was a leading lawyer in Piscataquis county, and his four sons became strong members of the bar. All except the subject of this sketch, who was rejected on account of youth, fought in the Union Army. Mr. Clark taught school before leaving his native state, as also in the state of Illinois, whence he removed at the age of 20. He became a resident of Red Oak, Iowa, in 1866, where he engaged in teaching and reading law. On his admission to the bar, he entered the practice at Webster City with his brother, Charles A., at present Commander of the Iowa Department, Grand Army of the Republic. In 1869 he removed to Algona, where his home afterward remained. He was one of the strongest lawyers in northern Iowa. For a long time he served as the principal attorney for the Chicago, Milwaukee & Saint Paul Railway in that section. He was first married to Miss Lucy E. Hawkins, of St. Charles, Ill., in 1870, who died in 1875. He was again married to Miss Caroline A. Straw, of Maine, who survives.

A few days before his sudden death he had unveiled fine portraits of these two bishops in the Iowa Historical Art Gallery at Des Moines.
