in color.
the tints, though, his own.
homespun hue. soft & softening. like the sound. the dented mute plugging the hole of that crooked horn. jumpsuit blue/green & joyful like the breaks he moves about in ringing change. sounding him self. the left beat of that cosmic pulse he said was him and Bird. is him & Bird. sounding God, too. his knowledge & praise. power & pain. a skyward horn bell angled for love & rain.

The Return of Julian the Apostate to Rome / Ishmael Reed

Julian
Come back
It can't be long
For the emperor

He sees plots everywhere
Has executed three postmen Rants in print against his Former allies
Imagines himself a Yoruba god Has asked the Bishops to Deify him

Not only is he short He's nuts

Julian come back
The people are shitting
In the temples
Barbarian professors

6
Are teaching one god
They are ripping the limbs Off our fetishes
They are carving the sea Monsters from our totems They made a pile of our Wood sculpture and set fire To it

Julian
Come back
Rude hags
Have crashed the senate And are spitting on the Elders

Meanwhile, Julian
The perennial art major Ponders in the right wing
Of the monastery museum

The Egyptian collection

"The word made stone, the stone word"
"A RITE is an action the very form of which is the result of a Divine Revelation."

You stand waist-high in snakes beating the weeds for the gravebed a quarter mile from the nearest relative, an open field in Florida: lost, looking for Zora, and when she speaks from her sunken chamber to call you to her side, she calls you her distant cousin, her sister come to mark her burial place with bright black stone.
She has known you would do this—
