Ode to February 9

Jen Hofer*
dizzy ardor, wheel, whir, you bird asymmetrical, slant, sure, unsure you night slow, you furl, fall, exacting into or towards, with, without and exact, blue like a new neck like suggestion like bats shattering the dirty blue river marbles not windows, hazy, elusive illustrious tremor thrilling, you shutter, feather you, fan, goldfinch or goldfish, flusterwing wingspan wicked lithe blue light, you hover, hustle, unsure, sure in a thousand blue pieces of providence, divine, embered, remember you a thousand peaches of ardor shimmying wondrously, plum-mouthed and hair full of shouts of shadows of ruthless magnificence stuttering up against this dizzy
