The chair of our nominations committee is Barbara Weissberger, and you may submit nominations to her at these addresses: Barbara F. Weissberger, Dept. of Foreign Languages & Literatures, Old Dominion University, Norfolk, VA 23529-0085; e-mail: bweissbe@odu.edu

CALL FOR PAPERS: MFF 31
Maternal Legacies: Female Medieval Scholars and the Academy

The spring 2001 issue of Medieval Feminist Forum will also be devoted to essays and biographical sketches that take as their focus the professional life-stories and legacies of female medieval scholars, both in the 19th and 20th centuries. Particularly welcomed are biographical articles and memoirs about "off-ladder" female medieval scholars as well as "on-ladder" medievalists who have made significant contributions to professional opportunities for women in our field. We are also interested in essays, theoretical or statistical, that address the politics of citation: who gets cited, and by whom. How does gender play a role in citational pressures? Deadline for submissions for spring: April 1, 2001. Send to Sarah Stanbury, Department of English, College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, MA 01610, or query sstanbury@holycross.edu.

Contributions on other topics of interest to readers of MFF are also welcomed.
CALL FOR PROPOSALS: NEW SMFS SUBSIDIA SERIES

In May 1999 the advisory board of the Society for Medieval Feminist Scholarship approved the launching of an occasional series, christened Subsidia. Subsidia issues will be produced and marketed in the same way as regular issues (obviously appearing less regularly). Proposals to edit individual issues of the series should be made by a member of SMFS to the Editors and Advisory Board in consultation with the Managing Editor and Book Review Editor.

We hope that the Subsidia series will meet various needs of the membership, allowing a forum for scholarship on focussed topics that are of a scope too substantial for an article and too short for a full-sized book.

If you would like to propose a Subsidia volume, please submit your proposal to Regina Psaki, Managing Editor, Medieval Feminist Forum, CSWS, 1201 University of Oregon, Eugene OR 97403-1201. She will forward it to the Advisory Board. Send queries to rpsaki@oregon.uoregon.edu or mff@oregon.uoregon.edu

TEACHING MEDIEVAL WOMEN’S HISTORY

The American Historical Association has published a pamphlet on teaching medieval women’s history, written by Judith Bennett. It is short (64 pages) and designed as a practical handbook for teachers who wish to cover medieval women in their courses.

The pamphlet discusses issues commonly encountered in the classroom: how historians have conceptualized the field in the past and present; what sorts of differences distinguished medieval women from each other; changes and continuities in women’s status during the Middle Ages and beyond; and ideologies of gender in the Middle Ages. It also gives advice on how to use concrete examples and biographies to help students think creatively about such specific issues as women and religion, the veneration of female virginity, misogyny, abortion and birth control, female mysticism, women’s work, lesbian sexualities, masculinities, and motherhood.

Focusing exclusively on English-language materials, it includes extensive references in the notes (where readers can find guidance on such specific subjects) and in an annotated general bibliography.

The Table of Contents runs as follows:
Introduction
  1. An Early and Still Influential Conceptualization of Medieval Women’s History
  2. Difference and Medieval Women
  3. Chronology: Women’s Status during the Middle Ages and Beyond
  4. Medieval Ideologies of Gender
  5. Real People and Abstract Topics in the Classroom
Conclusion
Notes
Bibliography

This pamphlet is published as part of a series on “Women’s and Gender History in Global Perspective.” The pamphlets on ancient and early modern Europe are not yet out. Each pamphlet costs $6 for AHA members; $8 for non-members. Ordering information can be found at the Association’s web site: http://www.theaha.org (go to “publications” and then to “how to order publications”).
