GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS OF STYLE

Essays: Place the title two inches below the top of the page, the author's name two inches below the title, and the text two inches below the author's name. The affiliation of the contributor follows the essay.

Notes, Book Reviews, Bibliographies: These are configured like essays, except the author's name follows the work.

References: Follow The MLA Style Sheet, Second Edition. Mark references in the text with raised footnote numbers, not author-year citations in parentheses. Double-spaced endnotes should follow the essay on a new page headed "Notes."

Do not use Latin abbreviations for repeated citations. Do not condense the names of publishers or titles. Make references complete so a bibliography is unnecessary.

QUOTING AND CITING WALT WHITMAN'S WRITINGS

The standard edition of Whitman's work is The Collected Writings of Walt Whitman, twenty-two volumes published by the New York University Press under the general editorship of Gay Wilson Allen and Sculley Bradley. Citations and quotations from Whitman's writings should be keyed to the specific volumes in this edition whenever possible.

After the initial citation, contributors should abbreviate the titles of the Collected Writings in the endnotes as follows:

College Literature

FOR THE TEACHER...

FOR THE SCHOLAR...

- Who needs still another literary journal? Probably not you — if the new journal simply imitates established periodicals.

- Who needs College Literature? Quite possibly you — if you see yourself as a member of a professional guild whose contractual tasks make you a combined scholar-teacher, with considerable emphasis on teacher.

- Designed as a literary-pedagogical journal, College Literature publishes articles done by scholars and critics who deal with those literary works which are most commonly taught in American colleges and universities, those which form a loose canon of Western literary culture.

- College Literature is based firmly on the idea that substance precedes methodology. But it attempts from this point of view to bring the functions of scholarship, criticism, and teaching into mutual focus. Through the articles it publishes, it provides varied answers to an overriding question often ignored in literary publications: How can we directly use the special insights and information of bona fide experts in the actual teaching of classes?

- commentary about such theories or methods
- performance criticism which attempts to yield new insights into theatrical works

- articles which explore dramatic terms as they are used in fields outside the theatre
- investigations into the history of the subjects enumerated above
