TOOLS UNDER DEVELOPMENT

What is ConservationSpace?

ConservationSpace is a web-based digital document management system developed specifically for the needs of conservators that marries the versatility of a word processor with the capabilities of a database. Manage all material associated with a cultural object all in one location. It also offers task and workflow management tools. The system is highly configurable and designed to interface with collection management systems.

TMS Conservation Studio Helps You Streamline Conservation Processes

Conservation Studio is an easy-to-navigate, web-based toolset that consolidates and supports every aspect of your day-to-day activities. Now you can easily access, share and update data throughout your organization.

Designed to match the way conservators work

Organize your conservation data around the tasks and timelines that matter most. Conservation Studio consolidates everything from project management and treatment data, to reports and images and media.

A BETTER WAY?
METADATA FOR DIGITAL OBJECTS

Descriptive
- For finding and understanding a resource

Structural
- Relationships of parts to one another and parts to a whole

Administrative
- Technical - For decoding and rendering files
- Preservation - Long-term management of files
- Rights - Intellectual property rights attached to content
PARALLEL CONVERSATIONS & STRUGGLES

Analog

• What happens with conservation documentation when a system has yet to be adopted?

Digital

• What happens with preservation metadata in the absence of a digital preservation repository?
