

1972

A Song of Youth

Roger Weingarten

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Weingarten, Roger. "A Song of Youth." The Iowa Review 3.2 (1972): 21-21. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.1342>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

A SONG OF YOUTH

I have gone white at the temples yet my cheeks are pink, the song of youth hasn't left my face:

I will make nothing better by lying.

I wore my sword in a greenhouse and married myself at my first bar mitzvah before an antique rabbi who forgot the ring (the barbed wire around the temple frayed his memory;

did he put it there himself, did I).

My porcelain teeth are new, my orchid mouth not strong enough to make them sing.