Winter 2012

Figure The Color Of The Wave She Watched

Emily Hunt

Follow this and additional works at: https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.7217

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.
FIGURE THE COLOR OF THE WAVE SHE WATCHED

goodbye gone kin like water gone half, first self,
where is that friend
who happened to smoke
the first beautiful sky where are the hours
she filled to see sink
those hollow shapes made by wind, goodbye
cleared history, swept steps, goodbye what’s left
the weather, which leaves slap and fret to explain if only the weather
were how it was, the weather has nothing to do, goodbye lies I meant deeply

goodbye to each

flowering shock

ahead in the garden

the garden was paper

a plan

stabbed by trees and then a stripped plot, goodbye

little war after war

a cold goodnight to

both ends of silence

did it begin, did I skate

past the omen, exquisite caution my armor

I pretended to shed, dear blank reply, radical portrait hung on a cloud

girl with big shovel
inventing the flurry
oh lose me my snow