

Winter 2013

Hue] Awe

Meredith Stricker

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Stricker, Meredith. "Hue] Awe." The Iowa Review 43.3 (2013): 58-58. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.7292>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

“HUE] AWE”

*Threnodies] Extacies – / Revenues – / Arguments
—Emily Dickinson, variants 671, 634, 637*

seen from another planet there is not much difference between people and amoebas between looking at oceans or ice floes between a cloud and a transistor radio however, each makes noise with light differently, each bears the marks of accident in its own way you are not as lost as you thought you are globally positioned you occupy the exact intersection of a million grassblades where a spider is a meadow, a calling a brink
and the air is ringing against the slightly bitter scent of wisteria in a small blue glass bowl the ingredients for bombs readily available on the internet what vast intimacy we share