7-1-1963

Some Special Categories

Frank Luther Mott

Follow this and additional works at: https://ir.uiowa.edu/palimpsest

Part of the United States History Commons

Recommended Citation
Mott, Frank L. "Some Special Categories." The Palimpsest 44 (1963), 311-316.
Available at: https://ir.uiowa.edu/palimpsest/vol44/iss7/6

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the State Historical Society of Iowa at Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Palimpsest by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.
Some Special Categories

Special notice must be taken of certain Iowa magazines that refuse to be fitted neatly into any category in this series of articles or into any in the series that is to follow. We choose a few of them for attention here.

When Life made its sensational success as a picture magazine in 1936, the amazing welcome it received stimulated other enterprising publishers to enter the field of general pictorial journalism with their own offerings. About a score of such ventures were made, but the only successful one was the fortnightly Look, founded in Des Moines in 1937. Look was no mere imitation; it was packed with original ideas, lively, exciting, and worth reading. Gardner Cowles, Jr., known to Iowa friends as "Mike" when he was first associated with his father and brother in publishing the Register and Tribune, was the founder of Look and remains its editor and president of its publishing company. His magazine was immediately successful, soon gaining a million circulation and moving its main office to New York in 1940. Today it is one of the three great mass circulation magazines in the weekly-biweekly class.

A long forgotten but interesting periodical, important to the study of early Iowa culture, is the Opera House Reporter, founded by James S. Cox at Estherville. Cox was then manager of the Lough Opera House in that town. In those years such Houses had to take whatever shows came along with no chance of learning about them in advance; and as a result, some very bad ones sometimes appeared on the Lough stage. Cox gave public notice eventually that if an audience decided any show on his stage was really atrocious, it could walk out and get its money back. When this happened, Cox mailed out a circular to other opera house managers warning them against the bad show; they replied with letters about bad and good offerings and begged him to continue the circulars. Thus the Opera House Reporter (affectionately nicknamed "The Iowa Detective") was born in 1898. The very first numbered issue carried some advertisements: an impresario wanted "singing and dancing comedian, heavy man, leading lady; must be good dressers on and off stage"; "The Great Nina, electric picture and endurance dancer" was guaranteed — “Will forfeit $500.00 if you can produce her equal.”

311

L. C. Zelleno and George H. Bubb acquired the paper in 1915. It was then a 16-page quarto with some illustrations, published weekly at $2 a year, including gossip and news of shows and show people; but still featuring "managers' reports," now arranged by towns and states throughout the Middle West. In 1917 they moved it to Des Moines. But the motion picture was already making great inroads upon the old opera house business. In the spring of 1921, an attempt was made to enlarge the journal's scope, and the title was changed to Amusement Reporter; but it did not quite last that year out.

A few music journals have been published in Iowa, as Frank Abbott's Presto, born in Cedar Rapids in 1884 but soon moved to Chicago; Wendell Heighton's Western Musical Herald (1906-1916), a Des Moines monthly with Minneapolis and Chicago editions; and P. C. Hayden's School Music, begun in Quincy, Illinois, and then moved to Keokuk, where its melodies ceased in 1915.

An admirable small-quarto monthly of thirty-two pages with self-cover called the Book Marker was published in Des Moines by Donald and Zoe Murphy, 1927-1929. Book reviews, brief critical pieces, and editorial chat composed a delightful bill of fare. But Donald became occupied with writing serials for farm papers, Zoe had a baby, and family budgets of time and money brought an end to a journal that not a few readers were sorry to see die.

In 1900-1901 H. S. Kneedler began in Boone a beautifully printed little magazine after the form, if not the style, of Hubbard's Philistine. It was called The Optimist, and it enlisted a number of good contributors — such Iowans as Johnson Brigham and Lewis Worthington Smith; such diverse Easterners as Henry L. Mencken and Ella Wheeler Wilcox. But its optimism was short-lived.

A famous journal of its time was the Analyst, dedicated to "pure and applied mathematics," and published by J. E. Hendricks in Des Moines, 1873-1884. After leaving Iowa, it was issued as Annals of Mathematics, first at the University of Virginia, then at Harvard, and finally at Princeton, where it is still published. It has always been a bimonthly.

The Dubuque Chess Journal was a 76-page octavo published monthly through 1870-1878 by C. A. Brownson. It varied in title — sometimes simply — Chess Journal, sometimes Brownson's Chess Journal. Suspended for eight years, it was resumed 1886-1892.

Another specialized monthly was the Western Penman, begun in Cedar Rapids by A. N. Palmer in 1885. Professor Palmer's beautiful Spencerian writing fascinated boys and girls in many schoolrooms. His little magazine of 16 quarto pages sold for five cents a copy. It was moved to New York in 1905 and published there as the American Penman until 1938. By that time fine penmanship was virtually a forgotten art.

We have left until the last one of the handsomest magazines ever issued in Iowa. This is the
The Iowan

"a magazine of Iowa life"

October - November, 1952
Vol. 1, No. 1

CONTENTS

AN IOWA TOLL TURNPike ................................. Willard D. Archie 5
SCHOOL FOR LADY WRESTLERS ............................ Fred Casotti 8
THE ROOSTER THAT LAID THE GOLDEN EGG .................. Betty DeWitt Wittmer 10
GRINNELL ..................................................... 12
MAGIC HOUR OF THE MAGIC SEASON ....................... Robert Black 13
THE CONTROVERSIAL MR. KLINE ....................... 19
FIVE KIDS VS. 210 ACRES ................................ Carl Turk 21
SATURDAY ARTISTS ........................................ James Morrison 26
A HOME IN AN ORCHARD .................................. Carl Turk 28
EXCHANGING RECIPES WITH ......................... Blanche Bailey Reed 34
MRS. GUY GILLETTE ..................................... 38
OUR HAWKEYE HERITAGE— REVOLUTIONARY WAR SKIRMISHES ............ John Esden 38
UNUSUAL IOWANS—DOLL LADY .............................. Wilma Collins 44

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR .................................. 2

COVER: Lake Keokah at sunset. This popular recreation area east of Oska-boona was photographed by Carl Turk with a Speed Graphic. Inside front cover: The flaming red oak, so typical of Iowa autumns was furnished by the Murphy Calendar Company of Red Oak. Inside back cover: Farm scene in northeast Iowa by L. Dale Ahern. Back Cover: Plates courtesy of State University of Iowa. Design by Dale Ballantyne.

Other photo and art credits: p. 6, 7—Mrs. James Winegardner; p. 8, 9—Fred Cas-otti; p. 10, 11 (1-3)—Carl Turk; p. 11 (4) Schield Bantam Co.; p. 13—drawing by Erica Watts; (2) drawing by Mary Martin; p. 18—courtesy Brown & Bigelow by James Morrison; p. 28-33—photos by Carl Turk; p. 29—drawing by Bruce Jones; p. 34—Irving Begler; p. 35—drawing by Erica Watts; p. 44—Wilma Collins.

Departments and IOWAN ingot design by Dale Ballantyne.

Willard D. Archie, Publisher
Floyd S. (Tobe) Nelson, Production Mgr.
Duane Modrow, Advertising Mgr.
Staff: Dale Ballantyne, Wilma Collins, Louise Tinley, Carl Turk.

This is the first issue of a new magazine of Iowa life. I hope you like it.

The IOWAN represents not only four years of work and planing on our part, but also the efforts of scores of Iowans who have helped us through the difficult initial steps. We greatly appreciate their faith, and that of our present advertisers and charter subscribers. I am confident that Vol
1, No. 1, of The IOWAN justifies
the support that it has been given.

More than anything else, this magazine is an expression of our faith that Iowans are willing to support a quality magazine about themselves and their state. The proof of this belief is still to come.
A great many people are betting against us. But we simply believe that if you give people a good magazine that they like, they'll support it.

While it may be somewhat unusual, this magazine is dedicated to one of its most faithful supporters: John Esden, a cousin who died from bulbar polio on the deadline day of this issue. He had just finished our 'Revolutionary War article. At the age of 21, John was one of the most gifted young men I have ever known. Already a profound student of history, economics and politics, he was also a good athlete and a talented musician.

As John, Iowa represents to me
the challenge of unfulfilled promise. Our state has so many promising paths open to its future that we have still touched only a few of them. But we are in danger of depending on our own present bounty, stifling initiative and failing to find the right paths awaiting us. As John never rested in his pursuit of knowledge, so I hope Iowa never rests in its quest
for a better future.

The IOWAN is not meant to be a private dream. Rather, I hope all Iowans will feel they are a part of an interesting and stimulating venture and join us in building a better magazine and a better Iowa.

David Archie
THE PALIMPSEST

Iowan, of Shenandoah, a quarterly of 56 small-quarto pages plus cover devoted to Iowa personalities, industry, history, public affairs, travel, nature, sports, homes and gardens, art, and education. About two-thirds of it is devoted to pictures, with some eight pages usually in color. Begun as a bimonthly at only $2 a year by David E. and Willard D. Archie in 1952, it lost money until, in 1958, it dropped all advertising and newsstand sales, increased the color, and doubled the price. It became a quarterly in 1961. Today it has nearly 10,000 circulation at a regular subscription price of $7.50.