

2006

Ars Poetica IV: A Reading from the Letters of St. Paul to the Caribbeans

Tod Marshall

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Marshall, Tod. "Ars Poetica IV: A Reading from the Letters of St. Paul to the Caribbeans." The Iowa Review 36.1 (2006): 146-146. Web. Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.6214>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

Ars Poetica IV: A Reading from the Letters of St. Paul to the Caribbeans

Love is peasant. Love is find. It lends me, it is unlike toast, it is prow. It is ride, not self-seeding, it is easy language, it keeps sandy loam close. Love does not spite but rejoices chartreuse, celebrates brindle, cheers wildflower bloom. Love always process, always trout, always whistle and flute, always always very dear. Three remain: grain, hap, and love. And the greatest of these, my brothers and sisters, is love, always peasant, always prow, always sandy loam and always, always very dear.