

2009

A Dictionary of Wooing and Deception in the Voice of the Sociopath

Jennifer Militello

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Militello, Jennifer. "A Dictionary of Wooing and Deception in the Voice of the Sociopath." The Iowa Review 39.3 (2009): 58-59. Web. Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.6742>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

JENNIFER MILITELLO

*A Dictionary of Wooing and Deception in the Voice
of the Sociopath*

It takes so long to go bad, here in this glad world.
If I loom, what I hate holes up inside me.
I feel where it is broken like a rib. I feel where it fibs in order to be related.

It follows me home, nose to the scent.
The cat in me is scratching at my tongue.

Let in, it will win you over. Let go and you will feel yourself grow older as the knives in me
describe the knives you know.

Godless, I am most real. Healed, I am most ill. Filth is my most honest hour.
The eye of me contains all I am loosely.

The eye of me is hardly mine. It is a gallery for the overripe. It invents our lives from five dimensions. Unlike the heart, its crowbars pry. I am not I.

I barter with the periphery. It is the puncture in me that mouths the translation.

What I read in the entrails. What the blood reds become. My eye contains an afternoon.
Its dry mouth made of autumn. I lick at my wounds. I never cool. I have become the evidence, I have become degrees. The teams of horses set loose are my silence. What tension

threads itself like nectar from my wounds.
A man is a house of cards. A man like a jar, filling slowly. Like wire, like a vial of warmth. My blood has been sleet

the way it falls in winter. Onto the canvas
as two mediums at once.