

2003

The Thing to Watch out For

Deborah Tall

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Tall, Deborah. "The Thing to Watch out For." The Iowa Review 33.1 (2003): 21-22. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.5677>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

DEBORAH TALL

The Thing to Watch Out For

Morning
becomes:

plumes of fog
from the dog's nostrils

wake of loon
on pond water.

It's half-past
half-till, beholden.

But she rebuffs
the sudden doorbell

messenger thud of bird
on picture window

turns her bearing
back to bed.

How much of solitude
is shame?

The morning
chill, bright

but not quite yet or enough to venture

into so-called day
the way

lined with observable
moments

those forerunners
calling cards it's lunacy

to refuse
though it is always

so much a matter of perhaps, what if.

The thing to watch out for while living is this.