Garden

Warren Slesinger

Follow this and additional works at: https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.4109

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.
Three Poems · Warren Slesinger

GARDEN

garden (gar.den) n-s 1. A plot for the cultivation of plants, i.e. fruits, flowers and vegetables for household use: a garden white and green with blossoming pole beans and cabbage butterflies above the rows of rounding leaves. 2. Of a familiar kind: a quote from the garden of a favorite poem. 3. Commonplace: your garden variety of that squatty amphibian with the warty skin; an interloper that sits on its tailless and terrestrial rump, its webbed toes spread in the freshly spaded dirt; the image of bug-eyed immobility until the mouth opens and the tongue is flipped with a snap of satisfaction at the tip. 4. The poem: a real toad in an imaginary garden: “guh-guh-gowrrrrrr.”

ANHEDONIA

Anhedonia n. 1. A county without a seat in rural Georgia. 2. The mountain view of home where the sense of things shimmers with absence, gray opaqueness and stillness. 3. The apprehension of a fall from a height or grace. 4. A lapsed Baptist’s suspicion that Jesus is really suspended on a lower case t. 5. The transcription of a sneeze in the snow and freezing rain by Roger Sauls, the local poet coming down with a headcold in the hard weather.