years a valued assistant in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court at Des Moines. In May, 1878, she married John C. Kelley, then one of the editors of the Des Moines Leader. A few years later Mr. Kelley purchased the Sioux City Tribune, and they had since made that city their home. She was a lovely girl, a noble woman, esteemed by all who knew her. Her brother, Fred. Hill, was killed in the service at Yellow Bayou, La., in 1864.

Lucian Q. Hoggatt, an old settler of Story county, died at Ames, on the 11th of March, at eighty years of age. He was a native of Indiana, was a farmer and flat-boatman in early life. He had but a limited education, never attending school after he was thirteen years old. He was a lieutenant in the Mexican war and took part in the battle of Buena Vista. He served one term in the Indiana Legislature. In 1860 he came to Iowa and bought and settled on a tract of wild prairie near where Ames was afterwards built. He served four years as sheriff of Story county, and one term in the Iowa Legislature, as a member of the House in 1874. In 1878 he was the greenback candidate for Congress against Gov. C. C. Carpenter, who defeated him by 4,151 majority.

Franklin Folkett, one of the old settlers at Big Rock, Scott county, died recently from paralysis. He was born at Worthington, Massachusetts, in 1835, and when eighteen years of age came with his parents to Big Rock. When the rebellion broke out he enlisted in the Second Iowa Cavalry, and served three years and three months in that famous regiment. He was a gallant and patriotic soldier, always cheerfully doing his whole duty. As a citizen he was faithful and trustworthy, a modest, industrious farmer, typical of thousands of Iowa's noblest young men who left their homes in 1861-2 to risk their lives in defence of their country.

Mrs. Celia Wright Cleveland, eldest daughter of the late Gen. Ed Wright, died at her home in Des Moines on the 29th of February. She was born in Cedar county April 16, 1855, and came with her father and mother to this city in 1867. She was married to D. P. Cleveland in 1874, and they removed to Newark, Ohio, soon after. Her husband died there nine years ago, and in 1894 she returned to her father in this city with her two children. A sad sufferer during the illness of her distinguished father, she out-lived him a little more than two months.

Lyman Clark, one of the pioneers of 1856, died at Webster City on the 8th of March, at the age of sixty. Mr. Clark was a brave soldier of the 32nd Iowa Infantry and a most praiseworthy man. During his army service he contracted the disease from which he suffered until relieved by death. He was a successful business man, of the strictest integrity, and was highly esteemed by a wide circle of acquaintances.

Rev. Dr. Alexander Marshall died at Marion, on the 3rd of February. He had been pastor of the Presbyterian church there for more than forty years. He died esteemed and beloved by all who knew him. His entire mature life was devoted to the interests of his church, while not neglecting his duties as a citizen of the State he loved so well.
