

2011

The Therapists Say To Admit The Nature Of You

Kimberly Burwick

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Burwick, Kimberly. "The Therapists Say To Admit The Nature Of You." The Iowa Review 41.3 (2011): 27-27. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.7057>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

KIMBERLY BURWICK

THE THERAPISTS SAY TO ADMIT THE NATURE OF YOU

If we both are pleaders,
beggars in the sealed-up world
thank the one orange tree in the unplanned landscape
there are finally birds between you.
Prairie is punishment for your failings
but there is a certain kind of crime that takes the matgrass months to know.
Every sentence is really a question of harvests.
Dawn among bridges of wheat, all the weights and measures of cowfields.
Blood pheasant, silver pheasant, then night.

27