

1981

The Woman in Buffalo Is Given to Waiting

Becky Birtha

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Birtha, Becky. "The Woman in Buffalo Is Given to Waiting." The Iowa Review 12.2 (1981): 13-14. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.2676>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

Becky Birtha · The woman in Buffalo is given to waiting

She neglects her work.
English ivy rust on the sill.
The linen goes unwashed.
The poems do not get written.

The woman has no companion,
She has no man.
She neglects her friends —
If they were to come to her house
They would not find her waiting for them.

The waiting focuses:
The center of the morning
Pulls her taut,
Holds her still until she Hears
 the iron lid drop against the iron box Descends the stair to retrieve letters that will receive no reply —
 snapped into a rubber band.

 the one she awaited did not come if there were such a one.
She returns to her kitchen
Draws herself in to continue.

The woman in Buffalo
Will make an art of waiting in which she will achieve perfection
She will invest her strength in waiting dense as a massive brown mountain, go still and solid like a stone.
She will grow into waiting
Like an oak into an iron fence.