Contributors' Notes and Back Matter, The Iowa Review, 45/1 Spring 2015

Follow this and additional works at: https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview
Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.
Contributors’ Notes

Muhamed Abdelnaby is an Egyptian writer and translator.

The latest of Marvin Bell’s books are Vertigo: The Living Dead Man Poems (Copper Canyon); Whiteout, a collaboration with photographer Nathan Lyons (Lodima); and a children’s book based on the poem “A Primer about the Flag” (Candlewick). He lives in Iowa City, Iowa, and Port Townsend, Washington.

Photojournalist Mary F. Calvert’s photographic calling is documenting the underreported humanitarian struggle of women and children worldwide to secure the most basic human rights. She has been awarded the Robert F. Kennedy Journalism Award twice and was a finalist in 2007 and 2010 for the Pulitzer Prize in Feature Photography.

Michael Fessler is an American writer and teacher residing in Japan. His work has appeared in many journals and anthologies. He has published a collection of haiku, The Sweet Potato Sutra, and a text, Design and Discuss.

Vishwas R. Gaitonde spent his formative years in India and has lived in Britain and the United States. His work has appeared in Bellevue Literary Review, Mid-American Review, The Millions, Chariton Review, and Fifth Wednesday Journal. He contributes a monthly essay to the Prague Revue. His Twitter location is @weareji.

Loren Glass is a professor of English at the University of Iowa. His work focuses on American literature and culture of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. His books include Authors Inc.: Literary Celebrity in the Modern United States (NYU, 2004) and Counterculture Colophon: Grove Press, the Evergreen Review, and the Incorporation of the Avant-Garde (Stanford, 2013). He is currently editing an essay collection for the University of Iowa Press entitled After the Program Era.

Julie Henson lives in Lafayette, Indiana. Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in The Pinch, Yemassee, dislocate, Moon City Review, and others. She was a semifinalist in Boston Review’s 2014 Discovery poetry contest. Currently, she is the poetry editor of Sycamore Review. You can connect with her on Twitter (@heyjulies) or at juliemhenson.com.
Terry Hertzler has worked as a writer, editor, and teacher for more than thirty years. His poetry and short stories have appeared in The Writer, North American Review, Margie, Literal Latté, Nimrod, and Stand Up Poetry: An Expanded Anthology. He has published numerous chapbooks as well as two books of poetry and short fiction: The Way of the Snake and Second Skin. He has been nominated twice for a Pushcart Prize.

M.E. Hope currently lives and writes in Belgium. A recipient of a Fishtrap Fellowship, Playa Residency, and Individual Artist Fellowship from the Oregon Arts Commission, she spends her days watching the amazing Belgian Blue cattle and searching for the perfect cheese.

Daniel A. Hoyt’s first short-story collection, Then We Saw the Flames, won the Juniper Prize for Fiction and was published by University of Massachusetts Press. His stories are forthcoming or have appeared in the Missouri Review, the Cincinnati Review, and Gettysburg Review. He teaches and directs the creative writing program at Kansas State University.

Kevin Kopelson is a professor of English at the University of Iowa.

Rebecca Makkai’s forthcoming story collection, of which “The Museum of the Dearly Departed” is a part, will appear in July from Viking. Her novels are The Hundred-Year House and The Borrower, and her work has appeared four times in The Best American Short Stories.

Joyelle McSweeney’s most recent books are the play Dead Youth, or, The Leaks, winner of the Scalapino Prize for Innovative Women Playwrights, and The Necropastoral: Poetry, Media, Occults from the University of Michigan Poets on Poetry Series. She teaches at Notre Dame.

Christopher Merrill’s recent books include Boat (poetry), Necessities (prose poetry), and The Tree of the Doves: Ceremony, Expedition, War. He directs the International Writing Program at the University of Iowa.

Spenser Mestel graduated from Dartmouth College in 2011 and immediately flew to Cairo for a one-year fellowship at the American University of Cairo. He pretends New York City is home, hates deep space, and dreams of competing on American Ninja Warrior.
Anya Migdal has collaborated with Tatyana Tolstaya on several projects. Together they have translated Anton Chekhov’s Three Sisters and Alexander Vampilov’s classic play Last Summer in Chulimsk. Currently, Ms. Migdal is working on translating Aetherial Worlds, Ms. Tolstaya’s latest collection of short stories and essays.

Stacy L. Pearsall got her start as an Air Force photographer at the age of seventeen. She is only one of two women to win the National Press Photographers Association Military Photographer of the Year competition, and the only woman to have earned it twice. She has two books: Shooter: Combat from Behind the Camera and A Photojournalist’s Field Guide: In the Trenches with Combat Photographer Stacy Pearsall.

Dana Roeser is the author of The Theme of Tonight’s Party Has Been Changed, winner of the 2013 Juniper Prize. Her first two books, Beautiful Motion and In the Truth Room, both won the Morse Prize. She received an NEA fellowship in 2007. Recent work has appeared or is forthcoming in Green Mountains Review, Prairie Schooner, Laurel Review, the Southern Review, Sou’wester, and others.

Yuko Sakata’s stories have appeared in Zoetrope and the Missouri Review, where she was the winner of the Jeffrey E. Smith Editors’ Prize, and on Vice.com. A recipient of a fellowship from the MacDowell Colony, she holds an MFA in creative writing from the University of Wisconsin–Madison. She lives in New York City.

Katherine Schifani is a graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy and spent seven years on active duty in the Air Force. She is currently pursuing an MFA at Seattle Pacific University and lives in Colorado.

Tatyana Tolstaya lives in Moscow, where her most recent book, Aetherial Worlds, was published. Five of her books, including short story and essay collections and the novel The Slynx, have been translated into English.

Brian Van Reet is the recipient of a James Michener Fellowship and the Gulf Coast Prize in fiction. His writing has appeared in the Southern Review, the Missouri Review, the Washington Post, the New York Times, Fire and Forget: Short Stories from the Long War, and elsewhere. He served in Baghdad as a tank crewman in 2004–2005 and was awarded a Bronze Star with V Device. He lives in Austin with his wife.

G.C. Waldrep's most recent books are The Arcadia Project: North American Postmodern Pastoral, coedited with Joshua Corey, and a chapbook, Susquehanna. Waldrep lives in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, where he teaches at Bucknell University; edits the journal West Branch; and serves as editor-at-large for the Kenyon Review.

James W. Walley, Jr. is currently working on an MFA in creative writing at Syracuse University. “Hesco” is his first piece of published fiction. He is a veteran of combat operations in Iraq and Afghanistan and a terminal Lance Corporal in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Xu Xi is the author of nine books of fiction and essays, including Access Thirteen Tales, Habit of a Foreign Sky, and Evanescent Isles. Recent and forthcoming fiction, essays, and critical work appear in Water-Stone Review, Lake Effect, Ploughshares, Text, Four Quarters Magazine, The Letters Project, Silk Road, Ninth Letter, Kenyon Review, and elsewhere, as well as in several anthologies. She is currently Writer-in-Residence at City University of Hong Kong’s Department of English, where she established and directs Asia’s first low-residency MFA in creative writing that also focuses on writing of, from, and out of Asia. Find her at www.xuxiwriter.com or @xuxiwriter.
New Letters

Poetry • Fiction • Essay

$4,500 in Prizes
$1,500 for a Short Story
$1,500 for an Essay
$1,500 for 3-6 Poems

Deadline: May 18, 2015

Enter: Online or through postal mail.

Entry Fee: $20 (post), $25 (online), includes a one-year subscription, four issues.

New Letters Awards for Writers
University of Missouri-Kansas City
5101 Rockhill Road
Kansas City, MO 64110
newletters@umkc.edu
(816) 235-1169
Celebrating 39 Years

PUSHCART PRIZE 2015

“A continuation of the series’ noble and classic tradition.”

LIBRARY JOURNAL
on this edition
(starred review)

“One of the zestiest and most impressive installments in Pushcart’s proud reign as the most bountiful and exciting of literary harvests.”

BOOKLIST,
Donna Seaman
on this edition

“This annual volume tops all others ... the quality is exceptional; the diversity ditto.”

PUBLISHERS WEEKLY on this edition
(starred review)

AMERICA’S BEST FICTION, ESSAYS, MEMOIRS AND POETRY — 65 BRILLIANT SELECTIONS FROM HUNDREDS OF PRESSES

656 PAGES □ HARDBOUND $35.00 □ PAPERBACK $19.95
PUSHCART PRESS □ P.O. BOX 380 □ WAINSCOTT, NEW YORK 11975
ORDER FROM W. W. NORTON CO. □ 800 223-2584 □ WWW.PUSHCARTPRIZE.COM
IN THIS ISSUE
Muhammed Abdelnaby
Marvin Bell
Mary F. Calvert
Michael Fessler
Vishwas R. Gaitonde
Loren Glass
Julie Henson
Terry Hertzler
M.E. Hope
Daniel A. Hoyt
Kevin Kopelson
Mark Levine
Rebecca Makkai
Joyelle McSweeney
Spenser Mestel
Anya Migdal
Christopher Merrill
Stacy L. Pearsall
Adam O’Fallon Price
Dana Roesser
Yuko Sakata
Katherine Schifani
Tatyana Tolstaya
Brian Van Reet
G.C. Waldrep
James W. Walley, Jr.
Xu Xi

U.S. Army Second Lieutenant Jonathan Hicks attempts to access the upper levels of a building that was just recaptured from enemy insurgents in Baqubah, Iraq, on January 22, 2007. The staircase hangs precariously from the second story after being heavily bombed by American fighter jets during the battle to recover the key location. Hicks’s translator managed to climb the obstacle to be sure the entire building was free of enemy forces. Photograph by Stacy L. Pearsall. To see more of her work, turn to page 60.