CAROLINE AUGUSTA WHITE was born at Albany, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1824; she died at Lanark, Scotland, Nov. 9, 1903. This was the distinguished woman who in later years was known throughout the United States as Mrs. Caroline A. Soule, the journalist, magazine writer and author. She was twice married, first to Rev. Henry A. Soule, whose death left her a widow with five helpless children. She then sought literary work which soon made her one of the most celebrated American women. Her second husband was A. B. Holcomb, who settled in Boone, Iowa, where the family resided several years. At his death she was invited by friends to come to Scotland, where she spent the remainder of her life. She entered the ministry of the Universalist denomination, becoming the pastor of St. Paul's Church, Glasgow, Scotland, in which work she continued from 1879 to '92. She is well remembered by people throughout this country and especially so in central Iowa, where she was a pioneer.

CHAS. D. BEVINGTON was born in Holmes county, Ohio, in 1826; he died in Winterset, Iowa, Nov. 13, 1903. When a young man he joined the "49ers" in a search for gold in the far west. On his return trip he stopped in Madison county, near the present site of Winterset, and located there. He purchased many acres of land at a small figure and induced others to settle near. He became identified with the founding and growth of Winterset. In 1864 he organized the First National Bank, and was its president from that time until his death—an unusual service. He was president of the first company organized to build a railroad through Winterset. Mr. Bevington was a republican and took an active part in politics. He was county clerk in an early day, and was more than once Madison county's choice for Congress in the district conventions.

BENJ. T. FEEDIE was born in Fredericktown, O., Oct. 5, 1834; he died at San Diego, Cal., Nov. 4, 1903. He came to Marshalltown, Iowa, in 1855, where for many years he was known in that section of the State as a leading business man. For a time he was one of the directors of the First National Bank, and for several years was engaged in merchandising and in the management of an iron foundery. In 1882 he became a candidate for member of Congress in the 5th district against James Wilson. The seat was contested and was only given to him on the last day of the 48th Congress. He was re-elected in 1884, but defeated in 1886. The following year he removed to California, where he held the appointment of revenue collector under President Cleveland.

NORMAN BRUCE HOLBROOK was born in Somerset county, Pa., April 25, 1836; he died in Marengo, Iowa, Nov. 4, 1903. In 1857 he came to Iowa county, locating near Millersburg, where he taught school. In 1859 he was elected sheriff of the county, holding the office four years. For two years he owned and published The Iowa Valley Democrat. He was a member of the house of representatives in the 17th, 20th, 21st and 23d General Assemblies, elected as a democrat. For years he was identified with the official life of the town and county. He served as a member of the county board of supervisors, member of the town council, and of the school board. He organized the Marengo Savings Bank and for a long period was its president.

FRANK RUSSELL who was raised on a farm near Ft. Dodge, died about the 10th of November, at Kingman, Arizona, at the early age of 35 years. He was a graduate of the State University, where he was held in the highest esteem as a scholar and a man, and as an original and widely learned student of natural history. He entered Harvard University in 1895, from which institution he received the master's and the doctor's degree. He had spent some time in the Winnipeg country, and further north, in studying the natural history of those remote regions. He had latterly gone to Arizona in a vain pursuit of health. The death of this brilliant young Iowan was the occasion of sincere regret wherever he had become known.

SAMUEL B. DOWNING was born in Venango county, Pa., Feb. 4, 1825; he died near Drakesville, Iowa, Oct. 27, 1903. Mr. Downing came to Davis county in 1840, being one of the earliest settlers. He served two years in the Mexican war. He was one of the early abolitionists and voted for John C. Fremont in 1856. During the civil war he served as captain. He was a member of the house in the 18th and 19th General Assemblies, having been elected on the greenback ticket. In 1889 he was a candidate for governor on the union labor ticket. He was an ordained minister in the Christian church and preached many years for that denomination.

JOSEPH WORK was born in Clarke county, Indiana, Aug. 28, 1824; he died in Almena, Kansas, Sept. 24, 1903. Mr. Work first came to Iowa with his father in 1842, and was present at Agency City when the treaty with the Sac and Fox Indians was made in October, 1842. He returned to Indiana for a time, but in 1844 removed to Iowa, locating on a farm near Birmingham, Van Buren county. He remained in the State until 1894 when he removed to Kansas, where he resided until his death. Mr. Work was elected from Van Buren county to the 15th G. A., on what was then known as the Granger ticket.

LEMUEL PARKHURST was born in Ontario county, N. Y., Feb. 27, 1818; he died in Davenport, Iowa, Dec. 11, 1903. He came to the territory of Iowa in 1836 and at the time of his death was one of the best known men in the eastern part of the State. For thirty years he was engaged on the Mississippi river packet, serving as clerk and later as captain. In 1841 Mr. Parkhurst was elected assistant clerk of the House, in the 4th territorial legislature, the first to meet in Iowa City. He was for years deputy treasurer of Scott county and served on the Davenport city council.

PHINEAS F. STURGIS was born in Fayette county, Pa., December 7, 1830; he died at West Union, Iowa, February 8, 1903. He was a pioneer, settling in West Union in 1851, where he was a successful merchant. He served in the Iowa house of representatives in the session of 1864. As a member of the board of trustees of the College for the Blind, at Vinton, he rendered the State an excellent service, running through many years. He was an active republican politician and a close friend of Gov. William Larrabee, U. S. Senator James F. Wilson, and other leaders of the time.

FREDERICK HANCOCK was born in Luzerne county, Pa., Dec. 13, 1814; he died at Bentonport, Iowa, Oct. 4, 1903. He came to Van Buren county in 1838 and took up a claim near the present town of Bentonport. He continued to live near that place for the rest of his life. During the civil war he served as quartermaster, with rank of captain. Capt. Hancock was very prominent in politics at an early day. He was a member of the 7th and 8th territorial assemblies and was one of the last two surviving members who served in the territorial legislatures of Iowa.

GEORGE W. WAGNER was born in Washington township, Johnson county, Iowa, May 24, 1859; he died in Iowa City, Dec. 17, 1903. Mr. Wagner was one of the early citizens of the county, his father having settled there in 1846. He purchased a farm in 1879, which under his management became one of the finest in the county. He was a member of the House of Representatives in the 22d G. A., and as such did much for the interests of the State University.
