Notes on Contributors

RICHARD ARNO has been translating Gozo Yoshimasu’s poetry for several years. His translations have appeared in anthologies, including the Selected Poems.

JANE ASSIMAKOPOULOS is a translator and publisher who lives in Greece. CHRISTOPHER BUCKLEY’s recent books include Dark Matter, poetry from Copper Beech Press, Cruising State, creative nonfiction from the University of Nevada Press, and What Will Suffice: The Ars Poetica in Contemporary American Poetry, an anthology co-edited with Christopher Merrill from Peregrine Smith Books.

MARILYN CHIN’s books of poems are: The Phoenix Gone, The Terrace Empty (winner of the 1994 PEN-Oakland Josephine Miles Award) and Dwarf Bamboo. In July of 1995 she was featured on Bill Moyers’s PBS series “The Language of Life.” She teaches in the MFA program at San Diego State University.

ROBERT DANA’s next book will be Hello, Stranger (Anhinga Press), a gathering of beach poems both old and new. Recently retired from a 40-year teaching career at Cornell College where he was both Professor of English and Poet-in-Residence. He will be distinguished Visiting Poet at Stockholm University this spring.

STAVROS DELIGIORGIS teaches at The University of Iowa.

GREGORY DJANIKIAN’s third book of poems, About Distance, has been published by Carnegie Mellon. He is the director of the Creative Writing Program at the University of Pennsylvania.

SCOTT DONALDSON is the author of five literary biographies including Fool for Love, F. Scott Fitzgerald.

PATRICIA EAKINS is the author of The Hungry Girls and Other Stories (Cadmus Editions, 1988). She has received two fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, was the 1992 writer-in-residence of the Woodstock Guild, and is the director of Readings in Heaven (NYC).

LAURENCE GOLDSTEIN is the author of three books of poetry, most recently Cold Reading (Copper Beech Press, 1995), and three books of criticism, most recently The American Poet at the Movies (University of Michigan Press, 1994). He is professor of English at the University of Michigan, where he edits Michigan Quarterly Review.

SABINE GÖLZ is Associate Professor of Comparative Literature and German at The University of Iowa. Her book entitled The Split Scene of Reading: The Closure of Recursive Writing in the Eventuality of Consciousness is forthcoming from Humanities Press. Together with Oleg Timofeyev, she has also translated two essays by the Russian 19th century mathematician Sofia Kovalevskaya, forthcoming this spring in Substance.

GOZO YOSHIMASU has published over twelve books of poetry and prose and has been recipient of four major literary awards in Japan. His poetry has been translated into several languages. In the U.S. he has published Yoshimasu Gozo, Selected Poems and Osiris, the God of Stone.

DEWITT HENRY is the founding editor of Ploughshares and until recently its Executive Director. He teaches at Emerson College. Returning to Squaw Valley this year, he witnessed the bungee jump of novelist Ron Hansen.

RICHARD HOLINGER is working on a collection of short shorts titled “Chicago Eyes.” Recent reviews have appeared in The North Stone Review and ACM; recent poetry has appeared in The Ledge and The Southern Poetry Review. He lives in Geneva, Illinois, and teaches at Marmion Academy in Aurora.

JOHN HOLLOW liked writing about the popular culture that shaped him. “That Life, That Death,” his last article, indulges his affections for airplanes, old movies, and the personal essay.

COLETTE INEZ's latest book of poems is Getting Underway: New and Selected (Storyline Press, 1993). She teaches poetry at the Writing Program at Columbia University and reads her work around the country.

X. J. KENNEDY’s recent books include Dark Horses: New Poems (Johns Hopkins), Literature: Sixth Edition (with Dana Gioia; HarperCollins), paperback reprints of Nude Descending a Staircase (Carnegie Mellon) and Brats (Simon & Schuster).

DANIEL LABEAU is a poet and former editor (Sonora Review) from Tucson, Arizona. He is currently collaborating on a long work of adventure fiction with Ishmael Klein and teaching comedy in Iowa.

ALFRED LÓPEZ is a PhD candidate in the Department of English at The University of Iowa, a first generation Cuban-American, and a native Bahamian.

SARA LONDON is a former managing editor of TIR. Her poems have appeared in The Hudson Review, Carolina Quarterly, the Michigan Quarterly Review, and elsewhere.

JERRY McGAHAN lives with his wife, Janet, and two daughters along the Jocko River in western Montana. They raise bees, produce honey and beeswax lotion, and garden. In the mornings Janet paints in oil and pastel, and Jerry works on fiction.

KATHERINE PRICE's poems and essays have appeared in several literary magazines. She writes and teaches in Iowa City, and contemplates moving to Asia, where she will do more of the same.

MAUREEN SEATON's latest book, Furious Cooking, won the Iowa Prize and is forthcoming from The University of Iowa Press early in 1996. She is the recipient of an NEA and an Illinois Arts Council grant. Her two previous collections are The Sea Among the Cupboards (New Rivers, 1992), winner of the Capricorn Award, and Fear of Subways (The Eighth Mountain Press, 1991), winner of the Eighth Mountain Poetry Prize.

RICHARD STERN's novels include Golk, Stitch, Other Men's Daughters, Natural Shocks, A Father's Words, and In Any Case (or The Chaleur Network). For them he received the Medal of Merit from the American Academy of Arts and Letters. His Sistermony received the Heartland Prize for best nonfiction book of 1995.

CLIFF THOMPSON was born in Washington, D.C., graduated from Oberlin College, and lives with his wife and daughter in Brooklyn, New York. He is an associate editor at Current Biography. One of his short stories can be found in Breaking Ice, the fiction anthology edited by Terry McMillan.
OLEG TIMOFYEYEV holds an MS in Technical Cybernetics from the Moscow Institute of Chemical Engineering, an MA in Early Music Performance from the University of Southern California, and an MA in Performance Practice from Duke University.

JANE O. WAYNE's collection of poems, Revisions on a Postcard, was awarded the Marianne Moore Poetry Prize and will be published by Helicon Nine Editions, and her earlier book, Looking Both Ways (MO Press), received the Devins Award. Her work has appeared in Poetry, Ploughshares, Massachusetts Review, and American Scholar, among others.

GLEN WELDON is currently in his second year at the Iowa Writers’ Workshop. His fiction has appeared in Story, Quarterly West, The Philadelphia Inquirer Magazine, The Cream City Review, Sun Dog: The Southeast Review, and several other magazines. He received a 1994 Pew Fellowship in the Arts for Fiction, and two Pushcart nominations. His work is featured in the anthology Sudden Fiction Continued, due in April 1996 from Norton.

FREDRICK WOODARD, Associate Professor, Department of English, The University of Iowa, teaches literature and expository writing, and is chairman of the Program in African American World Studies.

CAROLYNE WRIGHT's poems, book review, prose narratives, and translations have appeared in several past issues of TIR. Her collection of translations of Bangladeshi feminist writer in exile Taslima Nasrin, The Game in Reverse: Poems by Taslima Nasrin, was published by George Braziller, Inc. in 1995. A volume of translated West Bengali poetry, Another Spring, Darkness: Poems of Anuradha Mahapatra, appears in 1996 from Calyx Books; some of these translations were first published in TIR volume 19/2 in 1988. Wright is a 1995-96 Visiting Scholar at the Wellesley College Center for Research on Women. She received the 1995 Crossing Boundaries Award for Nonfiction from International Quarterly.

PAUL ZIMMER has published eleven books of poetry, including Family Reunion (University of Pittsburgh Press, 1985), which won an Award for Literature from the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters. Others include The Great Bird of Love (University of Illinois Press, 1989), which was selected by William Stafford for the National Poetry Series, Big Blue Train (University of Arkansas Press, 1993), and Crossing to Sunlight: Selected Poems, 1965-1995, which will be published by the University of Georgia Press in the spring of 1996.

Chain is an interdisciplinary journal of creative arts. It includes work by emerging artists and writers, with particular attention paid to work by women. The mission of Chain is to expose how traditional, seemingly "objective"/neutral presentations of art and writing lock out particular voices, with the hope of simultaneously creating a forum where those voices will no longer be marginalized. Special topics have included "Gender and Editing," "Documentary" and "Hybrid Genres/Multimedia."

Chain / 3: Hybrid Genres and Mixed Media
This issue features work that challenges the limitations of genre. It will address questions such as: what determines the boundaries of genre? what causes a work to be considered without or outside of genre? what happens in terms of reader/viewer reception when multiple genres are apparent within one work? Features work by Mac Adams, Will Alexander, Norma Cole and Michael Palmer, Johanna Drucker and Brad Freeman, Susan Gevirtz, Janie Geiser, Lyn Hejinian and Travis Ortiz, Kathy High, Fanny Howe, Alystyre Julian, Pamela Lu, Sianne Ngai, Jerome McGann, Eve Andrée Laramée, Steve McCaffery, Nick Piombino, Gail Sher, Janet Zweig, and many others.

The Most Honored Literary Series in America Celebrates Two Decades of Continuous Publication

THE PUSHCART PRIZE XX 1996

Best of the Small Presses

20th Anniversary Edition

Edited by Bill Henderson with the Pushcart Prize editors

This book is essential.

Library Journal

Those who despair of finding good writing in mass media America need look no further than the Pushcart Prize.

Booklist

Of inestimable value... as intelligent an introduction and thoroughly enjoyable a sampling as one can find.

Village Voice

Striking in its literary breadth and accomplishment... There is so much to choose from here that readers may not want to choose at all — they can just read on and on and on.

Publishers Weekly (starred review)

The single best measure of the state of affairs in American literature today.

New York Times Book Review

The range and amount of good writing in this volume defy anyone's attempts at representation and summary.

World Literature Today

An invaluable guide.

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) Mar 7, 1991 -- Dutch rail commuters couldn't believe their eyes when a zebra galloped into the station instead of their morning train, a zoo spokesman says.

Vandals broke into Zebra Mike's stables at Blijdorp Zoo Tuesday and frightened the 2-year-old animal so badly that it jumped a 6-foot-high fence, spokesman Kuno Blijenberg said Wednesday.

Mike ran onto a nearby railway line and "galloped a kilometer (mile) or so along the tracks, straight into (Rotterdam) Central Station," Blijenberg said.

"You can't say he wasn't noticed," he said.

Contemporary Indian Literatures

"Fresh news from old geographies."
—Voice Literary Supplement

The richness and vitality of contemporary writing in India has never been so fully represented as in our recent special issue. Designed to convey new developments along with ongoing traditions, the issue brings together the works of fifty-five authors in translation from thirteen languages as well as new works in English. You'll find new poems from Meena Alexander, Agha Shahid Ali, and Rukmini Bhaya Nair, fiction by Shashi Tharoor and Satyajit Ray, translations by Vinay Dharwadker and A. K. Ramanujan, and much more. Order now and see why this anthology is being taught from Berkeley to Calcutta. 239 pages. $7.

A North Pacific Rim Reader

This anthology addresses the living multiculturalism of the North Pacific Rim in the wake of the region’s emergence as a booming capitalist economy. A North Pacific Rim Reader presents writers working from within—and blending—a variety of cultural traditions in ways that might challenge the impending monoculturalism of the mercantile Pacific Rim order. Over one hundred contributors have been brought together under five geographical areas—North America-Southwest Coast, North America-Northwest Coast, Pacific Basin (Hawai‘i), Northeast Asia, and China and Taiwan—so as to provide a broad cultural landscape of this changing region. 314 pages. $7.

“Chicago Review is committed to diversity. This commitment, along with an editorial insistence on provocative, engaging writing, distinguishes the Review from many other literary publications in circulation today.”
