

2016

[With my spittle, with my cipher]

Joyelle McSweeney

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

McSweeney, Joyelle. "[With my spittle, with my cipher]." The Iowa Review 46.1 (2016): 9 Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.7677>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

[With my spittle, with my cipher]

With my spittle, with my cipher
I roam the Martian surface. I'm a rogue, alone, a venial rover. I tap a vein.
Wind lifts, rides, wrecks nothing. Threshers lie down tangled in their tresses, trestles, mattocks, manglers, cloaks, felts, fustians, reapers, gleaners, because it's Fall. The season of decay. The sleepers make room in the grave. In my tread, I tote a grain, a mite, contaminants to subdivide and eat this fascia clean of life and featureless for ever. Deep Trench, abide. As earthly glaciers lie down in still waters of erasure.