More than one hundred poems that offer both a retrospective and current look at the work of Paul Zimmer.

"I'm happy reading poems by Paul Zimmer, new poems or older poems, it makes no difference since the new poems become old friends immediately."—James Tate

"I turn again and again to Paul Zimmer's poetry to remind myself what the essence of all literary art is: the moment."—Robert Olen Butler

"I don't know anything in recent poetry that can match its shrewd humor and tonic high spirits."—Raymond Carver

"Zimmer's poems are lucid and bright."—Maxine Kumin

"The poet's playfulness with his own persona is unflagging and stylish."—Susan Sontag

Hard Choices
An "Iowa Review" Reader
EDITED BY DAVID HAMILTON

For twenty-five years, the Iowa Review has published many of America's finest writers, often helping them become established in their careers. From Tillie Olsen and William Stafford in the first volume to James Galvin and Pattiann Rogers in the twenty-fourth, the names and voices are recognizable and respected or soon will be. As editor David Hamilton notes in his introduction to this eclectic anniversary volume of nearly eighty poems and stories, "To a considerable extent we have defined ourselves by them; thus Hard Choices, a generous sampling of the best and most interesting writing from the Iowa Review's first years, defines the past and the future of American literature."
