Notes on contributors and back matter, The Iowa Review, v.18 no.2, Spring - Summer, 1988

JILL BIRDSALL is in the MFA program at Columbia University, where she is co-editor of Columbia Magazine. She is a reader for The Paris Review and has recently completed her first novel.

SUSAN BLAKE, who teaches English at Lafayette College, spent 1983–84 in Togo as a Fulbright lecturer. She is writing “Letters from Togo” while a Visiting Scholar at The University of Iowa’s University House.

ROBERT BOSWELL has published a novel, Crooked Hearts, and a collection of short stories, Dancing in the Movies. He was the recipient of the 1985 Iowa School of Letters Award for Short Fiction and a 1987 Writing fellowship from the NEA. He is an assistant professor of English at Northwestern University.

NEAL BOWERS is a professor of English at Iowa State University, where he edits Poet & Critic. His poems have recently appeared or are forthcoming in Hudson Review, Poetry, Southern Review, and elsewhere.

FREDERICK BUSCH’s most recent book is When People Published: Essays on Writers and Writing, published by The University of Iowa Press. His 1986 novel, Sometimes I Live in the Country, was recently issued in paper by NAL/Plume.

HANNA DAMASIO, whose work is on our cover, is a professor of neurology at The University of Iowa.

PETER FILKINS has recently published poems, essays, and translations in Partisan Review, The Iowa Review, Embers, Translation, and The New Criterion. He has held a Fulbright to Vienna and currently teaches English at North Adams State College.

CASEY FINCH’s poems have appeared in Ohio Review, Quarterly West, and Greenfield Review, among others. A translation of the complete works of the Gawain-poet is forthcoming from The University of California Press.
LAURENCE GOLDSTEIN teaches at the University of Michigan, where he edits Michigan Quarterly Review. His most recent books include The Three Gardens, published by Copper Beech Press, and The Flying Machine and Modern Literature, published by Indiana University Press.

RAY GRANT was born and raised in Chicago. He received his MFA in poetry at The University of Iowa. He is a contributing lyricist for a major record company.

MELISSA GREENE, a graduate of Oberlin College, is a freelance writer now residing in Atlanta, Georgia. She has written for The Atlantic, The Washington Post, The Georgia Review, and Country Journal.

DONALD J. GREINER is Carolina Research Professor of English at The University of South Carolina where he teaches American literature. Among his publications are books on Robert Frost, John Hawkes, and John Updike.

GREGOR HARTMANN lives in San Francisco with two cats and a computer named Lily.

DENNY HOBERMAN, a former contributor to this magazine, will be teaching Creative Writing this next year at Oberlin College.

MICHAEL MARTONE has lived in Iowa for the last eight years where, with his wife, Theresa Pappas, he published Story County Books. He edited A Place of Sense: Essays in Search of the Midwest for the University of Iowa Press.

BEA OPENGART received a 1986 Al Smith Kentucky Artists Fellowship and was a Fellow of The Virginia Center of the Creative Arts in 1986 and 1987. Her work has recently appeared in Cincinnati Poetry Review, Greensboro Review, and Southern Humanities Review.

ANN PATCHETT is from Tennessee. Her work has appeared in the Paris Review, Seventeen, and Columbia. She is currently the writer-in-residence at Allegheny College.

JEFF PROBST lives in Johannesburg and teaches at the Soweto College of Education. He is writing his first novel.

ANN STRUTHERS teaches at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Her collection of poetry, Stoneboat, is due soon from Pterodactyl Press.

RON TANNER is a 1986 graduate of the Iowa Writers’ Workshop and a 1987 Yaddo Fellow. His stories have appeared in Mid-American Review, Carolina Quarterly, New Orleans Review, and others.

HOOPER THORNE was born on an ice-floe and now lives near a town with an unlisted ZIP Code.

NANCE VAN WINCKEL recently received an NEA for 1988, and has a new collection of poems, Bad Girl, with Hawk, published by The University of Illinois Press.
"A Boy from Curve" is a fine and moving poem, a narrative recreation of the life of the poet's father. There is even more than this in the poem, however: there is here a delicate and exact evocation of a time and a place—the American scene of fifty and sixty years ago—and a whole community of figures who surround and define the life of Jimmy Arnold. Altogether an admirable achievement and a deeply moving accomplishment.
—James Olney; Editor, The Southern Review

Like Harriet Doerr's Stones for Ibarra, Jean Arnold's first book was written in the author's sixties, and brings to it the same richness of setting and maturity of voice. In The I of Me Now, she explores her southern childhood, her career as a physician, her love of music, nature, art, and people. Warmly, yet with a steady eye, Arnold confronts a lifetime of challenges, and reflects on a world of small delights.
—Mary Swander; Author and playwright, Driving the Body Back

JEAN ARNOLD was born in Memphis, Tennessee, but also lived in Kentucky and Alabama. She received degrees from Birmingham-Southern College and the Medical College of Alabama, and The University of Iowa. In 1986 she retired from the practice of psychiatry, and lives in Iowa City.

ORDER FROM: VIA, P.O. Box 704, Iowa City, IA 52244.
Add $2.00 postage and handling.
Seneca Review
Vol. XVIII, No. 1

New Poems by

Robert Bradley James McKean
Betsy Brown G.E. Murray
Carl Dennis Robert Pack
John Drexel Molly Peacock
James Frazee James Reiss
Barbara Goldberg Pentti Saarikoski
Mark Irwin (Stephen Kuusisto, Translator)
Geraldine C. Little Maurya Simon
Dionisio Martinez Eleanor Ross Taylor
James McCorkle David Weiss
Barbara Goldberg Pentti Saarikoski

And an Essay on Nanao Sakaki by Stephen Kuusisto

Please send me
__________ copy/copies of Vol. XVIII, No. 1 at $3.50 each.

Please enter my subscription for ________ year(s) beginning with issue _________. (Rates: $6/year; $10/2 years. Seneca Review is published twice yearly, spring and fall.)

Make check payable to Seneca Review, and mail orders to Deborah Tall, Editor, Seneca Review, Hobart & William Smith Colleges, Geneva, NY 14456.

Name ________________________________________________

Address ________________________________________________
If you’ve missed the Southwest Review in the past few years, you’ve also missed:

Don’t miss it, or them, any longer.
Subscribe now.

☐ $16/year  ☐ $32/two years  ☐ $40/three years
Institutions: $20 per year
Foreign: Add $3.50 per year for surface mail

Name ____________________________
Address (with zip) ____________________________

I enclose $ ___________________ (Individuals please send payment with order)
Free introductory issue with multi-year subscriptions.

Southwest Review, 6410 Airline Road, Southern Methodist University,
Dallas, Texas 75275  (214) 373-7440
Among the magazines where you are most likely to find work that wins further notice. . . .

(LIBRARY JOURNAL, 2/15, 1987)

Among selections in our next few issues: Interviews with Kenneth Burke, Mary Oppen, and Frederick Busch; a feature on Marianne Moore including an essay on her painting; a memoir of Nelson Algren as teacher, poker player, and role model; a long poem by Donald Hall; essays on Frost and Williams, Joyce's Sirens, John Cage, Moscow and Grace, graffiti in caves, Italo Calvino and the Talking Heads; Phyllis Rose, David Ray, Laura Jensen, Stuart Friebert, Elizabeth Spires, Leonard Harrison, Marilyn Krysl, Marianne Boruch, Robert Boswell, Sven Birkerts, Michael Burkard, Ray Grant, Richard Kostelanetz, R. M. Berry, Robin Behn, Bea Opengart, Ehud Havazelet, Thomas Lux, Zona Teti, Chard deNiord, Jennifer Atkinson, Robert Wexelblatt, James Solheim, Gerald Early. . . .
"My subject is war and the pity of war."
—WILFRED OWEN

Year by year, from the heady patriotism of August 1914 to the last war-weary moments before the final cease fire more than four years later, The War Poets reveals the innermost thoughts and feelings of a seminal group of poets (including Robert Graves and Wilfred Owen) who gave voice to the aspirations of a doomed generation. Each chapter contains a commentary that puts the work of the poets into the context of the time, plus a carefully-chosen selection of the actual poems themselves. Contemporary paintings by war artists, such as Nash and Spencer, cartoons, memorabilia and dramatic photographs provide a fascinating visual insight, which amplifies the record of the war years the text contains.

The WAR POETS
The Lives and Writings of Rupert Brooke, Robert Graves, Wilfred Owen, Siegfried Sassoon, Edmund Blunden, and the other Great Poets of the 1914–1918 War.

by ROBERT GIDDINGS

$24.95. Now at your bookstore
The one hundred and twenty-nine sessions of the meeting will include:

- announcement of the third Annual M/MLA Book Award winner
- lectures by Catharine Stimpson and Thomas Flanagan
- jazz performance and lecture by Jean Kittrell

Host Institutions:
University of Missouri-St. Louis and Washington University

The M/MLA ANNUAL MEETING offers something special. Papers aren’t read aloud; they’re discussed. Authors submit papers in time for M/MLA to distribute them to meeting registrants in advance. Our convention format creates an optimum environment for sharing new ideas and exchanging substantive points of view.

Members will receive program information and registration materials in September. Annual dues for membership in the Association, which includes subscription to The Journal of the M/MLA and the Newsletter, are $15 for full professors, associate professors, and administrative personnel; $12 for assistant professors, instructors, and school teachers; $8 for students, retired, and unemployed persons. Joint memberships are $20. Annual Meeting pre-registration fee is $20; on-site registration is $25. To register and/or apply for membership, write to: Executive Director, M/MLA, 302 English/Philosophy Building, The University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa 52242.
Woman of the River
Claribel Alegría

One of the major voices in Latin American poetry confronts the realities of contemporary Central America. Political, direct, and condemnatory of the United States’s presence in Latin America, these are rich human documents rooted in Alegría’s knowledge of and love for her subjects.

January 1989 / $16.95 cloth, $8.95 paper

Also by Alegría: Flowers from the Volcano, translated by Carolyn Forche
$16.95 cloth, $8.95 paper

Torque
David Rivard

Winner of the 1987 Agnes Lynch Starrett Poetry Prize

Chosen from 850 manuscripts as the winner of the annual Starrett competition for a first book of poems. “The best of these poems are deeply moving and combine a fine ear for contemporary idiom with a startling narrative gift: wonderful stories wonderfully told, and thought about, and made into poetry”—Michael Ryan

October 1988 / $16.95 cloth, $8.95 paper

The Niobe Poems
Kate Daniels

The second book from the author of The White Wave, winner of the 1983 Agnes Lynch Starrett Poetry Prize. Daniels taps the lasting power of the Niobe myth in poems about personal loss and political insanity.

November 1988 / $16.95 cloth, $8.95 paper

Available at your bookseller or call toll-free 800-666-2211.