Notes on contributors and back matter, The Iowa Review, v.39 no.2, Fall, 2009

Follow this and additional works at: https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

ZED ANDER is an occasional contributor to The Iowa Review.

MARVIN BELL’s nineteenth book was the wartime collection, Mars Being Red (Copper Canyon, 2007). His twentieth is a collaboration of seven poets from five countries written over four days (Trinity University Press, 2009).

JOHN BENSKO’s four books include The Iron City (poems, University of Illinois Press) and Sea Dogs (stories, Graywolf Press). He teaches in the MFA program at the University of Memphis.

JOE BLAIR is a union pipefitter. He has one wife, four children, and a dog named D’Artagnan. He’s a graduate of the University of Iowa’s Nonfiction Writing Program.

FLEDA BROWN’s newest collection of poems, Reunion (University of Wisconsin Press, 2007), won the Felix Pollak Prize. She has a collection of essays, Driving with Dvorak, forthcoming from the University of Nebraska Press in spring 2010. She was poet laureate of Delaware from 2001 to 2007 and currently teaches in the Rainier Writing Workshop low-residency MFA program in Tacoma, Washington.

BRADLEY COOK attends the MFA program at Boise State University where he also serves as the assistant editor for The Idaho Review. He is currently completing his debut novel. “My Mother’s Party” is his first published story.

BARBARA ECKSTEIN has temporarily left the English Department at the University of Iowa to serve as Associate Provost for Academic Administration. Her interest is the role of storytelling in the production of space.

PETER FILKINS is the author of two books of poetry, What She Knew and After Homer. He teaches at Bard College at Simon’s Rock.
MARGARET GIBSON is the author of nine books of poems, all from LSU Press, most recently One Body (2007). The Prodigal Daughter, a memoir, was published in 2008 by University of Missouri Press. She lives near the Shetucket River in Preston, CT.

ALBERT GOLDBARTH's collections of poetry have twice received the National Book Critics Circle Award. His current title is To Be Read in 500 Years (Graywolf Press).

LOWELL JAEGER teaches creative writing at Flathead Valley Community College in Kalispell, Montana. His third collection of poems, Suddenly Out of a Long Sleep, was published by Arctos Press in 2008. Currently Jaeger serves as the editor of Many Voices Press and is busy compiling New Poets of the American West, an anthology of poets from western states.

JENNY KERN lives in Los Angeles where she acts, auditions, waits tables, and birdwatches. This is her first poem published.

JOHN KINSELLA's most recent volume of poetry is Divine Comedy: Journeys Through a Regional Geography (W.W. Norton, 2009). He has recently edited The Penguin Anthology of Australian Poetry (Penguin, 2009).

LISA KNOPP is the author of four collections of essays, most recently Interior Places (2008) from the University of Nebraska Press. Currently she's writing a book about rivers, which includes "No Other River." She is an associate professor of English at The University of Nebraska–Omaha and visiting faculty member at Goucher College's low-residency MFA in creative nonfiction.

MIKLAVŽ KOMELJ (b. 1973) received his PhD in Art History from the University of Ljubljana. The author of five collections of poetry, two of which won the Veronika Prize and the Jenko Prize, Komelj also writes art reviews and essays, translates into Slovene, and writes poetry for children.

AMY LEACH has an MFA in creative nonfiction from the University of Iowa. She received a Rona Jaffe Award in 2008, and her essays

Nate McKean lives and writes in the Five-Minute-Flood-Plain in Iowa's Cedar River bottom. He holds a MFA in nonfiction from the University of Iowa, an MS in environmental studies from the University of Montana, and an MA in poetry writing from the University of Northern Iowa.

Philip Miller has an MFA in art from the University of Iowa and has notebook after notebook of very finely lined drawings. The piece in this issue is a scrollwork pen-and-ink drawing based on lunar cycles; its dimensions are 24 by 120 inches.

Christopher Morris is an associate professor of history at the University of Texas at Arlington. His book, A Big Muddy River Runs Through It: An Environmental History of the Lower Mississippi Valley from Hernando de Soto to Hurricane Katrina, will be published by Oxford University Press in 2010. He lives with his family in Dallas, Texas.

Cornelia F. Mutel has written or edited a dozen books, most on natural history. She is a historian of science and archivist at IIHR–Hydroscience and Engineering at the University of Iowa, and she also writes for the university's global change center.

Ashleigh Pedersen earned an MFA in fiction writing from the University of Pittsburgh, where the winters are blustery and the beer flows like water. At present, she is writing her first novel.

Having kept a journal for most of her life, Dianna Penny finds that "writing it down" tends to sharpen her memory of events and details. She also credits her late father, a pastor and avid storyteller, for the gift of a rich family oral history.

Anat Pick began her career as a pianist, eventually branching out to develop a repertoire of innovative language-oriented performances involving a variety of forms, including spoken word and free-improvisation. Pick has given concerts across Israel, the Far East, and Europe.
E. KEENE earned an MFA from the University of Iowa's Nonfiction Writing Program and, for the time being, prefers writing about Iowa. Past undertakings involve directing dance companies, working with homeless teens, teaching yoga, and mothering four daughters. What E. Keene usually leaves off in the telling is how she prefers the virginal novelty of dawn, favors foreign movies and, if given the chance, will steal a lick of your ice cream.

LAURA RIGAL grew up in Waterville, on the Maumee River in northwest Ohio. She teaches American Studies and English at the University of Iowa and is the author of The American Manufactory (Princeton Univ. Press, 1998), as well as essays in Common-place, American Literary History, and the Wapsipinicon Almanac.

PATTIANN ROGERS has published thirteen books. The most recent are Wayfare, in 2008, and Generations, in 2004, both from Penguin; and Firekeeper, Selected Poems, New and Revised Edition from Milkweed Editions in 2005. Among other awards, Rogers has received five Pushcart Prizes and the Literary Award from the Lannan Foundation. She has two sons and three grandsons, and lives with her husband in Castle Rock, Colorado.

LAURA SAYRE is a scholar and journalist focusing on sustainable agriculture topics. A former senior writer and editor for The New Farm (www.NewFarm.org), she holds a PhD in English from Princeton University and spent the past year as a research fellow with Yale University's Program in Agrarian Studies. She is currently working on a book about the georgic.

ROBERT F. SAYRE taught in the University of Iowa English Department from 1965 to 1998. He also served as a member of the Advisory Board of the Aldo Leopold Center for Sustainable Agriculture at Iowa State University. He is the editor of Take This Exit: Rediscovering the Iowa Landscape (1989); Recovering the Prairie (1999), and Take the Next Exit (2000).

DENNIS SCHMITZ'S most recent books are We Weep for Our Strangeness (Carnegie-Mellon reissue, 2008) and The Truth Squad (Copper Canyon, 2002).
ROBERT STEWART's books include Outside Language: Essays (finalist for PEN Center USA Awards for 2004 and winner of the Thorpe Menn Award), Plumbers (poems), and others. He co-edited the collection New American Essays (New Letters/BkMk Press, 2006) and is the editor of New Letters magazine, which won a 2008 National Magazine Award.

DAVID WAGONER has published 18 books of poems, most recently A Map of the Night (U. of Illinois Press, 2008), and ten novels, one of which, The Escape Artist, was made into a movie by Francis Ford Coppola. He won the Lilly Prize in 1991, has won six yearly prizes from Poetry (Chicago), and has been nominated for the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award. He edited Poetry Northwest from 1966 to its end in 2002, and is professor emeritus of English at the U. of Washington.

FREDERIC WILL is currently working on a long text about the possibility of belief. He teaches literature and philosophy at the University of Phoenix.

RAY A. YOUNG BEAR resides on the Meskwaki settlement in Iowa. He is presently at work on a manuscript of contemporary and traditional Meskwaki poetry and songs entitled Manifestation Wolverine.
"Anis Shivani has an enviable narrative reach. He populates worlds that are psychologically compelling, socially acute, and morally challenging. Reading Anatolia and Other Stories, we feel that life has been lived deeply and then—the hard part—served up fresh to the senses."

—Sven Birkerts, author of An Artificial Wilderness, The Gutenberg Elegies, and My Sky Blue Trades

"I've read these stories with intense interest. Anis Shivani is an original, and his work interrogates the historical moment with insight and passion. He looks at this mysterious thing called 'multiculturalism' with a fresh eye, never accepting the status quo, always probing and thinking. The forces that keep a lid on emerging thought, on sharp political thinking, had better take cover. This is unusual and interesting work."

—Jay Parini, author of Benjamin's Crossing, The Apprentice Lover, and Promised Land

Available in October from Black Lawrence Press

ISBN: 978-0-615-28182-7
A lively new collection of poetry from PATTIANN ROGERS, winner of the Lannan Literary Award

"Rogers is a poet of exaltation, sweeping readers up in a heady mix of rapturous science and natural theology. . . . She writes transporting poems of discovery, contemplation, and gratitude." —Booklist (starred review)

"The poems of Pattiann Rogers have startling breadth, often engaging scientific, theological, and artistic modes of perception simultaneously without ever losing a central focus or a syntactical sense of direction." —The Georgia Review
POETRY, FICTION & NONFICTION

Brenda Hillman, Michael Cunningham, and Jo Ann Beard, judges

$1,000 TO EACH WINNER
$500 TO RUNNERS-UP
PLUS PUBLICATION IN OUR DECEMBER 2010 ISSUE

Submit during January 2010

• Submit up to 20 pages of prose (double-spaced) or 10 pages of poetry (double or single; one poem or several). Work must be previously unpublished. Simultaneous submissions are fine assuming you inform us of acceptance elsewhere.

• Manuscripts must include a cover page listing your name, address, e-mail address and/or telephone number, and the title of each work, but your name should not appear on the manuscript itself.

• Enclose a $20 entry fee (checks payable to The Iowa Review). All entrants receive a yearlong subscription to the magazine.

• Label your envelope as a contest entry, for example: “Contest: Fiction.” One entry per envelope.

• Enclose a #10 SASE for final word on your work. Enclose a SASE postcard if you wish confirmation of our receipt of your entry.

• No electronic submissions.
IN THIS ISSUE

Pattiann Rogers, Dianna Penny, Joe Blair
Zed Ander, Fleda Brown, Ray A. Young Bear

Laura Sayre, Lowell Jaeger, Cornelia F. Mutel
Robert F. Sayre, Robert Stewart, Marvin Bell

Dennis Schmitz, John Bensko, Bradley Cook
Barbara Eckstein, Peter Filkins, Anat Pick

Margaret Gibson, Amy Leach, John Kinsella
Laura Rigal, Albert Goldbarth, Frederic Will

Ashleigh Pedersen, Lisa Knopp, E. Keene
David Wagoner, Miklavž Komelj, Jenny Kern
Philip Miller, Christopher Morris, Nate McKeen