection, remote sensing, GPS; data structures and organization; cartometry; symbolization and visualization.

GEOG:3520 (044:110) GIS for Environmental Studies 3 s.h.
Methods of managing and processing geographic information for environmental analysis; basic concepts, structures, theories of geographic information system (GIS), basic analytical techniques, and hands-on experience in GIS operations. Prerequisites: GEOG:1050 (044:005).

GEOG:3530 (044:112) Mapping American Cities and Regions 3 s.h.
Foundation concepts for GIS-based analysis of urban, social, and economic data for the United States; geo-referenced sources of U.S. national and state data; application to contemporary social issues. Prerequisites: GEOG:1050 (044:005).

GEOG:3540 (044:109) Introduction to Geographic Visualization 3 s.h.
Basic concepts and techniques that underlie cartographic representation and the broader field of geographic visualization; digital cartographic practices; how scientific visualization, information visualization, and user interface design contribute to geographic visualization; map symbolization, scale and generalization, animation and dynamic map design, multimedia, virtual and mixed environments, interfaces for GIS; experience applying cartographic and visualization techniques. Prerequisites: GEOG:1050 (044:005).

GEOG:3550 (044:241) Integrating Time into GIS
Fundamental concepts for integrating temporal elements into geographic information systems (GIS); conceptual and formal models of time, models of change, event-based modeling, modeling of moving entities; topics related to fundamentals of spatiotemporal databases and query languages. Prerequisites: GEOG:1050 (044:005).

GEOG:3560 (044:130) Spatial Analyses of Wind Energy
Introduction to underlying processes, measurement methods, and spatial analyses related to wind energy; siting criteria, techniques for data collection and analysis, GIS-based approaches for suitability studies.

GEOG:3570 (044:146) Light Detection and Ranging (LiDAR): Principles and Applications
Basic principles and applications of Light Detection and Ranging (LiDAR); LiDAR as an essential technology for mapping and analysis of a vast range of surfaces; application examples include floodplain mapping, forestry management, transportation planning, vegetation analysis, urban planning, and 3-D modeling; theoretical understanding and practical experience using different software. Recommendations: GEOG:3500 (044:105) or EES:3100 (012:008).

GEOG:3570 (044:127) Environmental Quality: Science, Technology, and Policy
Geographical perspectives in the study and interpretation of chemicals in the environment; environmental standards under existing laws; local, regional, national, international case studies in environment and health; socioeconomic and institutional considerations in designing environmental protection strategies. Prerequisites: STAT:1020 (22S:025).

GEOG:3760 (044:175) Hazards and Society
Introduction to social science perspectives on societal responses to natural and technological hazards; risk perception and communication, disaster management, social vulnerability, and risk assessment; case studies of recent major disasters (e.g., Haiti earthquake, Tohoku earthquake/tsunami/nuclear accident, Hurricane Katrina); current directions in hazards research, policy, and practice. Same as GHS:3760 (152:178).

GEOG:3780 (044:120) U.S. Energy Policy in Global Context
Historical and contemporary aspects of U.S. governmental planning and policy on a wide range of energy issues in global context. Prerequisites: GEOG:1020 (044:003) or EES:1080 (012:008), and GEOG:1070 (044:019). Same as GHS:3780 (152:178).

GEOG:3910 (044:194) Geographic Perspectives on Development
Theoretical and empirical studies of the regional development process, with emphasis on developing countries; alternative regional development theories and changes in development theories in the literature of geography, related disciplines.

GEOG:3920 (044:136) Planning Livable Cities
Development of livable cities in the United States; economic, physical, environmental, and political forces that shape their growth; impact of planning, how it shapes the future of cities. Same as URP:3001 (102:101).

GEOG:3940 (044:133) Transportation Economics
Overview of transportation markets—intercity, rural, urban; transportation modes—rail, highway, air, water, pipeline, transit; issues in finance, policy, planning, management, physical distribution, and environmental, economic, and safety regulation. Recommendations: ECON:1100 (06E:001) and ECON:1200 (06E:002). Same as URP:3350 (102:133), ECON:3750 (06E:145).

GEOG:3992 (044:195) Undergraduate Research
Supervised research in geography.

GEOG:4010 (044:180) Field Methods in Physical Geography
Methods of measuring climate, vegetation, soil, landforms, water; projects in areas including field meteorology, tree-ring sampling, topographic surveying, vegetation sampling, water quality sampling, use of global positioning systems; introduction to research design.

GEOG:4020 (044:181) Field Methods: Mapping and Mobile Computing
Development and application of mobile geographic information technologies; key issues associated with global positioning systems (GPS), wireless technologies, field-based data collection and analysis, ubiquitous computing, and location-based services; experience using GPS, advanced mobile computing technologies, mobile GIS software to construct geographic datasets, and data sampling techniques.

GEOG:4030 (044:150) Senior Project Seminar
Development of a research project and preparation of a research report. Offered spring semesters.

GEOG:4150 (044:137) Health and Environment: GIS Applications
Applications of GIS and spatial analysis for studying health outcomes and exposure to environmental contaminants at different geographical scales. Same as GHS:4150 (152:139).
Applications of geostatistical methods to geology, geography, hydrology, environmental sciences, and engineering; variogram, Kriging, analysis of spatial-varied data with varied computer software in participants' specialties. Same as EES:4870 (012:178).

GEOG:4930 (044:135) Urban Geography 3 s.h.
Central ideas of modern urban geography, their links to social theory; focus on interrelation between social change, urban environment; evolution of urban systems, emergence of the capitalist city, urban social and residential differentiation, local politics of uneven development.

GEOG:4960 (044:164) The Middle East 3 s.h.
Middle East cultures, political economy, conflict; significance of the Middle East in world affairs, vice versa.

GEOG:4990 (044:151) Senior Thesis 3 s.h.
Original research. Requirements: senior standing.

GEOG:4995 (044:199) Honors Thesis 3 s.h.
Original research. Requirements: honors standing.

Graduate

GEOG:5001 (044:200) Readings 0 s.h.
Supervised readings by graduate students in topics of their choice.

GEOG:5010 (044:210) Fundamentals of Geography 3 s.h.
Geography as an academic discipline; history, advances, epistemology, common themes.

GEOG:5050 (044:211) Research and Writing in Geography 3 s.h.
Identification of research areas; research questions and hypotheses; responsible conduct of research; methodological decisions; research proposal and paper writing.

GEOG:5070 (044:297) Special Topics 0 s.h.
Contemporary fields of inquiry, such as political economy, regional/African development, biophysical systems, GIS, locational analysis, water resources, economic geography, demographic analysis, environment, urbanization, transportation.

GEOG:5129 (044:140) Information Systems for Resource Management 3 s.h.
Understanding and managing natural and engineered resources requiring data-reach foundation; management of data; complex data-driven technologies integrated into data and information systems (DIS); hands-on opportunity to develop or use capabilities of DIS for study or research area of interest (science, engineering, industrial operation); wind power generation, an emerging field in Iowa, used as a case study for illustrating key DIS components, links, and functionalities. Same as IE:5129 (056:129), ME:5129 (058:129), CEE:5129 (053:129), ECE:5129 (055:129).

GEOG:5550 (044:243) Modeling Space and Time 3 s.h.
How to generate time-space-resolved estimates of sociophysical environmental contexts with the aid of modern geo-spatial technologies; how to model social, behavioral, and health outcomes with reference to multilevel time-space-resolved sociophysical environmental contexts; environmental contexts from air pollution and pesticide concentration to neighborhood diversity; statistical modeling of varied social, behavioral, and health outcomes such as dropping out of college, smoking, excessive weight, asthma, mental and physical disability. Requirements: a course in statistics and good understanding of correlation and regression.

GEOG:5650 (044:242) Simulations in Landscape Ecology
3 s.h.
Dynamics of land use and land cover change explored through advanced use of computer simulations in landscape ecology; how simulation is used in the field; simulations based on landscape ecology questions, with analysis of results using typical landscape ecology metrics. Prerequisites: GEOG:4650 (044:142).

GEOG:6100 (044:318) Seminar in Health and Environment
3 s.h.
Research on health and environment.

GEOG:6264 (044:265) Planning Sustainable Transportation
2-4 s.h.
Theories and methods of exerting public control over passenger and freight transportation; social and environmental regulation; effects of changing finance, regulation, and pricing policies, including privatization, tolls, impact fees. Same as URP:6265 (102:265).

GEOG:6500 (044:315) Seminar in Spatial Analysis and Modeling
1-3 s.h.
Research themes in spatial analysis, GIScience, simulation, remote sensing.

GEOG:6300 (044:316) Seminar in Environment, Conservation, and Land Use
3 s.h.
Research on land use, water resources, conservation.

GEOG:6632 (044:287) Crossing Borders Proseminar
arr.

GEOG:6635 (044:286) Crossing Borders Seminar
2-3 s.h.

GEOG:6900 (044:319) Seminar in International Development

Undergraduate major: German (B.A.)
Undergraduate minor: German
Graduate degree: M.A. in German
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/dwllc/german

The Department of German provides education in the language, literature, and culture traditionally designated as German, as expressed in the language and cultural heritage of Germany, Austria, and Switzerland. Its faculty members conduct research and teach on topics in German language, literature, and culture from disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives.

Undergraduate students in all majors may satisfy the World Languages requirement of the General Education Program with courses in German; see "Language for General Education" below. They may satisfy other General Education requirements with courses on German literature and culture that are taught in English; look for courses with the prefix GRMN in the area lists under "Culture, Society, and the Arts" in the General Education Program (p. 323) section of the Catalog. General Education courses on German literature and culture also are listed with departmental courses taught in English under "Courses" at the end of this Catalog section.

University graduates with degrees in German frequently enter the teaching profession. They also find positions in government, foreign service, and commercial enterprise.

The Department of German is one of the academic units in the Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures (p. 235).

Undergraduate Programs of Study

• Major in German (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in German

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in German requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 30 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Students who plan to earn licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools should see "B.A. with Teacher Licensure" below.

Students who begin a German major with no previous German language experience must complete the following courses or their equivalents.

GRMN:1001 (013:011) Elementary German I 4 s.h.
GRMN:1002 (013:012) Elementary German II 4 s.h.
GRMN:2001 (013:021) Intermediate German I 4 s.h.
GRMN:2002 (013:022) Intermediate German II 4 s.h.

This requirement also may be satisfied by various combinations of GRMN:1020 (013:013) Intensive Elementary German, GRMN:1010 (013:014) First-Year German Review, and GRMN:2020 (013:025) Intensive Intermediate German.

The 30 s.h. required for the major must include at least five upper-level German courses taken at The University of Iowa. Note: GRMN:3501 (013:101) Introduction to German Literature (or equivalent) is prerequisite for some other German literature courses.

The major in German requires the following course work.

Core courses—all of these:

GRMN:3103 (013:103) Composition and Conversation I 3 s.h.
GRMN:3104 (013:104) Composition and Conversation II 3 s.h.
GRMN:3501 (013:101) Introduction to German Literature 3 s.h.

Linguistics—one of these:

GRMN:3807 (013:107) Introduction to German Linguistics 3 s.h.
GRMN:3855 (013:122) The Sounds of German 3 s.h.
GRMN:3865 (013:165) History of the German Language 3 s.h.

Culture—one of these:

GRMN:3405 (013:105) German Cultural History 3 s.h.
GRMN:4315 (013:115) Contemporary German Civilization 3 s.h.

Capstone course:
GRMN:4850 (013:185) Senior Seminar 3 s.h.

Electives:
Four electives chosen from Department of German courses (prefix GRMN), with at least two numbered 3000-4999

12 s.h.

Students may count a maximum of two Department of German courses taught in English and numbered 2500-2999 toward the major by registering for 4 s.h. of credit for each course instead of 3 s.h.; the additional 1 s.h. of credit reflects an added research component. See "German in Translation" under "Courses"/"Lower-Level Undergraduate" toward the end of this Catalog section. Courses taught in English that are taken for 3 s.h. do not count toward the major in German.

With the approval of the departmental director of undergraduate studies, students also may apply one course from the University of Iowa Honors Program to the requirements of the German major or minor when that course concerns German culture or language. Honors courses are subject to the same limits on courses taught in English as are Department of German courses.

German majors, both undergraduate and graduate, are urged to supplement their degree programs with relevant courses in areas such as German history, philosophy, and business.

B.A. with Teacher Licensure

German majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education's Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Students who plan to use their work toward a German minor as academic background for earning teacher licensure should contact the Office of Education Services about requirements.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan.

Before the third semester begins: language competency equal to first-year German

Before the fifth semester begins: language competency equal to second-year German

Before the seventh semester begins: four courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester: two or three additional courses in the major

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Exceptional students majoring in German have the opportunity to pursue honors study in the major and to graduate with honors in the major. To participate in the department's honors program, students must have completed three years of college-level German, or the equivalent, with a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in upper-level German courses.

Students working toward graduation with honors in the German major must register for GRMN:4990 (013:190) Honors Program in German and must meet regularly with their faculty director of studies. They are expected to engage in readings and discussions in German linguistics, literature, or culture and to write essays in German and English. They also must complete honors research and write an honors thesis, registering for GRMN:4991 (013:191) Honors Research and Thesis. They complete their honors requirements by presenting their honors thesis to a faculty committee of at least three members.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University's honors program.

Minor

The minor in German requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in college-level German courses, including at least 12 s.h. in courses taken at The University of Iowa. All Department of German courses numbered 3000 or above count toward the minor. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

The minor must include 9 s.h. in Department of German courses (prefix GRMN) numbered 3000 or above. It also may include a maximum of 3 s.h. in Department of German courses numbered 2002-2100.

Students may count one Department of German course taught in English and numbered 2500-2999 toward the minor by registering for 4 s.h. of credit for the course instead of 3 s.h.; the additional 1 s.h. of credit reflects an added research component. See "German in Translation" under "Courses"/"Lower-Level Undergraduate" toward the end of this Catalog section. Courses taught in English that are taken for 3 s.h. do not count toward the minor in German.

With the approval of the director of undergraduate studies, students may count up to 6 s.h. earned in study abroad at a university in a German-speaking country toward the minor.

Language for General Education

The department offers several sequences of German language courses that students in all majors may use to satisfy the World Languages requirement of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). Students who have had experience with German should take the online World Languages Placement Test, which helps determine the level at which a student should begin German language study at The University of Iowa. Students with no background in German should begin their study with GRMN:1001 (013:011) Elementary German I.

The following sequences satisfy the World Languages Requirement of the General Education Program. Students using German to satisfy the World Languages requirement should talk with departmental advisors to determine which sequence is best for them.

Joint B.A./M.A.

The joint Bachelor of Arts/Master of Arts program in German permits students to count 12 s.h. of approved course work toward both degrees and to take graduate-level German courses while they are still undergraduates. Students may complete both degrees in five years. They receive the B.A. when they have satisfied all requirements for the bachelor's degree, and they receive the M.A. when they have completed all master's degree requirements.

The joint B.A./M.A. is appropriate for students who enter the University from high school with advanced German language preparation. It is attractive to highly motivated students who plan to study abroad and who plan to pursue a Ph.D. in German or second language acquisition. It may serve as preparation for other programs, such as those related to international studies, library science, business with an international focus, or international relations. Students seeking careers in teaching or other fields may pursue the joint degree as a credential.

Joint program students must fulfill all requirements for the B.A. They ordinarily spend two semesters in their junior year enrolled in the study abroad program at the University of Freiburg, in Germany (see "Study Abroad" below), unless they have satisfied this requirement another way (e.g., a year abroad during high school or another study abroad program with similar content).

During the last two semesters of their senior year, they may take up to 12 s.h. of graduate-level courses that count toward both degrees (for the B.A., 6 s.h. toward required courses and 6 s.h. toward electives). Once they complete all B.A. requirements, they complete the remaining M.A. requirements.

Students must maintain an undergraduate German g.p.a. of at least 3.50; if they fail to meet this standard for more than one semester, they may be required to leave the program. They must have an overall undergraduate g.p.a. of at least 3.00 when they achieve graduate standing.

Applicants must be admitted to the joint program before the beginning of their seventh semester (senior year). They must be University of Iowa undergraduate students; must have completed 80 s.h. or be in the process of completing 90 s.h. of undergraduate work; and must have completed or be in the process of completing at least 21 s.h. of courses in the German major numbered 3000 or above. They must have completed or be in the process of completing a study abroad program in a German-speaking country or have satisfied this requirement another way. They also must have a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in German when they apply to the program or a letter from a Department of German faculty member recommending an exception.

Students pay undergraduate tuition and fees during their first semester in the joint program (normally their seventh semester); beginning with their second semester in the program (normally their eighth semester), they begin paying graduate tuition and fees. Students may hold a graduate appointment beginning with their second semester in the joint program.

Study Abroad

The Department of German participates in an academic year abroad program for undergraduates at the Albert Ludwig University of Freiburg, in Germany. The Freiburg program is offered by a consortium made up of The University of Iowa, Michigan State University, the University of Michigan, and the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Students arrive during the first week of September and participate in a four-week intensive language program. Then they take a blend of special program classes and regular German university courses. Organized field trips are designed to give students a broader perspective on German culture. Vacation periods permit extensive travel throughout Europe, and students are encouraged to use weekends for shorter trips in the region.

To apply, students must have reached at least sophomore standing by the beginning of the program, must have completed at least the first four semesters of college German or the equivalent with a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 in German, and must be in good academic standing at a U.S. college or university.

Students earn resident credit in all courses successfully completed in the program. They may count up to 21 s.h. earned at Freiburg toward the major in German. Credit also counts toward the minor in German. Students in other majors should consult with their advisor or their department's undergraduate director.

Contact the Department of German or International Programs Study Abroad for more information.

Graduate Program of Study

- Master of Arts in German (with or without thesis)
Advanced undergraduate students majoring in German may begin working toward a master's degree in German while completing their bachelor's degree; see "Joint B.A./M.A." above.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in German requires a minimum of 33 s.h. of graduate credit. It is offered with or without thesis.

M.A. students choose one of two concentrations: German literature or Germanic linguistics. The German literature concentration requires seven literature courses (21 s.h.) and four linguistics courses (12 s.h.). The Germanic linguistics concentration requires seven linguistics courses (21 s.h.) and four literature courses (12 s.h.).

M.A. students are expected to complete at least 24 s.h. in the Department of German. All M.A. course work taken outside the department requires the graduate advisor's approval.

Before taking the M.A. exam, students must demonstrate reading knowledge of a foreign language other than German, at a level equivalent to two years of college study or four years of high school study. Students may demonstrate competence by submitting proof that they have taken the required course work with a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 or by passing an exam at the fourth-semester college level, as determined by the appropriate language department.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate (p. 940) College section of the Catalog.

Financial Support

Teaching assistantships, research assistantships, and partial tuition scholarships are available for qualified graduate students. The department awards the Wilson and the Funke prizes to students of distinction.

Facilities and Resources

Students have the opportunity to improve their comprehension and command of German by working with recorded materials in the Language Media Center. They also may benefit from the multimedia courseware and digital video recordings from German television.

An extensive collection of works and periodicals at University of Iowa Libraries facilitates research in all major areas of German literature and Germanic linguistics and at all levels of study.

The Global Mosaic and Spoken Here Living-Learning Communities are two on-campus housing options of special interest to undergraduate world languages students.

Education, research, and practice in global health places a priority on improving health and achieving equity for all people worldwide. Issues in the field include social determinants of health, health care disparities, infectious and noncommunicable diseases, environmental challenges, and human rights as well as economic development, health policy, and health systems.

The University of Iowa’s Global Health Studies Program examines the complex processes influencing health and disease around the world. It considers not only the manifestations of significant diseases and public health and health care systems, but also the underlying forces and institutions—such as technology, politics, culture, legal structure, history, and economics—that collectively influence patterns of health and disease.

The Global Health Studies Program equips its students to:

• identify the nature, magnitude, and distribution of factors that contribute to excess morbidity and mortality, including disparities in health status by gender, race, ethnicity, rural or urban location, and economic status;
• understand how commerce, labor, food supply and sustainability, the environment, climate change and natural disasters, pharmaceuticals, international aid, human rights, and conflict may contribute to health status; and
• be aware of and be able to assess the appropriateness of intervention strategies to promote health and to address major health problems, particularly in low-resource settings, and be able to evaluate the effectiveness and sustainability of such interventions.

The Global Health Studies Program attracts undergraduate, graduate, and professional students from a wide range of disciplines, including international studies, anthropology, public health, health and pre-health sciences, health economics, nursing, environmental engineering, history, law, business, journalism, social work, and education.

Undergraduate and Graduate Programs of Study

• Certificate in Global Health Studies (undergraduate and graduate)
• Minor in global health studies (undergraduate)

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences grants the undergraduate certificate and minor; the Graduate College confers the graduate certificate.

Certificate

The Certificate in Global Health Studies requires 18 s.h. of credit. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 in work for the certificate. Completion of the certificate is noted on the student’s transcript.

The undergraduate certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor’s degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Undergraduates may earn the certificate or the minor in global health studies, but not both.

The graduate certificate is open to University of Iowa graduate and professional students.

Admission to the certificate program is competitive. Applicants must be in good academic standing and must be able to demonstrate interest in and understanding of the field of global health. For application forms and deadline information, contact the Global Health Studies Program advisor.

Work for the certificate includes core courses, electives, an international experience that culminates in a public presentation and written report, and study of a world language. Students must earn at least 15 s.h. of credit for the certificate in courses numbered 3000 or above taken at The University of Iowa. They may choose courses offered by the Global Health Studies Program (see “Courses” below) and those offered by other departments and programs (see "Associated Courses" below).

Students may be granted credit toward the certificate for course work they completed up to two years before beginning the program. Graduate and professional students who would like to count credit from a degree program toward the global health studies certificate should consult their major academic programs.

The Certificate in Global Health Studies requires the following work.

ELECTIVES

Students complete 7 s.h. of approved electives chosen from the lists under "Associated Courses" and "Courses" below. They may petition to use other courses as electives if they can demonstrate that the courses include substantial material related to global health. Students may apply up to 3 s.h. of academic credit earned for research, internship, or study abroad experiences to the elective requirement. Contact the Global Health Studies Program for details.

INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE

Students must complete an international experience in which they systematically address an important global health issue. The experience typically takes place in an international setting and lasts eight weeks. The international experience may be completed as part of a study abroad program, a service learning course, an internship, a volunteer experience, or an independent research project.

Projects require approval by the Global Health Studies Program steering committee and must be supervised by a faculty member. Students may apply for an international travel scholarship ($1,000); other financial support may be available for some projects. Visit Certificate/International Experience on the program's web site for more information.

Language Study
Students should complete four semesters of modern language study or course work that fulfills or is equivalent to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323) World Languages requirement.

The Global Health Studies Program steering committee may require students to take additional language study in preparation for a research or internship program. Students interested in learning an infrequently taught language to facilitate their participation in an international experience should investigate the Autonomous Language Learning Network (ALLNET).

Public Presentation and Report
Certificate requirements culminate in a public presentation and report, in which each student presents the results of his or her international experience in GHS:3010 (152:150) Identifying and Developing a Global Health Project or in an equivalent public forum. Students also must submit a 10-12 page report that summarizes their international experience.

Minor
The minor in global health studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h., including 12 s.h. in advanced courses taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Students may earn either the certificate or the minor in global health studies, but not both.

The minor is interdisciplinary, designed for undergraduates who wish to study health issues in a global context. Each student's plan of study for the minor is developed according to the student's interests and in consultation with a program advisor. Students may choose courses from those offered by the Global Health Studies Program (see "Courses" below) or by other departments and programs (see "Associated Courses" below); they should choose course work from at least two different disciplines. Students are strongly encouraged to include one of the core courses required for the Certificate in Global Health Studies in their plan of study for the minor. The program highly recommends that students complete a period of study abroad focused on global health issues.

Activities and Resources
The Global Health Studies Program organizes both on-campus and international activities and research opportunities for students and faculty members, enabling them to become acquainted with major global health issues. Several scholarships, academic fellowships, international fellowships, and research and study abroad programs supplement the global health studies certificate program. These are sponsored by the University and a variety of agencies. Contact the Global Health Studies Program for details.

Associated Courses
In addition to courses offered by the Global Health Studies Program (see "Courses" below), students may use the following courses to complete requirements for the certificate or minor.

AGING STUDIES
ASP:1800 (153:085) Basic Aspects of Aging 3 s.h.

ANTHROPOLOGY
ANTH:4140 (113:133) The Anthropology of Women's Health 3 s.h.

COMMUNITY AND BEHAVIORAL HEALTH
CBH:5205 (172:130) Social Determinants of Health 3 s.h.
CBH:5220 (172:150) Health Behavior and Health Education 3 s.h.

ECONOMICS
ECON:3760 (06E:113) Health Economics 3 s.h.

EDUCATION
EPLS:5195 (07B:195) Research in Cross-Cultural Settings 3 s.h.

OCCUPATIONAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
OEH:4240 (175:197) Global Environmental Health 3 s.h.

PUBLIC HEALTH
MPH:5100 (170:101) Introduction to Public Health 3 s.h.

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate
GHS:1029 (152:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Introduction to intellectual life of the University; opportunity to work closely with a faculty member or senior administrator; active participation to ease transition to college-level learning.

GHS:1100 (152:030) Contraception Across Time and Cultures 3 s.h.
Methods and history of contraception and abortion; issues of unwanted pregnancy and birth control in fiction, film, and media around the world. Same as WLLC:1100 (218:050).

GHS:1181 (152:081) Ancient Medicine 3 s.h.
Thematic examination of theories and practices of Greco-Roman physicians, which in turn became the medical tradition of medieval Islamic world and European medicine until mid-19th century; historical medical terms, theories, and practices. GE: Historical Perspectives. Same as CLSA:1181 (20E:081).

GHS:2150 (152:050) Natural Environmental Systems 3-4 s.h.
Environmental chemistry and biology of air, water, and soil quality, air and water pollution, limnology, global atmospheric change, fate and transport of pollutants; hazardous substances, risk analysis, standard setting. Prerequisites: CHEM:1110 (004:011). Same as CEE:2150 (053:050).

GHS:2164 (152:091) Culture and Healing for Future Health Professionals 3 s.h.
Health professions increasingly focused on how to best provide health care to culturally diverse populations; introduction to key cultural and social influences on sickness and healing; worldwide examples. Same as ANTH:2164 (113:091).

GHS:2181 (152:147) The Anthropology of Aging 3 s.h.
Comparative anthropological perspective on aging; ethnographies from diverse contexts used to examine intersections of kinship, religion, health, and medicine in later life. Same as ANTH:2181 (113:147), ASP:2181 (153:181).

GHS:2320 (152:090) Anthropological Perspectives on Human Infectious Disease: Origins and Evolution 3 s.h.
Origin and evolution of important infectious diseases in human history; biological evolution of infectious agents and biocultural responses to emerging infectious diseases; primary focus on viruses and bacteria; selected world problems from an anthropological perspective; current dilemmas and those faced by diverse human groups in recent times and distant past. Same as ANTH:2320 (213:090).

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

GHS:3010 (152:150) Identifying and Developing a Global Health Project 2-3 s.h.
Preparation for an international experience (study abroad, service learning, volunteering, internship, or independent research project); addressing a global health issue in a systematic way.

GHS:3020 (152:151) Proseminar in Global Health 1 s.h.
Important health problems and issues of a global and interrelated nature that affect the developed and developing world.

GHS:3030 (152:152) Global Health Conference 1 s.h.
Annual research conference on major global health issues.

GHS:3040 (152:119) Health in Mexico 3 s.h.
Use of anthropological perspectives to examine disease, healing systems, and ideas about health and the body in Mexico and its diaspora; relationships between structural conditions and historical and political transformations; ideas about gender and race; chronic and acute disease in Mexico; conquest and disease; racialized bodies; sexual health; biomedicine; shamanism; immigration and health; pollution and narcoviolence; readings in English. Same as ANTH:3111 (113:119).

GHS:3050 (152:153) Global Aging 3 s.h.
Demographic factors that contribute to the world wide phenomena of population aging in context of WHO Active Aging and the United Nation's Principles for Older Persons frameworks. Same as SSW:3135 (042:135), ASP:3135 (153:135).

GHS:3060 (152:154) Studies in Complementary and Alternative Medicine 3 s.h.
Topics vary; may include studies in mind-body medicine; complementary and alternative medicine (CAM); group of medical and health care systems, practices, and products that are not considered to be part of conventional medicine; treatments used instead of standard ones (alternative treatments); nonstandard treatments used together with standard ones (complementary medicine); examples of CAM therapies (acupuncture, chiropractic, herbal medicines); approaches widely used in other parts of the world that may represent an important component of health care in a country (e.g., ayurvedic medicine in India).

GHS:3070 (152:107) Hungry Planet: Global Geographies of Food 3 s.h.
Societal and environmental implications of past, current, and future global food supply examined from a geographical perspective; focus on questions of who eats what, where, and why; transformative history of agriculture, modern agribusiness and alternative food supplies, geopolitical implications of food production, food scarcity and rising food costs, urban versus rural agriculture, the obesity epidemic versus malnutrition, and the future of food. Same as GEOG:3070 (044:107).

GHS:3102 (152:185) Medical Anthropology 3 s.h.
Major theoretical, methodological approaches; international health and development; biomedicine as a cultural system; ethnomedicine; anthropology and AIDS, human reproduction, epidemiology, ethnopsychiatry. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:2100 (113:010). Same as ANTH:3102 (113:185), CBH:5125 (172:173).

GHS:3110 (152:121) Health of Indigenous Peoples 3 s.h.
Health problems and services for indigenous populations worldwide, from perspective of Fourth World postcolonial politics. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003). Same as ANTH:3110 (113:121), AINS:3110 (149:121).

GHS:3113 (152:145) Religion and Healing 3 s.h.

GHS:3131 (152:170) Health Care and Health Reforms in Russia 3 s.h.
Societal changes and their continuing effect on the Russian health care system since 1991; guest lectures from public health, nursing, medicine, cultural anthropology. Same as SLAV:3131 (041:104).
GHS:3150 (152:159) Media and Health  3 s.h.
Potential and limits of mass media's ability to educate the public about health; research and theory on the influence of information and entertainment media; theories, models, assumptions of mass communication in relation to public health issues. Same as JMC:3150 (019:160), CBH:3150 (172:140).

GHS:3151 (152:156) The Anthropology of the Beginnings and Ends of Life  3 s.h.
Examination of diverse understandings of birth and death, drawing on anthropological analysis of personhood, kinship, ritual, and medicine; how social inequality and new technologies shape human experience at life's margins. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 (113:003) or ANTH:2100 (113:010). Same as ANTH:3151 (113:151), ASP:3151 (153:151).

GHS:3152 (152:149) Anthropology of Caregiving and Health  3 s.h.
Diverse understandings and practices of care around the world; focus on relationships between caregiving practices and health across the life course. Same as ANTH:3152 (113:152), ASP:3152 (153:152).

GHS:3191 (152:191) Sustainable Development: India and the Global Context  3 s.h.
Introduction to development in India; critical examination of current discourses on domestic sociological, economic, and ecological environmental effects of the current model of development; taught in Mysore, India.

GHS:3192 (152:192) Environment and Health in Modern India  3 s.h.
Introduction to India's environmental and health traditions; major contemporary scenarios; taught in Mysore, India.

GHS:3326 (152:157) Infectious Disease and Human Evolution  3 s.h.
Infectious disease as a central and important role in evolution of modern humans; impact of important infectious diseases on human history through primary literature. Recommendations: evolutionary theory background or interest. Same as ANTH:3326 (213:153).

GHS:3555 (152:155) Understanding Health and Disease in Africa  3 s.h.
Cultural, historical, and political framework for the delivery of health care services in African nations. Recommendations: junior or higher standing. Same as IS:3555 (187:155).

GHS:3720 (152:160) Global Health Seminar  3 s.h.
Local and global dimensions of health and disease.

GHS:3760 (152:180) Hazards and Society  3 s.h.
Introduction to social science perspectives on societal responses to natural and technological hazards; risk perception and communication, disaster management, social vulnerability, and risk assessment; case studies of recent major disasters (e.g., Haiti earthquake, Tohoku earthquake/tsunami/nuclear accident, Hurricane Katrina); current directions in hazards research, policy, and practice. Same as GEOG:3760 (044:175).

Historical and contemporary aspects of U.S. governmental planning and policy on a wide range of energy issues in global context. Prerequisites: GEOG:1020 (044:003) or EES:1080 (012:008), and GEOG:1070 (044:019). Same as GEOG:3780 (044:120).

GHS:3850 (152:158) Promoting Health Globally  3 s.h.
Major global health threats in the United States and abroad; impact of culture, history, economics on health disparities; approaches, programs, policies to remedy them. Requirements: junior or senior standing, or certificate student. Same as HHP:3850 (027:176).

GHS:4100 (152:125) Topics in Global Health  1-3 s.h.

GHS:4111 (152:131) Geography of Health  3 s.h.
Provision of health care in selected countries, with particular reference to the Third World; focus on problems of geographical, economic, cultural accessibility to health services; disease ecology, prospective payment systems, privatization, medical pluralism. Same as GEOG:3110 (044:131).

GHS:4126 (152:126) International Perspectives: Xicotepec  2-3 s.h.
Introduction to providing service to a community in a less developed country; student projects intended to improve community life in Xicotepec. Requirements: P3 standing. Same as PHAR:8788 (046:126), CEE:4788 (053:126).

GHS:4141 (152:141) Design for the Developing World  3 s.h.
Experience working on interdisciplinary teams to solve problems of the developing world; technologies for improving water and sanitation, energy, housing, and health; community building strategies, participatory methods, other techniques essential to good design; service-learning component. Recommendations: junior or higher standing. Same as CEE:4141 (053:141).

GHS:4150 (152:139) Health and Environment: GIS Applications  3 s.h.
Applications of GIS and spatial analysis for studying health outcomes and exposure to environmental contaminants at different geographical scales. Same as GEOG:4150 (044:137).

GHS:4160 (152:137) History of Public Health  3 s.h.
State-endorsed measures to avert or control disease in society. Same as HIST:4160 (16W:137).

GHS:4162 (152:138) History of Global Health  3 s.h.
Global Health Studies

GHS:4210 (152:111) International Health 3 s.h.
Urgent health problems in the developing world and among disadvantaged populations in developed countries; biological, social, cultural, political aspects of international health problems; applications of research methods from epidemiology, environmental health, social sciences. Same as EPID:4210 (173:111), OEH:4210 (175:111).

GHS:4220 (152:252) U.S. and Global Environmental Health Policy 3 s.h.

GHS:4230 (152:182) Health Experience of Immigrants, Migrants, and Refugees 3 s.h.

GHS:4275 (152:195) Research Methods in Disaster Studies 3 s.h.
Epidemiologic study of disasters and their health consequences; research to identify and reduce health effects, research in context of response and preparedness. Same as EPID:4520 (173:175), OEH:4520 (175:175).

GHS:4340 (152:135) Global Health and Global Food 3 s.h.
Practices, patterns, and policies that contribute to the epidemics of obesity, diabetes, and heart disease in wealthy populations; environmental degradation, hunger, and malnutrition among impoverished populations; strategies to meet food and agricultural needs for the world; local/global aspects or perspectives on food/health concerns for Iowa and the international community. Same as HHP:4340 (027:135).

GHS:4600 (152:120) Global Health and Human Rights 2-3 s.h.
Requirements: sophomore or higher standing.

GHS:4605 (152:140) Disease, Politics, and Health in South Asia 2-4 s.h.
South Asia's long-term success lengthening lives and stopping disease, weighed against its continuing burden of infection, violence, pollution, and class-based suffering. Same as HIST:4605 (16W:140).

GHS:4990 (152:199) Special Projects in Global Health arr.

Graduate

GHS:5455 (152:217) Health Insurance and Managed Care 3 s.h.

GHS:6550 (152:257) Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases 3 s.h.
Underlying epidemiological concepts of infection disease, including causation and surveillance; prevention and control; case studies. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: EPID:4400 (173:140). Same as EPID:6550 (173:255).

Undergraduate majors: health and human physiology (B.A.); human physiology (B.S.); athletic training (B.S.); sport and recreation management (B.S.); therapeutic recreation (B.S.)

Undergraduate minors: human physiology; physical activity and nutrition science

Graduate degrees: M.A. in leisure studies; M.S. in health and human physiology; Ph.D. in health and human physiology

Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/hhp/

The Department of Health and Human Physiology offers undergraduate majors and minors and graduate degree programs in health and human physiology and related areas. In addition, the department is home to the Health and Physical Activity Skills Program, which offers courses that provide instruction and practice in lifetime sports, fitness training, and wellness activities aimed at enhancing physical health and well-being. Undergraduates in all majors may use several health and human physiology courses to fulfill requirements of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323). The department's First-Year Seminar is designed for entering undergraduate students.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

- Major in health and human physiology (Bachelor of Arts)
- Major in human physiology (Bachelor of Science)
- Major in athletic training (Bachelor of Science)
- Major in sport and recreation management (Bachelor of Science)
- Major in therapeutic recreation (Bachelor of Science)
- Minor in human physiology
- Minor in physical activity and nutrition science

Students may complete a major in health and human physiology (B.A.) or a major in human physiology (B.S.), but not both.

Students majoring in health and human physiology (B.A.) or human physiology (B.S.) or athletic training (B.S.) may not earn the minor in human physiology or the minor in physical activity and nutrition science.

Bachelor of Arts: Health and Human Physiology

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in health and human physiology requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including work for the major, which varies by track. The health promotion track requires a total of 49-51 s.h. of work for the major; the health studies track requires 40-42 s.h. of work for the major; and the exercise science track requires 51-53 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The health promotion track is intended for students seeking careers that promote wellness in the community and the workplace. The health studies track is designed for students who want a more flexible health science curriculum. The exercise science track is intended for students seeking careers as professionals in fitness and in strength and conditioning.

Admission to the health promotion track is selective; students must apply and be admitted. Applicants must have completed the three courses listed under "Science and Math Foundation" below (chemistry, biology, and mathematics or statistics) and must have a University of Iowa and a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.70. Students may apply during the semester in which they will complete the science and math foundation courses required for application to the track. Application deadlines are October 1 for the following spring semester, March 1 for the following fall semester.

Admission to the health studies track and the exercise science track is open; students may enter either track without applying to it.

Students majoring in health and human physiology (B.A.) may not earn a second degree in human physiology (B.S.). Students in all tracks are required to complete a set of common requirements as well as additional courses required specifically for their track.

The major in health and human physiology requires the following course work.

Common Requirements

Each track requires the following science and math foundation (minimum of 10 s.h.) and the departmental core (15 s.h.).

SCIENCE AND MATH FOUNDATION

All students complete three foundation courses (minimum of 10 s.h.): one each in chemistry, biology, and mathematics or statistics.

Chemistry—one of these:

- CHEM:1080 (004:008) General Chemistry II 3 s.h.
- CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II 4 s.h.

Biology—one of these:

- BIOL:1140 (002:021) Human Biology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:1141 (002:002) Introductory Animal Biology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology 4 s.h.

Mathematics or statistics—one of these:

- MATH:1020 (22M:009) Elementary Functions 4 s.h.
- MATH:1380 (22M:017) Calculus and Matrix Algebra for Business 4 s.h.
- MATH:1440 (22M:015) Mathematics for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
- MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
- MATH:1850 (22M:025) Calculus I 4 s.h.
- PSQF:4143 (07P:143)/STAT:4143 (22S:102) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.
- STAT:1020 (22S:025) Elementary Statistics and Inference 3 s.h.
- STAT:1030 (22S:008) Statistics for Business 4 s.h.
- STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.

DEPARTMENTAL CORE

All students must complete the five-course departmental core (15 s.h.).

All of these:

- HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.
- HHP:1300 (027:050) Fundamentals of Human Physiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:2200 (027:039) Physical Activity and Health 3 s.h.
- HHP:2310 (027:040) Nutrition and Health 3 s.h.
- HHP:3400 (027:140) Applied Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.

Health Promotion Track Requirements

Health promotion track students also complete the following health promotion core courses (15 s.h.) and guided electives (9 s.h.) in addition to the courses listed under “Common Requirements” above (math and science foundation and departmental core).

HEALTH PROMOTION: CORE

All of these:

- HHP:3200 (027:136) Health Behavior and Health Promotion 3 s.h.
- HHP:3430 (027:137) Community and Worksite Health Promotion 3 s.h.
- HHP:4200 (027:138) Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
- HHP:4320 (027:134) Nutrition Interventions 3 s.h.
- HHP:4420 (027:156) Planning and Evaluating Health Interventions 3 s.h.

HEALTH PROMOTION: GUIDED ELECTIVES

Students must complete at least 9 s.h. selected from the courses below, including at least 6 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above.

- HHP:2130 (027:044) Human Development Through the Life Span 3 s.h.
- HHP:3050 (027:128) Obesity: Causes, Consequences, Prevention, and Treatment 3 s.h.
- HHP:3100 (027:110) Health Literacy 3 s.h.
- HHP:3420 (027:144) College Health Education 3 s.h.
- HHP:3440 (027:147) Physical Activity and Healthy Communities 3 s.h.
- HHP:3850 (027:176) Promoting Health Globally 3 s.h.
- HHP:4210 (027:139) Musculoskeletal Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
- HHP:4390 (027:151) Understanding Human Disease 3 s.h.
- HHP:4400 (027:152) Health Promotion Clinical Practicum (may be taken twice) 1 s.h.
- HHP:4405 (027:153) Health Promotion Community and Worksite Practicum (may be taken twice) 1 s.h.
- HHP:4440 (027:143) Physiology of Nutrition 3 s.h.
- HHP:4500 (027:195) Undergraduate Independent Study 1-2 s.h.

Exercise Science Track Requirements

Exercise science track students complete the following exercise science core courses (18 s.h.) and guided electives (8 s.h.) in addition to the courses listed under "Common Requirements" above (the math and science foundation and the departmental core).

EXERCISE SCIENCE: CORE

All of these:

- HHP:2350 (027:095) Biomechanics of Sport and Physical Activity 3 s.h.
- HHP:2500 (027:076) Psychological Aspects of Sport and Physical Activity 3 s.h.
- HHP:4200 (027:138) Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.

Bachelor of Science: Human Physiology

The Bachelor of Science with a major in human physiology requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 60 s.h. of work for the major (26 s.h. in health and human physiology and 34 s.h. in required cognate courses). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in human physiology is designed primarily for individuals who intend to continue their education beyond the B.S. in the health professions, including medicine, dentistry, optometry, physician assistant, physical therapy, and podiatry, and for those who intend to pursue graduate degrees in basic life sciences. The program includes study in anatomy, biomechanics, physiology, neural control of movement, and the cognate areas of biology, chemistry, mathematics, physics, and statistics.

Students majoring in human physiology (B.S.) may not earn a second degree in health and human physiology (B.A.).

In addition to course work required for the major, students are encouraged to include specific electives to complete the credit required for graduation; see "Recommended Electives" below. The department recommends that students fulfill the General Education Program's Natural Sciences requirement by taking CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I, CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II, and BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology. It also recommends that they fulfill the Social Sciences requirement by taking CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I, BIOL:1411 (002:031) Foundations of Biology, and BIOL:1412 (002:032) Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function.

The major in human physiology requires the following course work.

HUMAN PHYSIOLOGY

All of these:

- HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.
- HHP:1110 (027:054) Human Anatomy Laboratory 1 s.h.
- HHP:1310 (027:051) Human Physiology Laboratory 1 s.h.
- HHP:3500 (027:130) Human Physiology 3 s.h.

At least 18 s.h. from these:

- HHP:3110 (027:154) Advanced Anatomy Laboratory 3 s.h.
- HHP:3300 (027:117) Human Growth and Motor Development 3 s.h.
- HHP:3450 (027:177) Immunology in Health and Disease 3 s.h.
- HHP:3510 (027:132) Advanced Human Physiology Laboratory 3 s.h.
- HHP:4130 (027:155) Skeletal Muscle Physiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:4150 (027:150) Clinical Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:4200 (027:138) Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
- HHP:4210 (027:139) Musculoskeletal Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
- HHP:4220 (027:197) Biomechanics of Human Motion 3 s.h.
- HHP:4230 (027:158) Motor Learning: Theory and Application 3 s.h.
- HHP:4250 (027:161) Human Pathophysiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:4300 (027:160) Neural Control of Posture and Movement 3 s.h.
- HHP:4410 (027:141) Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:4440 (027:143) Physiology of Nutrition 3 s.h.
- HHP:4450 (027:146) Genetic Basis of Disease 3 s.h.
- HHP:4460 (027:145) Cardiovascular Physiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:4470 (027:148) Physiology of Aging 3 s.h.
- HHP:4480 (027:165) Introduction to Human Pharmacology 3 s.h.
- HHP:4500 (027:195) Undergraduate Independent Study 1 s.h.
- HHP:4900 (027:199) Honors Research II 3 s.h.
- BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2254 (002:150) Endocrinology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
- BIOL:2603 (002:105) Mechanisms of Aging 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2753 (002:145) Introduction to Neurobiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology 3 s.h.
- MICR:2157 (061:157) General Microbiology 5 s.h.

Students may count the following courses toward the human physiology requirement or the cognate requirement, but not toward both requirements:

COGNATE AREAS

Students must earn a minimum of 34 s.h. in cognate areas—subjects outside of human physiology—by completing courses from the following lists.

Biology

This sequence:

- BIOL:1411 (002:031)-BIOL:1412 (002:032) Foundations of Biology - Diversity of Form and Function 8 s.h.

At least 3 s.h. from these:

- BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2254 (002:150) Endocrinology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2346 (002:108) Vertebrate Zoology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
- BIOL:2603 (002:105) Mechanisms of Aging 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2753 (002:145) Introduction to Neurobiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3233 (002:104) Introduction to Developmental Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3244 (002:143) Animal Behavior 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3253 (002:180) Neurobiology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3343 (002:124) Animal Physiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:4353 (002:181) Neurophysiology 3-4 s.h.
- MICR:2157 (061:157) General Microbiology 5 s.h.
- MICR:3112 (061:112) Pharmacy Microbiology 3 s.h.
- MICR:3112 (061:112) Pharmacy Microbiology 4 s.h.
- MICR:3147 (061:147) Survey of Immunology 3 s.h.
- MICR:3164 (061:164) Nursing Microbiology 4 s.h.

Students may count the following courses toward the human physiology requirement or the cognate requirement, but not toward both requirements:

Chemistry

Students must complete CHEM:1110 (004:011) before they may register for CHEM:1120 (004:012).

Both of these:

- CHEM:1110 (004:011) Principles of Chemistry I 4 s.h.
- CHEM:1120 (004:012) Principles of Chemistry II 4 s.h.

These additional chemistry courses are highly recommended.

- CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I 3 s.h.
- CHEM:2220 (004:122) Organic Chemistry II 3 s.h.
- CHEM:2410 (004:141) Organic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.

Mathematics

One of these:

- MATH:1460 (22M:016) Calculus for the Biological Sciences 4 s.h.
- MATH:1850 (22M:025) Calculus I (or a mathematics course numbered above 1850) 4 s.h.

Physics

This sequence:

Statistics

At least 3 s.h. from these:

- STAT:2010 (22S:030) Statistical Methods and Computing 3 s.h.
- STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.
- STAT:4143 (22S:102)/PSQF:4143 (07P:143) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.

RECOMMENDED ELECTIVES

The department recommends that students choose from the following electives in order to complete the minimum of 120 s.h. required for a Bachelor of Science. Additional recommended courses in biology and chemistry are listed under "Courses for the Major: Cognates" above.

Anthropology

- ANTH:3305 (213:190) Human Osteology 3 s.h.

Biochemistry

- BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
- BIOC:3120 (099:120) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology I 3 s.h.
- BIOC:3130 (099:130) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology II 3 s.h.
- BIOC:3140 (099:140) Experimental Biochemistry 2 s.h.

Biology

- BIOL:2254 (002:150) Endocrinology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2346 (002:108) Vertebrate Zoology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:2512 (002:128) Fundamental Genetics 4 s.h.
- BIOL:2723 (002:114) Cell Biology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:2753 (002:145) Introduction to Neurobiology 3 s.h.
- BIOL:3244 (002:143) Animal Behavior 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3253 (002:180) Neurobiology 4 s.h.
- BIOL:3343 (002:124) Animal Behavior 3 s.h.
- BIOL:4353 (002:181) Neurophysiology 3 s.h.

Chemistry

- CHEM:2210 (004:121) Organic Chemistry I 3 s.h.
- CHEM:2220 (004:122) Organic Chemistry II 3 s.h.
- CHEM:2410 (004:141) Organic Chemistry Laboratory 3 s.h.
- CHEM:3110 (004:111) Analytical Chemistry I 3 s.h.
- CHEM:3120 (004:112) Analytical Chemistry II 3 s.h.
- CHEM:4431 (004:131) Physical Chemistry I 3 s.h.

Classics

- CLSA:3750 (20E:103) Medical and Technical Terminology 2 s.h.

Communication Sciences and Disorders

- CSD:2140 (003:140) Manual Communication 1 s.h.
- CSD:3116 (003:116) Basic Neuroscience for Speech and Hearing 3 s.h.

Computer Science

- CS:1020 (22C:001) Principles of Computing 3 s.h.
- CS:1110 (22C:005) Introduction to Computer Science 3 s.h.
- CS:1210 (22C:016) Computer Science I: Fundamentals 4 s.h.
- ENGR:2730 (057:017) Computers in Engineering 3 s.h.

Education

- RCE:4185 (07C:185) Introduction to Substance Abuse 3 s.h.

Engineering

- ENGR:2110 (059:007) Engineering Fundamentals I: Statics 2 s.h.
- ENGR:2710 (057:010) Dynamics 3 s.h.
- ENGR:2750 (057:019) Mechanics of Deformable Bodies 3 s.h.

English

- CNW:2680 (08N:080) The Art and Craft of Creative Nonfiction 3 s.h.

Free Radical and Radiation Biology

- FRRB:5000 (077:103) Radiation Biology 4 s.h.

Health Promotion

- HHP:4200 (027:138) Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
Applicants must have at least 11 s.h. of graded college students and begin clinical experience as sophomores. Admission to the major in athletic training is competitive; certification is recommended but not required.

Employment opportunities for graduates include work as health care professionals for sports medicine clinics and hospitals; these individuals often work with secondary school athletic teams. Additional education usually is required for employment with professional, college, and university athletic teams and for specialized positions in corporations, industry, and other areas. Teacher certification is recommended but not required.

Admission to the major in athletic training is competitive; students must apply. They may be admitted as first-year students and begin clinical experience as sophomores. Applicants must have at least 11 s.h. of graded college credit (pass/fail credit does not count), including ATEP:1010 (027:096) Exploring Athletic Training with a grade of C or higher; and they must have a g.p.a. of at least 2.50 on all undergraduate course work. Preference is given to applicants with high scholastic standing, strong writing skills, and varied athletic training and health care experience. A personal interview may be required; the athletic training program contacts applicants about interviews.

Fulfillment of admission requirements does not ensure admission to the athletic training major. The program selects candidates who appear to be best qualified for the study and practice of athletic training. Students denied admission to the major may reapply in a subsequent fall semester.

All students admitted to the major in athletic training are required to comply with entrance and periodic health screening history and immunization, which is coordinated through the program's medical director.

Students who have not formally contacted the athletic training program director before enrolling at The University of Iowa should talk to an athletic training advisor or their academic advisor upon entering the University. Early advising for course selection is vital to ensure that students take prerequisites and sequenced skill development courses in the right order. Students should begin taking prerequisites for required major courses during their first year and should complete their final prerequisites after admission to the athletic training major.

For current information on rules, procedures, and curriculum, contact the athletic training program director. The major in athletic training requires the following course work.

ADMISSION PREREQUISITE

Students must complete this course before they apply for admission to the athletic training major.

ATEP:1010 (027:096) Exploring Athletic Training 1 s.h.

PREREQUISITES TO COURSE WORK FOR THE MAJOR

Students must complete the following courses (34-36 s.h.) as they begin course work for the major.

COURSES FOR THE MAJOR
Students must complete the following course work for the major (53-54 s.h.).

One of these:
HHP:3400 (027:140) Applied Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.
HHP:4410 (027:141) Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.

One of these:
HHP:1300 (027:050) Fundamentals of Human Physiology 3 s.h.
HHP:3500 (027:130) Human Physiology 3 s.h.

One of these:

ORTH:4187 (076:187) Practicum in Athletic Training IV (must be taken twice) 8 s.h.
RCE:4199 (07C:199) Counseling for Related Professions (or equivalent) 3 s.h.

Bachelor of Science: Sport and Recreation Management
The Bachelor of Science with a major in sport and recreation management requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 39 s.h. of work for the major (24 s.h. in sport and recreation management and 15 s.h. in supporting course work from other disciplines). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The sport and recreation management major prepares students for leadership in meeting the challenges of sport. Its comprehensive curriculum uses an integrative business approach and provides a collaborative environment for learning how to analyze and resolve challenges in the business and culture of sport locally, nationally, and internationally.

The major is appropriate for students who want to work with sport and club teams, intercollegiate and high school athletic programs, international sport organizations, national and international amateur sport organizations, community recreation, and firms specializing in sport marketing, sport sponsorship, and commercial fitness businesses.

Students interested in sport and recreation management learn skills for organizing, planning, and budgeting in a variety of settings. They prepare for work in positions such as activities director, community recreation specialist, campus recreation professional, and program coordinator in a park or recreation department.

The major also provides a foundation for graduate study in sport or recreation management and related graduate degree programs.

Work for the major consists of foundation courses in sport and recreation management plus a concentration area, which includes courses in other disciplines. Students have the option to complete an internship, with a preinternship seminar, for an additional 10 s.h. of credit.

The sport and recreation management major requires the following course work.

FOUNDATION COURSES
One of these:
LEIS:1060 (169:060) Contemporary Issues in Sports 3 s.h.
LEIS:2065 (169:065) The Experience Economy 3 s.h.

All of these:
LEIS:3151 (169:151) Liability in Recreation and Sport 3 s.h.
LEIS:3152 (169:152) Recreation and Sport Facility Management 3 s.h.
LEIS:3153 (169:153) Sport Business Practices 3 s.h.
LEIS:3156 (169:156) Design of Recreation Facilities 3 s.h.
LEIS:3158 (169:158) Recreation and Sport Promotion 3 s.h.
LEIS:3172 (169:172) Finance in Sport and Recreation 3 s.h.

One of these:
LEIS:3150 (169:150) Recreation Administration 3 s.h.
LEIS:3157 (169:157) Managerial Operations in Sport 3 s.h.

CONCENTRATION AREAS
Students complete the requirements (total of 15 s.h.) for one of the following concentration areas: business studies, coaching and sport instruction, entrepreneurship, event management, sport and diversity, or student-designed concentration.

Business Studies Concentration

Students must earn 15 s.h. for the concentration, chosen from the following list.

emphasize the use of a systematic process of assessment, impairments, and illnesses. Both of the major’s tracks for professional work with persons who have disabilities, the therapeutic recreation program prepares students Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. track). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in s.h. of work for the major (total credit depends on the recreation requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 63-64 s.h. of work for the major and in all UI courses for the major. The Bachelor of Science with a major in therapeutic recreation (child life track and inclusive recreation track) requires the following course work.

Child Life Track

The child life track requires 63 s.h. of work for the major (12 s.h. in admission prerequisites plus a total of 51 s.h. in additional courses, supporting course work from other departments, and the required internship). Students must apply and be admitted to the child life track, and they must complete the admission prerequisites before they may enter the track.

Child life specialists are professionals with expertise in child development who advance effective coping through play activities, preparation for medical procedures and operations, patient and family education, and self-expressive activities. Child life specialists provide services to support families and to promote children's mastery of varied experiences, particularly children's health care events. They provide care to children's families by assisting in accurate information processing and helping family members and other caregivers. Child life specialists also help educate other medical staff and community members regarding issues and needs of children involved in health care events or other stressful experiences. For more information about the profession, visit Child Life Council.

Before students who apply to the child life track may be admitted, they must complete 24 s.h. at The University of Iowa (or 12 s.h. for transfer students), including the courses listed under "Child Life: Admission Prerequisites" below. Applicants must have a University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.00 and a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 3.00; students with lower grade-point averages may apply for exceptional admission.

Applicants for admission to the track should use the child life track application form on the Department of Health and Human Physiology web site. Completed applications must be submitted by March 15 for admission the following fall semester (students may enter the child life track only in fall).

Students who complete the child life track curriculum, including the child life internship, are eligible to sit for the Child Life Professional Certification Examination administered by the Child Life Council. The exam confers professional certification.

The major in therapeutic recreation with the child life track requires the following course work.

CHILD LIFE: ADMISSION PREREQUISITES

All of these:

- HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.
- LEIS:1070 (169:070) Perspectives on Leisure and Play 3 s.h.
- PSY:1001 (031:001) Elementary Psychology 3 s.h.

One of these:

Student-Designed Concentration

Students may develop a concentration in consultation with an academic advisor. The student must submit a two-page proposal to the sport and recreation management committee; the proposal should provide a rationale for the student-designed concentration and should describe the concentration. The student-designed concentration must require at least 15 s.h. of work.

OPTIONAL INTERNSHIP

Students who decide to complete the optional internship must register for both of these.

- LEIS:4190 (169:190) Preinternship Seminar 1 s.h.
- LEIS:4196 (169:196) Recreation Sport 9 s.h.

Bachelor of Science: Therapeutic Recreation

The Bachelor of Science with a major in therapeutic recreation requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 63-64 s.h. of work for the major (total credit depends on the track). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The therapeutic recreation program prepares students for professional work with persons who have disabilities, impairments, and illnesses. Both of the major’s tracks emphasize the use of a systematic process of assessment, planning, implementation, and evaluation in order to provide recreation, leisure, and play activities to individuals and populations.

Admission to both tracks is selective; students must apply and be admitted.

The major in therapeutic recreation (child life track and inclusive recreation track) requires the following course work.

CHILD LIFE: INTERNSHIP
Child life students must complete an internship; they register for the following course.
LEIS:4192 (169:192) Child Life Internship 12 s.h.

Inclusive Recreation Track
The inclusive recreation track requires 64 s.h. of work for the major (12 s.h. in admission prerequisites plus a total of 52 s.h. in additional courses, supporting course work from other departments, and the required internship). Students must apply and be admitted to the inclusive recreation track, and they must complete the admission prerequisites before they may enter the track.

Inclusive recreation is a health-oriented field that involves providing recreation programs designed to improve or maintain the physical, emotional, mental, and social functioning of patients and consumers. Inclusive recreation's therapeutic services involve a continuum of care that uses recreational activities to improve functional abilities; leisure education to help individuals acquire skills, knowledge, and attitudes that facilitate an independent lifestyle; and other activities to enhance health, growth, development, and independence through intrinsically rewarding leisure behavior. Inclusive recreation provides opportunities for people with all abilities and disabilities to participate together in therapeutic recreation programs based on choice and common interests.

Inclusive recreation professionals are commonly employed in settings such as skilled nursing facilities, community recreation departments, state and community mental health institutions, general hospitals, physical rehabilitation centers, special recreation districts, correctional facilities, senior centers, facilities for persons with intellectual disabilities or mental illness, and substance-abuse programs.

Before students who apply to the inclusive recreation track may be admitted, they must complete 24 s.h. at The University of Iowa (or 12 s.h. for transfer students), including the courses listed under "Inclusive Recreation: Admission Prerequisites" below. Applicants must have a University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 2.50 and a cumulative g.p.a. of at least 2.50; students with lower grade-point averages may apply for exceptional admission.

Applicants for admission to the track should use the inclusive recreation track application form on the Department of Health and Human Physiology web site. Completed applications must be submitted by October 15 for admission the following spring semester or by March 15 for admission the following fall semester.

Students who complete the inclusive recreation curriculum, including the therapeutic recreation internship, are eligible to sit for the National Council for Therapeutic Recreation Certification Exam. The exam confers the Certified Therapeutic Recreation Specialist credential.

The major in therapeutic recreation with the inclusive recreation track requires the following course work.

Four-Year Graduation Plan
The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.)

Note: Students entering majors with selective admission must be admitted to their major on schedule in order to complete the Four-Year Graduation Plan.

B.A.: Health and Human Physiology
- Before the fifth semester begins: one foundation course and at least six more courses in the major
- Before the seventh semester begins: at least six more courses in the major (total of 13) and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
- Before the eighth semester begins: at least two more courses in the major (total of 15)
- During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.S.: Human Physiology
- Before the fifth semester begins: calculus and at least six more courses in the major
- Before the seventh semester begins: at least six more courses in the major (total of 13) and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
- Before the eighth semester begins: at least two more courses in the major (total of 15)
- During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.S.: Athletic Training
- Before the fifth semester begins: nine courses in the major
- Before the seventh semester begins: at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree
- Before the eighth semester: three more courses in the major (total of 12)
- During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate
B.S.: Sport and Recreation Management

The Four-Year Graduation Plan is not available to sport and recreation management students who complete the optional internship. Students who choose the internship option should work with their advisors to develop individual graduation plans.

Before the fifth semester begins: four foundation courses and at least 3 s.h. in the concentration area

Before the seventh semester begins: two more foundation courses (total of six), an additional 6 s.h. in the concentration area, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: two more foundation courses (total of eight) and the remaining concentration area courses

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

B.S.: Therapeutic Recreation

Before the fifth semester begins: all core courses and at least one foundation course

Before the seventh semester begins: two more foundation courses (total of three), 3 s.h. of supporting course work, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: two more foundation courses (total of five) and the remaining supporting course work

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in health and human physiology, human physiology, athletic training, sport and recreation management, or therapeutic recreation have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in work for their major.

Health and human physiology: in order to graduate with honors in the major, students must successfully complete a health and human physiology honors designation course, research practicum, teaching practicum, or service learning course. They must successfully complete HHP:4940 (027:197) Health Promotion Honors Readings and HHP:4950 (027:188) Health Promotion Honors Problems and must write an honors thesis, usually based on original research or creative work. They also must make an oral or poster presentation of the honors thesis in an approved venue, such as a department research seminar or a professional conference.

Human physiology: in order to graduate with honors in the major, students must complete the honors research course sequence HHP:4800 (027:198) Honors Research I and HHP:4900 (027:199) Honors Research II; write an honors thesis that is deposited with the University of Iowa Honors Program and is judged to be of honors quality; and make an oral presentation of their research and thesis that is judged to be of honors quality.

Athletic training: in order to graduate with honors in the major, students must complete the practicum course sequence ATEP:3030 (027:186) Practicum in Athletic Training III and ORTH:4187 (076:187) Practicum in Athletic Training IV. They also must write an honors thesis that is deposited with the University of Iowa Honors Program and is judged to be of honors quality.

Sport and recreation management, or therapeutic recreation: in order to graduate with honors in either major, students must successfully complete LEIS:4194 (169:194) Honors Readings and LEIS:4195 (169:195) Honors Problems, in which they conduct a reading or research project under the supervision of a faculty member in their major and write a paper summarizing the project’s results.

Departmental honors students must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Minor: Human Physiology

The minor in human physiology requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in Department of Health and Human Physiology courses, including 12 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Transfer credit does not count toward the minor.

Students majoring in health and human physiology (B.A.), human physiology (B.S.), or athletic training (B.S.) may not earn the minor in human physiology.

Students choose courses for the minor from the following list. Enrollment in HHP:3510 (027:132) Advanced Human Physiology Laboratory and HHP:4220 (027:197) Biomechanics of Human Motion requires special permission. Some of these courses have prerequisites; students must complete all of a course’s prerequisites before they may register for the course.

HHP:4480 (027:165) Introduction to Human Pharmacology 3 s.h.

Minor: Physical Activity and Nutrition Science

The minor in physical activity and nutrition science requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in Department of Health and Human Physiology courses, including at least 9 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. Transfer credit does not count toward the minor.

Students majoring in health and human physiology (B.A.), human physiology (B.S.), or athletic training (B.S.) may not earn the minor in physical activity and nutrition science.

The minor in physical activity and nutrition science is designed in conjunction with the Obesity Research and Education initiative. The minor provides a specialized group of courses that unify concepts underlying the causes, consequences, treatment, and prevention of obesity, with attention to physical activity, nutrition, physiology, psychology, and human disease. Students who earn the minor will be prepared to apply their knowledge in areas such as clinical health professions, public health policy, personal coaching and fitness, health psychology, and health promotion.

For the minor, students complete three core courses plus two elective courses that focus on various facets of obesity and on its treatment and prevention. One of the core courses and both of the elective courses are at the intermediate or advanced level. Students choose electives in consultation with an undergraduate advisor. Some courses for the minor have prerequisites; students must complete all of a course’s prerequisites before they may register for the course.

The minor in physical activity and nutrition science requires the following course work.

Core courses—all of these:

HHP:2200 (027:039) Physical Activity and Health 3 s.h.
HHP:2310 (027:040) Nutrition and Health 3 s.h.
HHP:3050 (027:128) Obesity: Causes, Consequences, Prevention, and Treatment 3 s.h.

Electives—two courses from the following lists:

HHP:3000 (027:120) Equity Issues in the Health Sciences 3 s.h.

HHP:3030 (027:131) Coaching for Health and Wellness 3 s.h.
HHP:3440 (027:147) Physical Activity and Healthy Communities 3 s.h.
HHP:3500 (027:130) Human Physiology 3 s.h.
HHP:3650 (027:174) Advanced Sport and Exercise Psychology 3 s.h.
HHP:3655 (027:175) Emotional and Psychological Aspects of Health 3 s.h.
HHP:4230 (027:158) Motor Learning: Theory and Application 3 s.h.
HHP:4310 (027:133) Sport and Exercise Nutrition 3 s.h.
HHP:4320 (027:134) Nutrition Interventions 3 s.h.
HHP:4340 (027:135) Global Health and Global Food 3 s.h.
HHP:4390 (027:151) Understanding Human Disease 3 s.h.
HHP:4440 (027:143) Physiology of Nutrition 3 s.h.

Electives may include one of these:

HHP:3400 (027:140) Applied Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.
HHP:4410 (027:141) Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in leisure studies (with or without thesis)
- Master of Science in health and human physiology (with or without thesis)
- Doctor of Philosophy in health and human physiology

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in leisure studies requires a minimum of 33 s.h. of graduate credit without thesis. Students choose one of two specialization areas—leisure and recreational sport management or therapeutic recreation—and must satisfy the prerequisites required for their areas. Work for each specialization area includes core requirements and area courses.

Leisure and Recreational Sport Management Specialization

The leisure and recreational sport management specialization prepares students for positions in public and private recreation and sport management. Students typically find employment in community or municipal recreation programs, campus recreation programs, or commercial recreation and sport operations.

The leisure and recreational sport management specialization requires the following course work.

LEISURE AND RECREATIONAL SPORT MANAGEMENT: CORE

All of these:

LEIS:5065 (169:265) The Economy of Experience 3 s.h.
LEIS:5200 (169:200) Historical and Philosophical Perspectives on Leisure 3 s.h.
PSQF:4143 (07P:143) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.
LEISURE AND RECREATIONAL SPORT MANAGEMENT: AREA COURSES
All of these:
LEIS:6251 (169:251) Risk Management 3 s.h.
LEIS:6252 (169:252) Economics and Financing 3 s.h.
LEIS:6253 (169:253) Sport Administration 3 s.h.
LEIS:6254 (169:254) Marketing and Sport Promotion 3 s.h.
Cognate area courses (sport and athletic administration, business, communications, or cultural studies) 6-9 s.h.

Nonthesis students take an additional 6 s.h. of electives. Thesis students complete 6 s.h. of LEIS:7398 (169:398) M.A. Thesis.

Therapeutic Recreation Specialization
The therapeutic recreation specialization prepares students to meet the challenges of inpatient- and community-based health care service delivery. The program stresses research and practical skills that enable graduates to find the best jobs in the field.

Therapeutic recreation specialists are increasingly called upon to deliver preventive outpatient services, such as programs designed to prevent secondary impairments in persons with disabilities (e.g., arthritis exercise to manage pain, fall prevention for older adults); education for individuals with negative lifestyle habits (e.g., smoking, substance abuse); programs designed to restore meaning and purpose to life following traumatic events (e.g., following a spinal cord injury); and initiatives to help communities make services accessible to persons with disabilities.

Iowa's therapeutic recreation program emphasizes skills for delivery of services in clinical or community settings. The program includes related cognate areas, such as child life, aging, developmental disabilities, or counseling.

Students acquire research skills that they may apply directly to therapeutic recreation practice, for example, to assess the effectiveness of specific interventions or the demand for varied services in a specific setting.

The therapeutic recreation specialization requires the following course work.

THERAPEUTIC RECREATION: CORE
All of these:
LEIS:5200 (169:200) Historical and Philosophical Perspectives on Leisure 3 s.h.
LEIS:5205 (169:205) Research Methods and Leisure Behavior 3 s.h.
PSQF:4143 (07P:143) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.

THERAPEUTIC RECREATION: AREA COURSES
All of these:
LEIS:3160 (169:160) Introduction to Therapeutic Recreation: 3 s.h.
LEIS:3161 (169:161) Assessment and Evaluation in Therapeutic Recreation 3 s.h.
LEIS:3162 (169:162) Therapeutic Recreation: Clientele 3 s.h.
LEIS:3164 (169:164) Therapeutic Recreation: Rehabilitation 3 s.h.
Cognate area courses (aging studies, child life, counseling, disability studies) 9-12 s.h.

Thesis students complete 6 s.h. of LEIS:7398 (169:398) M.A. Thesis.

Therapeutic recreation students must complete a practicum, LEIS:7290 (169:290) Graduate Internship, in order to sit for a national certification examination.

Master of Science
The Master of Science program in health and human physiology requires 30-32 s.h. of graduate credit. Required credit varies by track: the athletic training track requires a minimum of 30 s.h. and is offered without thesis; the clinical exercise physiology track requires a minimum of 32 s.h. and is offered without thesis; the health and human physiology track requires a minimum of 30 s.h. and is offered with thesis.

Students interested in pursuing a Ph.D. after earning a master's degree should choose the M.S. health and human physiology track (with thesis).

Athletic Training Track
The athletic training track provides an advanced clinical education and research area of study for certified athletic trainers. It focuses on a health care team approach to sports medicine, medical care management, wellness, pediatric/adolescent health, and special health populations. The program emphasizes application of established research findings to the wide variety of problems encountered in everyday practice.

In order to be admitted to the program, athletic trainers must have completed the following prerequisite course work and must hold the following certifications.

- anatomy (3-4 s.h.);
- human physiology (3 s.h.);
- athletic training core—prevention (3 s.h.), evaluation and recognition (3 s.h.), modalities (3 s.h.), rehabilitation (3 s.h.), administrative (2 s.h.);
- exercise science core—exercise physiology (3 s.h.), biomechanics (3 s.h.);
- current emergency certification; and
- Board of Certification (BOC) certification and state license.

The Master of Science with the athletic training track requires the following course work.

STATISTICS CORE
One of these:
BIOS:5110 (171:161) Introduction to Biostatistics 3 s.h.
STAT:4143 (22S:102) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.

EXERCISE SCIENCE CORE
Three of these:
Clinical Exercise Physiology Track

The clinical exercise physiology track provides an advanced scientific and clinical education. It prepares students to be allied health professionals who work in the application of physical activity and behavioral interventions for clinical diseases and health conditions including cardiovascular, pulmonary, metabolic, orthopaedic, neuromuscular, immunologic, and hematologic diseases.

In order to be admitted to the program, students must:
- hold a B.S. or B.A. with a g.p.a. of at least 3.00; and
- have completed anatomy and physiology with laboratories (8 s.h.).

The Master of Science with the clinical exercise physiology track requires the following course work.

CLINICAL RESEARCH TOOLS

One approved clinical tool course in computer science, counseling, epidemiology, health promotion, leisure studies, nursing, or pathology.

ATHLETIC TRAINING CORE

All of these:

- HHP:5000 (027:200) Problems 2 s.h.
- HHP:6010 (027:301) Non-Thesis Seminar 2 s.h.
- HHP:7000 (027:202) Practicum in College Teaching 2-3 s.h.

One of these:

- EPID:4400 (173:140) Epidemiology I: Principles 3 s.h.
- PATH:8133 (069:133) Introduction to Human Pathology for Graduate Students 4 s.h.
- PSQF:6205 (07P:205) Design of Instruction 3 s.h.

ELECTIVES

Students choose elective courses that enhance their concentration in medical care management, wellness, pediatric/adolescent health, or special health populations. Course selection must be approved by the advisor.

The clinical exercise physiology track requires the following course work.

STATISTICS CORE

One of these:

- BIOS:5110 (171:161) Introduction to Biostatistics 3 s.h.
- STAT:3510 (22S:101) Biostatistics 3 s.h.
- STAT:4143 (22S:102) Introduction to Statistical Methods 3 s.h.

ADVANCED STATISTICS

One of these:

- BIOS:5120 (171:162) Design and Analysis of Biomedical Studies 3 s.h.
- STAT:6513 (22S:148) Intermediate Statistical Methods 4 s.h.

CLINICAL EXERCISE PHYSIOLOGY CORE

All of these:

- HHP:6150 (027:250) Advanced Clinical Exercise Physiology 1-3 s.h.
- HHP:6200 (027:238) Advanced Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
- HHP:6410 (027:240) Advanced Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:6460 (027:245) Advanced Cardiovascular Physiology 1-3 s.h.
- HHP:6480 (027:265) Advanced Human Pharmacology 3 s.h.
- HHP:7300 (027:260) Advanced Neural Control of Posture and Movement 1-3 s.h.

Two enrollments (1 s.h. each) chosen from these:

- HHP:6300 (027:314) Seminar in Motor Control 1 s.h.
- HHP:6400 (027:241) Integrative Physiology Seminar 1 s.h.
- HHP:6500 (027:296) Seminar in Health Promotion 1 s.h.

INTERNSHIP

Students complete an individually arranged internship, usually during their second year, earning 3 s.h. of credit.

ELECTIVES

Students choose elective courses that enhance their concentration in human and exercise physiology, clinical exercise physiology, prescriptive exercise and training for health and fitness, health maintenance, and understanding human disease. Students complete a minimum of two courses from the following list, with their advisor’s approval.
Health and Human Physiology Track
The health and human physiology track requires a thesis. Students who intend to earn a Ph.D. after the master's degree should choose this track. In order to be admitted to the program, students must:
- hold a B.S. or B.A. with a g.p.a. of at least 3.00; and
- have completed courses in anatomy and physiology with laboratory (8 s.h.) and basic physics (3 s.h.).

The Master of Science with the health and human physiology track requires the following work.

ADVANCED STATISTICS
One of these:
- BIOS:5120 (171:162) Design and Analysis of Biomedical Studies 3 s.h.
- NURS:7002 (096:338) Designing Research 3 s.h.
- NURS:7003 (096:344) Quantitative Research 4 s.h.
- STAT:6513 (22S:148) Intermediate Statistical Methods 4 s.h.

RESEARCH METHODS
One of these:
- LEIS:5205 (169:205) Research Methods and Leisure Behavior 3 s.h.
- EALL:5150 (07X:150) Introduction to Educational Research 3 s.h.
- NURS:7002 (096:338) Designing Research 3 s.h.
- NURS:7003 (096:344) Quantitative Research 4 s.h.

SEMINAR COURSES
Four enrollments (1 s.h. each) chosen from these:
- HHP:6300 (027:314) Seminar in Motor Control 1 s.h.
- HHP:6400 (027:241) Integrative Physiology Seminar 1 s.h.
- HHP:6500 (027:296) Seminar in Health Promotion 1 s.h.

ELECTIVES
Students choose elective courses that broaden their knowledge in health and human physiology and related disciplines and that enhance their knowledge in their specific areas of interest. Students choose electives with guidance from their advisor/mentor. Electives may include the following.
- HHP:3050 (027:128) Obesity: Causes, Consequences, Prevention, and Treatment 3 s.h.
- HHP:3650 (027:174) Advanced Sport and Exercise Psychology 3 s.h.
- HHP:4190 (027:159) Scientific Basis of Training for Elite Performance 3 s.h.
- HHP:4210 (027:139) Musculoskeletal Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
- HHP:6000 (027:201) Research arr.
- HHP:6130 (027:255) Advanced Skeletal Muscle Physiology 1-3 s.h.
- HHP:6150 (027:250) Advanced Clinical Exercise Physiology 1-3 s.h.
- HHP:6200 (027:238) Advanced Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
- HHP:6210 (027:249) Epidemiology of Physical Activity 3 s.h.
- HHP:6410 (027:240) Advanced Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.
- HHP:6460 (027:245) Advanced Cardiovascular Physiology 1-3 s.h.
- HHP:6470 (027:248) Advanced Physiology of Aging 3 s.h.
- HHP:6480 (027:265) Advanced Human Pharmacology 3 s.h.
- HHP:7300 (027:260) Advanced Neural Control of Posture and Movement 1-3 s.h.
- ACB:5203 (060:203) Gross Human Anatomy for Graduate Students 6 s.h.
- BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
- CBH:5220 (172:150) Health Behavior and Health Education 3 s.h.
- EPID:4400 (173:140) Epidemiology I: Principles 3 s.h.
EPID:5241 (173:241) Statistical Methods in Epidemiology 4 s.h.
EPID:5600 (173:160) Introduction to Epidemiology Data Management and Analysis 3 s.h.
EPID:6350 (173:235) Nutritional Epidemiology 2 s.h.
EPID:6400 (173:240) Epidemiology II: Advanced Methods 4 s.h.
EPID:6600 (173:260) Epidemiology of Chronic Diseases 3 s.h.
MPB:5153 (072:153) Graduate Physiology 4 s.h.
PTRS:7812 (101:212) Biomedical Instrumentation and Measurement 3 s.h.
PTRS:7875 (101:275) Analysis of Activity-Based Neural and Musculoskeletal Plasticity 3 s.h.

THESIS
Both of these:
HHP:7500 (027:404) Thesis: M.S. 4 s.h.
GRAD:7270 (650:270) Principles of Scholarly Integrity (takes two semesters to complete) 0 s.h.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in health and human physiology requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit.

Doctoral students should have a strong background in the natural sciences and/or health promotion, and a working knowledge of statistics and research methodology. Students may acquire additional knowledge of statistics and research methodology after entering the program.

All Ph.D. students complete a common core of courses, scientific area courses, courses in their specialization, and 10 s.h. of independent research in addition to the dissertation requirement. They must complete a dissertation in their specialization area and must submit an appropriate manuscript of the dissertation to a refereed professional journal for publication.

Some courses in the program are offered by other departments. Faculty members from those departments frequently serve on comprehensive examination committees and on dissertation committees for the initial presentation of a candidate’s prospectus. They also participate in the final examination.

The Doctor of Philosophy requires the following course work.

COMMON CORE
All of these:
HHP:6000 (027:201) Research 10 s.h.
HHP:7900 (027:405) Thesis: Ph.D. 12 s.h.
BIOS:5120 (171:162) Design and Analysis of Biomedical Studies 3 s.h.
GRAD:7270 (650:270) Principles of Scholarly Integrity (takes two semesters to complete) 0 s.h.
STAT:6513 (225:148) Intermediate Statistical Methods 4 s.h.

SEMINAR COURSES
Four enrollments (1-2 s.h. each) chosen from these:

HHP:6300 (027:314) Seminar in Motor Control 1 s.h.
HHP:6400 (027:241) Integrative Physiology Seminar 1 s.h.
HHP:6500 (027:296) Seminar in Health Promotion 1 s.h.

SCIENTIFIC AREA COURSES
Students obtain a breadth of knowledge over the key scientific areas that constitute the basis of the major by completing at least three courses outside of their specialization area.

SPECIALIZATION ELECTIVES
Students are expected to obtain broad-based knowledge in their specialization area. This normally entails approximately 30 s.h. of course work. Students choose specialization electives with guidance from their advisor/mentor. Electives may include the following.

HHP:3060 (027:118) Advanced Human Anatomy for Athletic Trainers 4 s.h.
HHP:4200 (027:138) Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
HHP:4310 (027:133) Sport and Exercise Nutrition 3 s.h.
HHP:6200 (027:238) Advanced Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 3 s.h.
HHP:6210 (027:249) Epidemiology of Physical Activity 3 s.h.
ACB:5203 (060:203) Gross Human Anatomy for Graduate Students 6 s.h.
ACB:8114 (060:234) Medical Neuroscience 4 s.h.
BIOC:3110 (099:110) Biochemistry 3 s.h.
BIOC:3120 (099:120) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology I 3 s.h.
BIOC:3130 (099:130) Biochemistry and Molecular Biology II 3 s.h.
BIOC:3140 (099:140) Experimental Biochemistry 2 s.h.
BIOL:3253 (002:180) Neurobiology 4 s.h.
BME:5610 (051:150) Musculoskeletal Biomechanics 3 s.h.
CBH:5220 (172:150) Health Behavior and Health Education 3 s.h.
EPID:4400 (173:140) Epidemiology I: Principles 3 s.h.
EPID:5241 (173:241) Statistical Methods in Epidemiology 4 s.h.

NSCI:4353 (132:181) Neurophysiology 3-4 s.h.
NSCI:4753 (132:184) Developmental Neurobiology 3 s.h.
Students working on a dissertation register for the following course.

Admission

Admission to the department's graduate programs is based on grade-point average and score on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test. Applicants to the M.S. program must have an undergraduate g.p.a. of at least 3.00. Applicants to the Ph.D. program must have a g.p.a. of at least 3.00 on undergraduate work and previous graduate work.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College section of the Catalog.

Application deadline is February 1 for admission the following fall semester.

Facilities

Classroom and research laboratories are located in the Field House and in other buildings on campus. They provide excellent facilities for instruction and research at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Cooperative efforts with other units facilitate specialization by allowing health and human physiology students to use additional special facilities and research equipment in other departments on campus (e.g., biology, biochemistry, molecular physiology and biophysics, orthopaedic surgery, internal medicine, pharmacology, and the College of Engineering).

Courses

Lower-Level Undergraduate

Athletic Training Program

ATEP:1000 (027:056) First Aid and CPR 2 s.h.
American Red Cross certification: basic first aid, CPR procedures.

ATEP:1010 (027:096) Exploring Athletic Training
Exploration of professional preparation for athletic trainers; application, career opportunities, professional organizations, awareness of basic athletic training principles.

ATEP:2010 (027:036) Practicum in Athletic Training I
Basic clinical skill instruction, evaluation, and integration for athletic trainers. Requirements: athletic training major.

ATEP:2020 (027:037) Practicum in Athletic Training II
Integration of basic physical skills and orientation to traditional settings; clinical experience for first-year students arranged through the athletic training program. Requirements: grade of C or higher in ATEP:2010 (027:036).

ATEP:2030 (027:057) Basic Athletic Training
Basic pathology, epidemiology, materials biology for prevention and immediate care of athletic injuries.

ATEP:2040 (027:172) Clinical Sciences I
Theoretical knowledge base in therapeutic modalities. Offered spring semesters. Requirements: grade of C or higher in ATEP:2010 (027:036).

ATEP:2060 (027:180) Advanced Emergency Care for Athletic Trainers
Coordinated initial professional emergency response certifications for athletic trainers; recertification for those holding valid certifications. Requirements: Red Cross First Aid and CPR certifications.

Health and Human Physiology

HHP:1000 (027:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities). Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

HHP:1050 (027:049) Exploring Exercise Science
Introduction to field of exercise science; employment and observation opportunities, academic and professional development.

HHP:1100 (027:053) Human Anatomy 3 s.h.
General human anatomy covering most systems of the body. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

HHP:1110 (027:054) Human Anatomy Laboratory 1 s.h.
All major systems of the human body, understood through computer-generated images, models, histological slides, anatomical specimens. GE: Natural Sciences Lab only.

HHP:1300 (027:050) Fundamentals of Human Physiology 3 s.h.
Introduction to function and regulation of the human body. Recommendations: high school chemistry and basic biology. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

HHP:1310 (027:051) Human Physiology 3 s.h.
- Laboratory
- Introductory laboratory course illustrating principles of human physiology through fundamental experimental measurements and computer simulation. Recommendations: one semester of biology.

HHP:2130 (027:044) Human Development Through the Life Span 3 s.h.
- Overview of human developmental theories across the life-span; aspects of cognitive, physical, and personality development from birth to death; the role of culture, environment, health, and economic factors over the developmental process and life continuum.

HHP:2150 (027:035) Stress Management 3 s.h.
- Recent theoretical concepts and scientific evidence regarding stress and its effects on body and mind; intervention methods, strategies for managing stress; opportunity for students to use intervention techniques to manage stress.

HHP:2200 (027:039) Physical Activity and Health 3 s.h.
- Physical activity determinants in society; school, workplace, community-based health promotion interventions to improve activity levels. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.

HHP:2210 (027:030) Principles of Exercise Leadership 3 s.h.
- Exercise standards, guidelines for aerobic/exercise instructors; aerobic workout components, contraindicated exercises, injury prevention and treatment. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039).

HHP:2310 (027:040) Nutrition and Health 3 s.h.
- Physiology, biochemistry of human nutrition; appropriate food sources; qualitative and quantitative evaluation of diets using standard references. GE: Natural Sciences without Lab.

HHP:2350 (027:095) Biomechanics of Sport and Physical Activity 3 s.h.
- Principles of biomechanics, kinesiology, and anatomy; quantitative aspects of sport and physical activity; emphasis on developing a qualitative grasp on mechanical principles of human movement within sports and physical activity; how to apply these principles in a sport/exercise environment. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053).

HHP:2500 (027:076) Psychological Aspects of Sport and Physical Activity 3 s.h.
- Psychological theory and research related to sport and physical activity; motivation, aggression, attribution, socialization, competitive anxiety, leadership.

Sport and Recreation Management

LEIS:1060 (169:060) Contemporary Issues in Sports 3 s.h.
- Basic philosophical, historical, scientific foundations and developments; function, settings of organized recreation.

LEIS:2065 (169:065) The Experience Economy 3 s.h.
- Introduction to emerging experience economy; just as manufacturing sector of economy supersedes agriculture and service economy supersedes manufacturing, how experience economy is now gaining ascendency as the last, best hope for future economic growth; critical analysis of experience economy with discussion of ways in which experience economy may offer green, moral, and humane alternatives to previous stages of economic development; new opportunities for travel and tourism, sports settings, recreation and wellness services, possible applications in education and helping professions.

Therapeutic Recreation

LEIS:1029 (169:029) First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
- Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, readings, visits to research facilities).

LEIS:1030 (169:030) Introduction to Critical Thinking 3 s.h.
- Concepts and skills required for critical thinking about what should and should not be taken as true; analysis and evaluation of a variety of complex extended arguments. GE: Quantitative or Formal Reasoning.

LEIS:1040 (169:040) The Good Society 3 s.h.
- Critiques of the existing social order, articulation of models of a good society with associated conceptions of the good life. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.

LEIS:1045 (169:045) Health for Living 3 s.h.
- Personal health strategies; focus on disease prevention, wellness. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.

LEIS:1050 (169:050) Making Choices: Interdisciplinary Perspectives 3 s.h.
- Interdisciplinary consideration of what we know, value, hope, and should do; focus on case studies of private, professional, and social decision making. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.

LEIS:1061 (169:061) Recreation Leadership and Programming 3 s.h.
- Leadership principles, techniques; programming techniques.

LEIS:1070 (169:070) Perspectives on Leisure and Play 3 s.h.
- Relationships between leisure and economics, sociology, other social sciences; effect of leisure on individual and group behavior; antecedents, motives, consequences of leisure behavior. GE: Social Sciences.

LEIS:1072 (169:072) Leisure and the Liberal Arts 3 s.h.
- Integration of the ideal of a liberal education with worthy, meaningful use of free time in contemporary society; classic writings in the humanities. GE: Values, Society, and Diversity.
LEIS:1077 (169:077) Introduction to Child Life
Orientation to the field of child life services including services for hospitalized children and their families.

LEIS:1097 (169:097) Race, Sport, and Globalization
Introduction to current discussion surrounding the link between sport, race, and globalization; critical cultural studies perspective used to examine the meaning of race and sport within a global context; labor migration of talented athletes, identity politics, and dynamics of equality in sport along such lines as race, class, and gender; examination of African American diaspora in a sport context to study political, economic, and social construction of race and sport on African and Asian continents. Same as AFAM:2610 (129:097).

LEIS:1800 (169:085) Basic Aspects of Aging

Upper-Level Undergraduate and Graduate

 Athletic Training Program

ATEP:3010 (027:182) Clinical Sciences III
Theoretical and practical skill development in the areas of musculoskeletal evaluation for ankle, knee, shoulder, and upper extremity. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: ATEP:2040 (027:172). Requirements: athletic training major.

ATEP:3020 (027:185) Clinical Sciences V: Rehabilitation

ATEP:3030 (027:186) Practicum in Athletic Training III

ATEP:3040 (027:183) Clinical Sciences IV
Continuation of musculoskeletal evaluation, completion of EENT, chest, abdomen, and dermatologic evaluation; integration of rehabilitation programs. Offered spring semesters. Requirements: grade of C or higher in ATEP:3010 (027:182).

ATEP:4010 (027:171) Administration of Athletic Training Programs
Health care supervision, professional athletic training responsibilities, philosophies in athletic health care. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: ATEP:2030 (027:057).

Health and Human Physiology

HHP:3000 (027:120) Equity Issues in the Health Sciences
Examination of equity issues in the health sciences, including a review of the historical challenges that led to Human Subjects Review Boards, FDA oversight of drug development and clinical trials, inclusion of women in research; effect of situational ethics in the workplace; potential danger of making assumptions about clients/patients; importance of developing an inclusive communication style; assessing the effectiveness of family-friendly employment policies in providing equitable opportunities for career advancement for both women and men. Recommendations: junior or senior standing. Same as INTD:3020 (145:120).

HHP:3005 (027:109) Scientific Reasoning
Patterns of reasoning useful for understanding and evaluating scientific evidence, theory, controversy; historical and contemporary examples from the physical, biological, behavioral, biomedical sciences. GE: Quantitative or Formal Reasoning.

HHP:3010 (027:125) Contemporary Nutrition
Introduction to nutrition; importance of understanding food choices and diet to fit individual needs. Same as INTD:3025 (145:125).

HHP:3020 (027:127) Nutrition for Health, Fitness, and Sport effects of exercise and nutrition on health- and sports-related fitness; for professionals in health and physical education. Same as INTD:3027 (145:127).

HHP:3030 (027:131) Coaching for Health and Wellness
Opportunities to expand knowledge and develop skills to help individuals change behavior and meet health-related goals; general health and wellness principles; principles and techniques for change; experience providing health-coaching services to clients. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039) and HHP:2310 (027:040). Same as INTD:3030 (145:130).

HHP:3050 (027:128) Obesity: Causes, Consequences, Prevention, and Treatment
In-depth overview of biological, behavioral, and societal causes and consequences of obesity epidemic; potential solutions from primary and secondary prevention standpoints; causes of obesity, available treatments, and global impact that obesity epidemic presents to society. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039) and HHP:2310 (027:040).

HHP:3060 (027:118) Advanced Human Anatomy for Athletic Trainers
Extremities and relevant body cavity anatomy; anatomical terminology, anatomical relationships of human body, 3-D view of anatomy, clinical relevance of anatomy; basic science lectures, radiologic imaging discussions, introduction to clinically relevant anatomy, dissection laboratories, small group learning and teaching, faculty interaction, and computer-assisted resources. Offered summer sessions. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053).

HHP:3900 (027:123) Writing for Health and Human Physiology
Effective written communication specific to health sciences; planning, drafting, revising, and peer-editing materials (e.g., personal statements, professional communications, general articles of interest, scientific papers); practicum experience. Requirements: HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4130 (027:155) Skeletal Muscle Physiology
Skeletal muscle structure, contractile mechanisms, production of movement, biomechanical properties; adaptation to increased use, disuse, injury. Offered spring semesters.

HHP:4150 (027:150) Clinical Exercise Physiology
Recent advances in exercise physiology for clinical populations; emphasis on acute and chronic responses to exercise in healthy aged adults and in patients with cardiac, vascular, pulmonary, and metabolic diseases; basic and intermediate electrocardiography (ECG), pathophysiology of disease process, clinical assessment of disease severity, diagnostic testing, acute exercise responses, and exercise rehabilitation. Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130) and HHP:4410 (027:141). Recommendations: HHP:4460 (027:145).

HHP:4190 (027:159) Scientific Basis of Training for Elite Performance
Application of scientific principles to goal of improving strength, speed, endurance, and overall human function; general overview of structure and function of muscular, nervous, cardiovascular, and respiratory systems; bioenergetics of exercise; endocrine response to exercise; biomechanics of resistance exercise; adaptations to anaerobic and aerobic training programs; age and sex related considerations on training; nutrition and ergogenic aids. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053), and HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4195 (027:124) Exercise Programming for Special Populations
Measurement of health-related fitness and exercise capacity in special populations (e.g., children, older adults, obesity, orthopedic problems, cerebral palsy, intellectual disabilities). Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039).

HHP:4200 (027:138) Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription
Basic techniques in physical fitness assessment, prescription of exercise for healthy and unhealthy adults, promotion of physical activity within communities; provides knowledge and skill competencies required for certification as American College of Sports Medicine health fitness instructor. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039). Corequisites: HHP:3400 (027:140) or HHP:4410 (027:141). Requirements: health promotion, exercise science, or human physiology major.

HHP:4210 (027:139) Musculoskeletal Exercise Testing and Prescription
3 s.h.

Educational and practical experience for designing resistance training and flexibility programs; competencies for certification with National Strength and Conditioning Association. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039). Corequisites: HHP:3400 (027:140) or HHP:4410 (027:141), if not taken as a prerequisite. Requirements: health promotion, exercise science, or human physiology major.

HHP:4220 (027:197) Biomechanics of Human Motion
Application of the principles of mechanics to investigation of human motion in two dimensions; system modeling, force system and equilibrium analysis, particle and rigid body kinematics, Newton's and Euler's equations of motion, work-energy and impulse-momentum integral principles. Offered spring semesters.

HHP:4230 (027:158) Motor Learning: Theory and Application
How skilled motor behavior is acquired; behavioral changes that occur during skill acquisition; structural and physiological changes that occur in central nervous system; principles of training and practice that yield efficient and effective motor learning; how this information is helpful to health professionals involved in motor rehabilitation, physical educators and coaches, music instructors and musicians, strength and conditioning professionals, fitness professionals, and athletes, among others. Prerequisites: HHP:1300 (027:050). Recommendations: familiarity with basic neuroscience (neurons, synaptic transmission, basic anatomical organization of sensory and motor systems).

HHP:4250 (027:161) Human Pathophysiology
In-depth study of human pathological processes and their effects on homeostasis; etiology, symptoms, and risk factors of various diseases; emphasis on major diseases impacting worldwide disability and death; how pathological processes are manifested and progress in the body. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053) and HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4300 (027:160) Neural Control of Posture and Movement
Neuroanatomical and neurophysiological bases of human motor control; mechanisms for locomotion and posture, control of arm and hand movements, role of sensory information. Offered spring semesters. Requirements: anatomy or human physiology course.

HHP:4310 (027:133) Sport and Exercise Nutrition
Relationship between nutrition, fitness and sport performance; basic nutrition, physiology, chemistry, psychology, food preparation. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039) and HHP:2310 (027:040).

HHP:4320 (027:134) Nutrition Interventions
Strategies that assist in assessment and evaluation of nutrition behaviors of individuals and groups; interventions to meet nutritional needs of individuals and groups with a variety of health issues. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039) and HHP:2310 (027:040). Requirements: admission to health promotion track.
HHP:4340 (027:135) Global Health and Global Food 3 s.h.
Practices, patterns, and policies that contribute to the epidemics of obesity, diabetes, and heart disease in wealthy populations; environmental degradation, hunger, and malnutrition among impoverished populations; strategies to meet food and agricultural needs for the world; local/global aspects or perspectives on food/health concerns for Iowa and the international community. Same as GHS:4340 (152:135).

HHP:4350 (027:163) Practicum in Personal Training 2 s.h.
Opportunity to observe personal trainers in a fitness setting; participation in process of helping clients achieve health/fitness goals. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053), HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130), HHP:2310 (027:040), and HHP:3400 (027:140) or HHP:4410 (027:141). Requirements: CPR/AED or CPT (ACSM, ACE, NSCA, NASM, NCSF, NFPT, AFAA) certification.

HHP:4360 (027:164) Practicum in Group Fitness Instruction 2 s.h.
Opportunity to observe group-fitness instructors in an applied setting; help organize and execute a group-fitness class. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053), HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130), HHP:2310 (027:040), and HHP:3400 (027:140) or HHP:4410 (027:141). Requirements: CPR/AED or Group Fitness Instructor (ACSM, ACE, AFAA) or specific fitness (yoga, indoor cycling, crossfit) certification.

HHP:4370 (027:166) Practicum in Strength and Conditioning 2 s.h.
Opportunity to observe strength and conditioning professionals in an applied setting; participation in process of helping athletes reach performance goals. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053), HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130), HHP:2310 (027:040), and HHP:3400 (027:140) or HHP:4410 (027:141). Requirements: CPR/AED certification.

HHP:4390 (027:151) Understanding Human Disease 3 s.h.
Introduction to process of human disease at cell, organ, and whole body level throughout the lifespan; pathophysiological changes occurring with disease, including risk factors, disease development, and overall effects of disease on the body; cancer, diabetes, obesity, cardiovascular, neurodegenerative diseases, and aging. Prerequisites: HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4400 (027:152) Health Promotion Clinical Practicum 1 s.h.
Experience in planning and implementing clinical health promotion programs focusing on nutrition, physical fitness, cardiac rehabilitation, and respiratory rehabilitation. Prerequisites: HHP:3200 (027:136) and HHP:4200 (027:138).

HHP:4405 (027:153) Health Promotion Community and Worksite Practicum 1 s.h.
Planning and implementing community and worksite health promotion programs. Prerequisites: HHP:3200 (027:136) and HHP:4200 (027:138).

HHP:4410 (027:141) Exercise Physiology 3 s.h.
Mechanisms responsible for the acute and chronic effects of exercise on the different organ systems of the body. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4415 (027:162) Exercise Science Practicum 1 s.h.
Experience in planning and implementing exercise programs related to physical fitness, including strength and conditioning in healthy and diseased/injured populations, and in elite athletes. Prerequisites: HHP:4200 (027:138) and HHP:4210 (027:139).

HHP:4420 (027:156) Planning and Evaluating Health Interventions 3 s.h.
Assessment, planning, implementation, and evaluation of health promotion programs. Prerequisites: HHP:3200 (027:136). Requirements: admission to health promotion program.

HHP:4440 (027:143) Physiology of Nutrition 3 s.h.
Metabolic and biological aspects of human energy production, relationship to energy consumption; systems or integrative approach.

HHP:4450 (027:146) Genetic Basis of Disease 3 s.h.
Changes in single molecules that lead to systemic physiological alterations in mammals; relationship of these changes to development, aging, exercise, and specific diseases; current methodologies for studying mammalian genetics and physiology. Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4460 (027:145) Cardiovascular Physiology 3 s.h.

HHP:4470 (027:148) Physiology of Aging 3 s.h.
Aging’s effects on cells, tissues, and organs; how aging influences function of major body organ systems and the whole organism; physiological mechanisms that underlie age-related changes in body function and performance; integrative approach with focus on human aging. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053) or HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4480 (027:165) Introduction to Human Pharmacology 3 s.h.
General pharmacology (e.g., administration, distribution, and elimination of drugs, dose response curves, adverse effects, placebos, homeopathy); pharmacotherapy of selected human diseases, pathophysiologic aspects of the disease, how different classes of drugs modify pathophysiologic effects to restore health or reduce disease's impact; focus on mechanisms of drug actions in humans; adverse effects, pharmacokinetic considerations, drug interactions; how to write prescriptions. Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:4490 (027:192) Diagnosing Diseases: Patient History and Physical Examination 3 s.h.
Different diseases studied by interacting with patients at Meenakshi Mission Hospital and Research Center in Madurai, India; formal lectures in mornings followed by bedside teaching in afternoons and grand rounds in evenings; for pre-health professional students.

HHP:4500 (027:195) Undergraduate Independent Study 3 s.h.
Library or laboratory research related to a specific topic in human physiology, normally culminating with a written manuscript; work directed by a faculty member.

HHP:4510 (027:168) Energy Metabolism in Health and Disease 3 s.h.
Comprehensive and molecular-driven approach to energy metabolism during exercise and calorie restriction regimens in skeletal muscle, adipose tissue, liver, heart, and brain; special emphasis on muscle metabolism and its interaction with other organ systems in treatment and prevention of metabolic diseases (e.g., obesity, diabetes, cardiovascular diseases, cancer). Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130). Recommendations: HHP:4410 (027:141) and BIOL:2723 (002:114).

HHP:4600 (027:194) Senior Seminar in Creative Problem Solving 1 s.h.
Use of design thinking values and principles; collaborative work to uncover innovative solutions related to undergraduate health and human physiology experience and targeted health behaviors; interactive presentation of content, experimentation of ideas and processes, student-led projects. Requirements: senior standing, health and human physiology or human physiology major, and UI g.p.a. of 3.00 or higher.

HHP:4800 (027:198) Honors Research I 2 s.h.
Research for honors thesis; selection of faculty mentor, preparation of research proposal, written and oral presentations of research proposal, literature review, participation in experiments designed to develop laboratory skills for research, work with an active research tenure-track faculty member in a laboratory; first of a two-semester sequence. Requirements: honors standing.

HHP:4900 (027:199) Honors Research II 3 s.h.
Completion of honors research begun in HHP:4800 (027:198); analysis of data, writing and oral presentation of honors thesis, work with an active research tenure-track faculty member in a laboratory; second of a two-semester sequence. Requirements: honors standing and grade of B or higher in HHP:4800 (027:198).

HHP:4920 (027:190) Health Promotion Preinternship Seminar 1 s.h.
Preparation for internship experience.

HHP:4930 (027:191) Health Promotion Internship 3,6 s.h.
Directed practical field experience; program planning, implementation, evaluation, administrative procedures. Prerequisites: HHP:4200 (027:138), HHP:4210 (027:139), HHP:4320 (027:134), HHP:4420 (027:156), and HHP:4920 (027:190).

HHP:4935 (027:193) Clinical Exercise Physiology Internship 1-6 s.h.
Directed practical field experience; program planning, implementation, evaluation, and administrative procedures.

HHP:4940 (027:187) Health Promotion Honors Readings 1-2 s.h.
First step to complete an honors thesis; work with health and human physiology faculty member; comprehensive readings in a specific area (e.g., obesity in children, disabilities and sport); readings include primarily research reviews, popular press, and editorials; production of an annotated bibliography summarizing readings and presentation to faculty member at end of semester; brief research proposal summarizing background, research questions, and methods of selected area.

HHP:4950 (027:188) Health Promotion Honors Problems 3-4 s.h.
Continuation of HHP:4940 (027:187); original research or creative project supervised by a faculty member.

Sport and Recreation Management

LEIS:3147 (169:147) Sport Event Management 3 s.h.
Current status, challenges, and opportunities in sporting event industry; sporting event planning, budgeting, marketing, sponsorship, evaluation; development of event timelines and event management skills; introduction to networking and interaction with sporting events. Recommendations: LEIS:3154 (169:154).

LEIS:3148 (169:148) Introduction to Personal Training 3 s.h.
Basics of personal training, including establishing a personal training business, screening, and assessing clients; current issues and certifications.

LEIS:3149 (169:149) Coaching Interscholastic Athletics 3 s.h.
Techniques and theories of coaching interscholastic athletes; ethics and legal responsibilities of coaching; coaching youth sports; leadership principles and techniques, organizational theories, assessment and implementation of coaching styles; trends, foundations, and principles related to basic philosophies of organized coaching; capstone course for certification of youth sports programs; credit and documentation for advanced coaching certification.
LEIS:3150 (169:150) Recreation Administration 3 s.h.
Personnel, finance, budgets, liability, marketing.

LEIS:3151 (169:151) Liability in Recreation and Sport 3 s.h.
Unintentional torts (negligence), civil liability, and criminal liability in recreation and sport settings; focus on community/commercial recreation and campus recreation settings. Requirements: completion of 30 s.h.

LEIS:3152 (169:152) Recreation and Sport Facility Management 3 s.h.
Facilities management, personnel assignment and evaluation, fee structures, maintenance, programming, compliance with regulations and standards. Requirements: completion of 30 s.h.

LEIS:3153 (169:153) Sport Business Practices 3 s.h.
Basic management skills for profit-based recreation and sport businesses; operations, business plans, organizational behavior, risk management, inventory, purchasing, marketing. Requirements: completion of 30 s.h.

LEIS:3154 (169:154) Foundations of Event Management 3 s.h.
Large, major special events, professional meetings, and conferences; development and planning, implementation of events, management and evaluation of events; development requirements of planning events, development strategies, budgeting, staffing requirements, resource allocation, site planning, basic risk management requirements, emergency procedures; event implementation policy and procedures; relationship to elements within development stages; event management and evaluation procedures.

LEIS:3156 (169:156) Design of Recreation Facilities 3 s.h.
Horticulture, floriculture, landscape design, agronomy, turf management; their relation to planning and design of recreation and park areas and facilities. Requirements: completion of 30 s.h.

LEIS:3157 (169:157) Managerial Operations in Sport 3 s.h.
Introduction to the operation of a private or nonprofit sport-related business.

LEIS:3158 (169:158) Recreation and Sport Promotion 3 s.h.
Foundations and principles of recreation sport promotion and sales operation; application of foundations and principles to sport and recreation industries; historical aspects; current and future trends of sport and recreation management as it relates to sales and promotions; sales management, marketing, financial/economic, legal, and ethical principles related to sport management. Requirements: completion of 30 s.h.

LEIS:3172 (169:172) Finance in Sport and Recreation 3 s.h.
Capital funding and revenue acquisition for funding public and private sport and leisure service organizations; contemporary sport and leisure service; financial and economic issues.

LEIS:3175 (169:177) Business Development and Sales in Sport 3 s.h.
Fundamentals of business development and sales management; incentivizing sports consumers, direct and indirect sales strategies, brand communications, atmospherics, technology in sports sales, ticket sales, licensing products, negotiating sports sponsorships, and brand building. Recommendations: health and human physiology major.

LEIS:3176 (169:179) Sports Analytics for Coaches, Managers, and Other Decision Makers 3 s.h.
Data management, analytic models, and information systems; how sports analytics are used to make decisions for structuring athletic departments, develop in-game competitive strategies, and improve player performance; analytic examples applied to professional sports, college sports, high school sports, and fantasy sports; experience with statistics or computer science not required.

LEIS:3178 (169:178) Communications and Public Relations in Sport 3 s.h.
How public relations is used to promote service products, demonstrate social responsibility, and communicate with consumers and investors; campaigns, customer service, legal and ethical considerations in promoting service products, media events, information services, public relations in strategic management, atmospherics, critical service moment, social media. Recommendations: health and human physiology major.

LEIS:3300 (169:124) Writing for Sport and Recreation Managers 3 s.h.
Development of effective writing skills that apply to diverse professional situations; proper mechanics of effective writing, persuasive writing, informative writing, factual writing; writing styles applied to document formats (e.g., press releases, emails, memos, marketing messages, interviews, fundraising requests, digital newsletters); student-centered activities in a workshop format.

LEIS:4196 (169:196) Recreation Sport Business Practicum 9 s.h.
Capstone course for the recreation sport business track; 360 contact hours of practical experience with a private or nonprofit recreation or sport-related enterprise; supervision by an agency mentor and a university representative. Requirements: completion of all recreation sport business core courses, foundation courses, and elective concentration courses.

LEIS:4197 (169:197) Recreation and Sport Business Practicum 1-3 s.h.
Educational opportunity involving a small group of students in a unique sport business experience; students serve as consultants for a sport or recreation organization; in-class preparation prior to off-campus work with designated agency; sport or recreation enterprise vary according to faculty expertise and agency availability. Prerequisites: LEIS:1060 (169:060), PSQF:1020 (07P:025), PSY:1001 (031:001), and SOC:1010 (034:001).

LEIS:4198 (169:198) NCAA Rules Compliance and Enforcement 3 s.h.
Rules that govern NCAA athletics, rules compliance function on campuses of member institutions, and enforcement of rules by NCAA; essential legislation in NCAA Manual, including bylaws covering recruiting, eligibility, and amateurism; history of NCAA as related to organization's current structure and activities; capstone experience includes attendance at NCAA Regional Rules Seminar in Indiana and participation in educational sessions conducted by NCAA staff.

Therapeutic Recreation

LEIS:3160 (169:160) Introduction to Therapeutic Recreation 3 s.h.
Lifestyles and barriers faced by persons with disabilities; basic aspects of the therapeutic recreation profession; skills used to establish therapeutic relationship; techniques used with patients; theoretical and conceptual bases for practice.

LEIS:3161 (169:161) Assessment and Evaluation in Therapeutic Recreation 3 s.h.
Basic assessment psychometrics (e.g., reliability), standardized instrumentation and data collection (e.g., observation, self-report), construction of instruments, data reduction. Prerequisites: LEIS:3160 (169:160).

LEIS:3162 (169:162) Therapeutic Recreation: Clientele 3 s.h.
Developmental patterns of special populations; examination of specific interventions and research applied to specific cognitive, emotional, and physical impairments. Prerequisites: LEIS:3160 (169:160).

Ethical, professional, and theoretical issues in delivery of therapeutic recreation services; impact of legislation, standards of practice, health care reform; application of research to practice and marketing services. Prerequisites: LEIS:3160 (169:160).

LEIS:3164 (169:164) Therapeutic Recreation: Rehabilitation 3 s.h.
In-depth review of therapeutic recreation techniques used in clinical and community rehabilitation; opportunities to use techniques with patients. Prerequisites: LEIS:3160 (169:160).

LEIS:3165 (169:165) Child Life: Methods and Materials 3 s.h.
Interventions unique to child life practice (e.g., pain management, coping, preoperative play, terminal illness). Prerequisites: LEIS:1077 (169:077).

LEIS:3166 (169:166) Child Life: Seminar 3 s.h.

LEIS:3168 (169:168) Aging and Leisure 3 s.h.
Status of the well elderly in relation to retirement issues, use of free time, and factors that support leisure activity; leisure services in long-term care. Same as ASP:3168 (153:168).

LEIS:3170 (169:170) Children and Health Care 3 s.h.
Broad overview of issues and systemic approaches to working with children in a health care setting; practical and clinically-based experiences for pediatric population; provision of health care services to patients and issues that affect them; models of intervention, ethical issues, case studies, and impact of cultural diversity on health care; for undergraduates who are interested in working with children in a health care setting.

LEIS:3171 (169:171) Child Life Practical Application 3 s.h.
Overview of medical conditions and treatments commonly encountered by children and adolescents in health care settings; common pediatric sedation medications; sequence of medical procedures to understand how to provide procedural preparation and support; facilitate medical play with pediatric population.

LEIS:3173 (169:173) Work and Leisure in American Culture 3 s.h.
Methods and insights of American studies and leisure studies applied to work/leisure relationship in American life; patterns and perceptions of work and leisure, leisure's share and potential; changing American values.

LEIS:3174 (169:174) Cultural Perspectives in Health Care 3 s.h.
Health care beliefs related to various cultures and religions; focus on illness, hospitalization, treatment, death.

LEIS:3260 (169:175) Play and Childhood arr.
Multiple levels of theories and current research on importance of play in child development; advocacy for importance and necessity of play in childhood that leads to well being and healthy lifestyles; practical- and theoretically-based experiences; for students interested in working with children in health care, clinical, school, community, and family life settings. Prerequisites: LEIS:1077 (169:077).

LEIS:3261 (169:176) Inclusive Recreation 3 s.h.
Laws pertaining to access to recreation and leisure opportunities for disabled persons in a community; evaluation of physical access to built environment; how social construction of disability can be a barrier to integrated leisure involvement; practical aspects of how to include disabled persons in community recreation and sport activities.

LEIS:4167 (169:167) Child Life Practicum 1-2 s.h.
Experience observing and assisting child life staff members providing services to hospitalized children, under Certified Child Life Specialist supervision.
LEIS:4169 (169:169) Spring Break Child Life Experience 1 s.h.
Practical experience with ill children, including a trip to the Give Kids the World village in Florida; documentation and engagement of course materials, experience working with ill children; students are assigned a specific diagnosis and present the diagnosis (appropriate statistics, effects of hospitalization, treatment, etc.) on child and family; coping strategies, appropriate methods of talking to and interacting with children and families, overview of child life in hospitals.

LEIS:4190 (169:190) Preinternship Seminar 1 s.h.
Orientation to internship process.

Practical field experience; direct leadership, program planning, administrative procedures. Prerequisites: LEIS:4190 (169:190).

LEIS:4192 (169:192) Child Life Internship 12 s.h.

Problem in a specific area.

Graduate

Athletic Training Program

ATEP:5010 (027:184) Seminar in Athletic Training 1-4 s.h.
Educational issues faced by approved clinical instructors in athletic training education programs. Offered fall semesters.

Health and Human Physiology

HHP:5000 (027:200) Problems arr.

HHP:5500 (027:270) Social Psychology of Sport and Physical Activity 3 s.h.
Theoretical and applied bases of social psychology of sport and exercise; motivation, arousal, group processes related to sport, physical activity.

HHP:6000 (027:201) Research arr.

HHP:6010 (027:301) Non-Thesis Seminar 2 s.h.
For candidates for the M.S. without thesis. Offered spring semesters.

HHP:6130 (027:255) Advanced Skeletal Muscle Physiology 1,3 s.h.
Skeletal muscle structure, contractile mechanisms, production of movement, biomechanical properties; adaptation to increased use, disuse, injury. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:6150 (027:250) Advanced Clinical Exercise Physiology 1,3 s.h.
Recent advances in exercise physiology for clinical populations; emphasis on acute and chronic responses to exercise in healthy aged adults and in patients with cardiac, vascular, pulmonary, and metabolic diseases; basic and intermediate electrocardiography (ECG), pathophysiology of disease process, clinical assessment of disease severity, diagnostic testing, acute exercise responses, and exercise rehabilitation. Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130) and HHP:4410 (027:141). Recommendations: HHP:4460 (027:145).

HHP:6200 (027:238) Advanced Metabolic Exercise Testing and Prescription 1,3 s.h.
Basic techniques in physical fitness assessment; prescription of exercise for healthy and unhealthy adults; promotion of physical activity within communities; knowledge and skill competencies required for certification as American College of Sports Medicine health fitness instructor. Prerequisites: HHP:2200 (027:039), and HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:6210 (027:249) Epidemiology of Physical Activity 3 s.h.
Physical activity/disease relationships examined through application of epidemiologic methods, including research design, interpretation of studies, selection of measures to fit research questions. Same as EPID:6245 (173:245).

HHP:6220 (027:244) Seminar in Health and Physical Activity Behavior 3 s.h.
Health behavior theories and their relevance to individual, interpersonal, and community-wide health promotion interventions.

HHP:6300 (027:314) Seminar in Motor Control 1 s.h.
Current topics in neural control of movement, biomechanics, and rehabilitation sciences.

HHP:6400 (027:241) Integrative Physiology Seminar 1 s.h.
Current topics in cardiovascular physiology, vascular biology, free radical biology.

HHP:6410 (027:240) Advanced Exercise Physiology 1,3 s.h.
Mechanisms responsible for acute and chronic effects of exercise on different organ systems of the body. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: HHP:1300 (027:050) or HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:6460 (027:245) Advanced Cardiovascular Physiology 1,3 s.h.
HHP:6470 (027:248) Advanced Physiology of Aging 1,3 s.h.
Effects of aging on cells, tissues, and organs; how aging influences function of major body organ systems and the whole organism; physiological mechanisms that underlie age-related changes in body function and performance; integrative approach with focus on human aging. Prerequisites: HHP:1100 (027:053) and HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:6480 (027:265) Advanced Human Pharmacology 1,3 s.h.
General pharmacology (administration, distribution, elimination of drugs, dose response curves, adverse effects, placebos, homeopathy); pharmacotherapy of selected human diseases, pathophysiological aspects of disease, how different classes of drugs modify pathophysiological effects to restore health or reduce impact of disease; focus on mechanisms of drug actions in humans; adverse effects, pharmacokinetic considerations, drug interactions; how to write prescriptions. Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130).

HHP:6500 (027:296) Seminar in Health Promotion 1 s.h.
Peer and faculty response to graduate student work addressing health promotion, physical activity and health outcomes, clinical exercise physiology; review and critique current literature; presentation of published work or in-process projects; critical thinking, scientific writing, and oral communication skill development pertaining to health promotion.

HHP:6510 (027:268) Advanced Energy Metabolism in Health & Disease 1,3 s.h.

HHP:7000 (027:202) Practicum in College Teaching arr.

HHP:7300 (027:260) Advanced Neural Control of Posture and Movement 1,3 s.h.
Neuroanatomical and neurophysiological bases of human motor control; mechanisms for locomotion and posture, control of arm and hand movements, role of sensory information. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: HHP:3500 (027:130). Requirements: anatomy or human physiology course.

HHP:7500 (027:404) Thesis: M.S. 0-4 s.h.

Sport and Recreation Management

LEIS:5065 (169:265) The Economy of Experience 3 s.h.
In-depth analysis of emerging experience economy; just as manufacturing sector of economy supersedes agriculture and service economy supersedes manufacturing, how experience economy is gaining ascendancy as the last, best hope for future economic growth; exploration of current research in positive psychology and sociologist findings on evolution of post-materialist values as related to experience economy; evaluation of current trends; critical analysis and theory development; case studies; original research and investigation of novel marketing possibilities and experience design.

LEIS:5200 (169:200) Historical and Philosophical Perspectives on Leisure 3 s.h.
Historical and philosophical origins of leisure studies; historical issues related to leisure ideas, such as shorter hours, share-the-work, utopian vision of a better society.

LEIS:6251 (169:251) Risk Management 3 s.h.
Legal knowledge necessary for effective management of sport, recreation, and physical activity programs, avoidance of legal problems; strategies for addressing issues such as right to participate, liability for injuries, risk management; legal statutes that govern sport, health, recreation organizations.

LEIS:6252 (169:252) Economics and Financing 3 s.h.
Economic issues for sport/leisure services in nonprofit, private/commercial, and public sectors; strategic financial analysis for the nonfinancial manager; principles, issues in financing sport/leisure organizations.

LEIS:6253 (169:253) Sport Administration 3 s.h.
Overview of various segments that constitutes the role and function of a sport administrator (i.e., planning, organizing, leading, controlling); focus on ways in which sport administrators and their subsequent organizations influence and are influenced by the link between sport and globalization; sport administration encompassing services provided within an organizational context; administration viewed as the coordination of production and distribution of those services.

LEIS:6254 (169:254) Marketing and Sport Promotion 3 s.h.
Overview of varied segments that constitutes sports business practice, including marketing, data-based marketing, sales, promotion sponsorship; varied segments that make up the sport industry, including the mass media, infrastructure, stadium building, consumer behavior; readings and discussions consider the development and structure of each segment, interactions between segments, planning, policy implications; focus on the United States, professional team sports, comparisons to other sports.

LEIS:7290 (169:290) Graduate Internship 3-9 s.h.
Requirements: recreational sports management emphasis.

TR:3281 (169:181) Special Projects in Child Life Practice 2 s.h.
Student directed and student led hospital camping experience for patients at the University of Iowa Children's Hospital; planning and preparing for a large function, planning and leading therapeutic activities, working directly with patients and their families, processing and discussing of experiences and concerns; practical and clinical-based experiences for students interested in working with pediatric population in health care setting. Requirements: hospital orientation, patient confidentiality (HIPAA) training, and health screening.

Therapeutic Recreation
LEIS:5205 (169:205) Research Methods and Leisure Behavior 3 s.h.
The scientific process: research designs for experiments and surveys, questionnaire construction, sampling theory, basic data analysis.

LEIS:6262 (169:262) Procedures in Therapeutic Recreation 3 s.h.
Current issues in the field; application of business and research principles to therapeutic recreation practice and program administration.

LEIS:7289 (169:289) Graduate Practicum in Therapeutic Recreation 3 s.h.

LEIS:7398 (169:398) M.A. Thesis 1-6 s.h.

Health and Physical Activity Skills
HPAS:1001 (28S:085) Alcohol and Your College Experience 1 s.h.
Patterns of alcohol, drug use focused on college years; strategies for monitoring use, behavioral change plans for implementing lower-risk drinking practices; for drinkers and non-drinkers.

HPAS:1002 (28S:086) Tobacco and Your College Experience 1 s.h.
Current behavior change theories related to tobacco use, cessation; nicotine replacement therapies (NRT), non-NRT methods; triggers, relapse prevention, cognitive behavioral skills, support systems; for smokers and non-smokers.

HPAS:1003 (28S:087) Resiliency and Your College Experience 1 s.h.
Resiliency and psychological hardiness theories relevant to college life; resiliency and ability to cope with challenges; components of psychological fitness; skills for personal growth and emotional well-being.

HPAS:1004 (28S:088) Food and Your College Experience 1 s.h.
Sociocultural perspective on the forces that facilitate "junk" diets, particularly during young adulthood; basic components of nutrition; opportunity to develop skills in diet planning and healthy eating.

HPAS:1010 (28S:042) Personal Fitness 1 s.h.
HPAS:1020 (28S:006) Core Strengthening 1 s.h.
HPAS:1030 (28S:007) Aerobics 1 s.h.
HPAS:1040 (28S:043) Pilates 1 s.h.
HPAS:1060 (28S:061) Resistance Training 1 s.h.
HPAS:1070 (28S:081) Weight Training I 1 s.h.

HPAS:1080 (28S:080) Olympic Weightlifting 1 s.h.
Introduction to Olympic weightlifting exercises including snatch, clean and jerk, power snatch, and power clean. Prerequisites: HPAS:1070 (28S:081).

HPAS:1110 (28S:020) Fitness Walking 1 s.h.
HPAS:1130 (28S:029) Jogging I: Beginners 1 s.h.
HPAS:1135 (28S:030) Jogging II 1 s.h.
HPAS:1210 (28S:047) Relaxation Techniques 1 s.h.
HPAS:1220 (28S:021) Flexibility 1 s.h.
HPAS:1230 (28S:025) Hatha Yoga 1 s.h.
HPAS:1320 (28S:037) Lap Swimming I Prerequisites: HPAS:1320 (28S:037).

HPAS:1325 (28S:038) Lap Swimming II Prerequisites: HPAS:1320 (28S:037).
HPAS:1410 (28S:011) Badminton 1 s.h.
HPAS:1430 (28S:045) Racquetball 1 s.h.
HPAS:1440 (28S:066) Table Tennis 1 s.h.
HPAS:1450 (28S:071) Tennis 1 s.h.
HPAS:1530 (28S:077) Volleyball I 1 s.h.
HPAS:1535 (28S:078) Volleyball II Prerequisites: HPAS:1530 (28S:077).
HPAS:1549 (28S:049) Sand Volleyball 1 s.h.
HPAS:1550 (28S:053) Slow-Pitch Softball 1 s.h.

Undergraduate major: history (B.A.)
Undergraduate minors: history; Latina/o studies
Graduate degrees: M.A. in history; Ph.D. in history
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/history/

The Department of History's purpose is to increase knowledge of human experience and provide students with opportunities to gain information about and learn methods for understanding their world in light of its past. In addition to offering these essential elements of a liberal education, the department trains professional historians and teachers of history and serves those who require knowledge of a period or aspect of history as background for their own specialized interests in other fields.

Faculty and students in the department participate in many of the University's interdisciplinary departments and programs, including American studies, African American studies, ancient civilizations, Asian studies, international studies, Latin American studies, and gender, women’s, and sexuality studies.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
- Major in history (Bachelor of Arts)
- Minor in history
- Minor in Latina/o studies

Students who major in history work in a variety of positions in business, education, public service, advertising, and journalism after graduation. Many go on to graduate study in history, law, religion, library and information science, or social work.

History majors are encouraged to take courses in other fields that illuminate and expand the meaning of history courses and that introduce information and a variety of approaches to understanding how societies and cultures work.

For example, students majoring in history are encouraged to complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323) foreign language requirement by choosing a language that fits their interests in history. The department's faculty members particularly encourage study abroad programs that complement students' foreign area interests. Majors also are encouraged to improve their writing and speaking skills.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in history requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including 36 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major is designed for students with a general interest in history. Requirements include an introductory course and a history portfolio in addition to a range of course work in history. Of the 36 s.h. in history courses required for the major, students must earn 30 s.h. in courses numbered 2050 or above.

College Level Equivalency Program (CLEP) and Advanced Placement Program (APP) credit does not count toward the history major. Transfer work that is equivalent to University of Iowa course work may be accepted toward the major, but at least 18 s.h. of work for the major, including the introductory course, must be taken at The University of Iowa.

Undergraduate courses in history are divided into four areas: American history, European history, non-Western world history, and courses that have no specific area designation.

Students may count a maximum of 18 s.h. earned in American history courses (numbered 2200-2299, 3200-3299, and 4200-4299) toward the major.

Students also may count a maximum of 6 s.h. earned in the following courses toward the major. Courses on this list that are approved for General Education may be counted toward fulfillment of General Education Program requirements as well as toward requirements for the history major.

HIST:2401 (016:001) Western Civilization I 3-4 s.h.
HIST:2402 (016:002) Western Civilization II 3-4 s.h.
HIST:2403 (016:003) Western Civilization III 3-4 s.h.
HIST:2602 (016:005) Civilizations of Asia: China 3 s.h.
HIST:2604 (016:006) Civilizations of Asia: Japan 3-4 s.h.
HIST:2606 (016:007) Civilizations of Asia: South Asia 3-4 s.h.
The major in history requires the following course work.

INTRODUCTORY COURSE

Students enroll in the following course as soon as possible after declaring the major in history. Each section of the course covers a different area of history, as indicated by the section subtitle. The course includes assigned papers; students must include at least one of the papers in their history portfolio (see "Portfolio" below).

- HIST:2151 (16W:051) Introduction to the History Major 3 s.h.

HISTORY COURSES

In addition to completing HIST:2151 (16W:051), students must earn a minimum of 33 s.h. in history courses, including geographical area and era courses (American, European, non-Western world, and pre-1700 history). Students may count a maximum of 18 s.h. earned in American history courses toward the major.

Work for the major must include the following geographical area and era courses.

- Two American history courses (numbered 2200-2299, 3200-3299, or 4200-4299) including at least one numbered 3000 or above 6 s.h.
- Two European history courses (numbered 2400-2499, 3400-3499, or 4400-4499) including at least one numbered 3000 or above 6 s.h.
- Two non-Western world history courses (numbered 2100-2199, 2500-2899, 3100-3199, 3500-3899, 4100-4199, 4500-4999) including at least one numbered 3000 or above 6 s.h.
- One pre-1700 history course (see the following list) 3 s.h.

A course taken to fulfill the pre-1700 history course requirement also may be counted toward the requirement in American, European, or non-Western world history.

These courses fulfill the pre-1700 history course requirement:

- HIST:2401 (016:001) Western Civilization I 3-4 s.h.
- HIST:2402 (016:002) Western Civilization II 3-4 s.h.
- HIST:2461 (016:045) Middle East and Mediterranean: Alexander to Suleiman 3 s.h.
- HIST:2602 (016:005) Civilizations of Asia: China 3 s.h.
- HIST:2604 (016:006) Civilizations of Asia: Japan 3 s.h.
- HIST:2606 (016:007) Civilizations of Asia: South Asia 3 s.h.
- HIST:3211 (16A:115) Native North America I: Precontact-1789 3 s.h.
- HIST:3405 (16E:105) Engineering and Technology in the Ancient Mediterranean 3 s.h.
- HIST:3409 (16E:109) Medieval Civilization I 3 s.h.
- HIST:3410 (16E:110) Medieval Civilization II 3 s.h.
- HIST:3420 (16A:131) The Frontier in American History to 1840 3 s.h.
- HIST:4220 (16A:131) Colonial North America, ca. 1600-1775 3 s.h.
- HIST:4229 (16W:160) The Atlantic World c. 1450-1850 3 s.h.
- HIST:4400 (16E:100) The Roman Empire 3 s.h.
- HIST:4401 (16E:101) Ancient Egypt and the Ancient Near East 3 s.h.
- HIST:4404 (16E:104) The World of Ancient Greece 3 s.h.
- HIST:4406 (16E:106) Warfare in Ancient Mediterranean Society 3 s.h.
- HIST:4407 (16E:107) The Hellenistic World and Rome 3 s.h.
- HIST:4411 (16E:113) Economic and Social History of Medieval Europe 3 s.h.
- HIST:4412 (16E:117) History of the Medieval Church 3 s.h.
- HIST:4417 (16E:111) Medieval Intellectual History 300-1150 3 s.h.

- HIST:4920 (16E:118) The Transition from Manuscript to Print 3 s.h.

PORTFOLIO

All history majors must complete a portfolio, enrolling in the following course during their final semester or summer session.

- HIST:3193 (016:193) Undergraduate History Portfolio 0 s.h.

The portfolio must include at least three graded papers written for history courses the student has completed; one of the papers should be from HIST:2151 (16W:051) Introduction to the History Major. The papers in the portfolio should show the development of the student’s skills.

Students should submit their portfolios on the University of Iowa ICON page for HIST:3193 (016:193) early during the semester in which they plan to graduate.
B.A. with Teacher Licensure

History majors interested in earning licensure to teach in elementary and/or secondary schools must complete the College of Education’s Teacher Education Program (TEP) in addition to the requirements for the major and all requirements for graduation. The TEP requires several College of Education courses and student teaching. Contact the Office of Education Services for details.

Students must satisfy all degree requirements and complete Teacher Education Program licensure before degree conferral.

Course work required for licensure to teach social studies in secondary schools includes a minimum of 15 s.h. in American history (numbered 2200-2299, 3200-3299, and 4200-4299); a minimum of 15 s.h. in non-U.S. history (numbered 2100-2199, 2400-2899, 3100-3199, 3400-3899, 4100-4199, and 4400-4999); and 15 s.h. in a related area outside of history chosen from economics, geography, anthropology, psychology, sociology, or American government. Courses taken as part of the history major, including HIST:2151 (16W:051) Introduction to the History Major, may be counted toward the 15 s.h. in American history and 15 s.h. in non-U.S. history required for certification.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University’s Four-Year Graduation Plan.

Before the fifth semester begins: three courses in the major, including HIST:2151 (16W:051) Introduction to the History Major

Before the seventh semester begins: four more courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: three more courses in the major and submission of the portfolio of written work to the student’s advisor

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major (two courses), all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in history have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Departmental honors students must maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33. Students write an honors thesis, which is an extended research paper (30-40 pages). They usually complete the thesis during the spring semester of their junior year or fall semester of their senior year. Research for the thesis is done under the supervision of a faculty member who specializes in the field that the student chooses for his or her research. Students register for 3 s.h. of HIST:3995 (016:091) Honors Seminar and HIST:3996 (016:092) Honors Thesis in each of two semesters. The 6 s.h. of credit counts toward the credit required for the history major.

In addition to honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

Minor: History

The minor in history requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in history courses, including 12 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. All Department of History courses numbered 3000 or above plus HIST:2115 (016:085) History and Science of Oil and HIST:2195 (016:088) Making Historical Documentaries on the Internet are considered advanced for the minor.

Minor: Latina/o Studies

The minor in Latina/o studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h. Additionally, 12 s.h. of course work must be taken at The University of Iowa, with a maximum of 3 s.h. accepted as transfer credit from another institution. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. A maximum of 6 s.h. of work for another University of Iowa major, minor, or certificate may be counted toward the minor.

The minor in Latina/o studies requires the following course work.

Foundational course:

HIST:2280 (016:070) Introduction to Latina/o Studies 3 s.h.

Historical and cultural approaches—at least 6 s.h. from these:

HIST:4216 (16A:112) Mexican American History 3 s.h.
HIST:4217 (16A:113) Latina/o Immigration 3 s.h.
POLI:3104 (030:108) Immigration Politics 3 s.h.
SPAN:2040 (035:102) Spanish for Heritage Speakers 3 s.h.
SPAN:2050 (035:108) Spanish in the U.S. 3 s.h.
SPAN:3000 (035:139) Writing Skills for Heritage Speakers 3 s.h.
SPAN:3020 (035:119) Journalistic Writing in Spanish 3 s.h.
SPAN:3420 (035:143)/CL:3396 (218:196) Cuban American Literature and Culture 3 s.h.
SPAN:3440 (035:135) Topics in Latina/o Literature and Culture 3 s.h.
SPAN:4800 (035:190)/CINE:4690 (048:190) Chicano Cinema 3 s.h.
SPAN:4940 (035:169) Journalistic Narrative 3 s.h.

Comparative and transnational topics—at least 3 s.h. from these:

HIST:4221 (16A:132) The Frontier in American History 1840-Present 3 s.h.
HIST:4334 (16W:134) Topics in American Borderlands History 3 s.h.
ANTH:3111 (113:119)/GHS:3040 (152:119) Health in Mexico 3 s.h.
ANTH:3142 (113:128) American Cultures 3 s.h.
ENGL:3535 (008:133) Inter-American Studies 3 s.h.
And:

One course from the historical and cultural approaches list or the comparative and transnational topics list 3 s.h.

Graduate Programs of Study

• Master of Arts in history
• Doctor of Philosophy in history

Graduate study in history prepares students for occupations such as high school or college teaching, publishing, commercial research, foundations and nongovernmental organizations, and government or other public service. With additional specialized training, students may become qualified for careers in archival work, library work, museum work, or historical site preparation and display. Some choose to pursue the joint Master of Arts/Juris Doctor program, which leads to degrees in both law and history (see the College of Law (p. 1005) section of the Catalog for information about the J.D. degree).

Students interested in graduate work should obtain a copy of the current Guide to Graduate Study at The University of Iowa from the Department of History office. The guide is revised every summer to include the latest faculty listing, research interests of faculty members, detailed regulations on study toward advanced degrees, and other information for students.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts program in history requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit and is offered with two options: one for students who plan to work toward the Ph.D., the other for students who do not. The two plans differ mainly in their concentration in fields: the Ph.D. track emphasizes development of research capabilities culminating in the essay; the non-Ph.D. track stresses breadth of learning.

The M.A. with Ph.D. track requires completion of a research essay. Students must earn at least 24 s.h. of the minimum of 30 s.h. required for the degree in Department of History courses numbered 3000 or above, including at least two seminars, or one seminar and one readings course numbered 6000 or above. One seminar or readings course must be taken in each of the first two semesters of residence. Students must earn 12 s.h. in the area of their essay topic and at least 6 s.h. in a second division, including either a seminar or a readings course.

The essay in the major division must be based on original research and should be approximately 10,000 to 15,000 words long. It usually begins as a term paper for the seminar in the major division and is completed the following semester under the supervisor’s guidance. The finished product should emulate the character of articles in learned journals, just as the Ph.D. dissertation takes the form of a full-length scholarly monograph.

Requirements for the M.A. with non-Ph.D. track are similar to those for the Ph.D. track program. Students must earn 24 s.h. of the minimum of 30 s.h. required for the degree in Department of History courses numbered 3000-4999 and 6000 or above. They earn 12 s.h. in one major division of history and must include at least one readings or seminar course. They earn an additional 12 s.h. in history by taking 6 s.h. in each of two other divisions of history, or by taking 6 s.h. in one other division of history plus 6 s.h. in a related department; the additional 12 s.h. in history must include at least one readings or seminar course.

After completing these requirements, or during the semester in which they will complete them, M.A. students must take an oral and written comprehensive examination in their major division.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in history requires at least 72 s.h. of graduate credit, including credit for work done for the master’s degree.

Students who earn the M.A. with research essay at Iowa are admitted to the Ph.D. program on the favorable recommendation of the examining committee. Students who earn an M.A. at another university must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College and the Department of History (see "Admission" below). They must submit a writing sample, such as a seminar paper or an M.A. thesis. They also must take a research seminar during their first two semesters in residence at Iowa.

Ph.D. students must complete at least eight graduate-level Department of History courses numbered 6000 or above, earning 3 or 4 s.h. of credit for each course. The courses must be research seminars (minimum of three) and graduate readings courses (minimum of five). At least five of the eight courses must be completed before the student takes the comprehensive examination. Courses taken at the M.A. level may be counted toward this requirement. The student also must take a graduate course in the philosophy of history, historiography, or methods of historical research.

The department has no general language requirement for the Ph.D., but the supervising faculty member may require the student to demonstrate a reading knowledge of one or more foreign languages and proficiency in the use of other study tools. Students may not complete the comprehensive examination until these requirements have been met.

The comprehensive written and oral examination covers three distinct fields. Two of the fields must be in a major division chosen from the following divisions.

Africa
China
Europe, early modern Europe, modern India
Japan
Latin America
Medieval Europe
Russia and the former Soviet Union
The ancient world
The Middle East
The United States

Students may construct another field, subject to approval by the comprehensive exam committee.

The third field must be a division outside the student’s major division or a field from a related department outside history. The committee may define and delimit the individual fields for examination. It also may set, separately for each field, the character of the written portion of the comprehensive examination, which may take the form of a syllabus, a critical bibliography, a topical paper, or any other form or combination of forms that the committee deems suitable. The oral portion of the comprehensive examination focuses on issues and problems arising from the examination papers.

The candidate must submit to the dissertation committee a written prospectus for the dissertation no later than the semester following completion of the comprehensive exams. The committee consists of at least five members, including at least one member from outside the department. It considers the prospectus and may approve it, reject it, or require its revision. When the dissertation is completed in final form, the committee administers the final examination for the doctorate, a formal oral defense of the dissertation that usually lasts two hours.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate College section of the Catalog.

Applicants must submit academic transcripts and Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test scores. They also must submit examples of original writing to the history department, such as a term paper, a seminar paper, an honors thesis, or a master's essay (applicants to the Ph.D. program); letters of recommendation from three persons familiar with the student's past academic work; and a one- or two-page personal statement of the applicant's purpose for doing graduate work. All application materials are due by January 15 for entry the following August.

Facilities

University of Iowa Libraries has unusual strength in all aspects of U.S. history. The Main Library houses the Henry A. Wallace papers and related collections, the Iowa Women's Archives, and other unique materials. In European history, special strengths include the fine collections of French and English materials. The State Historical Society of Iowa in Iowa City and the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum in West Branch also hold valuable research materials.

Courses

Many Department of History courses are approved for the CLAS General Education Program. Look for courses with prefix HIST under "Historical Perspectives," "International and Global Issues," and "Values, Society, and Diversity" in the General Education Program (p. 323) section of the Catalog. History courses approved for General Education may not be taken pass/nonpass, even when they are taken as electives.

History majors should take HIST:2151 (16W:051) Introduction to the History Major during their sophomore year or the first semester after they declare the major.

Department of History courses numbered below 6000 are open to first-year students who already have fulfilled the General Education Program Historical Perspectives requirement.

Courses numbered 6000 or above are offered as occasion demands.

Interdepartmental Studies

Undergraduate major: interdepartmental studies (B.A.)
Web site: http://www.uiowa.edu/~indepart/

The Interdepartmental Studies Program (ISP) provides an alternative to traditional undergraduate majors. It gives students the opportunity to design an individualized plan of study or to choose a preapproved plan in applied human services, business studies, or health science. Each track includes coursework from a variety of departments.

Since the major in interdepartmental studies affords opportunities outside the traditional degree pattern, students must create or choose study programs that meet their individual educational and career objectives. Those who plan to seek employment immediately after graduation should familiarize themselves with the educational background and qualifications required by employers and should include appropriate courses in their study programs.

Students preparing for advanced study should become familiar with the admissions requirements of graduate or professional schools that interest them. The earlier students decide to pursue graduate or professional study, the easier it is to complete necessary prerequisites.

Undergraduate Program of Study
• Major in interdepartmental studies (Bachelor of Arts)

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in interdepartmental studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 36-38 s.h. of work for the major (total credit depends on the track). Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

Students choose one of five tracks for the major: applied human services, business studies, engaged social innovation, health science, or an individualized plan of study. The engaged social innovation and the individualized plan of study tracks are selective; students must apply and be admitted to these tracks before they may declare them. The other three tracks are open; students may declare them without an application.

Students who choose the individualized plan of study track design their own major. Those admitted to the engaged social innovation track complete a common core, plan and complete an internship, and design their remaining coursework to support the internship. Students who choose the applied human services track, business studies track, or health science track follow a preapproved study plan, which includes foundation courses and a selection of emphasis areas. The applied human services track offers three emphasis areas: aging services, community-based services, and corrections services. The business studies track offers three emphasis areas: workplace practices and perspectives, values and ethics, and arts management. The health science track offers six emphasis areas: multidisciplinary science, entrepreneurship, aging, global health, cultures of healing, and writing for the sciences.

Interdepartmental studies students who earn a second major may count a maximum of two courses from the second major toward the interdepartmental studies major. This policy applies no matter what degree is earned with the second major (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and so forth).

Students majoring in interdepartmental studies who earn minors in other departments or programs may not count courses from the minors toward the interdepartmental studies major.

The major in interdepartmental studies requires the following course work.

Applied Human Services Track

The applied human services track requires 37-38 s.h. of work for the major. It provides a preapproved plan of study that combines a generalized psychology background with a choice of three emphasis areas: aging services, community-based services, and corrections services. Students who choose this track also have the option of proposing their own human services-related emphasis area to the faculty advisory committee.

Applied human services track students must complete foundation coursework (25-26 s.h.) and one emphasis area (12 s.h.). They must complete a minimum of 15 s.h. of work for the major at The University of Iowa. The Academic Advising Center advises applied human services track students; contact the center for more information about requirements.

Business Studies Track
The business studies track requires a minimum of 37 s.h. of work for the major. It provides a preapproved plan of study that combines a generalized business background with a choice of three emphasis areas: workplace practices and perspectives, values and ethics, and arts management. Students who choose this track also have the option of proposing their own business-related emphasis area to the faculty advisory committee.

Business studies track students must complete foundation course work (at least 17 s.h.), business electives (at least 5 s.h.), and one emphasis area (15 s.h.). They must complete a minimum of 15 s.h. of work for the major at The University of Iowa. The Academic Advising Center advises business studies track students; contact the center for more information about requirements.

FOUNDATION COURSES

Internship
CCP:1145 (409:145) Internship in Interdepartmental Studies 0 s.h.

Engaged Social Innovation Track
The engaged social innovation track requires 37 s.h. of work for the major. The interdepartmental studies major with the engaged social innovation track is available only as a second major for qualified students. The track combines course work and experiential learning with a capstone internship designed by the student. By focusing on course work with a strong hands-on component, the track encourages students to learn in multiple ways, both in and out of the classroom, and prepares them to bring social change and innovation to communities.

Admission to the engaged social innovation track is selective; students must apply and be admitted. Applicants must have a g.p.a. of 3.33 and must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program when they apply to the track. They also must have declared a first major and must show evidence of commitment to community engagement and service. Their work for the engaged social innovation track constitutes a second major related to their other academic interests.

Engaged social innovation students complete core courses, upper-level course work, and a capstone internship preceded by a course or experience that prepares them for the internship.

CORE COURSES
All of these:
ENTR:2000 (06T:120) Entrepreneurship and Innovation 3 s.h.
ENTR:3500 (06T:147) Social Entrepreneurship 3 s.h.
RHET:3153 (010:153) Networks, Strategies, and Tactics 3 s.h.

UPPER-LEVEL COURSE WORK
Students select upper-level course work that reflects and supports their internship project.

Upper-level courses (numbered 3000 or above) selected by the student 14 s.h.

INTERNSHIP
Students complete an internship (12 s.h.) preceded by a course or experience that prepares them for it.

One course or experience in preparation for the internship 2 s.h.
INTD:4098 (145:198) Independent Study 12 s.h.

Health Science Track
The health science track requires 37 s.h. of work for the major. It provides a preapproved plan of study that combines a generalized health background with a varied choice of emphasis areas: multidisciplinary science, entrepreneurship, aging, global health, cultures of healing, and writing for the sciences. Students who choose this track also have the option of proposing their own health science-related emphasis area to the faculty advisory committee.

Health science track students must complete foundation course work (22 s.h.) and one emphasis area (15 s.h.). They must complete a minimum of 15 s.h. for the major at The University of Iowa. The Academic Advising Center advises health science track students; contact the center for more information about requirements.

CW:4745 (08C:145) The Sentence: Strategies for Writing 3 s.h.
RHET:2095 (010:095) Fundamental Strategies of Persuasion 3 s.h.

Elective Component

Students complete 9 s.h. from these:
Students who intend to submit a study plan should contact the Interdepartmental Studies Program office while designing the study plan. Students are advised by the Interdepartmental Studies Program coordinator to design an individualized plan of study track and rules for submission of study plans. Significant changes in the focus of a student's study plan require the submission and approval of a revised study plan. The student's academic advisor determines whether substitutions may be designated as elective course work. If authorized, substitutions may be designated as elective course work planned for all remaining semesters.

The Interdepartmental Studies Program (ISP) is available to students who choose to build their own study plan, creating a unique major that speaks to personal interests, and that integrates varied approaches to a particular topic (e.g., aging studies, international business, children's studies, environmental issues, health issues).

Students must submit their study plan for approval. The plan must include an essay that provides a clear statement of the area of intellectual focus; the reasons for preferring the ISP to any departmental program; a concrete discussion of how the advanced courses relate to each other, to personal interests, and to the central focus of the study plan; a description of academic goals for the bachelor's degree; a list of advanced-level course work already completed; and a list of advanced-level course work planned for all remaining semesters.

Each study plan is approved by a faculty advisory committee. Reviews are held once a semester. Deadlines are posted on the Interdepartmental Studies Program web site.

If the advisory committee does not grant approval, the study plan may be returned to the student for revisions and resubmission at the next committee meeting. In some cases, the student may be referred to an appropriate departmental major.

Once the study plan is approved, the student is required to follow the plan, taking the courses approved for it. A limited number of substitutions may be allowed, but only if they are clearly consistent with the area of intellectual focus in the approved study plan, and only if they are approved in advance by the ISP advisor. Unauthorized substitutions may be designated as elective course work.

Significant changes in the focus of a student's study plan require the submission and approval of a revised study plan. The student's academic advisor determines whether changes warrant a revised plan.

See the Interdepartmental Studies Program web site for up-to-date information on the individualized plan of study track and rules for submission of study plans.

Students who choose the individualized plan of study track are advised by the Interdepartmental Studies Program coordinator; they work closely with the Interdepartmental Studies Program office while designing the study plan. Students who intend to submit a study plan should contact the Interdepartmental Studies Program coordinator as early as possible.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The Four-Year Graduation Plan is available only to ISP students in the individualized plan of study track. Students in the other ISP tracks work with their advisors to develop individual graduation plans.

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan. (Courses in the major are those required to complete the major.).

Before the seventh semester begins: an approved individualized plan of study, at least six courses in the plan of study, and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: a total of at least nine courses in the plan of study

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in interdisciplinary studies have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major; they usually complete the honors requirements of a particular department or program appropriate to their area of study. Students should initiate inquiries about graduating with honors in the interdepartmental studies major by contacting the ISP coordinator; they should inquire early in their junior year to allow time for foundation course work. Students must submit an honors project approval form to the ISP coordinator.

Honors students in interdepartmental studies must be members of the University's honors program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University of Iowa Honors Program.

Undergraduate Program of Study

- Certificate in International Business

The Tippie College of Business and the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences offer the Certificate in International Business. The program is designed for students who intend to pursue careers in international business as well as those interested in gaining a better understanding of the global economy and a broader awareness of the political, historical, and social environment in which international business operates.

Certificate

The Certificate in International Business requires 29 s.h. and satisfaction of the certificate’s world language or study abroad requirement (total credit depends on the student’s choice of world language or study abroad experience). In addition to a world language or study abroad, the program includes study of international business and economics, international relations and institutions, and the contemporary art, literature, culture, and/or politics of one of several geographical regions (Asia, Europe, Latin America, Middle East/Africa, or Russia/Eastern Europe). The range of courses permits students to tailor areas of specialization suited to their individual interests and to complement majors in business and in liberal arts and sciences.

The certificate program is open to current University of Iowa undergraduate students and to all individuals who hold a bachelor's degree and are not enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate. Completion of the certificate is noted on the student's transcript.

Students should declare their intention to earn the certificate as early as possible and talk with an advisor about certificate requirements. They must submit an individual plan of study. Tippie College of Business students should talk with the advising staff at the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences students should talk with a Certificate in International Business advisor at the Academic Advising Center. Individuals who hold a bachelor's degree from another institution should contact the University's Office of Admissions.

A minimum of 20 s.h. of certificate course work (other than language courses) must be completed at The University of Iowa or in approved study abroad programs. Students who plan to count study abroad credit toward the certificate should consult a Certificate in International Business advisor before leaving campus. University of Iowa Guided Independent Study Courses are accepted toward the certificate.

Certificate courses may not be taken pass/nonpass. A course may not be used to satisfy more than one certificate requirement.

The Certificate in International Business requires the following course work.

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

These courses provide students with an essential understanding of economics, which is central to all business operation. They also help students develop knowledge of the functional areas of international business.

Both of these:

- ECON:1100 (06E:001) Principles of Microeconomics 4 s.h.
- ECON:1200 (06E:002) Principles of Macroeconomics 4 s.h.

Three of these (total of 9 s.h.):

- ECON:3345 (06E:125) Global Economics and Business 3 s.h.
- ECON:3620 (06E:129) Economic Growth and Development 3 s.h.
- ECON:4110 (06E:173) International Economics 3 s.h.
- ENTR:4460 (06T:152) Entrepreneurship and Global Trade 3 s.h.
- FIN:4240 (06F:130) International Finance 3 s.h.
- MKGT:4300 (06M:151) International Marketing 3 s.h.
- LAW:8600 (091:282) International Business Transactions 3 s.h.

One of these may be counted toward the 9 s.h. requirement above:

- CHIN:3103 (039:117) Business Chinese I 3 s.h.
- FREN:3410 (009:115) Business French 3 s.h.
- GRMN:3214 (013:114) Business German 3 s.h.
- PORT:3130 (038:108) Business Portuguese 3 s.h.
- SPAN:3040 (035:118) Business Spanish 3 s.h.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS AND INSTITUTIONS

These courses familiarize students with comparative politics, social geography, foreign policy, and issues related to world population and the environment—topics relevant to decision making in the international business world.

Two of these (total of 6 s.h.):

- ANTH:1003 (113:062) Anthropology of Violence 3 s.h.
- ANTH:1008 (113:067) Anthropology of Immigration 3 s.h.
- ANTH:1040 (113:045)/LING:1040 (103:045) Language Rights 3 s.h.

WORLD LANGUAGE OR STUDY ABROAD EXPERIENCE

Certificate students gain insight into the culture of another world region and deepen their understanding of their own language and culture by learning a world language or completing a study abroad experience.

Students who choose language study are required to develop intermediate-level competence in a language that is spoken in one of several geographic regions (Asia, Europe, Latin America, Middle East/Africa, or Russia/Eastern Europe) by completing one of the approved language sequences below.

Students who choose to complete a study abroad experience are expected to coordinate it with the course work they use to fulfill the certificate's area studies requirement (see "Area Studies" below). They must earn at least 3 s.h. of graded credit for the study abroad experience.

For questions about languages not listed or about study abroad course work, see a Certificate in International Business advisor.

AREA STUDIES

Area studies topics are critical to students’ understanding of how society and culture influence the people with whom they share the world—and with whom they may conduct business. The following courses help students learn about the culture, contemporary history, art, literature, and politics of a specific geographic region.

Students complete 6 s.h. from one geographic region. They should select a region that is related to their chosen world language or study abroad experience.

International Studies

Chair
• Helena Dettmer (Classics)

Undergraduate major: international studies (B.A.)
Undergraduate minor: international studies
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/international-studies

The International Studies major encourages students to integrate theoretical knowledge about broad global processes, and the methods used to study them, with in-depth examination of a particular geographical region or a major theme in international studies. The major affords students the opportunity to integrate the study of history, politics, economics, expressive arts, culture, beliefs, and social systems.

Undergraduate Programs of Study
• Major in international studies (Bachelor of Arts)
• Minor in international studies

The international studies major is interdisciplinary. It is designed to help students learn to appreciate world cultures, focus on themes of global significance, and master varied disciplinary approaches used to study international issues. The program complements a wide range of academic degree programs and is an appropriate choice for many students who plan to pursue a double major.

The major prepares students for careers in business, government, international development agencies, nongovernmental organizations, philanthropic agencies, and the arts. It is excellent preparation for graduate training in the social sciences, the arts, law, business, journalism, international affairs, area studies, and public health.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in international studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 42 s.h. of work for the major. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major. They also must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program (p. 323).

The major in international studies is flexible, drawing on courses across the humanities and social sciences. Students work closely with an academic advisor to plan their program of study.

Work for the major includes two introductory courses, three foundation courses, language study beyond that required by the General Education Program, requirements for one of the major's three program options (A, B, or C), and required course work in one of the major's tracks.

International studies students must complete course work from at least four different departments and/or programs; they may count a maximum of 12 s.h. from any department or program toward the major. Students may apply up to 12 s.h. of course work from each additional major, minor, or certificate they earn toward the international studies major. Transfer credit approved by the International Studies Program may be applied to the major. Students must complete at least 15 s.h. of work for the major at The University of Iowa.

The major in international studies requires the following course work.

INTRODUCTORY COURSES
Both of these:
IS:1000 (187:010) Designing Your International Studies Major

FOUNDATION COURSES
Students earn a minimum of 9 s.h. in foundation courses chosen from the following lists. Foundation courses provide an overview of global issues and introduce a disciplinary approach to global topics, laying the groundwork for continuing study.

ANTH:1101 (113:003) Cultural Anthropology 3 s.h.
ARTH:1030 (01H:008) Themes in Global Art 3 s.h.
ASIA:2450 (039:048) India Beat: The Aesthetics and Politics of India Today 3 s.h.
DANC:2060 (137:080) Dance and Society in Global Contexts 3 s.h.
POLL:1400 (030:045) Introduction to Comparative Politics 3 s.h.
RELS:1015 (032:015) Religions in a Global Context: The Critical Role of Religion in International Affairs 3 s.h.

May include one of these:
HIST:2403 (016:003) Western Civilization III 3-4 s.h.
HIST:3255 (016:082) The World Since 1945 3 s.h.

May include one of these:
GEOG:1090 (044:010) Globalization and Geographic Diversity 3 s.h.
GEOG:2910 (044:030) The Global Economy 3 s.h.

May include one of these:
CL:1240 (218:040) Major Texts of World Literature, Antiquity to 1700 3 s.h.
CL:1241 (218:041) Major Texts of World Literature, 1700 to the Present 3 s.h.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT
All students must complete a minimum of two semesters of language study beyond that required by the General Education Program (p. 323). This additional language requirement may be met either by completing two semesters of upper-level study in the same language used to fulfill the General Education Program's World Languages requirement or by completing two semesters, or the equivalent, of a second world language at any level.

In fulfilling the language requirement, most students are eligible to receive an additional 4 s.h. of ungraded credit under the Furthering Language Incentive Program (FLIP). This credit may be applied to the minimum 120 s.h. required for graduation, but it does not count toward requirements for the international studies major.
TRACKS
Students complete their choice of one of the major's tracks. Each track requires a minimum of 18 s.h. of course work, including at least 12 s.h. earned in upper-level courses. Students may not count their foundation courses toward track requirements.

Students may petition the International Studies Program for permission to include a course that is not on the list of courses approved for their track; they must submit their petition by the semester's specified deadline date.

With the International Studies Program's approval, students may develop other tracks for which sufficient courses exist. Students interested in developing a unique track should discuss their ideas with the international studies advisor as soon as possible.

International studies majors completing the Certificate in Global Health Studies, International Business, or Latin American Studies or the minor in global health studies or Latin American studies may not choose an international studies track that corresponds with those certificate(s) or minor(s).

Tracks are listed under "Tracks and Approved Courses" below.

PROGRAM OPTIONS
International studies students complete all of the requirements for one of the major's three program options: A, B, or C. Program option requirements are not interchangeable.

Program option A: Students complete 6 s.h. of additional upper-level course work chosen from a second international studies track.

Program option B: Students complete a senior project and must take the following two courses.

Students prepare for the senior project by completing IS:3010 (187:095) Creating a Proposal for International Research, in which they learn research methodologies and prepare a project proposal. During their last year of study, they enroll in IS:4990 (187:199) International Studies Senior Project and complete a semester-long individual research project that culminates in a substantial written or creative work focusing on a topic related to course work in their track. They complete the course and project under the supervision of a faculty mentor.

Program option C: Students complete an experiential learning activity (credit or noncredit), such as study abroad or related volunteer work, and complete two writing courses, one from each list below. They also submit an international studies essay during their last year. Students interested in choosing program option C should speak with the international studies advisor about procedures for the option.

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan.

Note: Students who intend to study abroad during their junior year should schedule an appointment during their fourth semester to meet with an advisor from Study Abroad; those who intend to study abroad during their senior year should schedule an appointment during their sixth semester.

Before the fifth semester begins: at least the two introductory courses and one foundation course

Before the seventh semester begins: at least nine courses in the major and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: at least 12 courses in the major, including the required research preparation course for program option B students or the first writing course for program option C students

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major, all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in international studies have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. International studies honors students must maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and a g.p.a. of at least 3.33 in all course work for the major and in all course work that may be applied to the major.
To graduate with honors in the major, students must complete a minimum of 45 s.h. for the major (an additional 3 s.h.), including at least 15 s.h. in upper-level course work numbered 3000 or above and at least 6 s.h. in courses designated as honors courses. Students may meet this requirement in one of two ways. They may complete 21 s.h. in a single track, with at least 15 s.h. in upper-level courses numbered 3000 or above. Or they may select courses from two tracks, completing at least 12 s.h. in the first track, including 9 s.h. in upper-level courses numbered 3000 or above; and completing at least 9 s.h. in the second track, including 6 s.h. in upper-level courses numbered 3000 or above.

Honors students completing the Certificate in Global Health Studies, International Business, or Latin American Studies or the minor in global health studies or Latin American studies may not choose an international studies track that corresponds with those certificate(s) or minor(s). Those who choose the two-track option may not choose a first track that corresponds with those certificate(s) or minor(s).

Honors students must choose program option B for the major. Instead of taking IS:4990 (187:199) International Studies Senior Project, they take IS:4991 (187:198) Honors Thesis in International Studies, they present their research in a poster session.

In addition to pursuing honors in their majors, undergraduate students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program. Learn about the program by visiting Honors at Iowa.

Minor

The minor in international studies requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in courses approved for the international studies major, including 12 s.h. in courses numbered 3000 or above taken at The University of Iowa. The minor must include IS:2000 (187:020) Introduction to International Studies or one of the major’s foundation courses. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Course work in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. To preserve the interdisciplinary nature of the minor, students may count a maximum of 6 s.h. from a single department or program, from the Tippie College of Business, or from a major, another minor, or a certificate toward the minor in international studies.

Undergraduate major: journalism and mass communication (B.A., B.S.)
Undergraduate minor: mass communication
Graduate degrees: M.A. in journalism; M.A. in strategic communication; Ph.D. in mass communications
Web site: http://clas.uiowa.edu/sjmc/

The School of Journalism and Mass Communication offers an undergraduate major and minor as well as graduate degree programs. Undergraduate students in all majors may use approved journalism and mass communication courses to satisfy the General Education Program (p. 323)'s Historical Perspectives, Social Sciences, and Values, Society, and Diversity requirements, and the school's First-Year Seminar is designed specifically for entering undergraduate students.

Undergraduate Programs of Study

- Major in journalism and mass communication (Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science)
- Minor in mass communication

Media writing and visual storytelling form the core of the undergraduate major in journalism and mass communication. Students are required to take both professional and conceptual courses offered by the school; they develop professional skills while studying the historical, legal, cultural, and institutional roles of media in society. They also complete extensive academic work outside the school, consistent with the University's commitment to the liberal arts and sciences.

The major prepares students for careers in the field. Graduates find employment in a variety of areas, such as public relations, advertising, marketing, political communication, health communication, philanthropy and fundraising communication, newspapers, magazines, radio, television, online communications and social media, publication design, photojournalism, and media research.

The school is accredited by the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications.

ADMISSION TO THE MAJOR

Undergraduate students are admitted to the major in journalism and mass communication in one of two ways.

First-year students who enter the University as honors students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences or as Presidential Scholars, Old Gold Scholars, or Daily Iowan Scholars are guaranteed admission to the major as long as they have satisfied the necessary prerequisites.

Students who do not enter the University as honors students, Presidential Scholars, Old Gold Scholars, or Daily Iowan Scholars may declare a journalism and mass communication interest and must apply for admission to the major. They typically apply during the semester in which they will complete JMC:1100 (019:090) Media Uses and Effects and JMC:1200 (019:091) Media History and Culture; the General Education Program's Rhetoric requirement; and a total of at least 30 s.h. of course work.

The primary consideration for admission to the major is overall academic performance. Other factors include performance in journalism courses, a statement of interest submitted by the student, and writing ability. All qualified applicants are considered, with overall grade-point average as a major factor in admission. The number of students accepted each semester depends on the number of students currently in the program and available resources. Applications are reviewed with the goal of admitting the most qualified students to the program.

For applications and deadline information, contact the School of Journalism and Mass Communication.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Transfer students with a declared interest in journalism and mass communication are classified as pre-journalism and mass communication majors. They may apply for admission to the major during the semester in which they will complete at least 30 s.h. of course work at The University of Iowa and other institutions, including the General Education Program's Rhetoric requirement and the two required premajor foundation courses, JMC:1100 (019:090) Media Uses and Effects and JMC:1200 (019:091) Media History and Culture. Students must complete JMC:1100 (019:090) and JMC:1200 (019:091) at The University of Iowa; they may not substitute courses completed at other institutions for either course.

The School of Journalism and Mass Communication may accept transfer credit in journalism earned at institutions accredited by the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications. A maximum of 7 s.h. of approved transfer credit may be applied to the major in journalism and mass communication; a maximum of 3 s.h. of approved transfer credit may be applied to the minor in mass communication. Some journalism course work taken at other schools may be used to fulfill the major's elective and/or second area of concentration requirements.

Students who wish to apply transfer credit toward School of Journalism and Mass Communication requirements must discuss the proposed transfer credit with a journalism faculty advisor and must have approval from the head of undergraduate studies.

Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science with a major in journalism and mass communication require a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 36 s.h. in journalism and mass communication courses, plus a second major or 24 s.h. in a second concentration area. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in the major. All students must complete the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences General Education Program.

Students may count a maximum of 48 s.h. earned in School of Journalism and Mass Communication courses (prefix JMC) toward the 120 s.h. required for a B.A. or B.S. degree.

Each student works with an assigned faculty advisor or an educational advisor to develop a study plan that meets the major's requirements. Requirements for the major are consistent with the program's accreditation requirements; the school cannot make exceptions.

Students are encouraged, but not required, to use the University's ifolio system to collect and edit their preprofessional work. They will find the portfolio useful as they interact with faculty members in preparation for entering the job market and for presentation in job interviews.

The journalism major (B.A. and B.S.) requires the following course work.

Students may earn elective credit by completing additional journalism and mass communication course work (prefix JMC), but they may not exceed a maximum of 48 s.h. earned in the School of Journalism and Mass Communication toward the 120 s.h. required for the B.A. or B.S. degree. Credit earned in JMC:2100 (019:099) Journalism Internship counts toward the total journalism and mass communication course work that students may apply to the B.A. or B.S. degree.

SECOND MAJOR OR CONCENTRATION AREA
Every student majoring in journalism and mass communication must complete a second major or a concentration area outside the School of Journalism and Mass Communication. Study in the second major or concentration area enables students to acquire a substantial body of knowledge or expertise in a relevant area, learn how another discipline views the world, and/or develop a companion set of skills to those in journalism and mass communication.

Students who satisfy the requirement by completing a concentration area must choose 24 s.h. of related course work in one or more departments; at least 15 of the 24 s.h. must be earned in advanced courses; in most departments, advanced courses are numbered 3000 or above. Course work in the concentration area must be arranged in consultation with the student’s advisor; each student must have the advisor's written endorsement of the second major or concentration area before graduation.

The Certificate in Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication does not satisfy the requirement for a second major or concentration area.

Second Major or Concentration Area for the B.A.
Bachelor of Arts students must complete the requirements for the journalism and mass communication major (36 s.h.) and must satisfy the school's second major or concentration area requirement in one of two ways.

Option 1: complete a B.A. major in another department.

Option 2: complete a 24 s.h. concentration of related courses in one or more departments that offer B.A. degrees; at least 15 s.h. of the required 24 s.h. must be earned in advanced courses.

Second Major or Concentration Area for the B.S.
Bachelor of Science students must complete the requirements for the journalism and mass communication major (36 s.h.) and must satisfy the school's second major or concentration area requirement in one of two ways.

Option 1: complete a B.S. major in a natural, mathematical, or social science.

Option 2: complete a 24 s.h. concentration of related courses in the social sciences (economics, geography, political science, psychology, or sociology) and/or the natural and mathematical sciences, earning at least 15 s.h. of the required 24 s.h. in advanced courses; and complete all the special math, research methods, statistics, computer science, and/or cognate science requirements required for the B.S. in the department in which the majority of concentration area courses are taken.

Four-Year Graduation Plan
The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the University's Four-Year Graduation Plan.

Note: Students must be admitted to the journalism and mass communication major by the first semester of their sophomore year in order to be eligible for the Four-Year Graduation Plan. The checkpoints below include the required work in journalism and mass communication plus a second concentration area, but they do not include the requirements of a second major, since the Four-Year Graduation Plan does not apply to second majors.

Before the third semester begins: JMC:1100 (019:090) Media Uses and Effects and/or JMC:1200 (019:091) Media History and Culture

Before the fifth semester begins: JMC:2010 (019:098) Journalistic Reporting and Writing, JMC:2020 (019:088) Introduction to Multimedia Storytelling, one more course in the major, and at least one course in the second major or concentration area

Before the seventh semester begins: two required professional skills courses; one advanced, conceptual, or elective course in the major; three more courses in the second major or concentration area; and at least 90 s.h. earned toward the degree

Before the eighth semester begins: two more required professional skills courses; one advanced, conceptual, or elective course in the major; and two more courses in the second major or concentration area

During the eighth semester: enrollment in all remaining course work in the major (including the second major or concentration area), all remaining General Education courses, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate

Honors in the Major
Students majoring in journalism and mass communication have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. Students in the school’s honors program must have a g.p.a. of at least 3.50 in work for the major. To graduate with honors in the major, they complete JMC:4955 (019:191) Honors Project, earning 3 s.h. of credit in work guided by a faculty member. The honors project may be a thesis or a professional project and typically is completed during the last semester of the senior year. Students are encouraged but not required to take JMC:4950 (019:190) Honors Readings or JMC:4993 (019:193) Honors Workshop to prepare for the project.

Honors students in the school also must be members of the University of Iowa Honors Program, which requires students to maintain a cumulative University of Iowa g.p.a. of at least 3.33 and to fulfill other requirements: visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the University’s honors program.

All majors with an overall g.p.a. of at least 3.33 are encouraged to take any journalism and mass communication course for honors credit and to make use of other honors opportunities in the school. Visit Journalism Honors Program on the school’s web site or contact the school’s honors advisor for details.

Minor

The minor in mass communication requires a minimum of 15 s.h. in mass communication courses, including 12 s.h. earned in courses considered advanced for the minor taken at The University of Iowa. Students must maintain a g.p.a. of at least 2.00 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Courses for the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

The minor introduces students to the field of mass communication; it does not prepare them for careers in media.

National Honor Society

The school’s chapter of Kappa Tau Alpha, the national society honoring scholarship in journalism and mass communication, was founded in 1936 and is named for former director Leslie G. Moeller. Students are considered for membership if their grade-point average places them in the top 10 percent of their class and they have completed at least five semesters of University work, including a minimum of 9 s.h. in journalism and mass communication skills courses. Contact the school’s Kappa Tau Alpha advisor for details.

Certificate in Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication

The School of Journalism and Mass Communication administers the undergraduate certificate program in fundraising and philanthropy communication; see Fundraising and Philanthropy Communication (p. 310) in the Catalog.

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Arts in journalism
- Master of Arts in strategic communication
- Doctor of Philosophy in mass communications

Master of Arts: Journalism

The Master of Arts program in journalism requires 33 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must complete a creative thesis. The program admits students for fall entry.

The M.A. program in journalism focuses on communication. Its approach is academic and theoretical, balanced with substantial development of professional skills, to prepare students for careers in media education. The program is designed for individuals who hold a bachelor’s degree in journalism and/or mass communication and wish to continue their education in the field; for experienced journalists or communicators who wish to prepare to teach by earning an M.A. and then a Ph.D.; and for persons who hold a bachelor’s degree in another discipline and would like to enter journalism by earning an M.A.

Students in the M.A. program in journalism who wish to enter the school’s Ph.D. program in mass communications must complete all M.A. requirements, including the creative thesis, before they may be considered for admission to the Ph.D. program. Professional course work from the M.A. program cannot be applied to the requirements of the Ph.D. program.

M.A. students gain grounding in concepts, theories, and research methods while they pursue a curriculum that emphasizes technology, innovation and media, creative and collaborative multimedia, design for media, cross-media studies, transformed social interactions, and visual communication. They also hone technical skills in reporting, writing, visual and graphic storytelling, design, and digital imaging.

Students choose courses in consultation with their advisors.

All M.A. students must complete the following coursework.

Students who have not taken a recent U.S. media law class must enroll in JMC:3300 (019:140) Media Law and Communication or an alternative media law course approved by the advisor. They must have the instructor’s consent.

All students must complete a thesis—an original, in-depth, theory-based work that combines scholarship and creative production. The thesis must be done in an appropriate and reproducible medium. Students may write conventional theses or produce creative, multimedia, and cross-media theses grounded in digital humanistic and social science traditions. Theses may include original scholarly research, creative visual storytelling, visual ethnography, digital animation, digital documentary productions, digital literatures, and so forth.

For a more detailed description of the M.A. program in journalism, contact the School of Journalism and Mass Communication.

Master of Arts: Strategic Communication

The Master of Arts program in strategic communication requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit. Courses for the program are offered online. They also are offered on location at the John and Mary Pappajohn Education Center in Des Moines, Iowa, but not on the University's Iowa City campus.

The strategic communication program is designed for professionals in a wide variety of areas, such as corporate and organizational communication, public relations, integrated marketing communication, advertising, political and public affairs communication, health communication, event planning, risk communication, and professional writing. The program focuses on the skills, knowledge, and experience that working professionals need, including the ability to anticipate and meet the challenges of radical change in the media landscape.

The M.A. program offers three specializations: health and medicine, political communication, and public affairs communication. It also permits students to design a specialization that fits their interests and needs.

The curriculum consists of core courses, electives, and a capstone project in place of a thesis. In most courses, students are encouraged to introduce case studies and projects from their workplace.

The M.A. in strategic communication requires the following course work.

CORE COURSES

All of these:

<table>

JMC:5300 (019:225) provides a conceptual foundation for strategic communication; JMC:5400 (019:226) sharpens students' professional skills; and JMC:6800 (019:279) focuses on best practices of leadership communication both in and outside of corporations and other organizations.

And one or both of these:

</table>

The program recommends that students complete both JMC:5237 (019:237) and JMC:5240 (019:240); students who complete both may count the second course as an elective.

ELECTIVES

Strategic communication students earn 15 s.h. in elective courses, which they choose in consultation with their advisors. Students choose electives from the list below. They also may choose other electives that are appropriate for their individual programs, drawing from courses offered by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication and by other University of Iowa departments and programs.

CAPSTONE PROJECT

Strategic communication students complete the following capstone project in place of a thesis.

For a more detailed description of the M.A. in strategic communication, contact the School of Journalism and Mass Communication.

Doctor of Philosophy

The Doctor of Philosophy program in mass communications requires 80 s.h. of graduate credit. The program admits students for fall entry. It is designed for students who have completed an M.A. thesis.

The program emphasizes interdisciplinary inquiry into media communication phenomena from sociocultural, historical, and social science perspectives. It is defined by the scholarly interests of its faculty, which include ethnographic, scientific, historical, legal, critical, cultural, social, feminist, and international aspects of media communication, both verbal and visual; comparative communication; convergence; new and emerging media; health communication; popular culture; and globalization. Faculty members use qualitative or quantitative methods in their research and teaching.

The program is highly individualized. In consultation with his or her advisor, each student draws on courses offered by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication as well as other academic units to develop a course of study that reflects his or her academic background, experience, professional goals, and intellectual interests.

Students may count up to 30 s.h. of master's degree credit toward the 80 s.h. required for the Ph.D., with the graduate committee's approval, as long as the credit was earned in courses relevant to the Ph.D. study plan. The Graduate College does not accept transfer credit for professional skills courses. Students who have earned professional master's degrees must take additional Ph.D. course work.

For a more detailed description of the Ph.D. program, contact the School of Journalism and Mass Communication.

Joint J.D./M.A. and J.D./Ph.D.

The School of Journalism and Mass Communication and the College of Law offer a joint Juris Doctor/Master of Arts in journalism and a joint Juris Doctor/Doctor of Philosophy in mass communications. The joint degree programs allow students to count a limited amount of credit toward both degrees. Separate application to each degree program is required. Applicants must be admitted to both programs before they may be admitted to the joint degree program. Admission for journalism and mass communication graduate programs is for fall entry.

For information about the J.D., see the College of Law (p. 1005) section of the Catalog.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Graduate College or the Graduate College section of the Catalog.

Facilities and Resources

Adler Journalism and Mass Communication Building

The School of Journalism and Mass Communication moved into the Philip D. Adler Journalism and Mass Communication Building in January 2005. The 65,000-square-foot building has computer laboratories for audio, video, design, writing and web publishing, and a resource center. A photography laboratory is located nearby. The building also is home to offices of the Iowa High School Press Association; the Quill and Scroll Society, an international honor society for high school journalists; the University’s award-winning student newspaper, The Daily Iowan; and Daily Iowan TV, a student-run newscast.

Iowa Center for Communication Study

The Iowa Center for Communication Study encourages and facilitates student and faculty research in communication. It also sponsors publications and provides editorial oversight for the Journal of Communication Inquiry.

Financial Support

More than $170,000 in scholarships and awards is disbursed to journalism and mass communication students each year. Scholarship information and applications are available each fall. Visit Scholarships on the School of Journalism and Mass Communication website or contact the school.

The school offers research and teaching assistantships for graduate students; preference is given to Ph.D. students. Journalism and mass communication students have been successful in winning competitive fellowships open to all graduate students; applicants must be nominated by the graduate committee.

The school has a program of modest financial support for undergraduate and graduate student research projects.

Professional Enrichment

Internships

The school encourages undergraduate majors and Master of Science professional journalism emphasis students to complete at least one internship. The school’s internship and assessment coordinator helps students find appropriate positions.

Undergraduate students may earn up to 4 s.h. of internship credit, registering with appropriate faculty sponsorship for JMC:2100 (019:099) Journalism Internship (1-4 s.h.). Internships do not fulfill requirements for the major, but internship credit counts toward the total journalism and mass communication credit that students may apply toward a B.A. or B.S. degree (maximum of 48 s.h.). Students may take internships for no credit through CCP:1019 (409:019) Internship in Journalism.

Students also are encouraged to pursue opportunities for journalism experience on campus through student-operated media, including The Daily Iowan, Daily Iowan TV, and KRUI-FM radio.

Job Placement

The school’s internship and assessment coordinator helps students seeking career guidance and employment opportunities. The school compiles and publicizes notices of professional jobs open to JMC students and graduates. It also cooperates with the University’s Pomerantz Career Center in providing career guidance and placement services as well as workshops and programs on seeking jobs.

Activities

The school engages in a variety of activities for the enrichment of students, faculty, and the entire campus. Speakers visit campus each year under lectureships funded by the John F. Murray and Leslie G. Moeller Fund, and the M. Holly McGranahan Lecture. In addition, guest speakers are funded through the Hearst Visiting Professionals Program and the Hageboeck Daily Iowan Visiting Professionals Program. Campus organizations for students include Kappa Tau Alpha (KTA, a national society honoring scholarship in journalism), the National Association of Black Journalists (NABJ), the Public Relations
Student Society of America (PRSSA), the Society of Professional Journalists (SPJ), and Ed on Campus (EOC).
