subject of “unification in history and the historical profession.” The year 1992 marks the quincentenary of the first Columbus voyage to America, and it will also mark the first formal steps toward the political integration of Europe. Both events merit reflection about unification as a theme and its consequences for the modern world. For more information, contact Jo Ann McNamara, Dept. of History, Hunter College, 695 Park Ave., New York, NY 10021. All program participants must be members of the AHA.

WOMEN IN FRENCH is an organization for individuals who wish to promote research on female Francophone authors, on women in Francophone literatures and in other domains of feminist literary criticism. WIF has recently been approved as an Affiliated Organization of MLA and so will organize sessions at the annual conference; it holds an annual business meeting at the December MLA. Women in French publishes a newsletter with announcements and bibliography of interest to feminist scholars. To become a member and receive the newsletter, send $5.00 to Emily Guignon, WIF Treasurer, 7827 Davis Drive, Clayton, MO 63105.

QUERY

†

DECLARIS MULIERIBUS: Margaret Ferguson would like to borrow a copy of a microfilm of the 1401 French translation of Boccaccio’s De Claris Mulieribus. She can be reached at the English Department, University of Colorado at Boulder.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

†

Kusche, Brigitte, Frauenaufklärung in Spätmittelalter: Eine philologisch-medizinhistorische Untersuchung und Edition des gynäkologisch-obstetricischen GKS 1657 Kopenhagen, Acta Universitatis Umensis (Stockholm: Almqvist & Wiksell International, 1990). Although the introduction is not particularly helpful, Kusche’s edition of this unique Middle Netherlandic gynecological text is an important addition to the fund of published medieval gynecological literature. There is no translation into a modern language, but the comprehensive glossary is valuable. Addressed to a female audience, the text is anonymous and is largely a translation from Latin sources, but a full source analysis remains to be done.

female physiology and disease found in the French translation of the Hippocratic Aphorisms made by Martin of Saint-Gille ca. 1365, with references to other French medical and scientific texts. Literary scholars having difficulty determining the exact meaning of words referring to the female body, childbirth, etc. (many of which are not found in French dictionaries) will find this study invaluable.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS

ABSHIRE, Janet L., English, SUNY-Binghamton, NY; medieval women writers; Chaucer
BENNETT, Helen, English, Eastern Kentucky Univ., Richmond, KY
BEST, Myra, Romance Studies, Cornell Univ., Ithaca, NY; medieval and Renaissance Italian literature
BIDDICK, Kathleen, History, Univ. of Notre Dame, Notre Dame IN; Western civilization; gender and technologies of power; genders, bodies, borders; postmodernism and medieval culture
BLACK, Nancy, English, Brooklyn College, NY; Chaucer; MS study; narratives of accused queens
BRYAN, Elizabeth, English, Brown Univ., Providence, RI; early Middle English (Layamon’s Brut, Katherine Group, Ancrene Riwle, MS studies, medieval textuality
CADDEN, Joan, History, Kenyon College, Gambier, OH; history of science and medicine
CAIN, Mary Anne, English, Univ. of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand
CAMPBELL-WRIGHT, Mary Anne, Tampa, FL (Purdue Univ. in absentia); Julian of Norwich
CHOLAKIAN, Rouben, Romance Langs., Hamilton College, Clinton, NY
DARIEN, Lisa, English, Univ. of California-Berkeley, CA; Old and Middle English, Old Norse
DAY, Mildred Leake, Gardendale, AZ; Editor, Quondam et futurus / A Journal of Arthurian Interpretations
EVEREST, Carol, English, Univ. of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada; Chaucer; history of medicine
EVERHART, Deborah Ann, English, UC-Irvine, CA
FRAIOLI, Deborah, French, Simmons College, Boston; Joan of Arc; collections of female biography; “defense of women” literature
FRESCO, Karen, French, Univ. of Illinois, Urbana, IL; Arthurian romance; lyric poetry; text editing
GARDNER, Frank C., English, Univ. of California-Santa Barbara; medieval English and medieval Latin literatures and cultures

26