THE WILL OF NAOMI L. DAVENPORT

In point of money the most notable bequest to our institution yet occurring is that of the late Naomi L. Davenport, of Davenport, Iowa. In other respects it is among the few most notable.

Miss Davenport was a daughter of George L. Davenport, a son of Colonel George Davenport, the noted pioneer for whom Antoine Le Claire, his friend, named the city of Davenport.

The genesis of Miss Davenport’s purpose, and the will and codicil, appear in the correspondence with Mr. Connelly, her attorney.

Dear Misses Davenport—

I am delighted with having learned that there is in existence a portrait in oil of your distinguished ancestor, Colonel George Davenport, and that it is in your appreciative keeping. I do not believe I so much desire to learn the appearance of any man noted in the formative days of our state as I do to learn that of Colonel Davenport. I believe my interest is the same as that of thoughtful men of my generation the state over, and that it will be a common interest so long as study of Iowa history is encouraged. This, let us hope, will be always.

I trust I may not be mistaken in believing that you have also preserved much in the way of manuscripts, parchments, books, and papers that would aid in studying him and his descendants as you would like to do, were you without the verbal accounts and traditions from which we all as children best know our forbears.

May I suggest that this institution is most anxious to share the pleasure and responsibility of transmitting the memory of Iowa’s best men to the remotest future, and that the service you are performing as custodian of your grandfather’s portrait, and probably of his and others’ documentary remains, is one we also are glad to perform? If your beautiful city has honored your family by bearing your name, I feel that the state of Iowa owes you the distinction of an invitation to place in this beautiful fire-proof building the portrait and any other memento you please, here to be preserved in your name for all time.
May I not hear from you and further explain any detail that may be of interest to you? It is an enterprise of love, a tribute possible at the sole cost of the state, and I am honored in the authority to invite you.

Sincerely yours,

(Sig.) E. R. Harlan.

Misses Naomi and Kittie Davenport,
Davenport, Iowa.

Miss Davenport did not reply. No communication was ever sent to her by our institution afterward unless the following are regarded from and to her.

Dear Sir:

Will you kindly mail me a copy of your constitution and by-laws and such other descriptive literature that I may be fully advised regarding your Society and the conditions upon which gifts, etc., may be made to the Society.

I make this request on behalf of a resident of Iowa of many years. Thanking you in advance, I remain,

Very truly yours,

(Sig.) B. D. Connell.

My dear Sir:

Our institution is a subdivision of the State Government, established and maintained by statute, and devoted to the acquisition and preservation of materials which illustrate the lives of men and women in the Mississippi Valley, either as individuals or when associated in any of the laudable social enterprises.

The institution has a large, classic, fire-proof building, accepts gifts and loans in commemoration of those making gifts and in whose names they are given. It has millions of private letters from the earliest days of the settlements in the Mississippi Valley to the present time—from the European countries from which our immigration came, from the fields of battle in all the wars, and from California, Alaska and other scenes of gold excitement. We are the official repository of the archives of the state and all the correspondence of the governors and other officials from the earliest to the present times. A collection of newspapers embracing the almost complete file of one or more publications from each county is on our shelves and catalogued. Thus we maintain that from the various sources we have practically a correct and complete repository of the source materials of Iowa history.

I should be glad to know the details of your proposition and to help along in any way I can.

Sincerely yours,

(Sig.) E. R. Harlan.

WHY WE ARE "THE HAWKEYES"

Numerous versions of the origin of "Hawkeye" are encountered by the student of Iowa history, but it remained for Miss Delia M. Rorer of Burlington, Iowa, to afford us the reason, background, method and medium, all in a single assemblage of clippings from newspapers, selected and arranged by her father. He was the late eminent and brilliant David Rorer of the territorial and early Iowa state bar. He was a discerner of origins of state nicknames. He was a mature and substantial citizen of Arkansas, the "Bear State," at or near the time when inadvertently the solid character of the citizenship of Illinois and Missouri became derisively "Suckers" and "Pukes." Judge Rorer was of the John Marshall quality of lawyer. He had innate humor and was inclined to practical joking. He resembled in his employment of fun that trait of Lincoln which secured him in the public affections. He applied the legal maxim, "The one who is awake, not him who sleeps, the law will help," and occupied with finest motives the open opportunity to give the new territory its nickname. He induced sufficient acrimony over it to fix it in universal use.
