

2009

Rivers

Dennis Schmitz

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Schmitz, Dennis. "Rivers." The Iowa Review 39.2 (2009): 179-179. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.6720>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

DENNIS SCHMITZ

Rivers

Carried along by things—Charlotte's bad eyes, in-laws, the instants
of sexual transport, school do's—any series

starts a river. In nature,
the trickle under the culvert you stoop

to go in, shoes absorbing.
Swing-clink & cries from the asphalted
playground are back there—

it's suburban but Chicago—
around you, ailanthus

& the crawlholes kids use. You wet your face,
you splash maps onto your shirt.

* * *

In its own Forest Preserve, the Chicago-choked Sangamon spreads only feet wide. It's stew-brown from spring flood, elm & bramble mush nudged

by counter-currents until the daubwork

ripples meet—downstream is what a river says.